PASTOR KOENIG'S NERVE TONIC

Physicians Couldn't Cure Him.

SHAMOKIN, Hamilton Co., O., June, 1889. One bottle of Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic cured me entirely, after physicians had tried it unsuccessfully for 8 months to relieve me of nervous debility. W. HUENNEFELD.

Very Much Good.

Angola, Erie Co., N. Y., April, 1890. Being very nervous my arms would twitch whenever I tried to lift anything, my memory was also affected, and bad thoughts troubled my mind so that I didn't know what to do with myself. Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic cured me entirely. JOHN SHEELY.

Perfect Health.

TAGONY, PHIL. CO., PA., Dec., '89. Mr. H. J. Ryan writes under above date: I had a fall about 18 months ago, from which I contracted fits, had such attacks every six weeks, but since I took Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic I have not had any symptoms of them and am in perfect health.

Our Pamphlet for sufferers of nervous diseases will be sent free to any address, and poor patients can also obtain this medicine free of charge from us.

This remedy has been prepared by the Reverend Pastor Koenig, of Fort Wayne, Ind., for the past ten years, and is now prepared under his direction by the

WAS SHE MURDERED

The Body of a Woman Found in the Delaware River.

ANOTHER NEW JERSEY MYSTERY

The Victim Was Seen Struggling in the Grasp of Two Men.

She Begged to Be Released, Then There Was a Splash in the Water and the Men Disappeared—The Young Woman Supposed to Be Miss Blanche Humphreys—The Police Have Several Clews.

CAMDEN, N. J., June 10.—Facts which point to another murder have come into possession of the Camden police authorities and are being investigated under the supervision of Chief Dodd.

Shortly after midnight Miss Mary Coleman, a young woman, living at 926 Beach street, Cooper's Point, close to the Delaware river, heard two agonizing screams from a woman. On looking out of the window she saw a young girl of stout build struggling in the grasp of two men.

"For God's sake, don't! Don't, for God's sake!" shouted the young woman. A second later there was a splash in the Delaware and the two men ran away and were soon lost to sight.

In the morning the body of a young woman, who, from papers found on her person, is supposed to be Miss Blanche Humphreys of this city, was found floating in the Delaware near Morris & Matthews' shipyard, Cooper's Point, and the police think they are on the track of a tragedy.

BUTCHERED A HERO.

Peter Johnson's Body Found on the Shore of North Egg Island.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., June 10.—Peter E. Johnson, one of the heroes of the City of Columbus wreck off Gay Head January 18, 1884, was murdered early in the morning in a horrible manner. His dead body, dreadfully cut, was found lying face downward in a boat on the shore of North Egg Island.

The island, which lies on the east side of Fairhaven, is a favorite resort for clammers and fishermen, and the discovery of the murder was made by Joseph Hamel. Hamil, when near the island, was hailed by a stranger, a man 23 years old, who asked to taken off. He waded out to Hamel's boat, and when landed hurried away, remarking: "Go look after my boat." Then the discovery was made.

The police are actively searching for the murderer. Johnson was a Portuguese and about 45 years of age.

THE BARTINE AUTOPSY.

Prof. Abbott Refuses to Give an Opinion of the Peculiar Case.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., June 10.—Prof. Frank Abbott, jr., bacteriologist of the Loomis Laboratory of New York city, conducted the autopsy on the remains of Lawyer Bartine, who died the other day of hydrophobia resulting from a cat's bite, at the receiving vault in Mt. Prospect Cemetery.

Doctors Samuel Johnson, Hugh S. Kinmouth, Henry Mitchell and George F. Wilbur were present, also Mrs. Dr. Ella Prentiss Upham, the fiance of Mr. Bartine.

The brain was badly congested. The left hemisphere showed a hemorrhage from the arteries at the base of the brain and the left side of the brain was well filled with coagulated blood. There was no lesion of the brain tissues, which proved that death was due to hemorrhage. The left brain also showed slight evidence of atheromatous of the arteries.

The professor remarked that he had found such conditions of the arteries in cases of persons who had died of hydrophobia. A small piece of the brain was taken to New York for experimental purposes. Professor Abbott refused to give an opinion of the case.

AGAINST MISS GARDNER.

No New Trial for the Orange Belle—To be Sentenced on Monday.

NEWARK, N. J., June 10.—There was a curious and eager throng in court to hear Judge Kirkpatrick's decision on the application for a new trial for Miss Lucy Gardner of East Orange, the society woman who was convicted of stealing goods belonging to Stern Brothers of New York.

After listening to the argument of counsel on behalf of Miss Gardner, and also the argument of the prosecutor, Judge Kirkpatrick said he saw no good reason for granting a new trial. He therefore denied the motion for a new trial and an arrest of judgment.

He gave notice that he would sentence Miss Gardner on Monday next.

A NAVAL SENSATION

Officers Charged With Smuggling Valuable Goods.

THEY WORKED ON A BIG SCALE.

The Total Value of the Articles Runs Into Thousands of Dollars.

The Principal Officers of the Omaha and Swatara Implicated—United States Officials Made the Charges—The Question of Bringing Criminal Proceedings Now Being Considered by a Customs Collector.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—A dispatch from San Francisco says a scandal involving officers of the United States steamships Omaha and Swatara has been made public and created a sensation. They are charged with smuggling valuable silks, satins, etc., from Japan.

The charges were the result of the investigations by Special Deputy Agent Evans at Mare Island.

He made a seizure of a portion of the goods which have not yet been sent East or sold. The charges are preferred by United States officials.

The total value of the smuggled articles runs into thousands of dollars. The principal officers of the two vessels are implicated.

The captain of the Omaha is held responsible for permiting large quantities of merchandise to brought over in his ship.

One officer is known to have sold $600 worth of silks and bric-a-brac.

Among the packages of goods seized is one addressed to No. 1319 Thirteenth street, Washington. The question of bringing criminal proceedings against the officers, whose names have not yet been made public, is now being considered by Collector Phelps, who is in active correspondence with the department at Washington.

The smuggling in this case is said to be on a larger scale than has been charged against naval officers in many years. The evidence is said to be conclusive.

THE MATURING BONDS.

No Decision Reached About the Four and One Half per Cents.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—Contrary to expectations the Cabinet reached no decision respecting the funding of the 4 1-2 per cent. bonds due Sept. 12. In fact the subject came in for little discussion. Secretary Foster urged that the offer of the New York bankers to fund the entire $51,000,000 of 4 1-2 per cents. into 2 per cents. on Sept. 1 be adopted, and he backed up his argument with figures to show that it was to the best interests of the government to adopt it.

The offer of about a dozen Western banks to accept 1 1-2 per cents in lieu of the 4 1-2 per cents. seemed more feasible to the President and Secretary Rusk and they so stated. But as there was no need of hurry in deciding this matter, it was laid aside in order that some diplomatic questions might be considered. The impression prevails to-day that the Cabinet will join with Secretary Foster, and that the offer of the New York bankers will be accepted.

THE SLAVIN-KILRAIN GO.

Considerable Betting on the Match, With the Australian the Favorite.

NEW YORK, June 10.—Frank Slavin is as hard as nails and looks fit to fight for his life. He now weighs 185 pounds, and that is about what he will weigh when he enters the ring with Kilrain. He is not at all boastful, but he is quite confident that he will be the winner.

It is reported that Jake Kilrain is still above 200 pounds in weight, and some of his friends are apprehensive that this weight of beef will make him tire quickly. Charley Mitchell thinks that he is at his best when he weighs about 175 pounds.

There is considerable betting on the go at even money, and several have been made with Slavin the favorite at 6 to 5.

Will Report Against the Knights.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—The treasury committee which has been investigating the charges preferred by the Knights of Labor against Colonel Meredith, chief of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, for using inferior material, has completed its report and will submit it to Secretary Foster to-day. The report fully exonerates Mr. Meredith, and shows clearly that there was a conspiracy to force him out of office, or else allow the Bureau of Engraving and Printing to be run by the Knights.

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 10.—Gov. Pattison has approved both the wholesale and retail liquor license bills passed at the recent session of the Legislature.

HE SURPRISED THE COURT.

An Italian Murderer Throws Himself on the Mercy of the Judge.

CAMDEN, N. J., June 10.—Phillipe Dominico Cocco, the Italian murderer, took the breath away from Prosecutor Jenkins and the judge in the Camden County Court by pleading guilty to an indictment for murder and throwing himself on the mercy of Judge Garrison.

Cocco killed his sister-in-law, Miss Giovanni Dianore at Cedar Brook, Winslow township, last March.

Mr. Wartman, who was appointed counsel for Cocco, said that the recent lynching in New Orleans had so inflamed public sentiment that it would be, in his judgment, exceedingly hazardous for his client to trust to the calm, dispassionate judgment of 12 citizens. He therefore chose rather to trust to the unbiased and fair decision of a learned court and would plead guilty, leaving it for the court to hear evidence so as to fix the grade of guilt.

The Accused Ministers.

PITTSBURG, June 10.—The case of the suspended ministers on trial before the Reformed Presbyterian Synod will probably close to-day. The Rev. W. L. C. Simpson and J. R. J. Milligan concluded the cases for the suspended ministers. Their arguments did not differ materially from the others. The Rev. Milligan said he voted in 1889, but he was not then convinced the action of the Synod was right.

Gold Beaters' National Union.

BOSTON, June 10.—The committee of arrangements for a national organization reported to the Gold Beaters' convention that it was essential for the protection of all to have a national union. The committee recommended that it be formed under the name of the Gold Beaters' Protective Association of the United States. The convention voted to adopt the recommendation.

THE WAR IN CHILI

United States Officers Report Brutal Fighting.

MEN-OF-WAR SURGEONS BUSY.

Balmaceda to Make a Grand Advance on the Insurgents.

Sir William Gordon-Cumming Marries Miss Garner This Morning—What the London Papers Say About the Baccarat Verdict—The Prince of Wales Scored by the Newsboy Carrying Counters.

WASHINGTON, June 10.—Information received from the Pensacola at Valparaiso declares that the fighting on both sides is brutal, many of the combatants being bayoneted after being wounded.

The hospitals at Iquique contained 800 wounded. The accommodations and medical attendance are good, the surgeons of the different foreign men-of-war in the harbor assisting at amputations. Provisions are plentiful at slightly advanced prices.

Advices from Santiago, by way of Buenos Ayres, state that Balmaceda now has everything in readiness for a grand advance on the insurgents and that the movement will begin promptly. It is a perilous expedition, owing to the condition of the Atacama Desert, upon whose heat and aridity the insurgents have relied as an impassable barrier to attack by land.

SIR WILLIAM DEFEATED.

The Jury Decides Against Him in the Baccarat Case.

LONDON, June 10.—The jury in the baccarat trial returned a verdict against Sir William Gordon-Cumming.

From the time the jury retired to deliberate upon their verdict until the moment they returned to court only 15 minutes elapsed, showing apparently that they were of one opinion as to the merits of the case.

The announcement of the verdict was received with slight hissing in the court upon the part of those who were in sympathy with the plaintiff. These marks of disapprobation, however, were promptly suppressed, and as the court room began to be vacated by its deeply interested, chatting audience, the curtain may be said to have been lowered over the Tranby-Court drama.

Sir William Gordon-Cumming was married the first thing this morning to Miss Garner of New York. After the ceremony they went to Scotland where they will remain until they sail for America, in September. When the visit there is ended they will return to Scotland and settle down at Altyre.

Commenting on the Cumming trial the Post, this morning, says it has no desire to add anguish to the sad ending of a brilliant career, but the fact remains that signing the document rendered it impossible for eminent counsel, however dexterous, to rehabilitate the honor that Cumming himself treated so lightly.

The News says it was really a second affair of the diamond necklace, the accusations being of secondary importance to the surroundings. It is a pity that the heir to the throne was at the baccarat table. The Prince should show a cleanly life to his future subjects. It is grotesque to have the Prince carrying around baccarat counters wherever he goes, as a Mohammedan carries his praying outfit.

THE BUS STRIKE.

Socialist Burns Cheers the Men With a Promise of Victory.

LONDON, June 10.—Socialist Burns addressed a mass meeting of the omnibus strikers on the street and declared that he had collected fifty pounds in three minutes in the County Council for the benefit of the strikers and he said that victory was certain. The strikers hooted the non-unionists but the police kept order.

The companies say they have received 1,400 applications for positions, but as yet have engaged no new men, as they wish to give the former employes time to reconsider their action.

The police are helping take care of the companies' horses to-day, the strikers refusing to longer attend them.

Cardinal Manning, J. E. Gorst and Watts, the artist, have expressed themselves in favor of shorter hours for the striking omnibus drivers.

BRISTOL FOUND.

With His Four Boys He Was Camping Out at Sparkhill, N. Y.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., June 10.—Word was received at Police Headquarters late last evening, that Lester L. Bristol and his four boys were camping out at Sparkhill, Rockland County, N. Y. He has been traveling in a wagon which he had bought and camping in a tent at night.

Detective Keenan left on the last train and will bring back the missing ones to-day.

BARDSLEY PLEADS GUILTY.

The Ex-Treasurer Wept as He Admitted His Wrong-Doing.

PHILADELPHIA, June 10.—In the common prison van, with half a dozen hardened criminals as companions, ex-City Treasurer Bardsley was brought from Moyamensing prison at noon and arraigned before Judge Fell.

He was taken to a seat in the dock, where he crowded himself as much as possible into a corner.

A few minutes after he was called to plead to the 17 indictments found against him by the grand jury.

"John Bardsley, stand up!" said Crier Hart. Slowly the ex-treasurer arose. "You are charged with loaning public money as a public officer. What say you, guilty or not guilty?"

"Guilty," said Bardsley, inaudibly.

"You are charged with making and agreeing for interest on public money as a public officer. How say you, guilty or not guilty?"

"Guilty," again, in a low tone of voice.

"You are charged, as a public officer, with investing public money. How say you, guilty or not guilty?"

"Guilty," and with tears he sat down.

His counsel asked time to present testimony for his client. This was agreed to and his trial was fixed for two weeks hence. He was again taken to the van and returned to his cell in Moyamensing.

THE DAILY PRESS.

W. L. & A. L. FORCE, Publishers and Proprietors.

J. A. DEMAREST, . . . Managing Editor.

EACH DAY'S RECORD.

The last issue of THE PRESS contained 18 columns of live advertising. The last issue of the "news" had 11 1-4 columns, mostly dead.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—The best stock of dress trimmings you will find at Peck's.

—Westfield will play base-ball against the Alerts at Elizabeth Saturday.

—The annual strawberry festival of the Holy Cross church will take place Tuesday afternoon and evening, June 30.

—The monthly business meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union will be held at the rooms at half-past three to-morrow afternoon.

—Last evening's issue of the dying Somerset street paper had as usual nothing of good in it except what was stolen bodily from THE PRESS of the day before. When you see local news in THE PRESS you see it for the first time.

—Newspapers in New York and all over the country are still copying from THE PRESS the story of live James Smith's funeral hoax and of Engineer Moynihan's thrilling railroad experience, exclusive news of which was published first in these columns Monday. If you see it in THE PRESS you'll see it in the other papers later.

—Greder's grove, on Dunellen avenue, near Evona, will be thrown open to the public to-morrow. The first-class music which is promised, the large covered platform for dancing, and the shady grove, will doubtless attract many to this new resort. The proprietor promises to enforce the rule to permit no intoxicating liquors on the grounds.

—To-morrow evening at 8 o'clock, the annual celebration of the Ladies' Aid Society of the German church will be held under the auspices of the ladies, commencing at 8 o'clock sharp. Reports will be read, there will be music and refreshments served by the ladies. The members of the society, and the members and friends of the church, are cordially asked to be present.

—Some of the New York papers are publishing, and the Somerset street sheet will print to-night, a story of how Mrs. Priscilla Randolph of Mt. Horeb, a Somerset county village, had her teeth blown out by a cartridge in some candy she was eating. THE PRESS has investigated the story, and finds that it is the invention of some news factory. If you don't see it in THE PRESS it isn't so.

—A. A. Stagg of Yale College, will have charge of the athletics at the World's Conference of College Students, to be held at Northfield, Mass., from June 27, to July 8. Young men who desire to join the tenting party from Plainfield should apply at the Y. M. C. A. rooms, where information will be furnished also concerning the boys' camp to be held at Lake Champlain, from July 7, to 22.

—A local business house that has been built up in a short time from nothing to a thriving bee-hive of industry is the novelty store of Joseph C. Allen, who now, in his new and commodious store, has a largely increased stock to select from. The public has found out that Mr. Allen's is a place for genuine bargains and strictly honorable dealings, and all the people trade there. In the new advertisement of the house to-day is much instructive and interesting matter.

True Tale of a Tempted Tabby and a Tearful Time.

A young housewife of this city was very disconsolate and tearful yesterday afternoon on returning home from a series of calls to find her canary bird gone, cage and all, from the piazza where she had left it hanging. Between her sobs over the loss of her pet she said some very sharp things of a neighbor's cat, supposing that the cat had killed the bird and that the owner of the guilty feline had taken away the cage to put a new bird in. She was overjoyed with happiness and with gratitude, later, to have both cage and the same old darling bird restored by another neighbor whose cat had been after it and who had rescued the feathered songster from kitty's cruel jaws just in the nick of time.

Flowers, Music, and a Sermon, for Little Ones.

A very pretty Children's Day service has been prepared for the Seventh-day Baptist church next Sabbath (Saturday). The church will be profusely decorated with flowers, and special music has been arranged by choir-master D. E. Titsworth. The Rev. Dr. Lewis will preach a children's sermon.

John Whiting Chosen President.

The following officers were elected at the meeting of the Young Men's Auxiliary of the Young Men's Christian Association, held last evening:

President—John Whiting.
Vice President—Percy Dayton.
Secretary—Samuel G. Currie.
Treasurer—Carl Pfender.

More Quick Work.

Peter Hoagland died Sunday, May 17, was buried Thursday, May 21, and on June 3 the sum of $2,139.40 was paid to Alvin E. Hoagland by the Washington Life Insurance Company of New York, in satisfaction of the policy on the life of the deceased. Wm. A. Woodruff, of 3 West Front street, represents the company in this city.

A PLEASANT MUSICAL EVENT.

First Public Exhibition of the New First Baptist Church Organ.

A gratifying as well as gratified audience assembled last evening to enjoy the organ concert in the First Baptist church. S. N. Penfield, the principal organist on this occasion, was most pleasing in the Scherzo from Symphony No. 4 (Widor), the Andante from Symphony "La Surprise" (Haydn), and his own Marche Triomphale. The Toccata in F major, by Bach, is more remarkable as a composition than for its beauty, but it was very effective in displaying the capabilities of both artist and instrument. It seemed as if Dr. Penfield was not entirely at home at a Mi[illegible]mer organ, for his combinations were not always satisfactory. This was noticeable in Lux's Sicilian Hymn, although on the whole it was very enjoyable and not the least difficult, of his selections. The overture to William Tell was the least pleasing, as it was poorly rendered. The execution was hurried and blurred, and the stops were badly managed. Mr. MacClymount, who is the regular organist of the church, is a young man of great promise. He wisely selected compositions which were within his grasp. His rendition of the Bach Fugue, D major, was one of the most enjoyable features of the evening. The Gavotte from "Mignon", by Thomas, and Chopin's Polonaise Militaire, were also very well rendered. The Overture to LaMinuette de Portici was not quite smoothly played, which may be due to the fact that it was his first selection.

Mrs. Emma Watson-Doty is a lyric soprano with a voice of uniformly sweet quality. Her interpretation of her solos was excellent. She was especially pleasing in Buck's "Where the Lindens Bloom". "Hear Ye, Israel" from "Elijah", and "Come Unto Him", from "The Messiah", were well rendered, but her voice is hardly heavy enough for oratorio music. John C. Dempsey was a little disappointing in his first selection, "O God, have Mercy", from "St. Paul", as his voice was a little sharp in intonation; but he fully redeemed himself in Farmer's "Remember Me, O Lord", which was beautifully sung, and which reminded one of his success as soloist in the oratorio of "The Messiah" in this city last year.

Although the performance was not faultless—and where can one be found that is?—it was very satisfactory as a whole. The audience was very appreciative, though discriminating, and all expressed themselves well pleased with the evening's entertainment. The pulpit was tastefully decorated with plants and flowers.

He Was a Church Deacon, So He Did n't Swear.

A prominent business man went home last evening to find that his cheerful office boy had forgotten to return his bunch of keys to him after a trip to the post-office. Everybody had gone out, so no one answered his ring, and vainly trying to pry open some of the first-floor windows he had to cast aside his usual stately dignity, borrow a ladder from a neighbor, and clamber through a window on the second floor. His antics were hailed gleefully by a group of small boys, who thought him an amateur gymnast giving an exhibition. To his sensitive soul their hilarity was something that could not be twice endured, so when he found that the door to the room he had entered was locked he lacked the courage required to tumble down the ladder again, and so waited a whole intolerable hour for someone to come home and release him. As he was a church deacon, he did n't swear, but early this morning he began a course of memory training on the derelict office boy who had caused him to be locked out of his own house.

The Game of a Plainfield Student.

For want of a new diversion of another's invention, a Plainfielder has invented what he calls the progressive spelling game. He says:

"Let an umpire be chosen, equipped with a dictionary for consultation and with a pencil and paper. Let all the rest stand in line, and number one spells the first syllable of any word that occurs to him, but does not mention the word. For instance, the word 'constantly' may have occurred to him, so he says c-o-n, con. The next person spells the next syllable, thinking, perhaps of 'consequently'. The next in the line may think the word 'consecutive', so spells his syllable. As each syllable is spelled and pronounced the umpire writes it down; everyone who makes a mistake goes to the foot, the rest moving up. Every one who completes a word scores one; accounts are kept, and the person who makes five wins the game. In case a word is formed that sounds unusual, consult the dictionary. Avoid proper nouns, and slang and keep to the English language."

The Court Will Settle About this Debt.

When William S. Sliter was manager of the local service of the Postal Telegraph Company, he ordered from Mrs. Bird, who has a stretch of woodland near Plainfield, one hundred dollars' worth of telegraph poles, for the company. When the company and Sliter agreed to separate the company told Mrs. Bird that Sliter owed them money and that to get square they would make him pay her for the poles as a personal bill. Subsequently, however, the company paid a portion of it, thus virtually assuming all responsibility for the debt, and Sliter refused to pay a cent. Now Mrs. Bird sues for the balance. The suit will be tried before Justice Nodyne in a few days.

OBITUARY.

Erastus D. Dart.

The funeral took place on Sunday, at Buffalo, of Erastus D. Dart, an old and highly respected resident of that city, and the only brother of Mrs. Harriet N. Case of Church street, Plainfield. He was in the 71st year of his age, and had lived in Buffalo 47 years. Upon his arrival in that city he engaged in the elevator business with his brother, Joseph Dart, in which he continued until 1850, when he became one of the proprietors of the old Dart planing mill, located at the Erie basin. This business was carried on for over 30 years, ceasing only when the mill burned some eight or nine years ago.

Mr. Dart then retired from business, and since that time has done considerable traveling, though he made Buffalo his home. He had been a sojourner at the Tifft House for twenty-six years. He occupied a seat at the "bachelors table" of that hotel, with Grover Cleveland, for sixteen years. His death took place on Friday last from heart failure. It occurred quite suddenly. He had been ill for a week past, but was not confined to his bed until shortly before his demise. Mr. Dart was a bachelor, and his sister, Mrs. Case of this city, is the only surviving relative. He leaves a fortune of over $100,000.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. William Conley, of Dunellen, is visiting Mr. Conley's relatives at Glen Gardner.

The Rev. T. Logan Murphy will sail for Europe on the "Majestic" next Wednesday afternoon.

Bishop Vincent, formerly of this city, will address the C. L. S. C. at Metuchen, in the Presbyterian church at that place, Friday evening.

Mr. George Fletcher and his wife, formerly Miss Ella Laing, of this city, are visiting Mrs. Fletcher's mother at her home on West Fourth street.

Charles Siedler, of Orange, who has been the guest of A. J. Everitt for some days, has returned much charmed with Plainfield, her scenery and her girls.

A tea will be given at the residence of Mrs. B. A. Hegeman, Jr., of Myrtle avenue, next Tuesday, from four to seven, in aid of the Sunday-school building fund of the Holy Cross church.

Tieman N. Horn, of this city, who is to be graduated from West Point this year, stands very nearly at the head of his class of 63 pupils, in every department, in the honor roll just announced.

District Deputy Grand Master Anthony Schoder, of the fifth masonic district of New Jersey, visited Anchor Lodge, of this city, last evening. A feature of the occasion was the presence and the speeches of six past masters of Jerusalem Lodge, William H. Sebring, B. F. Corlell, John Chandler, Henry Woodland, H. S. Mason and William R. Cock. The Rev. E. M. Rodman also made an address.

Senator W. J. Keys, of Somerset county, with his wife drove through Plainfield this morning, on their way to Rahway, and honored the PRESS office with a call. The senator said he could not pass by without visiting "Plainfield's only newspaper", and the editors of the paper were very glad to welcome him and to spend a pleasant moment chatting with the affable and popular gentleman and his estimable wife.

The golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew D. Mellick, yesterday, of which THE PRESS made its usual exclusive announcement in last evening's issue, was a very pleasant event. Besides the Rev. J. C. Cruikshank, now of Little Falls, N. Y., who married the happy couple at New Brunswick fifty years ago, there were present Dr. and Mrs. L. Duncan Buckley of New York, Mr. and Mrs. George P. Mellick, A. D. Mellick, Jr., the well-known lawyer and historian, the children of James Bishop Mellick, Mrs. H. Augustus Schuyler of Plainfield, Miss M. Abbie Mellick, and Mrs. Joseph Tweedy of Texas. Mrs. Rufus Story, of Bergen Point, a sister of Mrs. Mellick, was unavoidably detained, and sent a charming letter of congratulation. The day was delightfully spent by the guests at the Broadway home of host and hostess. Mrs. Mellick's maiden name was Miss Elizabeth D. Ayres. Both she and her husband are of old Revolutionary stock, and their families are closely identified with famous historical events of New Jersey.

Meddling With Signals a Serious Thing.

A young lady who has the public's interest at heart reported to chief engineer T. O. Doane last evening that she had noticed that the keyhole to fire-alarm box —— was filled with putty. Mr. Doane found that the hole was effectually stopped up, and he had hard work to clear it of the obstruction.

Such misdeeds as this are villainous, and all offenders caught will find the law very severe in disposing of their cases. Those who in any way interfere with the workings of a fire-alarm system are guilty as accessories to any incendiarism or arson which their mischief has prevented from being promptly reported. If evil-doers want to save themselves from jail and perhaps State prison they must leave these signal boxes alone.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 20, 1890.

Having been a sufferer for sometime past with Biliousness, etc., I was recommended to use Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills. I did so, and am pleased to find that they are as recommended, a cure for those ailments. I therefore subscribe myself cheerfully in recommending them to any who may suffer with those complaints.

Will Wake Again in October.

Very pleasant were the closing exercises of the Wide-awake Circle in the rooms of the Women's Christian Temperance Union yesterday afternoon. There was a full attendance of members. The room was beautifully decorated with flowers. The members marched in singing. The programme included a recitation by Mary Fennald, a piano solo by Estella Pierson, a recitation by Tryphena Mattox, a reading by Nettie Kreitling, the reading of the secretary's report by Etta Yeager, and singing by the circle. Afterwards refreshments were served, by Tryphena Mattox, Etta Yeager, Nettie Kreitling, and Jennie Sheppard. Games followed. When the members went home they were thoroughly delighted with the circle, and pledged themselves to begin again the first of October, when the circle will resume its work, with renewed energy, and make it even more of a success in the future than it has been in the past.

He Knew It By Its Nibble.

It is a well-known fact that railroad conductors are very proficient in the art of fishing. George Terrill, conductor of Somerville train No. 40, deserves to be placed in the front rank of this class of sportsmen. It is said he can tell the different species of fish that are nibbling at his bait, by the motion of their teeth on the hook. Last Saturday he was fishing below the dam at Bound Brook. After landing some fine perch, bass, etc., his line gave a tremendous jerk. George paid no attention to it. His companion asked him why he did not pull in his line? He said it was nothing but a catfish biting, but at the solicitation of his friend he pulled in his line and landed a catfish weighing four pounds and a half. George smiled complacently and said, "I told you it was nothing but a catfish!"

I SUFFERED from acute inflammation in my nose and head—for a week at a time I could not see. I used Ely's Cream Balm and in a few days I was cured. It is wonderful how quick is helped me.—Mrs. Georgie B. Judson, Hagford, Conn.

FOR THREE weeks I was suffering from a severe cold in my head, accompanied by a pain in the temples. Ely's Cream Balm was recommended to me. After only six applications of the Balm every trace of my cold was removed. —Henry C. Clark, New York Appraiser's Office.

Foreigners Demand Protection in China.

SHANGHAI, June 10.—Further details of the attack by native mobs upon foreigners at Woo Sen show that the French church and orphanage were among the buildings destroyed. The French and American ministers have called upon the Imperial Cabinet to give efficient protection to European and American residents, hinting that failure to comply with this request will involve hostile action on the part of their respective governments.

Anarchists Take Revenge.

The outrage is supposed to have been committed by Anarchists in revenge for the activity of the police in suppressing their May day demonstration.

Count Waldersee Visits Bismarck.

BERLIN, June 10.—Count Waldersee paid a visit, yesterday, to Prince Bismarck, and met Count Herbert Bismarck and the well-known German publicist and trusted friend of Bismarck, Lothaire Bucher.

How tempting! Something "just as good" is offered when Hires's Root Beer is called for. The reason is plain. The unprincipled dealer makes more profit on imitation goods. The wise ones insist on getting Hires's.

TREATMENT for CONSUMPTION.

To the PHYSICIANS of Plainfield and Vicinity.

I would respectfully announce that I am prepared to supply the Solution of Koch-Chiswick of Cook and Management, lately suggested by Sers, Smarty and Gibbon, for the treatment of Consumption.

Recent experiments seem to promise better results from the use of this remedy than have been attained by any of the newly proposed methods of treatment, not excepting that of Dr. Koch. Absolute purity of materials and careful manipulation are required for the successful preparation of the Solution which, after repeated trials, we have attained.

A good shoe is like a good friend—it will not disappoint you when you call upon it for real service. You know a good friend by trying him, and that's the way you can test a shoe; but the trouble in the case of the shoe is that, when you've tried it, you must keep it, whether it's good or not. You won't complain about having to keep our shoes, because we know what they are when we sell them, and what we know we let you know before you buy. There is nothing in the market which will give you a better return for your money than our $3.00 Shoe.

THE GREAT CENTURY RUN.

Several Hundred Wheelmen to Breakfast at Plainfield Saturday.

The event of the year to all cyclists is the Century Run which promises to be the largest ever held. It will be made from Newark to Philadelphia, Saturday, the start being made from the Continental Hotel at 4 a. m. This run of 100 miles has generally been held over the roads between Newark and Philadelphia; and the same point of destination is chosen this year because no better road for an equal distance can be found anywhere. The road is, comparatively speaking, level, and in excellent condition.

It is expected that 400 bicyclers, of all kinds and descriptions, will join in the run this year. They will ride all kinds of wheels.

The most notable clubs to be represented in the run are: Century Wheelmen, Philadelphia; Park Avenue Wheelmen, Philadelphia; Quaker City Wheelmen, Philadelphia; Columbia Cyclers, Philadelphia; Referee Wheelmen, Philadelphia; Alpha Wheelmen, Philadelphia; York, Pa., Bicycle Club; Cranford, N. J., Cyclers; Union County, N. J., Roadsters; Elizabeth Wheelmen, Orange Wheelmen, New York Bicycle Club, Manhattan Bicycle Club, Brooklyn Bicycle Club, Long Island Wheelmen, Poughkeepsie Bicycle Club, Business Men's Cycle League, of Newark; East Orange Cyclers, Kings County Wheelmen, of Brooklyn; Hudson County Wheelmen, of Jersey City; Palisade Wheelmen, of West Hoboken; Passaic City Wheeling Club, Rutherford Wheelmen, Montclair Wheelmen, Bloomfield Cyclers, Westfield Wheelmen, Bound Brook Cyclers, Plainfield Bicycle Club, Trenton Wheel Club, Jersey City Athletic Club Wheelmen, Manasquan Cyclers, Mercer County Wheelmen, Somerville Bicycle Club, Camden Wheelmen, and the Young America Wheelmen, of Jersey City; Atalanta Wheelmen, of Newark.

The roads prescribed in the run will be traversed as follows: Leave Newark at 4 a. m.; leave Elizabeth, five miles, 4:45; Westfield, twelve miles, 5:45; Plainfield, eighteen miles, 7; Bound Brook, twenty-seven miles, 8:15; Somerville, thirty-one miles, 9; Hopewell, forty-nine miles, 11:03; Trenton, sixty-three miles, 12:30. Dinner will now be had at the Trenton House, leaving at 2:30; Bristol, seventy-three miles, 4; Philadelphia, one hundred miles, 7. Stops of a short duration will be made at Plainfield and Somerville.

A meeting of the committee having the run in charge was held at the Continental Hotel Monday evening to complete the arrangements for the run. The committee consists of Waldo E. Fuller, Brooklyn Bicycle Club, Chairman: F. L. C. Martin, Plainfield Bicycle Club; L. N. Thorne, Atalanta Wheelmen; F. C. Gilbert, Elizabeth Wheelmen; L. F. Jones, Mercer County Wheelmen; C. W. Dalson, Century Wheelmen, and J. D. Racey, Orange Wheelmen. L. N. Thorne has secured the badges and railroad tickets, and all wheelmen who intend taking part in the run should obtain these articles from him. The Business Men's Cycle League of Newark, will keep open house Friday evening, and cordially invite all wheelmen to attend the festivities. The Park Avenue and Oxford Wheelmen, of Philadelphia, are to take up their quarters in the Park House, while the New York Bicycle Club members will stop over night at Orange.

The Orange clubs and others centreing at Orange will not go to Newark, but will join the main body of cyclers at Plainfield.

All the wheelmen will make a brief halt in this city to partake of a light breakfast at the Bicycle club-house, after which a photograph of the entire party will be taken.

Each member of the Plainfield Bicycle Club making the entire run will be presented by Captain Martin with a handsome souvenir medal.

Pure and Old.

The attention of the readers of THE PRESS is called to the advertisement of the A. R. Tudor Co. in another column. They are introducing in this city for medicinal use A. R. Tudor's Rye Whiskey, which is warranted absolutely pure and ten years old. The importance of a pure old whiskey for family and medicinal use does not need to be dwelt upon. It is pleasing to know that there is one firm in this large country which is selling a genuine whiskey at a moderate profit and that they propose to adhere to it and not follow in the footsteps of others in the trade who are captivated by the exorbitant profits that follow the sale of an adulterated article. Ask your druggist for it.

The State Medical Society.

The one hundred and twenty-fifth annual meeting of the New Jersey Medical Society, at which a large number of the physicians of this city are to be present, will be held at the West End Hotel, Long Branch, Tuesday and Wednesday, June 23 and 24, at 11 o'clock a. m. The session of Tuesday will be occupied with the usual routine business, reports of committees, etc. Tuesday evening the annual address will be delivered by the President, Dr. James S. Green, on the topic, "A View of Modern Surgery from the Standpoint of a General Practitioner"; and Dr. Walter B. Johnson, of Paterson, will read a paper on "Intubation of Larynx". Wednesday there will be a discussion on the subject presented at the last annual meeting—"Tuberculosis; the Potential Factors in its Spread, Whether Hereditary Capacity, Inherited Bacillus, or Transmission from Inferior Animals". The discussion will be opened by Dr. Edgar Holden, of Newark.

Dr. Henry L. Colt, chairman of the committee to investigate the subject of diet and care of cows upon the constitution of their milk, and its action on the human subject, will read his report, and Dr. John G. Byerson will read an essay on "Some Recent Views upon Peritonitis". An invitation is extended to delegates and members of the profession, whether in or out of the State, to attend and bring their families with them. Details of the arrangements may be obtained by addressing Dr. H. Mitchell, chairman of the committee, at Asbury Park. It is expected that the meeting will be of more than ordinary interest to the profession.

Let 'Em Hire a Hall, Says Mr. Grant.

A young man clad in oriental costume has been one of the sights on the Plainfield streets the past few days. He is a sort of modern-day troubadour, and sings and plays the tambourine and dances. He has a somewhat feminine face and a winsome smile; his singing is good, though in a foreign tongue, and his dancing is graceful; altogether he is quite a fascinating fellow: yet police captain Grant and sergeant Lynch have kept him hustling "moving on".

"Let these fellows hire a hall—says captain Grant—"if they want to give concerts."

In the term "these fellows," he included hand-organ men and Salvation Army people. "There shall be no free music, knee-drills, or praying, on the public street"—is the decree.

Hundreds of Pages of Evidence.

A big book full of testimony has been taken in New York and will in a short time be submitted to Justice Nodyne for decision, in settlement of a suit brought against Charles Bock, a local saloon keeper, by a wholesale liquor house in New York, for bottled liquors. The wholesale people claim a debt of $75 against Bock, but Bock disputes the bill, claiming deduction for breakage which is alleged to have resulted from the company's inferior packing. As the two parties could n't settle the matter amicably appeal was taken to the courts. Hundreds of pages have been used in recording the evidence of the witnesses for and against the theory of bad packing and the question of responsibility for the breakage:

Will Study the Heights at Netherwood.

Prof. Smock, in charge of the New Jersey Geological Survey, has engaged Prof. Salisbury of the United States Geological Survey, to take charge of the geological studies of the formations of the surface in sections of New Jersey, with especial reference to the glacial drift. He will begin work next month and his study will be confined to Middlesex, Union and Essex counties during the summer, and will probably spend some time among the heights near this city and Netherwood, where in the past much interesting and valuable information concerning the glacial drift has been unearthed. Monmouth and Mercer counties may also be visited.

A Better Site for the Y. M. C. A. Building.

The following conversation was overheard by a PRESS reporter:

"Did you see that Laing's Hotel property is to be sold at auction on the 17th? Why, isn't that just what is wanted for the site of the Y. M. C. A. building? It could also take in the W. C. T. U., and have every Christian project under one roof."

"That's so! And as they will not have enough room when the street is extended where they intended to build, the Association should call a meeting of its Board at once, and take steps to secure the bargain advertised in THE PRESS."

Will of the Late Dr. Coles.

J. Ackerman Coles, M. D., and Emilie S. Coles, son and daughter of the deceased, are by the terms of the will just filed for probate the sole legatees of the entire estate of the late Dr. Abraham Coles, of Scotch Plains. All the property, which is in a large part valuable real estate, will be divided equally by these "two faithful children", as Dr. Coles endearingly termed them. They are to be their own executors.

GENTLE GYMNASTS.

The Means by Which Women May Become Muscular.

Simple Instructions for the Guidance of Members of the Fair Sex Who Are Desirous of Developing Their Muscles.

Light gymnastics embrace the use of dumb-bells, bar-bells, Indian clubs, wands, hoops and exercises without anything whatever in the hands. Marching, deep breathing movements, poising, stretching and equilibrium exercises, all of which have in a great measure grown out of the Delsarte system, also come, says the Ladies' Home Journal, under the general term, light gymnastics.

The beneficial results of all these are many and varied. Hardly anyone is too weak for gymnastics. Gentle massage will start the muscles and send the blood into healthy circulation. Then the patient should help herself. One of the advantages of light gymnastics is that the sick and convalescent can make what appear to be trifling efforts and by them, in time, be restored to active health. If too feeble to be practically able to make but little exertion, try what are known as deep breathing movements. Lie flat upon the back, take as long and deep breaths as possible, and while the mouth is closed, slowly throw the arms up in front and then at the sides. Rest for ten minutes. Try again the same inhalation and exhalation of air, the latter being pure and fresh. After awhile attempt the same, sitting up. These exercises can safely be taken by the sick one every day several times, and the whole muscular system will be improved, just as if some revivifying tonic had been given, a far better one than any charged with alcohol or some like stimulant.

From this step to the use of light apparatus in the dumb-bells is a short one. But the mistake is too often made in trying to be too muscular, and using bells of too great a weight. Attempt nothing above your strength at the start; it is even better at first to go under it than over it. Above all things be methodical and regular in these exercises. Irregularity in anything—habits, expenditures, diet—brings its uncomfortable reward. Exercise must be constant and systematic to be effective.

If a beginner purchase wooden dumb-bells of a pound each in weight.

Stand with the heels together, body erect and head up. Place the bells on the shoulders and push up that in the right hand to a count of eight or twelve; then the left; then both together at the same time.

Place the bells on the chest; push the right-hand bell out in front eight times, the left-hand afterward, then both.

Push the bell in the right hand out from the chest to the right, the left the same, and next both.

Put bells under the armpits. Curl them out alternately and at the same time.

With bells on the shoulders roll out as in the movement above described.

Strike the bells quickly over the head and under the right leg; then the left leg, then again behind the back.

With the right-handed bell extended from right side at right angles with the body, strike it as if it were an anvil eight times with the bell in the left hand as a hammer. Do this in the same manner to the left and in front, holding the bell that acts in lieu of anvil on the right and left knees.

These are but simple movements. A teacher in the gymnasium will give you dozens more. But just after the morning bath, in a cool room, before the corset is put on, if tried for five or ten minutes daily will end in sending a glow through the body and bringing a rich tint to the cheeks. Beauty is not always born; it can be made. Not with cosmetics; try light gymnastic exercises and you will prove to your own satisfaction that a light step, a bright eye, a clear, good-colored skin, without the faintest hint of rouge or powder, makes a woman truly beautiful, as well as "healthy, wealthy and wise."

Apropos of this last assertion, that a woman can grow wiser, yes, actually know more, from regular gymnastic exercise is an established truth.

The greatest practical result of both light and heavy gymnastics is the fact that the mind grows in proportion to the muscle. The muscles need a will, and a strong one, to control them. The moving to exact time and to music demanded by these exercises when taken in the classes of the gymnasium has its effect on the brain, and it is as important as the resulting physical gain. Dr. W. G. Anderson, the specialist, states that women who by reason of undeveloped will power cannot compel this servant to aid them in works they must perform are greatly benefited by light gymnastic exercises; and that those women who are sensible enough to adopt the methods that make men the stronger, the healthier sex, who expect to be known as the mothers of healthy children, and, above all, women who wish to aid in the realization of the ideal human being, whether mentally, morally or physically, are able to be all that they would be by gymnastic exercise.

It is a constant source of complaint that American women are not graceful. And the dancing school has been until recent years the refuge for the awkward and unbalanced-muscled young or old woman. But much more valuable is the gymnasium in its education of the feet, and of the poise and carriage of the body.

To this end fancy step movements are given, and grace and ease of self results. Then, too, dexterity is a quality the phlegmatic, slow-by-nature girl and woman needs to get on in this busy, work-a-day world, where she who moves the quickest and thinks the fastest, keeping her mind clear and steady on what she has in hand, puts to rout the moral of that ancient fable of the hare and tortoise, in reaching the goal long before her slower and more deliberate neighbor.

If you require Whiskey for Family or Medicinal use buy the best. A. R. TUDOR'S Rye Whiskey is not made by any "peculiar," "secret" or fairy process. It is made in the good old way in which all pure whiskey is distilled. It is sold only in bottles bearing the label and trade mark of A. R. TUDOR, thereby insuring to the purchaser a whiskey absolutely free from any adulteration, and ten years old.

For sale by all first class Druggists and Grocers.

HE DREW HER ON HIS SLED.

Of all the dear divinities
Whose altar fires I've fed,
Before whose shrines, both first and last,
Love's incense I have shed,
I fancy most the little maid
I drew upon my sled.

That little maid who queened it so
O'er all the boys; who led Them such a dance—coquetting now
With Dick and Tom and Ted;
Who gave each one in turn to hope
He'd draw her on his sled.

She queened it, oh, right royally
O'er Frank and Phil and Fred
And all the rest. An empress born,
Worship was but as bread;
She knew a throne awaited her
On every subject's sled.

That little school-room was her realm;
Who cared what "Teacher" said?
The cynosure of ev'ry eye
Was e'er that golden head,
Whose ev'ry hair drew each to long
To draw her on his sled.

Can I forget—though years since then,
Both glad and sad, have sped—
Can I forget the day she deigned,
My deity so dread,
To let me tuck my goddess up
And draw her on my sled?

What though my goddess now is gray?
Though time, with stealthy tread,
Has left his snows on sunny locks—
'Tis long since we were wed—
She's still the same divinity
I drew upon my sled.

A MODERN FAIRY TALE.

The Talented Young Man and the Beautiful Maiden.

Once there lived a young Man who started out to seek his fortune. His people were poor and had nothing more tangible to give him than their love and blessing, so he set out with only a pen, a blotter and a bottle of ink.

The pen was a coarse thing—steel—with a clumsy wooden handle which he himself had whittled when a lad. But there was really something wonderful about this ordinary-looking pen; the Fairies had tipped the steel point with a magic diamond, so that all words that it wrote were pure, and bright, and sparkling.

It so happened that the young Man was so lucky as to find the road to his fortune at once, and soon he was making a fine lot of money, so that he was both comfortable and happy.

Now, there also lived a beautiful young Maiden, very sweet and good, but poor—so poor, indeed, that she was obliged to work all day at a queer machine, upon the keys of which her white fingers went plunkety-plunk, and lo! there appeared arrayed in all neatness and order the words which the magic pen had written.

And as the Maiden sat at her work she comprehended the thoughts which were behind the words, which, alas! many of those who work upon like machines fail to discover; and, moreover, when the pen had hurried over a word to the dire confusion of the letters therein she did not substitute in its place a word from her own vocabulary or one of her own coining, but went straightway to the young Man and asked him if it should be thus and thus.

Everybody knows that a man's chirography becomes more and more bewildering as his fame or his success in life increases. Now it may have been from that reason or it may have been—but why speculate—the fact was that the illegible words became more and more frequent and the Man's dark locks often brushed the blonde braids of the Maiden as they puzzled long over some word which seemed hopelessly involved.

And since she was sweet and good, and true, and he was young and handsome, and romantic, they fell deeply in love with one another, and they plighted their faith over the plunkety-plunk machine; and he was very, very happy, and the magic pen wrote more wonderfully than ever before.

Soon his name was in every one's mouth, and his verses and stories brought him more of money and fame than he had ever dared dream of. And now that he had reached what is vulgarly known as the "top notch" that something which is called Society reached out its many arms to welcome him, and it embraced him and petted him until he was dazzled by its flattery and intoxicated by its praise.

And he grew half ashamed of his love for the Maiden and dissatisfied because she, poor thing, had neither position nor wealth to bring him—nothing but her pure, beautiful self.

And so he told her one day that he feared that they had been too hasty in becoming betrothed, and that he felt that he was doing her an injustice in keeping her bound to him by her promise, when she might meet some one far more worthy of her love than he, and he said that perhaps it had been all a mistake—their little castle in the air—and he hoped she would always consider him her best friend, etc., etc.

And the Maiden looked into his face, at first with a startled, hurt expression in her beautiful gray eyes; then as he went on, her glance turn to scorn and when he had done speaking she said quite calmly that he was right, and that it had been only a mistake which they need think no more about, and then she shut her machine and went home.

Now the Fairies have a way of finding out things that happen among mortals which is a great deal quicker than our telephone or telegraph or even our messenger-boy system, and it was not many moments after the Maiden left her work before a Fairy stole unseen into the Man's desk and took the magic point from his pen, leaving only the blunt and rusty tip; so that when the Man took it up to write his daily task the words which he wrote were no longer bright, but were very dull and stupid.

All the sparkle was gone from his verses, and all the wit and life from his paragraphs. So poor were they, in fact, that the Man swore roundly to himself as he read them and tore them up.

Now, the maiden did not return to her work the next day because she was ill—so ill that the people in the house went about softly and spoke in whispers as they asked each other if she were still unconscious and if the doctors said that there was any hope.

And it so happened that upon the night of this very day the Man attended quite the swellest function that had been given in society that season. But somehow the honeyed words and the flattery which he heard were like Apples of Sodom as he mentally contrasted them with the frank, sweet words of the Maiden; and he went home sick at heart and swore that Society could be blanked for all of him.

The next morning the Man, with his heart filled with shame and repentance, went to the home of the Maiden that he might humble himself before her; and when he found that she was ill, it was as though a terrible blow had fallen upon him.

But when at last the Maiden, by dint of much skill and tender nursing, was on the way to recovery, to his great wonderment she accepted his tender devotion with the same sweet trust that she had ever shown, and by no word or sign did she refer to what had passed upon that fateful day.

And the Man pondered much—and he was sorely puzzled, and he wrote to a very learned doctor to know if a serious brain illness would sometimes blot from the mind an occurrence which had happened upon the eve of that illness. And the doctor showed this letter to a friend and grumbled: "That's the way these writer-men get the name of knowing so much. They get the pointers from us and then they go and work them into their stories, and people think they know it all." But he sat down and wrote to the Man that the happenings of a day or even a week before an illness with certain brain complications were often blotted entirely from the patient's mind.

And when the Man read the doctor's letter he bowed his head and thanked God that the Maiden would never know.

And so they were married, and the Fairies, knowing that the Man had suffered much and repented sore, gave him back the magic pen for a wedding gift, and he never wrote a dull word after—and if you think that there could possibly be a happier ending than this to a story, why, you may write it yourself.—Marie More Marsh, in Chicago Times.

JAPANESE PORCELAINS.

Their Manufacture Began with the Feudal System of Society.

"The ceramic art, according to our Japanese traditions," said Mr. Shugio, "has been practiced in Japan from prehistoric times. But the earliest wares were probably only rough unglazed pottery. The use of the wheel is said to have been introduced by a priest named Giyoki as late as the year 724 of the present era, and the first glazed stoneware is said to have been made at Seto in Owari in 807, by Kato Sherosayemon, usually called Toshiro, who brought the art from China. The first porcelain was also made by a pupil of the Chinese, Gorodayu Shonsui, who practiced his art in Hizen about 1510."

"So that there is no porcelain of extremely remote antiquity?"

"I think you may say that even of Chinese and Corean wares, as to the earliest dates of which, however, there is great uncertainty. It is as certain as anything in history that Japanese porcelain does not antedate Shonsui's return from his apprenticeship in Foo-Choo and Kingte-Ching. He learned only the manufacture of porcelain decorated with blue under the glaze, and was forced to look to China for the materials, for porcelain clay was not discovered in Japan until long after his time. Specimens still exist which are ascribed to him. Their principal merit is in the glaze, which is very soft and lustrous. Many of them are decorated with a variety of the so-called 'hawthorn,' in reality plum-blossom pattern, and his decorations are said to show already the naturalizing tendency of Japanese design as opposed to the more conventional treatment of natural forms by the Chinese. Toward the end of the same century our great general, Taiko, ordered the leaders of his army of the famous Corean expedition to bring back with them some of the best potters of the country, at that time farther advanced in the arts than was Japan. This included many of the best potters, who were established by their new masters in their provinces.

"Thus, porcelain making may be said to have been born in Japan with the birth of the feudal system of society. The most celebrated factories have always, until recently, been under the patronage of the daimio, or great lords, who claimed the finest pieces for themselves. There was much rivalry among these aristocratic manufacturers, and we doubtless owe to the condition of things instituted by Taiko and his successors the great variety of unique and beautiful objects manufactured in Japan during two centuries and a half."—The Art Amateur.

A Snake's Egg Tooth.

"The funniest snake I know anything about is one found in Africa, which lives upon eggs," said Osteologist Lucas. "It has a curious projection downward from its backbone, just behind the head, which is like a tooth, the extremity being actually tipped with enamel. This toothlike appendage has a most important function with relation to the creature's method of getting a living, and it would be difficult to find a more astonishing illustration in nature of the adaptation of structure to necessity. When this snake swallows an egg the latter is passed down through the gullet until it encounters the sharp tooth I have spoken of, which breaks the shell. Thus, not only is the food rendered ready for immediate digestion, but no portion of the fluid contents is lost, as would be the case if the snake were obliged to bite into the egg with its mouth fangs."—Washington Star.

—Customer (reading a newspaper)—"Here I see I am referred to in the paper again." Landlord—"Indeed? What do they say about you?" Customer (reading aloud)—"At the close of last week Berlin numbered 1,573,421 inhabitants! I am one of the lot!"—Schorer's Familienblatt.

A MOB GIVES BATTLE

Police Fire Into a Crowd of Strikers at Grand Rapids.

SEVERAL PERSONS WOUNDED.

The Fight Raged Half an Hour When the Mob Broke and Ran.

Several of the Police Badly Bruised—The Station Houses Filled With Prisoners and Serious Trouble Feared—The Local Militia in Sympathy With the Strikers—Extra Police Sworn In.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., June 11.—Another big riot occurred during the morning, and it was the most serious that has yet taken place in the strike of the street car employes.

The police learned at midnight that the strikers had held a secret meeting and contemplated action. A number of strikers were seen going north and a squad of police followed. The strikers hid behind an embankment, and the police hid near by and waited an hour. The strikers sent out two scouts to reconnoitre, and they were captured by the police.

At 3:30 the strikers moved quietly toward the wheel pits, and, as it has since been learned, with the intention to blow up the pits with dynamite. The police charged and met with a volley from revolvers and with stones. The police returned the fire, and, from the cries heard, it is believed that several members of the mob were wounded.

A pitched battle ensued, several of the police being roughly handled. Detective Smith's head was cut open, but he was not fatally injured. The police fired again and half the mob fled, while a hundred remained behind to have it out with the police, who fought desperately and captured 13 of the strikers, several of whom have been identified as belonging to the union.

At noon it was rumored that one man of the mob was dying and several more wounded, but this cannot be verified, as their whereabouts cannot be learned.

Nearly half the members of the militia belong to labor unions, and the regular army at Fort Wayne may have to be called upon, so say the officers.

The police station is filled with prisoners, who will be arraigned under the State law. About 250 specials will be enrolled at once. Serious rioting is likely to occur.

SIR WILLIAM IN FAVOR.

His Marriage to Miss Garner Created a Sensation in London.

LONDON, June 11.—The marriage of Sir William Gordon-Cumming to Miss Garner of New York created the greatest sensation here and has immensely helped Cumming in the popular estimation. Opinion to-day is much more favorable to the Baronet than after the verdict.

It is now claimed that the jury was packed, and that so far from the defense being surprised by the questions which a juryman addressed to the Prince of Wales the questions were expected, and had been arranged in advance in order to give the Prince a pretext for declaring his belief in Cumming's guilt. A juryman has admitted that the case was settled against the plaintiff by the evidence of the Prince, and especially the answer of the latter declaring that he had found it impossible to discredit the evidence against Cumming. It is said that all the jurymen are Conservatives in political faith.

Never in history, at least since the Cromwell period, has the royal house of England been subjected to such severe criticism in the person of the heir to the throne.

The leading newspapers, irrespective of party, in London and the provinces are united in arraigning the Prince of Wales for the low example he has given the public, and startling suggestions are given currency that the Prince's kind of royalty is not suited to the age and to the people. The Nonconformists everywhere are aroused and next Sunday will undoubtedly witness some of the plainest utterance of the century from the pulpits of Great Britain.

Sir William Gordon-Cumming has resigned from all his clubs. The costs taxed against him are 5,000 pounds.

ITALY'S KING ACTIVE.

Slightly Alarmed Over a Secret Message from the Kaiser.

LONDON, June 11.—Mysterious conferences have been going on within the past few days between the courts of Germany and Italy. The subject of these discussions is not known, but it is known that King Humbert secretly left Monza, without the public having any idea of his journey, and went to Rome, where he held a long conference with the Cabinet.

Before the King left Monza it is understood that he was visited by an agent of the Kaiser, direct from Berlin, the bearer of a message from the German Emperor. Since Humbert's visit to Rome, there has been renewed activity at Spezzia, and the vessels out of commission are being overhauled.

A Young Girl Brutally Murdered.

LEEDS, England, June 11.—Barbara Waterhouse, the 5-year-old daughter of a quarryman, disappeared mysteriously last Saturday. Last night the police discovered a bundle in the street close to the town hall. In it was the body of the missing girl. It was horribly mutilated. The legs and arms had been almost severed by gashes inches deep. The body had been cut open, and the intestines protruded. The clothing had evidently been replaced after the murder.

ONE MORE JURY BRIBER.

Detective O'Malley's Partner Found Guilty as Charged.

NEW ORLEANS, June 11.—The trials of the jury bribers were continued in the Criminal District Court before Judge Baker. Great interest attached to the proceedings, as it was understood that Detective O'Malley and McCrystal were to be tried. A large crowd, therefore, filled the court-room.

After the customary business of the court had been dispatched, O'Malley and McCrystal were called. District-Attorney Luzonburg asked the court for a severance of the two accused, as the State proposed to put McCrystal on trial first. His motion was granted, and O'Malley was ordered to step aside.

The empanelling of the jury was soon completed. Tales Juror McCabew was the chief witness for the State. He testified positively that McCrystal had offered him $500 if he would work for a mistrial or acquittal if he got on the Hennessy jury. He refused the offer.

McCrystal's confession to the District-Attorney was then offered in testimony, but the judge promptly ruled against its admissability.

After some further testimony the case was given to the jury. They were gone but a few minutes, when they returned with a verdict of guilty as charged.

DROPPED DEAD IN HIS BARN.

A Well-Known Clergyman Stricken Down With Heart Disease.

BORDENTOWN, N. J., June 11.—At 8 a. m. the Rev. William C. Bowen, president of the Bordentown Female College, was found dead in the barn on the College grounds.

He had remained out in the barn so long that one of his daughters wondered what kept him and went out to call him. Receiving no response she entered the barn. Her father lay dead upon the floor near a favorite Alderney cow.

He had been stricken with heart disease and dropped dead as he was attempting to milk the cow.

Prof. Bowen was born 59 years ago at Berkshire, N. Y. For the past 15 years he has been president and owner of the college. He was well known in the Methodist-Episcopal Conference in New York and New Jersey.

TWO LEADERS CONVICTED.

McSloy and Dismon Found Guilty for Rioting and Conspiracy.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., June 11.—The jury in the case of John McSloy, Mike Dismon and 28 other strikers for conspiracy and riot at the Frick Company's Leisenring No. 2 Works, found McSloy and Dismon guilty and acquitted the others.

The case of conspiracy, riot, etc., against John R. Rae, Peter Wise and others was taken up, and it will take two days to decide it. The operators seem to have other cases well worked up against the leaders in the strike, and are determined to have them in the penitentiary if possible.

Young Held in $20,000 Bail.

PHILADELPHIA, June 11.—Director Ephraim Young, of the defunct Spring Garden National Bank, was arraigned before Magistrate Devlin at noon, on the charges preferred against him of conspiring with Francis W. Kennedy, President of the Spring Garden Bank, to cheat and defraud the Millward-Cliff Cracker Company. Bail was fixed at $20,000 and Mr. Young was bound over to appear at the next term of court. His bondsmen justified for the amount and the hearing adjourned.

Desperate Struggle to Save a Boy.

BIRMINGHAM, Conn., June 11.—A boat in which were Captain Updike and a boy named Carter upset in the river here at noon. Updike seized Carter as he was going down for the last time, and as he did so Carter clutched the captain's ears and nearly pulled them off. Carter did not release his grasp until Updike succeeded in getting him ashore. Updike's ears were terribly lacerated.

The American Protestant Association.

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 11.—The 41st annual session of the American Protestant Association is being held here. The association has a membership of about 100,000, of which about 55,000 are in the State of Pennsylvania alone. About 125 delegates from lodges in 16 States are at the convention. The sessions of the convention are secret.

Badly Handled by Thieves.

SAVANNAH, N. Y., June 11.—Three men made a desperate assault on Eugene Calkins, who lives a few miles outside of this village, last night. One of them grappled him about the neck while the others rifled his pockets. They took his pocket-book, watch and all other valuables found upon him. Calkins was pretty badly handled. His assailants escaped.

A Suit for Malicious Prosecution.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 11.—The suit of Samuel R. Keenan against George S. Prindle, of Washington, for $20,000 for malicious prosecution, is on trial in the Court of Common Pleas. The case grows out of a patent suit in which Keenan was a witness. Prindle had him arrested for alleged perjury, but the case was dismissed.

RECORDS OF THE MEN NAMED.

Three Republicans and Two Democrats Will Sit on the Bench.

State Department Officials Explain Why Minister Porter Left Italy—Diplomats at Washington Leave This Morning for Chicago—They Will Inspect the World's Fair Site—Secretary Foster's Plans.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—The Court of Private Land Claims, just appointed by the President, consists of three Republicans and two Democrats.

Mr. Reed, who is made Chief Justice of the Court, is a resident of Council Bluffs, Ia. He was born in Ashland County, O., March 12, 1835, and settled in Iowa in 185—. Judge Murray is resident of Huntington, Tenn. He is about 55 years of age and is a strong Republican, but was recommended for appointment by both political parties. Judge Sluss of Kansas was formerly Judge of the District Court. He is about 55 years of age and a resident of Wichita.

The Democratic members are Colonel Fuller, of North Carolina, and Judge Stone, of Colorado. Both are able lawyers.

Attorney-General Miller says the court is a very strong one and that the members all stand high in their profession for ability and integrity.

The salary of the members of the court is $5,000 and expenses, and that of the attorney $3,500 and expenses. The court will sit in the States and Territories where the cases arise, and may at times hold short sessions in Washington.

MINISTER PORTER'S LEAVE.

His Vacation Will Last Until Italy Sends a Minister Here.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Minister Porter has not been recalled to the United States, but he has been given a vacation which will last until Italy appoints a Minister to this country. The diplomatic relations between the two countries have been suspended, but not broken off. To recall Mr. Porter to this country would do the latter, and therefore he has only been given a leave of absence and allowed to go where he pleases in the eastern hemisphere.

The State Department denies that Mr. Porter has been recalled to the United States, and thus diplomatically states the case: After Mr. Porter has been away from Italy for some time it will be said that he stays away so long because he has not had a vacation for two years and now needs a good long one. As long as Mr. Porter is in Europe he will be on the way to return to Italy if needed, but until Italy appoints a successor to Baron Fava Minister Porter will remain away from Rome.

Swept by Forest Fires.

QUEBEC, June 11.—All of the forest along the line of the Lake St. John Railway appears to be doomed to almost total destruction, unless rain falls shortly. The terminus of the railway at Robervale on the shore of Lake St. John, to Lake St. Joseph, only 25 miles from this city, is one connected belt of fire, and seems to be sweeping onward through the whole region. All of the woods in the parts surrounding Lake St. John are also on fire. A number of farm houses are reported to have been burned.

LONDON, June 11.—The race for the Royal Hunt Cup at Ascot was won by Laureate II., with Rathbeal second and Breach third.

FAMOUS WILL CONTEST.

Six Years' Fight Over the Hutchins Estate Leaves Only $614.

HAMMONTON, N. J., June 11.—The fortune of $17,000 left by George Hutchins, who died six years ago at Ancrea, has been reduced by the contest over his will to $614. All his life Hutchins, who was a wealthy farmer, had been a devoted Spiritualist and a great admirer of Henry George.

He left $12,000, the bulk of his fortune, to disseminate the Henry George literature. The balance, $5,000, was left to his wife. The will was hotly contested, and for the past four or five years has been carried through nearly every court in New Jersey.

The heirs have untiringly followed the contest, until, for lack of funds, it can be carried no further. The next step taken will be for a rule to show cause why the executor of the estate should not pay $318, all there is left of the $12,000, to Henry George. The rest has been swallowed up in lawyers' fees and court charges.

At the same time application will be made by the widow to have the balance of what is left, $296, paid to her. This will make $2,987 she has received from her husband's estate, and in the end she has fared much better than the others. This will end one of the most prominent will contests ever known in New Jersey.

BULKELEY MAY RESIGN.

He May Step Out in Favor of General Merwin.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 11.—A strong feeling prevails among the Connecticut Republicans favoring Gov. Bulkeley's resignation. The office would then descend to Lieut.-Gov. Merwin, next in succession. That would leave the vital question at issue in the Gubernatorial contest between Morris and Bulkeley practically unchanged.

It is asserted in high political circles that if Gov. Bulkeley has not expressly signified his intention of resigning, he has manifested a favorable inclination that way, and that Merwin and his special advisers are deliberating as to what course to take, in view of the pending questions before the Supreme Court, should his colleague take the step in question. It is conceded that no attempt to reconvene the General Assembly will be made.

It is confidently believed that if Merwin becomes Governor the way will be made easy for declaring all the Democratic candidates for State offices, excepting Governor, as elected without opposition.

CHICAGO BEATEN BY BOSTON.

Clarkson's Curves Prevent Anson's Team from Making More Than One Hit.

The Brooklyns Score Another Victory Over the Clevelands—Cincinnati Win Three Straight in Philadelphia—Only One Association Game Played—The Eastern Association Playing Good Ball.

NEW YORK, June 11.—Pittsburg has checked New York's victorious career. Not only did O'Neill's stars win, but they literally wiped up the ground with the Giants.

They gauged John Ewing's curves in the very first inning and fell upon them mercilessly. They never stopped hitting all through the game. Unfortunately for the Giants, Old Man Galvin pitched like a cyclone.

It mattered not whether he sent in an up curve or a down twist, the sphere left his hand with such speed that the long bats of the Giants seemed hypnotized.

Anson's Colts Shut Out.

BOSTON, June 11.—The Bostons trimmed Hutchison of Chicago in fine shape. They pounded him for 18 clean hits, and, with the assistance of errors, turned 13 of their hits into runs, while the visitors couldn't get onto Clarkson a little bit, their six hits being scattered, and they were shut out with nine goose eggs. The fielding of each side was brilliant. Lake made his first appearance with the Beaneaters.

SIR JOHN'S FUNERAL.

Thousands Walked in the Procession Today at Kingston.

KINGSTON, Ont., June 11.—The funeral of the late Premier, John A. Macdonald, which took place this afternoon, was the largest ever seen in Canada.

From an early hour in the morning a vast crowd thronged the approaches to the City Hall building, where the body was lying in state, and lined the thoroughfares through which the funeral cortege would pass. Everywhere were signs of mourning. The houses along the route of the procession were draped in black and in every manner possible the people of the city evinced their sorrow.

Members of the late Cabinet acted as pallbearers. Thousands walked in the procession and lined the streets.

Sir John Macdonald's will will not be probated until after the funeral. It was drawn up some years ago by the Hon. Mr. Abbott and is understood to contain a wish that Kingston should be his last resting place. The estate, though not large, will probably realize $100,000, the great bulk consisting of the testimonial of $80,000 presented to Sir John in 1870 by the Conservative party and invested in Lady Macdonald's name.

Senator Abbott to be Premier.

OTTAWA, June 11.—It is now admitted in all quarters that Senator Abbott is to be the future Premier of Canada. He will be sent for by Lord Stanley to-morrow. The composition of the new Cabinet will be made exactly the same as the other. An effort will be made to secure an early prorogation of Parliament, and during the following recess a reconstruction of the Ministry will take place with Sir John Thompson as Premier and W. R. Meredith leader of the Ontario party and J. A. Chapleau leader of the Quebec party.

LET PLAINFIELD TACKLE EITHER.

These Are the Kind of Teams the Crescents Ought to Play.

Most of the audience at Westfield's base-ball game yesterday afternoon was composed of Plainfielders, who went by bicycle, carriage and train, and filled the grand stand to overflowing. Had the Plainfield people known that Lee of the Crescents was to play a much larger number would have gone. The sporting element among the visitors early in the afternoon made bets on the Bergen Points, and they came back to the crescent city much poorer than before. The Westfield Athletic Club seem to be the jonahs this season of the New Jersey Athletic Club's champion amateur nine. Westfield's victory yesterday was its second success over the Bergen Points. The Westfield players of course have an advantage in that most of them play professional base-ball pretty nearly every day in the week, not excepting Sundays, while Bergen Point's amateurs are delving at other things in Wall street or are at home playing church organs. Still, Bergen Point usually plays most excellent ball, and can generally be relied on to give its opponents a hard struggle for the supremacy. Yesterday was no exception. The crowd of spectators saw a highly interesting game, and the Plainfield people came home with the impression that either of the two teams could give the petted Crescents a tussle.

Westfield had no reason to feel bad over its loss of pitcher O'Neill. Hammill struck out six men, and held the visitors down to six base hits. Pitcher Currie, of the Bergen Points, surprised everybody at his wildness. He hit four men with the ball, and his control over curves and shoots was so erratic that the Westfield batters banged him for eleven base hits. Each side got four runners to bases on balls. Though Lee of the Crescents, and Davenport of Somerville's West Ends, helped materially in the winning of the game, Davenport chasing and catching some difficult flies, and Lee stopping neatly some terrific liners and grounders, the umpire was one of the most important factors of the game. Whenever there was any doubt the decision was always in Westfield's favor. In the eighth inning, when the Bergen Points got on a tremendous batting streak, and were nobly fulfilling their Crescent-like determination to crawl up out of the hole they were in and win, he ignored altogether the rule requiring that a base runner shall have the benefit of the doubt in a close decision, and called a man out at first who was really safe. This one decision was disheartening enough, for it shut off the prospects of several more runs, but there were others of that same yellow hue, all in Westfield's favor, and they were quite potent in helping Bergen Point lose. The umpire voluntarily assured a PRESS reporter, after the game, that he had done the best he knew how, that he was an entirely disinterested party, and that there was n't a cent in the game for him one way or the other. He added that he did n't get paid even the usual fee for his official services; he had acted as umpire only to oblige the management, whose promised umpire had failed to materialize. So it is charitable to assume that he did n't know any better than to make the decisions he did. At any rate, he had the least fun of any man there, for the Plainfield sports hissed him and one of Currie's hottest pitched balls barked his shin and raised a goose egg on it so that he limped all the rest of the day. The only balm accorded to his troubled soul was the cold water John M. C. Marsh applied to his injured leg, and the assurance from the Westfield cheerers that the umpire was all right—as he was, for Westfield.

When the Bergen Points got a chance to steal bases they did so in splendid style, taking the most daring chances, starting like a cannon ball the instant a ball was pitched, running like a deer, and sliding with the speed of an express train. In the ninth inning Chauncey gave a magnificent exhibition of what a little sand will do. When he stepped to the bat the outlook was most discouraging. Hopeless was every Bergen Point breast. But Chauncey put his foot down hard, drew in a long breath, gritted his teeth, and waited. He made up his mind not to swing his bat without hitting the ball, and the result was a fine lift over the fence and a home run.

Lee did Plainfield credit. Besides doing excellent work on third base, he easily saved himself from the humiliation of striking out. He batted freely, but the good fielding of the Bergen Points prevented his flies from taking him to first. He was just about due for a safe hit when he got hit with the ball and had to take his base. The score:

The fact that the umpire was from Somerville and that only a short time ago the Bergen Points everlastingly defeated the West Ends may account for his seeming grudge against the New Jersey Athletics.

BISHOP VINCENT WILL PREACH.

The Coming Christian Endeavor Convention to be One of the World's Biggest Events.

The Christian Endeavor convention at Minneapolis, of which THE PRESS has already given much information, promises to be the largest convention of its kind ever held in the world. At Philadelphia in 1889 there were 6,500 delegates and at St Louis last year 9,000. The committee expects the number this year to exceed 10,000. This is an excellent opportunity for those who have a desire to visit Chicago, Minneapolis or other points to go at a cheap rate and in excellent company.

The New Jersey delegation will go by special train of Pullman cars (via Niagara Falls) over the Lehigh Valley, Chicago and Grand Trunk, and Chicago and Northwestern Railways, going through to Minneapolis without change of cars.

It will leave the Pennsylvania Railroad Station, Jersey City, at 9:15, Tuesday morning, July 7. Connections with other roads will be made at Newark, Elizabeth, Metuchen, Bound Brook and Phillipsburg. At Bethlehem, Pa., delegations from New Jersey and Pennsylvania will combine in a single special train. Delegates from South Jersey will take a special New Jersey car at Ninth and Green streets station, Philadelphia, at 9 a m.

The estimated cost for the round trip is as follows: Railroad fare, $32; sleeper (per berth), $14; meals, en route (both ways), $9; board (hotel, average, 4 days), $9; total, $64.

This may be reduced to $50: Railroad fare, $32; sleeper (2 in berth), $7; board (private family, 4 days), $4; meals en route (both ways), $7; total, $50.

Miss A. B. Spangenberg, of Netherwood, District Secretary for Union county, will furnish such other information as Plainfielders desiring to go may wish, and if all probable delegates, and even possible delegates, will send their names at once to the transportation agent, the Rev. Wm. Hoppaugh, at Springfield, the work will be greatly facilitated, and all such persons will be kept informed as plans develop and arrangements are made. The names should be sent even if the applicants are not yet fully decided, and whether they intend to go on the special train or not.

Bishop John H. Vincent, formerly of this city, will deliver the convention sermon at the evening session of July 9.

SCORE BY INNINGS.

Plainfield Bi. Club	0	3	1	0	4	2	0	0	*—10
White Caps	0	1	2	2	0	0	0	0	0—5

Not the Same; Not the Same.

Somerville people think that because the West Ends easily defeated the Star-Athletics of Newark by the score of 19 to 4, in eight and one-half innings, and the Crescents required eleven hard-fought innings to win and then won by only 4 to 3, Somerville is going to have an easy time whipping Plainfield. The logic is poor; the comparison is no comparison at all. The Star-Athletics the West Ends played and the Star-Athletics the Crescents played were not the same. The Newark team in the two different instances was composed as follows:

AGAINST SOMERVILLE.		AGAINST PLAINFIELD.
Fritze	catcher	Costigan
Price	pitcher	Hetzell
Teems	first base	Hennigan
Pierson	second base	Bowman
Yahn	third base	Yahn
Deare	shortstop	Moran
O'Connell	centre field	Cahall
Cahall	right field	O'Connell

It will be seen that O'Connell, Cahall and Yahn are the only men who played on both teams. Plainfield's opponents were a much better lot than were Somerville's. The West Ends made 25 base hits off Price; they would not have made nearly so many—if, indeed, one fourth as much—off Hetzell. The Crescents could have batted Price out of the box. The Star-Athletics who played at Somerville were very amateurish; they made 13 costly errors. Those who played at Plainfield were professionals, every inch of them. In every way there was a big difference between the two Star-Athletic teams—much bigger than there is between the West Ends and the Crescents.

RAILS OVER THE BEACH.

Property-Owners Object to the Central's Plans at the Highlands.

The property-owners are up in arms at Atlantic Highlands over the attempt about to be made to lay a railroad track over the beach along the front of their property by the Jersey Central Railroad Company. A public meeting will be held to oppose the measure. It is said the railroad company will take definite action in about ten days. As the sea route by way of Sandy Hook will be abandoned after the 1st of October next, the company propose to cross the mouth of the Shrewsbury River just below the Government line on Sandy Hook Point and come up along the beach to the present pier at Atlantic Highlands. The most valuable lots at this new seaside resort lie along the beach, and about $75,000 has been expended in building a heavy dike to save the washing out of the bluffs, and to have a grand promenade 100 feet wide, similar to Battery Park.

Should rails be laid it would destroy this grand plaza, which is almost finished, and upon which hundreds of dollars are being expended, and would destroy the bathing grounds and little yacht piers that are so essential at a seaside resort. The tracks would affect the improvements made by the Pavonia Yacht Club of Jersey City, which has a costly summer club-house on the front, and has just finished a pier 400 feet long.

The people of Atlantic Highlands will be strongly supported in any action they may take in the matter by the Hilton Park Association, which owns over 200 acres in the central part of the Highlands of Navesink, and has the largest front on the bay. The Sears, the Chapin, and J. World's tracts, each has a frontage of over 1,000 feet, and the owners are determined to fight the company. The entire front the railroad company seeks would cover over a mile and a half.

Anxious to Have Borough Government.

The citizens of Westfield met in mass-meeting Tuesday evening to take definite action in regard to borough government. S. W. Reese was chairman and Ira C. Lambert secretary. A majority of the special committee on the borough question reported in favor of a borough and recommended that an election be held. C. B. Ripley, LL.D., and Joseph R. Connoly, a member of the Town Committee, made a minority report which set forth that Westfield was getting along well enough under the present form of government. The citizens voted by a large majority to hold an election, and E. J. Whitehead, C. F. Oxley and T. D. Bushnell were appointed a committee to draft a petition for a borough and to get the necessary 10 per cent. of the taxpayers living within the proposed borough limits to sign a petition for an election. The matter of borough government is also earnestly discussed in Cranford and Roselle, and if Westfield elects to become a borough Cranford and Roselle will no doubt also adopt that form of government.

As Seen by a Metropolitan Eye.

The New York Evening World finds in two of the news stories exclusively published in Monday evening's issue food for editorial thought. It says:

A little workman in South Plainfield was worried by some practical jokers who made him think his wife was flirting. In a spirit of retaliation he sent telegrams to his mother and sister in a false name announcing his death. Then he got drunk and secreted himself behind a pile of poles to see them come to his funeral. How he thought this was getting even with his wife is not apparent, unless he fancied her mortification at having a funeral party without any corpse for it. The little workman's soul was eased, anyhow, which shows what a nice little soul he must have.

Two red lights right before him on the track made a Jersey Central engineer reverse his engine, sand the track, shut his eyes and wait for the fearful crash which seemed inevitable. As the train slowed up near the crossing, instead of crashing into anything he heard a mocking laugh and saw two bicyclers wheeling away. His hair had turned completely white from the strain. The really funny part of this joke will not be felt till those bicyclers are caught and their claims as humorists are fully recognized and rewarded.

TREATMENT for CONSUMPTION.

To the PHYSICIANS of Plainfield and Vicinity.

I would respectfully announce that I am prepared to supply the Solution of Iodo-Chloride of Gold and Manganese, lately suggested by Drs. Shurly and Gibbes, for the treatment of Consumption.

Recent experiments seem to promise better results from the use of this remedy than have been attained by any of the newly proposed methods of treatment, not excepting that of Dr. Koch. Absolute purity of materials and careful manipulation are required for the successful preparation of the Solution which, after repeated trials, we have attained.

SPITE AND ROMANCE.

Critique Growls About Neighbors' Dogs and Other Vanities, and Tells a Little Love Story to Even the Account.

Next to the man who has a small boy not under control, the man who keeps a dog which he sincerely admires is in my mind the most outrageous neighbor that ever committed a crime on civilization. There is one of these men living not very many miles from me who is the happy proprietor of a rather propossessing long-haired, handy-legged mongrel which he permits at stated intervals to browse and prowl upon the property of his neighbors. The dog is not such a bad looking animal, neither is he vicious, nor ugly, nor pouty, nor anything like that, but he is affectionate, and it is this wholesale, indiscriminate affection of his that the neighborhood misconstrues. Some people like the dog for a while after they meet him, but they go back on him every time if they are let alone. At first it seems pleasant and cheerful and homelike to have the canine chase out of his yard and jump on you and climb over you and lick your hands all up with a lavishness of saliva that makes you think he was cut out for a Chinese laundry, and when you think about it there is something touching in it. But there gets to be altogether too much touching before a great while, and you sour visibly on the canine. The animal is a public nuisance, and his owner ought to be penetrating enough to grasp the gist of popular sentiment and chain his pet. Some day I should not be startled to learn that the little dog's kindly spirit had shaken its earthly habitation and soared away to a more appreciative realm in the dim and misty ether, and yet I presume the owner would resent it if the pup should depart under mysterious and suspicious circumstances that seemed to indicate heart failure or blood poisoning. I should hate to offend the man, but if I were only a dog catcher!

Semi-domesticated dogs are not the only outrages one runs across in these days, however. One of the strangest, wildest, shallowest freaks of perverted eccentricity foisted on our helpless spirits at the present season is the pretty young commuter—although not all are pretty—who carries a tennis racket with him to New York in the morning, takes it out to run errands and eat a quick lunch with him during the day, and brings it home at night with a smile of conscious superiority on his face like that worn by a hero who has conquered half the earth. This brand of young commuter is the same idyllic type that hangs on the platform of the ladies' car every night, gallantly obstructing the doorway and modestly staring the ladies out of countenance in order that he may rush in after them and capture, one time in ten, a window seat. But does n't he want to meet some lady in the car? O my, no! He wants to get a whole window to himself or else sit beside a lady and make himself disagreeable, and he is the same manly character you would never think to look for in the men's cabin of the ferry-boat. It is easy enough when you look at one of these bright youths to imagine why they hang around the ladies' car and the ladies' cabin, but it is beyond me to explain the tennis racket matter. I have actually seen one of these people with his racket in New York on Sunday. He is a Plainfielder, and is accompanied by a dress-suit when it is too cold to wear a tennis rig. Vanity, vanity, thy name may be woman once in a while, but it really does seem as if it were man about half the time.

I persuaded an old North Plainfielder—nearly a nonagenarian—to tell me a story, the other night, and he dived way down in his memory and brought up a yarn at his own expense that is worth repeating. About thirty years ago he was the proprietor of a big business in a New England city. Being a boss, he acquired that austere and terrible manner that keeps the clerk in the path of rectitude and strikes fear to the heart of the office boy. He had a young clerk in his employ, a very handsome fellow, and at home he had a young daughter, a remarkable pretty girl, and neither the clerk nor the daughter cared a snap for the austere manner that he had cultivated. Once in a while the girl would come down to the office to see her father and fill all the poor clerks with hopeless yearnings and aspirations. It happened that the bright young clerk feel deeply in love with the pretty daughter, and she with him. She asked him to call on her, and he availed himself of the invitation, and called again and again and again, till the father began to see the way things were going, and with that kind regard for a child's happiness which characterizes the average parent in similar circumstances he set about to break up the familiarity of the young people. He forbade the clerk to call on the daughter on pain of being bounced, and he scolded the poor girl until she determined she would have the young man anyhow. Then the father prohibited the young people holding any correspondence or communication, and carefully examined every letter that went out of or came into his house or office, and then sat down and reveled in the consciousness of duty done. But love has no use for restrictions or duty or anything else, and so the girl put her little mind to work and devised the neatest scheme you ever heard of for circumventing parental discipline. It was autumn, and her father had just donned a new and ample overcoat. One day she met her beau in the street and told him her plan, and he caught the idea in a minute. So every morning the pretty miss would put a little note inside the lining of papa's overcoat and he would walk lightly down to his office and hang up his coat. Then the young clerk would watch his chance and get the note and stick an answer in its place, and the good father would serenely carry it back to his dutiful daughter. This sort of thing went on all winter, and in the spring, when the young man's fancy lightly turns, etc., etc., the clerk by strict attention to business so impressed his employer with his value that one fine day the ban was removed and the lovers once again loved openly. After that all was smooth sailing.

My old friend wiped his eyes and looked out of the window when I asked him how the pretty romance ended.

"My little girl has been dead a quarter of a century"—he said.

"And what became of the clerk?"

"He's carrying on my old business now. Since I have grown too old to drive a bargain, I don't know what I'd do without my boy." CRITIQUE.

CRESCENTS OR WEST ENDS?

A Somerville Critic Reviews the Prospects of Saturday's Game.

[From The Somerville Messenger.]

Will the Crescents be "in it"? Three weeks ago the Star-Athletics were beaten by the Crescents, after an 11-inning struggle, by the close score of 4 to 3. Last Saturday, from the start to the finish, the West Ends easily defeated the Star-Athletics by 19 to 4. If that is any evidence of the relative strength of the two teams, next Saturday (June 13) nine Crescent scalps will dangle from the belts of the West End warriors.

But who can tell until the game is over? Base-ball is a funny game—never won nor lost until the last man is out—and perhaps next Monday, when I am sitting here with tears in my eyes, trying to tell you why we did not win the game, you will all feel sore enough to echo my sentiments gladly. Yes: base-ball is a funny game. But do not get downhearted; be hopeful. With the team we now have, and playing the game they did against the Stars, we are sure winners, and victory will surely perch on the West End banners before another moon. Let the playing be earnest, and not in vain. I verily believe that to the coolest team next Saturday goes the victory. We have not the Acmes to buck against then. We have a team with hundreds of backers, bound to see fair play and to cheer their men. Noise will abound, and if it can win a game we are beaten out of sight. Take the first Yale-Princeton game. Noise, and nothing else, won that game when Princeton had it well in hand, and the same thing may happen to us. But, as I said before, the Crescents have a strong team and are and have been out for blood since the season opened. There is Jones, whom the New York Sun says is the best all-around ball player outside of the professional ranks. Perhaps Freddy may get a surprise party when he plays here this time. He lost the first game here last year, and, as young blood is easily heated, he may do it again. Hammill is a pitcher of no mean degree. He twirled the ball for the Hackett-Carharts last season, and he has been pitching wonderful ball all this year. The basemen, McIndoe, Lufberry and Lee—you all know what they have done and can do. McIndoe is the man who would have won the game, had not Carby interfered, last year; and Joe Lufberry and Lee are always sure hitters. Martin is the lightning shortstop (as termed in Plainfield), and can handle the hottest-hit liners with impunity. Martin's only fault is that he cannot hit the ball. The three outfielders, Gregg, Simmen and Bonner, are ball players, every one of them, and can be relied on not only to do their work in the field, but to make a hit if necessity demands. So, you can see, the Crescents have a very strong team, and one worthy to test its mettle with such as ours.

Active preparations are being made to handle the crowd next Saturday, and to give all an equal chance to see the game, which will be called promptly at 3:30. A row of thirty chairs will be placed back of the wire backstop, where the best view of the field can be had. For these seats 50 cents additional will be charged. They may be bought of George A. Vosseller, the treasurer, and will be reserved for the persons holding tickets for them. These are very desirable seats, and but fifteen of them will be sold at Somerville, the rest going to Plainfield.

Three good races are promised to come off next Saturday at the track of the Plainfield Gentlemen's Driving Park.

Yesterday three races of two heats apiece were run.

In the first heat of the first race J. B. Osborn's "Marcanier" was first at 2:55, N. Robbins's "Doctor" was second, and A. D. Thompson's "May" was third. In the second heat "Doctor" was first at 2:56½, "Marcanier" second, and "May" third.

Second race—First heat: J. H. Fosher's "Frank", first, 2:50½; A. D. Thompson's "Iola" second; Henry Hayes's "Andy", third. Second heat: "Iola", first, 2:45; "Frank", second, "Andy", third.

Third race—First heat: John B. Osborn's "Colonel", first, 2:56½; J. H. Fosher's "Dynamite", second. Second heat: "Dynamite", first, 2:48½; "Colonel", second.

How tempting! Something "just as good" is offered when Hires's Root Beer is called for. The reason is plain. The unprincipled dealer makes more profit on imitation goods. The wise ones insist on getting Hires's.

MOONSHINERS AT NETHERWOOD.

Policeman Grant Raids an Illicit Liquor Shop in the Heights Park Woods, and Captures the Chief Offender.

Police Captain Grant made an important arrest at 3:30 this afternoon.

For three months past he and his men have been at work securing evidence against those whom they learned were furnishing liquor to the Italian workmen engaged in laying out the streets at Netherwood Heights Park.

To-day, on a warrant duly issued by City Judge Codington, Mr. Grant made his first capture.

He arrested the chief offender, against whom the city has overwhelming evidence.

His name is Felix Sterpon, familiarly known as Philip. He is an Italian, and a foreman for contractor Michael Uhdal, superintendent of the whole Italian gang.

Sterpon said "Me sells no beer", which was accepted as a plea for not guilty. Uhdal furnished bonds for Sterpon's trial. Besides selling liquor without a license to the Italians, Sterpon is accused of having sold unlicensed beer to James Brennan and other Plainfielders. He is said to have driven a thriving illicit trade.

Quite an extensive moonshining establishment is said to have been conducted recently by Sterpon in the Netherwood woods, where he was caught this afternoon.

Broke a Needle Off in Her Knee.

Miss Delia Voehl met with a very painful accident to-day. As she was draping lace curtains she knelt upon an needle and it broke off in her knee. Dr. Adams was at once summoned, and, with the assistance of Dr. Rushmore, she was placed under ether, and the operation of removing the needle from the bone was successfully performed. The broken piece removed was about three-fourths of an inch long.

I SUFFERED from acute inflammation in my nose and head—for a week at a time I could not see. I used Ely's Cream Balm and in a few days I was cured. It is wonderful how quick it helped me.—Mrs. Georgie S. Judson, Hartford, Conn.

FOR THREE weeks I was suffering from a severe cold in my head, accompanied by a pain in the temples. Ely's Cream Balm was recommended to me. After only six applications of the Balm every trace of my cold was removed.—Henry C. Clark, New York Appraiser's Office.

—W. R. Codington, secretary and treasurer of the Edison Electric Light Company of North Plainfield, says that the reason some of the street lamps in the borough have n't been lighted recently is because a tree fell across the line and broke the wires, and because the man who looks after the street lights has been away to the funeral of a near relative.

Pure and Old.

The attention of the readers of THE PRESS is called to the advertisement of the A. R. Tudor Co. in another column. They are introducing in this city for medicinal use A. R. Tudor's Rye Whiskey, which is warranted absolutely pure and ten years old. The importance of a pure old whiskey for family and medicinal use does not need to be dwelt upon. It is pleasing to know that there is one firm in this large country which is selling a genuine whiskey at a moderate profit and that they propose to adhere to it and not follow in the footsteps of others in the trade who are captivated by the exorbitant profits that follow the sale of an adulterated article. Ask your druggist for it.

IT IS NOT A LIE.
A. R. TUDOR'S Rye Whiskey is warranted absolutely pure and ten years old, and the statement is unqualifiedly true. Read the following affidavit:
HENRY SNYDER, Jr., of the City, County and State of New York, being duly sworn, deposes and says that he has been the General Manager of the A. R. TUDOR CO. from its inception, and he knows of his own knowledge that no neutral spirits, flavoring extracts, or foreign ingredients of any kind have ever been used or contained in the Whiskey bottled under the label and trade mark of A. R. TUDOR. He further solemnly swears that he has personally superintended the withdrawal of the A. R. TUDOR CO.'s Whiskey from the U. S. Bonded Warehouse, and that the U. S. Government stamps on the barrels thereof have, in no instance, borne date later than the year 1881.

OBSCURITY.

I have seen a pure, white lily
Rear its stately, queenly head
In a close, secluded corner,
Where no ray of light was shed.

I have noticed 'twas surrounded
By ungainly, scentless flowers,
But they did not mar its beauty,
As it bloomed away the hours.

Nor its purity and freshness
By the contrast was increased;
To remember the great lesson
That it taught, I have not ceased.

As that lily through the summer,
'Mid surroundings coarse, could bloom,
Almost hidden from the sunshine,
Casting, yet, its sweet perfume,

So may lives refined and noble
Often flourish in the shade,
Basking only in the sunlight
That their own pure thoughts have made.

Though the song they sing may never
By the world at large be heard,
In some heart, toil-worn and weary,
Good impulses may be stirred.

And the gracious, tender Father
Loves that unknown soul the same
As the one whose name is written
On the broad white scroll of fame.
—Clara M. Saunders, in American Spectator.

"AN IMPORTANT CATCH."

The Clever Ruse of Three Shrewd Swindlers.

Opposite the Bank of England and about five minutes' walk from the Mansion House, the residence of the Lord Mayor of London, there was in Leadenhall street, in 1879, the shop of a wealthy watch-maker.

One dreary November morning a man entered his shop whose loud dress and louder manner impressed the jeweler disagreeably. He looked at the swaggering fellow, sized him up in a jiffy, and tipping his clerks the wink to be extra careful, stepped forward and said in his sharpest tone: "Well, sir?" The fellow was not a bit abashed.

"Aw," he said, in an unmistakable low cockney voice, "ye 'ave been very highly recommended to me—factis, I want to get about a thousan' puns' worth of watches from you. I am going to the West Indies by to-morrow's steamer, and I want to make this little hinvestment on me own haccount. Now, remember, me good friend," he added, laughingly, "my name is cash—cash, ye know. So I want no fancy prices, but every thing first-class and bottom rates."

The jeweler, keeping a sharp lookout all the while, showed him his various styles, and in a very short time the fellow selected about £1,000 worth of watches.

"Just £992, 15s," said the jeweler.

"Very well, 'ere's a thousand puns. Just wrap up the swag and gi' me the change, will ye?"

"You must excuse me," said the jeweler, after fumbling a little while at his safe, "but I can't change this note. Just sit down a few minutes and I'll send the boy over to the bank. Here, John, take this to the bank." And then in an undertone he added: "Just find out if the bill is good. Don't cash it; I have plenty of change here." The stranger calmly seated himself and quietly conversed with the jeweler. In a few minutes the boy returned.

"The note is perfectly good," he said softly to his employer. The merchant was puzzled. Was it possible that he could be mistaken? However, there was nothing else to be done. So he handed the man his change and the package of watches. He was about to inquire by what steamer his customer was going to leave, when the door opened and another more loudly dressed individual walked in. He looked at the first fellow, and, without minding the jeweler, who watched him narrowly, he slapped him a thundering whack on the shoulders and cried out:

"Hullo, Jack, what in goodness are you doing 'ere?"

"Hullo, Joe! where do you come from? I bought some watches 'ere!"

"The dickens ye did! I am 'ere just on the same herrand. And what did you buy watches for?"

"I am going to the West Indies."

"By the holy poker, so am I! What steamer?"

"The Jamaica."

"Deuce take it all, so am I. Well, now, me good fellow, just stay here till I'm done. I don't want to carry the same stuff you do. Just 'elp me select."

"Of course I will. 'Ow much are you going to hinvest?"

"Well, about a thousan puns." The jeweler by this time had become thoroughly awake. He felt sure the coup was now coming and he doubled his watchfulness. With due care he displayed his goods, and the two fellows had soon selected another one thousand pounds sterling worth of watches. Like number one, a one thousand pound sterling note was offered in payment for number two. This time the jeweler felt sure that the note was a forgery.

"I have just told your friend," said he, "that I haven't change enough in my safe. It is annoying, but if you'll kindly wait a moment I'll send the boy over to the bank with the note. Just make yourselves comfortable, gentlemen; the boy will be back in an instant." In a few minutes the boy returned, and again he muttered:

"The note is perfectly good." The jeweler was more astounded than ever. After all he had been mistaken in these two suspicious-looking characters and his sharpness was at fault. He could scarcely believe it. His well-known shrewdness, his knowledge of human nature, needed correction. Incomprehensible! He handed the man his change and package and was still conversing with the two when suddenly the door was pushed open and a big, burly policeman bounced in. He laid his strong hands on both men. "Jack Halloran," he said, "and Joe Winterbottom, I arrest you in the name of the Queen! Steady now, my men, and no fuss, if you please. The game is up. I have plenty of help outside. So just let me put these little ornaments on your wrists, and the quicker you are about it the better all around."

The jeweler chuckled. After all he had been right, and these fellows were sharpers. He nodded his head complacently as he looked on. The fellows were remarkably good-natured, though thoroughly crestfallen. They did not offer the slightest resistance.

"Mighty hard luck, Joe," said John Halloran, "and just when we was off for the West Indies, too. Well, say, officer, you ain't a-going to drag us through the streets like this, are ye?"

"Not by a jugful," answered the policeman. "Know you and your gang too well. Ye shall have all the style you want, boys. I have a growler right outside the door, and ye shall be driven to the Mansion House. And now, sir," he said, turning to the jeweler, "what have these fellows been doing here?"

"Bought one thousand pounds sterling worth of watches each of them, and paid me each with a one thousand pound sterling note."

"Hold on! hold on!" cried the officer, pulling out his pocketbook and hastily opening it. "Number fourteen thousand three hundred and three, ain't it?"

"Yes, yes," nodded the jeweler.

"And number seventy-three thousand eight hundred and nine?"

"To be sure," chuckled the merchant.

"Both stolen from the Earl of Aberdeen. You'll remember that big burglary a few weeks ago, sir? It was the talk of all London, and them's the fellows that did it." The jeweler's eyes danced with vanity and gratified pride. He would come in as a witness in that celebrated case. All London would talk about him and his sharpness.

"Well, I'll tell you what I will do, sir," continued the officer. "Just hand me them two one-thousand-pound sterling notes, and let your young man go out with me and take the watches to the cab. We shall need all this as corpus delicti, as the barristers say, sir. And you, yourself, must come in half an hour to the Lord Mayor's office; we shall require your testimony, sir. Here," scribbling a few words, "here is the name of the case, sir, and that's me own name and number. Don't fail to come. This is a very important catch and will reflect credit on you, sir."

The men were marched down-stairs by the policeman, the clerk with the two packages brought up the rear. The men were bundled into the cab. The policeman seated himself opposite to them, taking the watches on his lap, and all three were driven off ostensibly to the Mansion House. Half an hour later the jeweler presented himself full of pride at the Lord Mayor's office, but the two rogues and the pretended policeman failed to materialize.—Jewelers' Weekly.

SIGHTS IN EUROPE.

Places That Have Been Benefited by Fiction.

How many people realize that American tourists leave in this country from twelve to twenty million sterling at least per annum? Such is the fact. Does anybody imagine that they come here to look at our buildings and streets? No. Upon reflection, nobody can fail to see that the main reason why the bulk of them visit us is to see the places made memorable by Shakespeare, Johnson, Scott and Burns, Dickens and Thackeray, George Eliot and Charlotte Bronte, Blackmore and Black. The indebtedness of Gradgrind to romance is, therefore, by no means inconsiderable, particularly when it is remembered that we, too, spend a considerable sum yearly in the same direction. Shakespeare has indirectly bestowed millions of pounds on the inhabitants of those places with which his name is associated. Not to mention Stratford-on-Avon, there is, for example, Rochester, a town which unites recollections of the great dramatist and of Dickens. Near Gad's Hill stands an inn on the very spot that Shakespeare doubtless had in his mind when writing that scene in Henry IV., where Falstaff meets with the "men in buckram." Round about, as everybody knows, are many buildings and districts made famous by the creator of the Pickwick Club. To this neighborhood American pilgrims come in shoals, either before going or after having gone around such bits of Dickens' London as still remain. Scott, even while living, enriched whole districts. When "St. Ronan's Well" was published the notables of the little town honored in the romance "voted by acclamation," says Lockhart, "that the old name of Innerleithen should be, as far as possible, dropped thenceforth, and that of St. Ronan's adopted. Nor were they mistaken in their auguries. An unheard-of influx of water-bibbers forthwith crowned their hopes; and spruce hottles arid huge, staring lodging-houses soon arose to disturb woefully every association that had induced Sir Walter to make Innerleithen the scene of a romance. Nor were they who profited by these invasions of the genius loci at all sparing in their demonstrations of gratitude. The traveler reads on the corner of every new erection there 'Abbottsford Place,' 'Waverley Row,' 'The Marmion Hotel,' or some inscription of the like coinage." Such was one case in point. The interest in the works of the Northern Magician has since hi. death, scarcely, if at all, diminished. Abbottsford itself is still so popular a resort that the fees paid by visitors amount to about £400 a year; and tourists go about in as great numbers as of yore, the "Lady of the Lake," "Marmion," or one of the "Scotch novels" in hand looking up the places they have long pictured in imagination.—Cassell's Saturday Journal.

MILITIA ASKED FOR

Cleveland Strikers Preparing for a Conflict.

THE POLICE EXPECT A FIGHT.

They Are Determined to Protect the Non-Union Vessel Men.

The Governor Asked to Send a Regiment to the Scene of the Expected Riot—All Quiet at Grand Rapids—Strikers Who Were Arrested Make Confessions and Tell About a Conspiracy.

CLEVELAND, June 12.—There may be trouble to-morrow with the striking ore handlers. The vessel men have decided to put non-union men to work in the morning, and the police have been called upon for protection. The strikers declare that they will not allow non-union men to go to work without a conflict.

Col Gibbons has asked the Governor to order the 5th Regiment to come to the scene of the expected riots, but as yet the Chief Executive has not given his consent to this.

Preparations are being made by both sides for a determined stand.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., June 12.—The bail of the street railway strikers who participated in yesterday's riot has been fixed at $2,000 each, and, thus far only one man has given bonds. Two of the prisoners have made confessions, giving full details of the conspiracy and the names of the conspirators, and more arrests will follow.

Detective Smith, who was seriously hurt in the riot, was one of the early morning squad and was shot in the hip. Three of the 13 prisoners were hurt in the fight, but all will recover. None of the others were wounded, but several had narrow escapes. Four hundred extra policemen have been sworn in and additional patrol wagons and horses engaged.

FOUGHT THE MOB.

Bremen Strikers Attacked by the Police With Swords.

BREMEN, June 12.—The striking firemen of the North German Lloyd Steamship Company during the morning engaged in rioting, and were promptly attacked by the police with swords.

A desperate struggle ensued and the police were so hardly pressed by the strikers that it was found necessary to call the fire brigade to their assistance.

After a number of the rioters were wounded by the swords of the policemen, order was restored.

Several arrests were made.

THE HUNT FOR MARSH.

This Time in Riverton, N. J.—Detectives on the Clew.

PHILADELPHIA, June 12. — A well-known citizen of Riverton, N. J., states that the fugitive president of the Keystone Bank, Gideon W. Marsh, was seen at that place Wednesday. The citizen reported the fact to police headquarters, and detectives are running down the clews.

Marsh has a number of friends residing at Riverton, which is only a short distance from this city, and it is believed by many that he is hiding among them.

Cured by Koch's Lymph.

PITTSBURG, June 12.—Mrs. Kate Fisher, aged 37 years, wife of Charles Fisher, foreman at the Ripley Glass Works, Pittsburg, has just returned from Philadelphia, where for eight weeks she has been under treatment for consumption at the German Hospital. Both of her lungs were badly diseased, as she had been suffering with consumption for years. Friends and physicians had abandoned all hopes of her recovery. Mrs. Fisher was given in all 15 injections of Koch's lymph, and returned to her family in good health, and, it is believed, perfectly cured.

Warner Miller in San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 12.—Ex-Senator Warner Miller, President of the Nicaragua Canal Contraction Company, was the guest Wednesday night of the Chamber of Commerce at their annual banquet held at the Palace Hotel. Mr. Miller in an able speech reviewed the history of the Nicaragua enterprise and pointed out the practicability of its construction and the prospects of the canal paying as a financial investment and also its great advantage to the Pacific coast. Admiral Irwin, Gen. Rugler and Senator Stamford also spoke.

Saved His Child's Life.

KINGSTON, N. Y., June 12.—A 6-year-old daughter of Dr. J. W. Elliot, of Deposit, while playing in her father's office, noticed on the table a small vial of arsenious acid tablets, which she thought were candy, and ate about 20 of them. Soon she complained of intense burning in the stomach. The doctor, on going to the office, discovered what she had eaten. He used prompt measures to counteract the poison and saved the child's life.

Enchanted by a Western Offer.

NEWARK, N. J., June 12.—David Wolff, manufacturer of hats in this city, where he employs 200 men, has closed a contract for the immediate removal of his factory to Wabash, Ind. The Board of Trade of Wabash gives him $20,000. The new institution will afford employment to 250 people, and will turn out all styles of headgear. Work on the building commences at once.

No Receiver Wanted.

HARTFORD, Conn., June 12.—James L. Howard, one of the Directors of the New York & New England Railroad says, regarding the rumor that the affairs of the road were in such condition that an application for a receivership was not improbable, "Nothing of the kind has been suggested in the Board, and the report, so far as I know, is utterly without foundation."

KEYSTONE BANK AFFAIRS.

Comptroller Lacey's Report to Secretary Foster.

WASHINGTON, June 12. — Comptroller Lacey has completed his statement of the connection of his office with the closing of the Keystone National Bank of Philadelphia, and handed it to Secretary Foster for his information.

The statement is very elaborate and contains all the correspondence that has passed between Comptroller Lacey and Examiner Drew.

Mr. Lacey takes the ground that the office of the Comptroller of the Currency can only be investigated by Congress or by United States officials, and that it would be manifestly improper that its business should be subject to inspection by any municipality that desired to investigate it. He cites as as precedent the refusal of Superintendent Porter, who refused to turn over certain census returns at the request of the New York authorities, which refusal was based on the opinion of the Attorney-General that United States Government officials should not obey the requests of municipal authorities.

Comptroller Lacy will, in all probability, act on this opinion and refuse to appear before the Philadelphia Council, though his statement may be forwarded to it by Secretary Foster for its "information."

MORRIS RETORTS.

Must Not Go Behind Connecticut Election Returns.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 12.—The replication of Judge Luzon B. Morris to the reply of Gov. Bulkeley in the quo warranto suit has been filed. It is identical with the replication of Dr. Alsop to Lieut.-Gov. Merwin's reply, except that the name of Bulkeley is substituted for that of Merwin whenever the latter occurs.

The replication is a general denial of all the allegations of fact made by Gov. Bulkeley appertaining to the election returns and denies the right of the General Assembly to go behind the returns. What the next step will be is a matter of conjecture. The issue on the legality of going behind the returns is closed by the pleadings.

THE DEACON'S REVENGE.

He Blows Up a Shanty With Dynamite Because He Had a Grievance.

AVON, Mass., June 21.—A fire alarm at ten o'clock led to the discovery of the blowing up by dynamite of a shanty that has been occupied by the Italians who have been at work on the water system and used as a storage place for tools owned by the town.

While the excitement attending the fire was at its height a sensational feature was added by a public declaration by Deacon M. M. Porter, a well known citizen, that he had purposely blown the building up. He was immediately arrested.

Deacon Porter has for some time harbored a grudge against the town owing to the unsatisfactory award made him when his property was taken for the water works extension, and he has also complained that the Italians were undesirable neighbors. Sympathy is expressed for him, the general belief being that he is mentally unbalanced. He is a deacon in the Baptist Church.

Will Hold His Church.

PITTSBURG, June 12.—The Rev. O. B. Milligan, pastor of the East End Reformed Presbyterian Church and one of the young ministers expelled from the Church by the Synod, has decided to hold his church. On next Sunday, with 150 followers, he will occupy his old pulpit, and he proposes to continue as pastor of the church. The opposition to Mr. Milligan is not very strong, and it is not likely that there will be any further trouble.

Salary Bill Rushed Through.

BOSTON, June 12.—In the House a salary bill was rushed through under suspension of the rules, and sent to the Senate for concurrence. It fixes the salary of members at $225 per month for January, February, March and April, and $3 per day after April 30. The Cape Cod and New York Canal Company's bill was amended with regard to $200,000 deposit, as requested by the Governor, and returned to him.

Will Have to Answer for Murder.

NEW YORK, June 12.—Major John H. Walker, who was beaten by Alfred Hall because of the latter's jealousy of Walker's attentions to Mrs. Hall, died of his injuries in St. Mary's Hospital, Brooklyn, last night. Hall surrendered himself to the police.

Actor Charles Fisher Dead.

NEW YORK, June 12.—Charles Fisher, the veteran actor, late of Daly's Company, died here during the night. The cause of his death was general debility, resulting from an attack of erysipelas, from which he suffered in London last March.

More Earthquakes in Italy.

ROME, June 12.—Northern Italy was visited at noon by more earthquake disturbances. At Verona, Tragnago and Badia Cavalena the earth shook repeatedly throughout the day. Many houses were damaged and the inhabitants panic-stricken.

THE PRINCE HOOTED

England's Heir to the Throne Jeered by a Crowd.

HE BECOMES PALE WITH ANGER.

His Aristocratic Friends Make a Counter Demonstration.

The Enemies of the Prince Cried Out "Have You Brought Your Counters With You"—The Incident Regarded as Significant—England's Religious Papers Score His Royal Highness for Gambling.

LONDON, June 12.—Great excitement was caused here by the news that a disgraceable scene occurred at the Ascot races, an unfavorable demonstration to the Prince of Wales being made. An attempt has been made to hush the matter up, and the newspapers have been solicited from influential quarters to make no mention of the fact, or at least to minimize the importance of the affair.

It seems that as the Prince was driving up with a party of his noble friends, the crowd in the vicinity, composed mostly of well dressed people, but with a sprinkling of a rougher element, hooted and jeered His Royal Highness, making sarcastic allusions to the baccarat scandal. Some cried out: "Have you brought your counters with you?" Others indulged in more offensive thrusts.

The aristocratic group around the Prince though apparently too astonished and startled to be in full possession of their wits, managed to make a counter demonstration of a rather weak sort in support of the Prince, who was himself pale with anger, and who cast furious glances at his insulters.

This is believed to be the first time that a disrespectful demonstration has ever been made against the Prince of Wales by a crowd bearing any claim to responsibility, and the incident is even more significant than the lecturing he has been getting the past few days from religious and secular newspapers.

DENOUNCING THE PRINCE.

The Religious Newspapers Discuss the Baccarat Scandal.

LONDON, June 12. — The "Christian World," a religious weekly paper, representing all denominations of Protestants, says of the Prince of Wales, in connection with the baccarat scandal: "The throne rests upon the foundation of public opinion only. A few more scandals like that of Tranby Croft would destroy this foundation, and Edward VIII would never be crowned."

The "British Weekly" says: "The revelations are enough to sober up the strongest supporters of the monarchy."

The correspondent of the "Times" at Vienna says that the baccarat scandal has caused a sensation in army circles on the Continent, especially in countries where the Prince of Wales holds honorary military rank. The correspondent directs attention to the fact that an Austrian general, who was found to have condoned in a similar manner to that adopted by the Prince of Wales' acts of cheating upon the part of one of his subordinate officers, was compelled to resign from the army to avoid being tried by court-martial.

Demand That Wales Resign.

LONDON, June 12.—The Liberal Radical Society of Scotland has forwarded to the Prince of Wales a resolution, adopted by the Society, condemning his action with the baccarat case, and demanding that he resign from his army commission.

Wales Denounced.

LONDON, June 12.—At the annual conference of the Congregational churches of Glamorganshire, Wales, resolutions have been adopted denouncing the Prince of Wales for his connection with the baccarat scandal.

More Censure for His Royal Highness.

LONDON, June 12.—In the Baptist Conference at Hastings, a resolution was passed regretting that the future king of England had ever indulged in gambling.

To Fight the Whiskey Trust.

CHICAGO, June 12.—Rumors indicate that the Whiskey Trust may not have such a monopoly as it thinks it has. Wholesale liquor dealers and rectifiers are forming a combination to build a distillery of their own that will be the largest in the world, and enable them to make their own whiskey at their own price. There will be no difficulty in raising the money as the individual tax on each distiller or dealer, will amount to something less than $5,000.

A Marquis Generous Offer.

DUBLIN, June 12.—The Marquis of Londonderry has offered the tenants on his estate the option of acquiring their holdings upon reasonable terms.

IS FINLAY INNOCENT.

State's Attorney Longenecker Investigating Tracey Kirtzberger's Death.

CHICAGO, June 12.—Post Trader James F. Finlay, of Pine Ridge Agency, who is so unpleasantly associated with the death of pretty Tracy Kirtzberger, his maid, is in town. He has not registered at any of the down-town hotels.

State's Attorney Longenecker wants to see Mr. Finlay. It is understood that unless Mr. Finlay makes some sort of an explanation before many hours passes, an investigation will be begun, which will go back to the Indian trouble of last winter, when the girl, who is now dead, was the only woman in the Post Trader's household.

State's Attorney Longenecker thinks that if Mr. Finlay is innocent he need not hide himself as he has done during the past thirty-six hours.

Democratic Conventions in Maryland.

BALTIMORE, June 12.—The Democratic State Central Committee met here during the day and selected July 30 as the date of the convention, which will be held in Baltimore. The committee also selected July 15 for holding the Seventh District Judiciary Convention at Port Tobacco, September 24 for the Fourth District Judiciary Convention at Oakland and the same date for holding the Fifth District Judiciary Convention at Annapolis. By the selection of these dates ex-Postmaster Frank Brown is credited with a victory in his race for Gubernatorial honors.

The Receiver Interferes.

PHILADELPHIA, June 12.—The receiver of the Spring Garden National Bank has asked the United States Circuit Court to restrain the Spring Garden Insurance Company from selling or disposing of a note of S. B. Rowley for $30,000, and 2,435 shares of the capital stock of the Hero Fruit Jar Company, pledged as collateral security to the note. It is alleged that the note and collateral were the property of the Spring Garden Bank and were transferred to the insurance company as protection for a loan at a time when the bank was hopelessly insolvent. The injunction was granted.

Nominated by Gov. Russell.

BOSTON, Mass., June 12.—The vacancy on the Supreme Court Bench caused by the death of Judge Allen, was filled by Governor Russell by the nomidation of Judge James M. Kingsley, of Cambridge; John Quincy Adams, of Quincy.

He was one of the oldest members of the American Society of Civil Engineers. He was prominently identified with the artillery service during the war, and for a year commanded the artillery camp of instruction at Washington.

REMARKABLE CURES

THE SICK RESTORED TO HEALTH.

A Clergyman's Work Attracting Attention Throughout the Country.

The Deaf Made to Hear and the Blind to See—Great Preparations for To-morrow's Ceremony—The Priest Makes No Charge for His Services—He is Summoned to Rome by the Pope.

PITTSBURG, June 12.—The truly remarkable cures of all ailments that flesh is heir to, effected by the Rev. Father Mollinger, at the shrine of St. Anthony, on Troy Hill, Allegheny, is attracting attention throughout the country. Over 1,000 invalids from various parts of the country have arrived in this city since Monday, and they are coming in on every train. Several of the number, whose ailments were apparently beyond all human power to relieve have already been resorted to health or greatly relieved.

To-day Father Mollinger was obliged to move from the sacristy of the little church to a more commodious school building adjoining. At one time over 2,000 patients were awaiting their turn to receive the venerable Father's blessings and whatever remedies he should apply.

To-morrow is St. Anthony's Day, and preparations are in progress for the accomodation of the thousands who will be present on the day in which the priest's power to heal is said to be extraordinarily great, because Anthony is the Saint from whom he derives that power.

Yesterday two blind boys, born blind, aged 15 and 16 years, led by their mother and sister, sons of Mr. Culbertson, a wealthy farmer near Halifax, N. S., arrived from the Norton Blind Asylum at Halifax. A large number of individuals, residents of Nashville, Tenn., accompanied by friends, have arrived and hastened to Troy Hill.

The scenes in and about the church are remarkable, and at least some of the cures effected are little short of miraculous.

It has been discovered that Adolph Hepp, Father Mollinger's amanuensis and interpreter, together with his brothers, Frank and John, and Jacob Hock, have for several days been extorting fees from the afflicted, representing that they had great influence with the priest. One of the Hepp brothers said that by this plan they secured several hundred dollars a week. Father Mollinger makes no charge whatever for his services. His attention has been directed to the scandal caused by the actions of these young men, and it will be stopped and the participants made to suffer.

It is stated that Father Mollinger has been summoned to Rome by the Pope. He leaves on Monday next. The purpose of the special call is not known, but the knowledge of his going has created consternation among his patients.

VOTED A NUISANCE.

A Board of Health in Trouble With a Clerk.

WILMINGTON, Del., June 12.—The Board of Health having trouble with its deposed clerk, William H. Lee, voted him a nuisance at it meeting Tuesday night. Lee has held the office ten days since he was formally deposed. He locked up all the papers and books of the board, pocketed the keys and changed the combination on the safe.

Chief of Police Swiggett, at the instance of the board, gave the obstinate ex-clerk to understand yesterday morning that further interference would not be tolerated, and Lee got out.

He refused to give up the keys or combination and a mechanic came and drilled open the safe, while a locksmith opened the desks and substituted new locks. It was necessary to practically destroy the safe to get it open.

An examination disclosed the fact that Lee had extracted the most important books, and these cannot be found. Without them there will be a big break in the records of the office. It is probable that these will be sought after through legal process.

Serious Charge Against a Farmer.

KINGSTON, N. Y., June 12.—Jerome Brown a well-to-do farmer and prominent church member of Egremont, has been arrested charged with attempting a criminal assault on the 14-year-old daughter of William Barnes of the same place. The girl testified that Brown had betrayed her, and, owing to his threats to take her life, she had not disclosed the crime. Great excitement and indignation prevails in the community.

The Missionary Union.

CLIFTON SPRINGS, N. Y., June 12.—At the session of the International Missionary Union, Dr. Henry Foster welcomed the delegates, and Vice-President Cyrus Hamlin of Lexington, Ky., as the oldest missionary present, responded. The Rev. Dr. J. T. Nevins, American president of the Shanghai conference, delivered a short address on "Missionary Work in Shantung."

The Chinese and Japanese Missions.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—It is reported that President Harrison has decided to send ex-Governor and ex-Senator Gilbert A. Pierce, of North Dakota, as our representative to China. Mr. Pierce is now an editorial writer on the Minneapolis "Tribune." The appointment of Governor Pierce will likely be followed by the appointment of ex-Senator Blair as Minister to Japan.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 12.—At Selma, last night, McConnell Shelly, son of ex-Congressman Shelly, was shot and fatally injured by a saloon keeper named R. F. Burch, during a quarrel in the latter's saloon.

SEVERAL PERSONS DROWNED.

Terrible Work of a Water Spout and Wind Storm.

GAINESVILLE, Tex., June 12.—News was received here yesterday from Frazier, Green county, of destruction to life and property caused by a terrible water spout, accompanied by a wind storm, which visited that town and vicinity Tuesday night. Rain had been falling several days and Tuesday night at 11 o'clock a waterspout burst and in a few minutes the streets were four feet deep in water, presenting the appearance of a raging torrent. All the business houses were flooded. Men secured buggies, and with great difficulty succeeded in hauling the women and children to places of safety.

Three persons were drowned in Turkey Creek, Pomp Poindexter, a young farmer, his sister, and a young man named Albright.

The dwelling house of Capt. Phillips was lifted from its foundation and carried nearly a mile when it was hurled against a tree and wrecked. Phillips and one of his daughters caught some floating debris and were washed ashore half a mile from where the house was demolished. Mrs. Phillips and her baby caught a plank and were washed into the branches of a large tree, where they remained till next day, when they were rescued by parties in a boat.

A large number of houses were blown down and many others washed away.

Dug-outs were filled with water and hundreds of people rendered homeless, and all their live stock, crops and other property swept away.

A young farmer named Burdone, who was trying to reach the shore in a ferry-boat was thrown from the boat and drowned.

SUNDAY SCHOOL WORK.

SARATOGA, N. Y., June 12.—The third day's session of the Convention of the New York State Sunday School Teachers' Association convened at 9 o'clock. Immediately after the assembling of the convention, the doors were closed and a consecration meeting held, led by T. B. Young of Rochester. After half an hour's session the doors were opened and the following addresses delivered:

Separate conferences were subsequently held of the Superintendents, Teachers, Primary Workers, Woman's Mission Aid and County Officers and State and County Missionaries. Each conference will adjourn on the completion of its work.

AN OLD VETERAN ATTACKED.

His Jaw Broken and a Rib Fractured in a Fight.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., June 12.—Major John H. Walker is dying at St. Mary's Hospital from injuries received during an encounter with Alfred Hall on Saturday last.

Walker and Hall, who is a painter, 28 years of age, were visitors at the house of an uncle of the former at No. 73 Utica avenue. The two men became involved in a quarrel which ended in an exchange of blows.

Walker had his jaw broken and a rib fractured in the fight. He was removed to the Hospital.

Major Walker, who is on the retired list of the United States Army, is a veteran of the late rebellion, and has an excellent war record. In Grand Army circles he has been a prominent figure.

Hall was arrested for assault in the second degree and was released on bail. He will now be rearrested.

The father came on at once and took him home. TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 20, 1890.

Having been a sufferer for sometime past with Biliousness, etc., I was recommended to use Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills. I did so, and am pleased to find that they are as recommended, a cure for those ailments. I therefore subscribe myself cheerfully in recommending them to any who may suffer with those complaints.

E. B. NAAR,
News Editor True American.

SHE'S GETTING WORSE AND WORSE.

The Central Times has Even Stepped Down From Her Two-inch Pedestal of Veracity, and is Ready to Lie for Her Bosses Now.

We have neglected to say that we were requested by the Central Times, a few weeks ago, to state that it was hampered by no "backers", and voiced the principles, opinions and words of its editor alone.

If this is true, that editor stands in even a more despicable light than that in which he is now viewed by the high-minded people of this community.

Excuses have been made for the paper's lack of tact, judgment, honesty, truth and appreciation of the services of its friends, because it was agreed that the scolding old woman's hands were bound up in her apron strings by the little ring of selfish gas and water bosses whose scrubwoman she was. But if the statement that opens this article is true—which THE PRESS does not believe—then there is no excuse for the Times. It is merely a dishonest sheet from choice.

Some days ago there was published in these columns, unanswerable evidence of the Times' mendacity and effrontery in the way of misrepresentation. Here is proof now that the Times is a liar. The following is from its columns of the 10th:

Editor Demarest was not present, nor was either of his associates in gas, Mr. Spangenberg explained that one of them had suddenly lost a grandmother, therefore all three stayed away from the meeting called for their benefit.

The matter before the council was a petition for permission to lay pipes through the streets, to furnish the people with better gas at from $1.80 to $1.25 a thousand feet, than they were now being—and had been for years—forced to pay $2.50 a thousand for.

But no matter how honorable a man may be in his purpose, how business like in his proposition, or how great a benefit he proposes for the entire community, if his intents and purposes interfere with the selfish little bosses who have run this city to a stand-still, then that man must be abused and lied about.

At the meeting to which the quotation above refers, Messrs. Robertson and Demarest, a majority of the petitioners, were present. They met a number of the councilmen and explained that an important engagement demanded Mr. Robertson's presence in New York at 10 o'clock, but that there would be plenty of time for him to tell the Council and the citizens anything they might want to know in the matter. By 8:20 there was no quorum present, and as then it was understood that another petition had come in of the same nature as the one under consideration, it was agreed that it should take the same course as the other and both should be laid over for discussion at a future meeting. Messrs. Robertson and Demarest assented at once to so fair a proposition, and left the Council room.

Everybody will therefore understand that the publication of the lie quoted above, was incited by the little bosses whose abject slave is the Central Times. And it was deliberately published to belittle a legitimate business enterprise that threatened to save some of the people's money from the grasp of a monopoly.

A SAD BLOW FOR MRS. HARRIS, AGAIN.

The Court Sits This Morning on a Number of Railroad Ride Stealers and Sends Them Below.

The Jersey Central Railroad people, determined to break up the practice of stealing rides on coal and freight trains, which has become such a nuisance and caused so many horrible deaths of late years, have stationed detectives all along the line, with instructions to arrest all trespassers. In Plainfield yesterday three tramps were caught on trains. This morning one of them, Matt Lanahan, was given for the offence, 20 days in the County jail, and Thomas Smith and John McGuler, the others, got 30 days each.

A German tramp who had come from Philadelphia, fell in getting off the train that brought him here. His head was so badly cut that he was transferred to Muhlenberg hospital, this morning, after a night in the station house.

Susan Harris, also before the court this morning, stole her ride on the regular passenger trains. She came up the road yesterday without a ticket or money. At each succeeding station she was put off, but every time got on the train that followed. She is a married woman and her husband lives in this city. A few weeks ago she engaged a room and board at Laing's Hotel, saying that Sheriff Hicks recommended her there. She paid her bills and there was no doubt of her being all right until she began to impart to the proprietor her indignation at the continued insult heaped upon the women of America by the Government which stamped their heads on its coins as representative of liberty, yet that sex, she continued, were not even allowed to vote. This morning she discovered she was not even at liberty to ride on the cars when she chose. She got 20 days for it.

Watch for the Wheelmen's Parade.

The wheelmen on the great century run from Newark to Philadelphia to-morrow will leave the Plainfield Bicycle Clubhouse after their brief halt for breakfast in this city, promptly at 7 o'clock. Captain Frank L. C. Martin will conduct the run from Plainfield to Trenton. The route through this city will be from Sycamore street through Fifth, through Park avenue, through West Front.

CENTRAL JERSEY PIGEONS ON THE WING.

Plainfield Birds Not Flying So Well This Year.

The Central New Jersey Flying Club had their 300-mile race Wednesday, from Lovington, Me. The birds were shipped last Monday to Postmaster Stevings, who was very much interested in them. He liberated the birds at 6 a. m. sharp. Owing to the distance not being measured, the average speed per minute cannot be given. It was, however, over 1,200 yards. The returns to this city were not so good as usual.

The returns to the different lofts in Elizabeth were as follows: F. Pepin, 1.31 p. m., 1.32, and five more came in later which were not timed. W. A. Kiggins 2 02 p. m., and two later which were not timed. E. R. Tucker, 1 30.45 p. m., 1.30.45, 1.46.30, 2 02.55, 2 11, 2.16.15.

W. B. Garrabrant, Newark, N. J., first bird, 1.36 p. m., and seven more which were not timed.

In Plainfield, F. R. Stevens, 1.53 p. m., 1 58; S. Craig, 2 p. m.; Capt. Doane, 2.05.30 p. m.; Hervey Doane, 2.05 p. m.

The entries made were as follows: W. B. Garrabrant, 9 birds; F. Pepin, 7 birds; W. A. Kiggins, 3 birds; E. K. Tucker, 7 birds; F. R. Stevens, 6 birds; Capt. Doane, 10 birds; S. Craig, 8 birds; and C. E. Faber, 9 birds; total number, 65 birds.

The Elizabeth Fanciers are very much pleased over the fact that their birds are doing so well. They are handicapped very much as they are flying birds a year old and the majority younger.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. Susan L. Clapp entertained the Sparrow Club at her residence, Mercer avenue, yesterday afternoon.

The Board of Education has appointed the Rev. E. M. Rodman, W. D. Murray, and Frank W. Runyon, a committee to award the prize in English composition at the coming Commencement of the public schools.

Evangelist B. Fay Mills and sweet singer Leonard Greenwood have been conducting revival services at New Rochelle, N. Y. The success was so great that Evangelist Ford C. Ottman of Newark had to be engaged to conduct the big overflow meetings.

Mr. Fred Martin, son of Col. Fred Martin, Superintendent of the elevated railroads of Brooklyn, and Mrs. Martin, formerly Miss Florence Swain, are at The Albion. Mrs. Martin's parents are also there, but the whole family will go to The Netherwood in July.

Miss Virginia F. Randolph, daughter of Plainfield's ex-mayor, who is studying art in Paris, will spend the summer with a pleasant company of fellow-students, at Britany. The sketches that they will take during their days of recreation will furnish excellent material for pictures during the fall and winter.

Captain William B. Ostrom is confined to his home on Ninth street by injuries received from a fall into the hold of a vessel he was superintending the loading of at Philadelphia. The accident occurred on Monday of last week. He probably will not be out in a month.

Just Like the Opposition in Plainfield.

The Supreme Court of New Jersey has granted the writ of certiorari applied for by certain property-owners of South Orange to review the ordinance providing for the construction of a sewerage system in the village of South Orange, together with the proceedings of the trustees thereof, all of which are alleged to be irregular and invalid. This action may delay the building of the sewerage system for two years or more. The large property-owners, on whom the greater part of the cost of it will fall, if carried out, are strongly in favor of having the sewerage system built as quickly as possible, claiming that since the introduction of a water system a sewerage system is indispensable to preserve the public health. The opposition to the improvement, with one or two exceptions, is mainly of a political character.

Plainfield to Tan Their Pretty New Jackets.

In a week or so the crack base-ball team of the Plainfield Bicycle Club will have a game against Westfield's amateurs, who have come out in brand-new suits of gray with red and white trimmings, making a very pretty appearance. The material for the Westfield team includes Samuel Lockett, late pitcher for Rutgers College, John DeWitt, Westfield's last year's second base man, Irving and Elmer Love, Denman, Horton, Everett, Augustus Alpers, Pierson, and John and William Sansom.

A SUBURBAN CHAUTAUQUA JUBILEE.

The Metuchen Circle to Celebrate the Close of its Year.

Those who are interested in the Chautauqua Literary and Scientific Circle—and their number is many—will be pleased to learn that the Chautauqua movement has taken deep root in the neighboring towns of Metuchen and Stelton, which contain wideawake circles, numbering fifty and thirty members respectively.

The Metuchen Circle will hold its closing exercises in the Presbyterian church, Friday evening, June 19, at 8 o'clock. Bishop John H. Vincent, Chancellor of the C. L. S. C., was to have delivered the address on this occasion, but was compelled to cancel the engagement on account of his recent severe illness.

Although disappointed in getting Bishop Vincent, the Metuchen Chautauquans have been very fortunate in securing the Rev. R. S. Pardington, D. D., President of the Brooklyn Chautauqua Assembly. Dr. Pardington is not only an eloquent speaker but is also an active chautauquan, and is in great demand at the summer assemblies.

A very attractive feature of the exercises will be the musical programme furnished by the Chautauqua Glee Club, under the direction of Joseph B. Adams, with Miss Nellie Acken as accompanist.

The Metuchen Circle extends a cordial invitation to everybody—and especially to all chautauquans and members of sister circles—to be present on this occasion.

Plainfield Officers Captured Them First.

W. R. Mattox and his son Aaron, are to be credited with making the first capture of the two thieves, Wahl and Arnold, who are now in jail at Elizabeth suspected of having stolen a thousand chickens in this vicinity.

Mattox had a warrant for them charged with stealing some wheels. He traced them to the old house where they were living, just outside of this city, and found the stolen property there. Just after daylight of Tuesday morning, May 26, Mattox started out to capture the thieves, and knowing them to be a pair of desperate characters, he took Aaron along. The Mattoxes met their prey coming home with a wagon load of chickens after a midnight raid. They were brought to Plainfield after some resistance, and arraigned before Justice Nash who released them on bail furnished by a Roselle resident. Two weeks after, as told in THE PRESS, they were taken again and held.

Tried to Dash Out Her Brains.

A strange woman who gave her name as Ellen Fitzpatrick, forty-five years of age, was arrested in this city a few days ago and sent to the county jail at Elizabeth, for going into people's yards and shouting and screaming and making a general nuisance of herself. At the jail Wednesday night she became violently insane and created a commotion among the female inmates of the institution. She took off all her clothing and tried to dash out her brains against the iron bars of her cell door. Her shrieks were blood curdling, and it took the combined strength of Warden Dodd, his assistant, and the warden's wife, to put the raving maniac into a strait-jacket. None of the female prisoners would venture near her, and it was several minutes before she could be overpowered. She was taken yesterday to the Morris Plains Asylum.

Came Nearer to a Human Mark than to His Target.

A bullett shattered a pane of glass in a window by which Thaddeus Doane, Jr., of 40 West Fifth street, was seated, last evening. The ball whizzed very close to young Mr. Doane's head and buried itself in the wall. A neighbor had been practicing shooting with a revolver at a tomato can in his back yard. He stopped his fun when he heard of Mr. Doane's narrow escape.

Will Take Their Voices With Them.

The boys and men of the Holy Cross church choir are beginning to make preparations for their summer trip. The choir will leave here Monday, Aug. 3, going by train to New York and by boat to New Haven, and then by stage to the shore. While away, the choir will render a service, both morning and evening, at Naugatuck, Conn., about twenty miles from Bridgeport, Sunday, Aug. 9.

How tempting! Something "just as good" is offered when Hires's Root Beer is called for. The reason is plain. The unprincipled dealer makes more profit on imitation goods. The wise ones insist on getting Hires's.

Sparks Crept Into the Flooring.

A defective hearth caused a fire at the residence of Henry M. Demarest, 132 Park avenue, Wednesday evening, and damage to the amount of $150 resulted. As soon as the house began to fill with smoke Mr. Demarest ran down town, took Chief Engineer Doane away from a firemen's meeting, and the two got a hack and drove at runaway speed to the house. The Chief quickly put out the fire.

TREATMENT for CONSUMPTION.

To the PHYSICIANS of Plainfield and Vicinity.

I would respectfully announce that I am prepared to supply the Solutions of Koch-Gluteride of Gold and Mercury, lately suggested by Drs. Shurly and Gibbes, for the treatment of Consumption.

Recent experiments seem to promise better results from the use of this remedy than have been attained by any of the newly proposed methods of treatment, not excepting that of Dr. Koch. Absolute purity of materials and careful manipulation are required for the successful preparation of the Solution which, after repeated trials, we have attained.

THE above is not used altogether as a mere advertising "catch line", but is very significant in connection with our business.

A good shoe is like a good friend—it will not disappoint you when you call upon it for real service. You know a good friend by trying him, and that's the way you can test a shoe; but the trouble in the case of the shoe is that, when you've tried it, you must keep it, whether it's good or not. You won't complain about having to keep our shoes, because we know what they are when we sell them, and what we know we let you know before you buy. There is nothing in the market which will give you a better return for your money than our $3 00 Shoe.

SLEEPLESSLY FIGHTING DEATH.

Strange Case of a Plainfield Veteran Who Bled for His Country's Sake.

At almost any time, whether day or night, fair or stormy, a rheumatic old man in army blue clothing can be met trudging about the streets of Kansas City with a stout hickory stick. Occasionally he pauses at a show window or rests at a corner. It is but for a second; then he wheels about and with a sidelong gait hobbles wearily away. Sometimes, when exhausted by his marching, he sleeps for not more than an hour at a time; then he must be up and about again, for the old veteran has a merciless commander, a strange affliction, and unless he obeys he knows the penalty will be death.

This old soldier, who must be almost incessantly marching, is James Finley Layton, who for several years up to 1882 was a book-keeper in Plainfield, living on Second street, between Cherry street, now Park avenue, and Peace, and later on Park avenue near Second. He is a son of John Layton, who back in the early 70's kept a coal and stone yard opposite the old railway station, and a brother of Josiah Layton, who now lives at 21 West Second street. James F. Layton was first lieutenant of company G, Thirteenth regiment, New Jersey Volunteers, at one time during the civil war, and for twenty-three months was commissary of prisoners at Rock Island, Ill. During the fight at Chancellorsville where his brother, Lieutenant Tom, of the 9th N. Y., was killed—he was struck in the head by a piece of shell, for which injury he now draws a pension. This, together with exposure during the war, might have brought on the terrible malady with which the old man is afflicted, but physicians have been baffled in attempts to explain it. Layton has had rheumatism ever since 1863. He is blind in the left eye, deaf in the left ear, and cannot use his left arm. When he ceases walking for more than half an hour at a time his flesh becomes puffed up, and he is compelled to begin walking again. When he sleeps this strange swelling of the body wakes him within three-quarters of an hour or an hour, and to reduce it he must be up and marching about.

In this manner he has been afflicted for the past eight or ten years, and prior to that time, during his residence in Plainfield, in a less marked way, ever since the war. In speaking about his malady, the other day, he said:

"Lately I have hardly been able to sleep at all. Only about once in every forty-eight hours can I sleep as much as an hour at a time. I have had dozens of physicians looking into my case, but they can do nothing for me. I room above the restaurant at 12 East Fourteenth street, because it is convenient to me. I guage the distance of my marching so as to strike the restaurant at meal times; when I am thoroughly exhausted I drop into my room upstairs for a short sleep. Sometimes I walk out to Westport; very often to Independence. To-day, between breakfast and supper I walked 148 blocks. After sleeping, and when my skin is puffed out, I look like a different man. When I begin walking my bones creak and crack continually until after I am fairly started."

Mr. Layton exhibited with considerable pride his commission signed by President Lincoln and Secretary of War Stanton, as first lieutenant. He said:

"I served until I was struck by a shell at Chancellorsville, May 23, 1863. I remember as distinctly all the surroundings just as if it occurred yesterday.

"You will notice how, since I have been talking to you, my skin has begun to puff up. I shall have to go in a few minutes. I slept or rested too long—a little over an hour—three weeks ago, and ever since I must lie down on my left side when I want to sleep, and turn my head about into the desired position with my hands. You see I can scarcely move my head at all."

While speaking the veteran's hands and face were swelling. He suddenly wheeled about. His madady, the grim commander, was issuing his usual order, and threatening death if it were disobeyed. The soldier saluted stiffly as like an automaton he moved away with sidelong gait upon another long, weary, monotonous march. It was one of the unknown number of forced marches he had yet to make in his campaign against death. There was a look of lost hope in his eyes as he shuffled along upon his cane.

Anxious to Break Away from Somerville.

John Walker and Frank Cook, the men who tied old John Toms up by the thumbs for forty hours in a house near New Brunswick last winter, are not satisfied with their jail life at Somerville. They first began to show their ill-feeling by complaining of the food given them by the jailor. They absolutely refused to eat for a while, but finally came to time when they found they must eat or starve. Then they began to plot some means of escape. Sheriff Codington and Jailor Wilson became suspicious of their actions, and a search was made of their cells and persons. The result was that two knives were found. One was a pocket knife with a wicked-looking blade and the other a case knife with the edge converted into a saw. With these they evidently intended to escape.

They will be closely watched until they are tried and sent to State Prison.

I SUFFERED from acute inflammation in my nose and head—for a week at a time I could not see. I used Ely's Cream Balm and in a few days I was cured. It is wonderful how quick it helped me.—Mrs. Georgie S. Judson, Hartford, Conn.

FOR THREE weeks I was suffering from a severe cold in my head, accompanied by a pain in the temples. Ely's Cream Balm was recommended to me. After only six applications of the Balm every trace of my cold was removed. —Henry C. Clark, New York Appraiser's Office.

MAD DOG IN THE MOUNTAINS.

After Attacking Dogs, Poultry, Cattle and Men He Is Finally Shot.

A large red dog of the bird dog species has been making life among the residents of Washingtonville very uncertain for a week back. The dog appears to have been very vicious, attacking fowls and dogs promiscuously. He is known to have killed two dogs besides biting two more.

E. W. Milligan, while going from his wagon house to his residence, had an experience with the brute that he will not soon forget. His attention was first attracted to him as he came out of some shrubbery but, thinking it belonged to some neighbor, paid no attention to him at first, but when half way to the house he heard the dog behind him. On looking around he was horrified to see the dog running towards him, with distended jaws covered with froth. Mr. Milligan, having been a sprinter in his younger days, made a dash for the kitchen door, which fortunately was open at the time, the evening being quite warm. He says it was the best time he ever made. With a snarl and a snap the brute threw himself against the door just as Mr. Milligan succeeded in closing it.

A young man who had been detained calling on a young lady, while returning home heard a noise among a neighbors' dogs. He went to investigate the cause and saw a large red dog trying to chew up a much smaller one. He having heard of Mr. Milligan's exploit, concluded that he would not interfere, but the dog saw him, but not in time, as he made for home which fortunately was not far off.

A dog supposed to be the same one was shot back of New Providence at what is known as Clarktown, by Howard Toms, who saw him attacking some cattle in a pasture belonging to Samuel Clark. It is not known if he bit any of them, but they will be kept separate until an investigation by a veterinary surgeon can be made.

The farmers all have their dogs tied up, awaiting developments, to see if they were bitten and if hydrophobia will result.

Its First Two Presidents From Plainfield

The Woman's Chistian Missionary Society, of Millstone, Somerset county, celebrated the twenty-first anniversary of their organization last week Tuesday afternoon. A report of the society's work was read by the secretary, Miss Frances N. Beekman. Interesting papers were read by Miss Margaret McKissack and Mrs. E. T. Corwin. An address was given by the president, Miss Gertrude Sutphen. Congratulatory remarks were made by Miss S. D. Doremus, of New York, and by the pastor, the Rev. Theodore Shafer. Since its organization, twenty-one years ago, the society has had but four presidents. The first was Mrs. W. E. Mattison, wife of Dr. Mattison, now of North Plainfield. The second was Miss Margaret McKissack, also residing at Plainfield at the present time. Mrs. E. T. Corwin, now of New Brunswick, and Miss Gertrude Sutphen, were the other two. The society has raised for foreign missions, by subscriptions and other ways, over $2,000. At the close of the anniversary, a reunion of the members and friends was held at the parsonage, where refreshments were served and a social time was enjoyed by all.

New Leaders for St. George's Sons.

The following newly-elected officers were installed by No-Surrender Lodge, Sons of St. George, Scotch Plains, Wednesday evening:

Worshipful President—James Busbley.
Worshipful Vice-President—R. Jackson.
Worshipful Master—C. Burns.
Worshipful Scribe—A. Leivers.
Assistant Scribe—F. Thompson.
Treasurer—Thomas Fox.
Trustee—S. Smith.

The installation was conducted by District Deputy Grand President Gibbs, of North Plainfield. After the ceremony refreshments were served, and the time passed very enjoyably. A number of visitors from Elizabeth were present.

Fun in Store for the Borough of Ripleyville.

Westfield is having a hard time over the borough question. When it compares its tax rate with the much lower one of North Plainfield it shakes its head and sighs and wishes it were a borough, and when it holds public meetings and agitates the question the fellow-citizens wax wroth, and some call one another suckers. In the interests of peace it may be considered a good thing that an election will soon be held to settle the matter. No doubt the people will decide to become a borough. Then what fun they will have with their Borough Council!

—Wm. R. Mattox, auctioneer, will conduct an auction sale of desirable household goods from the Netherwood residence of Mr. Barrow, at 59 North avenue, to-morrow afternoon, begining at 1 o'clock.

Pure and Old.

The attention of the readers of THE PRESS is called to the advertisement of the A. R. Tudor Co. in another column. They are introducing in this city for medicinal use A. R. Tudor's Rye Whiskey, which is warranted absolutely pure and ten years old. The importance of a pure old whiskey for family and medicinal use does not need to be dwelt upon. It is pleasing to know that there is one firm in this large country which is selling a genuine whiskey at a moderate profit and that they propose to adhere to it and not follow in the footsteps of others in the trade who are captivated by the exorbitant profits that follow the sale of an adulterated article. Ask your druggist for it.

Justice Magie's Decision in a Case Against Somerset County Freeholders.

Justice Magie, in the Somerset Circuit Court, at Somerville, has handed down his opinion in the case of the Unionist-Gazette Association vs. The Board of Chosen Freeholders of Somerset County. When the annual county statement was to be given out last year for publication in the newspapers, the Board of Freeholders passed a resolution directing that it be given to four newspapers in the county at the fixed price of $131.25 each. The Unionist-Gazette and Somerset Messenger declined to accept this price, making the claim that under the law they were entitled to compensation at the legal rate. The matter was carried to the court for settlement in the name of the Gazette Association, and has been pending ever since.

The Justice says that by the act of April 25, 1889, it is made the express duty of the County Collector in counties where his financial statement is by law published in every newspaper in his county which is designated to publish the laws. For neglect to obey the law the collector is liable to indictment and punishment by fine. It is obvious, the Justice continues, that the Board of Chosen Freeholders have nothing to do with the performance of this duty on the part of the collector. They can not enforce its performance nor can they protect the collector from the consequences of non-performance. Moreover, in the performance of this duty the collector is obviously an agent of the county. When he has caused his statement to be published in a newspaper designated to publish the laws, the county becomes liable to compensate the proprietor of such newspaper by payment of the legal rate (if legal rate be fixed) and if not, then by payment of a reasonable sum. The amount for which the county thus becomes liable may be collected by suit unless paid by the Board of Chosen Freeholders.

The resolution passed by the Board, Justice Magie says, is ineffectual and of no force in limiting the compensation of the plaintiff unless agreed to by the plaintiff, of which there is no evidence whatever. On the contrary, it was agreed by counsel that plaintiff by its agent declined to publish on those terms.

The Court further decides that plaintiff is entitled to recover at what is called a legal rate, that is, sixty cents per folio, or a total of $203.80. The county must make compensation at this rate, with interest, aggregating in all $213.97.

LONDON, June 12.—Mrs. Russell Harrison and Mrs. McKee arrived here from Liverpool during the morning. The ladies were met at Euston Square Station by United States Minister Lincoln and the attaches of the American Legation, by whom they were escorted to Minister Lincoln's residence.

Killed Crossing a Railroad.

RANDOLPH, N. Y., June 12.—The wife to ex-Senator A. G. Dow and mother of President Charles M. Dow of the Jamestown National Bank, was instantly killed in her carriage by a railway train on a crossing here. Mrs. Geo. Fox, who was with her, was severely injured.

THE HOMING PIGEON.

Its Utility and the High Rate of Speed to Which It Attains.

The homing pigeon is the one kind of his race that has a distinctly utilitarian existence. During the Franco-Prussian war they were the only means of communication Paris had with the outside world when all the ingenuity of man had failed. Since that period the French and German war departments have established extensive Government lofts for the breeding and training of these truly remarkable birds. A proposition has also recently been made to supply our outgoing European steamers with trained homing pigeons, to be used at a distance of not exceeding 500 to 800 miles from New York; so, should any thing happen within this distance, almost instantaneous word could be brought to land; so far, however, the matter has not taken definite shape. In build the "homer" somewhat resembles the English carrier, but has not such heavy wattles, and a much smaller and more curved bill; he is not so long in the body, and is much broader across the back. The eye is particularly large and brilliant, and the bird has an alertness of manner and intelligence of look that is wanting in other varieties. In color they are a light blue, with two heavy black bars across each wing, the throat and breast being of an iridescent blue and green mixed. There is also the black, blue-checker, red-checker, red, silver and white. The interest in these birds in this country is very great, and the annual races excite much attention, valuable prizes being offered for competition, the Homing Pigeon Association also holding a show of its own every year. The bird was originally developed in Antwerp, and from thence imported into this country. Our fanciers here have, however, outstripped their European rivals in the matter of speed and endurance, as our American-bred birds have demolished all foreign records for long-distance flying. The average speed of the "homer" is about a mile a minute—243 miles in 232 minutes being the best on record. The average flight for twenty-four hours of these homing pigeons is over 500 miles. Montgomery flew 1,051 miles, but took thirty odd days to get home; naturally much of this time he was lost somewhere, delayed by storms or head-winds, and may have actually flown twice that distance, but he was never heard of from the hour he was liberated until he returned to the home loft a month afterward.—Harper's Weekly.

Roselle Ramblers on a Run.

Thirteen members of the Roselle Ramblers, with their genial captain in the van, rode, Wednesday evening, around "the block", from Roselle to Wheatsheaf, to Rahway, to Westfield, to Plainfield, to Scotch Plains, to Springfield, to Elizabeth, and home. The night was cool, and the roads were fine, and and all hearts were as light as the twelve lamps which guided their way. The Ramblers have twenty-six names in good standing on their roll, are out of debt, and are happy in the possession of a cosy little club-house on the county road, where all ladies and gentlemen of the wheel from "whereso'er they roam" will be courteously received.

Will Fly Birds from Plainfield.

The Greenville Homing Pigeon Club held a meeting at the Belvidere Hotel, Jersey City Heights, Monday evening. A series of races for junior and senior birds was arranged as follows: Juniors, July 12, from Elizabeth; July 19, from Plainfield, and July 26, from Bound Brook. Seniors, June 14, from Havre de Grace, Md.; June 28, from Washington. The owners of winning birds will receive a gold band, suitably engraved, and the owner of the bird flying the greatest number of miles during the season is to receive six imperial photographs of the bird.

All the druggists sell the Tudor Whiskey. Some of the other dealers do not. They say it pays too small a profit. PURE whiskey never does yield a large profit. It is the adulterated stuff which makes the money. Do you want to pay your dealer an exorbitant profit on an adulterated article, or do you prefer genuine old Whiskey which is sold at a moderate profit? Decide for yourselves. The TUDOR WHISKEY IS WARRANTED ABSOLUTELY PURE and TEN YEARS OLD.

BOYS' TELEGRAPH.

How Two Clever Youngsters Pass Many Pleasant Hours.

The present generation is so accustomed to the electro-magnetic telegraph that it is hardly remembered that there were various forms of telegraphing, that is, of communicating messages instantly to a distance, before the Morse telegraph was invented. Perhaps it will interest the readers to be told how two boys reinvented one of these forms of telegraphing when they could not put up a wire to be worked by a battery.

These boys, Tom and Eugene, were sons of a physician, and lived in the backwoods of North Carolina, far from railroads and towns. Eugene attended a school in the neighborhood, while Tom was older, and a clerk in a country store near by. There was often a need of a means of communication between the store and the doctor's residence, especially after dark, and as the distance was nearly a mile, these boys conceived the idea of constructing a telegraph line between the two places.

As a preliminary to this work, they learned to write in the telegraphic alphabet, which, as every boy knows, is composed of dots and dashes, thus:

. — . — . — . — . — .

This is called the Morse code, because it was invented by Prof. S. F. B. Morse, and they soon became quite expert in writing it and in spelling sentences to each other by the sound of rapping on a table with a key or pocket-knife. They were now ready for the wires and instruments, but were astonished to find that the necessary outfit, at that time, would cost them upward of twenty-five dollars, a sum far beyond their means.

Since their leisure time was mainly after dark, they concluded to try some means of signaling to each other by using a lamp. The apparatus they finally made was so simple and effective that any boy handy with a jack-knife can easily make one.

By referring to the cut, it will be seen that it consists of a lamp inside a small box, with a hole on the side at the height of the flame, and a means of opening or closing the hole easily and rapidly. The box was an ordinary cigar-box, and the lamp a small one burning kerosene oil. Several small holes were made in the bottom of the box to admit air, and a large one in the top just over the lamp-chimney.

When closed the light was entirely concealed except when the cover to the opening on the side was pushed back. This cover was shaped as seen in the cut, and made of thin cigar-box wood also. It had a single screw at the bottom and a small knob to push by. The movement of the cover or shutter was from side to side, like an inverted pendulum. There was a tack on each side, one to keep the shutter from going too far one way, and the other to stop it exactly over the hole, when closed. A small spring of whalebone or a rubber band served to hold the shutter in its closed position.

When this box and lamp were used at night the opening and closing of the shutter served to show the light as a succession of quick or long flashes, which look at a distance exactly like a firefly. To open and close the shutter very quickly makes a mark to represent a dot, and to make a dash the shutter is held open about half a second. For a long dash, representing an I, the shutter is simply kept open a trifle longer than for the regular dash.

A little practice will soon enable one to make the short and long flashes corresponding to the characters of the Morse code, and the signals are easily read, even at a distance of several miles. Of course the operations must take place between stations visible from each other, and the box must be turned in the direction of the distant observer. For very long distances a larger lamp and reflector will be better.

With such a box under his arm, while out of doors, or at a table near a window looking in the proper direction, Tom would telegraph long conversations to Eugene, and read his replies in the distant sparks. On cold, dark or rainy nights these boys were able to talk with each other, and were sometimes able to send messages of importance, which saved them many steps.

Many a boy or girl may thus find a means of amusement in communicating with friends, even across wide rivers, or at long distances in a hilly or mountainous country, with such a homo-made telegraph. There are situations where a couple of enterprising boys might make considerable money out of it.—T. C. Harris, in Youth's Companion.

BEAUTY OF FORM.

The Charm of Proportions in Both Man and Woman.

Beauty of the human form is to-day exactly what it was in ancient Greece; it is the same through all the centuries, however blind we are to its characteristics through ignorance. The census of ages is a true verdict, and classic forms become safe models. Greek sculpture was wrought when the body received its highest cultivation, and was so beautiful as to be called divine, writes E. S. L. Adams in Harper's Bazar.

This sculpture should be carefully and continuously studied, as well as pictures of good nude figures. They are to be made familiar, that one may learn why they are good, why they deserve admiration. Most people fancy they admire these classic models, but it must be in imagination only, else why should they allow themselves to exemplify false standards of form, and positively distort their own God-given bodies?

Searching for the highest standards of human form, we discover that manly beauty and womanly beauty differ essentially. It is agreed that the type of manly proportion includes a comparatively large head, wide shoulders, rather square, a torso tapering to a contracted pelvis; while the whole may be seven and one-half heads in height, or an additional half-head added to the length of the legs, giving a particularly elegant figure.

On the other hand, fine proportions for a woman are a small head, shoulders rather sloping and narrow, the torso full and widest at the hips; while the front line from the sternum over the abdomen should show first a gentle, and then a full outward curve.

The conventional figure of the day is at variance with this type. Every effort is made to imitate masculine characteristics. The shoulders are thrust up high and square, or made to appear so, the torso is made to taper in, and everything under heaven is done to make the waist look small. The front line is forced to take an inward curve below the bust, and the side lines to form an awkward angle, in the hollow of which voluminous skirts are hung.

One should study sculpture with the new knowledge of these proportions most thoughtfully, till the rhythm of the lines has fastened itself upon the memory. Studying the pictures of the best artists of every age, we shall find these principles everywhere demonstrated.

The charm of womanly proportion is in the long curve from armpit to ankle, which is so different from the beauty of a manly figure. The depression at the so-called waist line—only the meeting of two large muscles which in a beautiful woman should be slight—would better be ignored in the clothing, for the sake of the greater beauty of the whole sweep.

It is to be understood that the long curves are made up of shorter contours, one gently melting into another. A form made up of graceful sweeps alone would be a weak, nerveless, insipid thing.

These proportions should be so understood, and so thoroughly appreciated, as to be always in mind, else a beautiful human form will not be recognized. Use physical exercises to attain the perfection of these curves. Hang pictures showing them where they may grow into your thoughts.

LIVED BY HER WITS.

How a Shrewd Shoplifter Utilized a Tame Rat.

"There have been many extraordinary stories told of the ingenuity of thieves in the pursuit of their nefarious calling, but a case which occurred while I was at Chatham recently beats anything I ever heard," remarked a newly-arrived Englishman to a Philadelphia Inquirer man. "A girl was brought before the police court on the charge of robbing milliners' shops. She was only fourteen years of age and of very innocent appearance. What puzzled the magistrate was that none of the witnesses ever saw her take anything, or at least they would not swear to it, although after she had left a shop where she had been making a purchase articles of value were missed. When arrested nothing was found upon her. The magistrate said he could not convict the girl upon mere suspicion, and then began to cross-examine her himself in a kind, fatherly way which touched her heart and she broke down and confessed that she was guilty and explained her methods to the astonishment and amusement of the court and spectators. It seems that she had a tame white rat which she carried about with her in a muff. She would enter a shop full of girls and women and ask the price of some article, and while looking at it contrive to drop the rodent on the floor. Any one can imagine the result. Those near the door dashed into the street, while the employes jumped on the counters and chairs, wrapping their petticoats tight round their ankles and 'screamed like mad,' as the prisoner expressed it, amid the laughter of the court, in spite of the assurances that the rat was quite tame. In the scrimmage she would quietly help herself to what she wanted, catch the rat, put it in her muff, apologize and walk off. The magistrate said that on account of her youth, and as she had voluntarily confessed to the thefts, he would give her one more chance, and bound her over in the sum of fifty pounds sterling—two hundred and fifty dollars of your money—to come up for judgment when called upon. Of course her friends soon entered the required bonds, and Mary Barton will have to find some other place to practice on the weakness of her sex. The tame-rat dodge won't work in Chatham any more."

Last of a Famous Team.

A celebrity recently died after a kind, useful life of thirty-eight years. His name was Jesse, and the one act which entitled him to mention was participation in the funeral cortege of the martyred Lincoln. He was the last of the six white horses which drew the hearse containing the honored body along the streets of Indianapolis. His mate in the proud but sorrowful lead of the team died eight years ago.

THE MIRACLE CURES

Exciting Scenes Witnessed at Mount Troy To-Day.

OVER 3,000 PILGRIMS PRESENT.

They Moved About on Crutches and in Invalid Chairs.

Strong Men Crushing the Weak in Their Endeavors to Reach the Side of Father Mollinger—People in Rags and in Silk Surround the Church—Patients Who Say They Were Cured.

PITTSBURG, June 13.—The blind, the lame, the halt and the deaf thronged Mount Troy in greater numbers to-day than yesterday.

A conservative estimate of the number of Pilgrims present in the hope of securing help for almost every sort of human ill from Father Mollinger places the figure at 3,000. They journey hither from all parts of the country. Hundreds came from New York State, particularly from the neighborhood of Binghamton, Elmira, Rochester and Buffalo. Hundreds came from the vicinity of Nashville. There are many from Connecticut, Pennsylvania and Ohio.

A wild, surging, tottering mob; a cry of pain coming from a helpless mortal who could move neither hand nor foot; apparently strong men crushing the weak in their endeavor to reach the side of Father Mollinger, who they expect to cure them—such were the scenes around the Mecca of cripples on Mount Troy to-day—St. Anthony's day.

By 9 o'clock there were fully 3,000 people gathered in the church, in the yard surrounding the building and in the streets. There were people in rags and people in broadcloth and silk. They moved about on crutches and in invalid chairs. Some who have been rendered entirely helpless were carried around in the strong arms of a loving father, brother or mother.

Cures Claimed.

A reporter spoke to some of the patients who say they have been cured. Among them was Miss Mary Lonergan of Elmira, N. Y. She said she had suffered from asthma 20 years. She visited Father Mollinger and at the end of five days was cured.

Mrs. P. J. Duffy of Olean, N. Y., said she had been completely cured of dropsy, but still has a strange heart trouble.

Mrs. Holzer of Wayland, N. Y., had a 27-year-old son who had been troubled with St. Vitus' dance for 18 years. He was much improved.

Bridget and Nora Reardon, two sisters, from Little Meadow, near Scranton, Pa., were cured of cancer and cataract on her eye, respectively.

Mrs. Fitzsimmons, of Pittston, Luzerne County, came here with rheumatism that had afflicted her for 10 years. She had to be wheeled in a chair, yet before leaving for home she could walk without difficulty.

THE JOHNSON TRAGEDY.

A Belief that Fletcher Is in the Woods Near Fairhaven.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., June 13.—There are several new developments in the Johnson murder case. At Priest's Cove an oar was found which looks as if it might have belonged to a large boat like the one in which the bloody tragedy occurred.

The theory is that Fletcher, who is missing, may have floated ashore on it. This theory is in a measure verified by the fact that several persons have reported to the police that they have seen a person who answers the description of Fletcher skulking in the woods near Fairhaven. Mrs. Fletcher, however, says she is sure her husband is dead.

Officers of the Yale Football Association.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 13.—The following officers were elected at a meeting of the Yale Football Association last night: President, W. B. Wright, jr., '92; vice-president, Frank Barbour, '92; treasurer, A Lambert, '93; secretary, J. Roby, '93. The gross receipts for the season were $19,488. A gift of $6,000 was made to the new gymnasium and $4,000 for a new building at the Yale field.

Will Fight the Synod.

PITTSBURG, June 13.—The east end congregation of the Reformed Presbyterian Church last night decided to secede. The congregation reorganized, re-elected Mr. Milligan pastor at a salary of $1,500 and determined to fight the Synod to retain the thirty thousand dollar church which they now possess. They will probably go into the United Presbyterian Church in a body.

Convicted of a Revolting Crime.

CANANDAIGUA, N. Y., June 13.—The jury in the case of William Phelps, charged with incest, brought in a verdict of guilty. The defendant's counsel moved for a new trial on the ground that the code was violated by Judge Metcalf, in allowing the jury to have possession of some damaging papers. The details of the crime were of the most revolting character.

A Dishonest Treasurer.

GREENFIELD, Mass., June 13.—Mason Moody, who has been treasurer of Franklin County for 15 years, has confessed to having used $16,169 belonging to the county in his private business. His relations and friends have turned over to his bondsmen sufficient property to secure the county against loss.

Fourth-Class Postmasters.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—Fourth-class postmasters were appointed in New York State as follows: A. O'Reilly at Fort Hill, Genesee County, and A. J. Storms at Piermont, Rockland County.

Both Better and Cheaper.

The Royal Baking Powder, as an actual fact, is the most economical in use of any made, because of its greatly superior strength.

Both the United States and Canadian Governments in the reports of their investigation of baking powders have published this fact officially.

The other baking powders known in this vicinity are shown by chemical tests to contain from 20 to 80 per cent. less leavening-gas than the Royal. So the Royal, even should it cost more than the others, would be much the cheaper.

In addition to this the superior flavor, sweetness, wholesomeness and delicacy of the food raised by Royal Baking Powder would make any difference in cost insignificant.

When the Royal makes finer and more wholesome food at a less cost, which every housekeeper familiar with it will affirm, why not discard altogether the old-fashioned methods of soda and sour milk, or home-made mixture of cream of tartar and soda, and use it exclusively?

PRINCETON'S BIG CLASS.

The Prospects Are that '95 Will be the Largest Ever Graduated.

PRINCETON, N. J., June 13.—One hundred and ten students are being examined at Princeton for entrance to the academic department of the freshman class and 28 for the School of Science.

A large number are reported as examined in New York, Philadelphia and other places. Examinations are being held in 44 cities in the United States; also in Germany and England. Although nothing definite can be said of the size of the incoming class, present indications seem to justify the statement that '95 will be the largest class that ever entered Princeton.

The final struggle with Yale for the baseball championship will take place this afternoon on the Manhattan Field, New York.

THE AMERICAN DERBY.

Preparations for the $20,000 Event to Be Run at Chicago Next Week.

CHICAGO, June 13.—The great American Derby, to be run a week from to-day at the Washington Park track here, will be the greatest race in the history of the rich stake. Green B. Morris has notified the officials that he will come on from the East with his great colt Strathmeath, leaving New York on Sunday evening.

John Campbell also will come from the East with his high-class colt Pessara. There is intense interest in the arrival of these Eastern cracks as they will meet the pick of the Western contingent, including the hitherto invincible Kingman. The latter will be the favorite, and Westerners are sorry that Potomac is not also coming on from the East to join in the great race.

DAVIS SENTENCED.

The Shawangunk Mountain Outlaw Gets Eight Years in Clinton Prison.

RONDOUT, N. Y., June 13.—William A. Davis, the Shawangunk Mountain outlaw, indicted last week for forgery, plead guilty to one indictment and was sentenced to eight years at hard labor in the Clinton Prison. Three similar indictments are now pending.

Davis is 34 years of age, and a giant in size and strength. He has frequently overpowered officers and escaped. When arrested recently for the present crime it was at the point of a revolver. He belongs to a highly respected family.

Rumor About the Tilden Will.

NEW YORK, June 13.—A rumor gained currency last night that the Tilden will contest had been settled out of court. Concerning this rumor, Delos McCurdy, of counsel for the nephews, said that there was no truth in the report. He said the executors could, under the wide powers granted by the will, make a settlement if it were agreeable to the other side, but nothing in that direction has been done.

Leaving the Soldiers' Home.

ERIE, Pa., June 13.—The pensioners who are inmates of the Soldiers' Home are leaving as fast as their pensions for the last quarter arrive. Sixty-five have already left for their homes in different parts of the State. The Soldiers' Home committee issued an order requiring the inmates to pay 80 per cent. of their pensions to the general maintenance fund, which is the cause of the dissatisfaction.

Death of an Old Dock-Builder.

NYACK, N. Y., June 13.—William Linsley Lawrence, one of the most prominent citizens of Piermont, died last evening, aged 72 years. He was the builder of the Erie Long Dock at Jersey City and also the Erie Docks at Dunkirk on Lake Erie. He has held many important positions and was a prominent Mason and Odd Fellow. Mr. Lawrence retired from active business 20 years ago.

Died After Fasting Eight Weeks.

ASHLAND, Pa., June 13.—Mrs. Daniel Smith, aged 60, died last night at her home in Mabel Barry Township, after a fast of nearly eight weeks. On April 16 her only daughter died, since which time Mrs. Smith has refused to take nourishment of any kind. Excessive grief probably unsettled her mind.

CUMMING CASHIERED

Expelled from the Army by Order of the Queen.

THE OFFICIAL NOTICE PRINTED.

Her Majesty Says She Has No Further Use for His Services.

The Scandal to be Called Up in the House of Commons on Monday—Radicals Will Attack the Prince of Wales—The Secretary of War to be Questioned—Mr. Gladstone Does Not Favor the Move.

LONDON, June 13.—The fate of Sir William Gordon-Cumming is sealed as far as the army is concerned, for the following paragraph is published in the Gazette:

WAR OFFICE, June 12, 1891.—Scots Guards. Major and Lieut.-Col. Sir William Gordon-Cumming, Baronet, is removed from the army Her Majesty having no further occasion for his services.

Frequent conferences are being held by the War Office authorities who are discussing the baccarat verdict. Yesterday the Duke of Cambridge, Commander-in-Chief of the Forces, summoned Gen. Owen Williams and Col. Stacey, in command of the Scots Fusilier Guards, Cumming's regiment, to the Horse Guards, where they had a prolonged conference.

On Monday next, in the House of Commons, William Summers, Liberal Member for Huddersfield, and Henry Peyton Cobb, Radical Non-Conformist Member for the Rugby Division of Warwickshire, will question the Secretary of State for War as to what course he intends to pursue with regard to the three officers, Field Marshal the Prince of Wales, Gen. Owen Williams and Lieut. Berkeley Levett, of the Scots Fusilier Guards, who signed the document which practically allowed Cumming to remain an officer of the British army notwithstanding his conduct at Tranby Croft.

The Secretary of State for War will also be asked what action he proposes to take in regard to the same officers for having disobeyed the army regulations which call for the bringing of such cases to the attention of commanding officers. Mr. Gladstone shows no disposition to encourage the proposed action.

THOMPSON OR ABBOTT.

Sir John Macdonald's Successor Will Probably Be Named To-day.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 13.—Since Sir John Thompson's conference yesterday with Lord Stanley conflicting rumors have been in circulation, notwithstanding the former's definite statement to newspaper men that he had talked only department business with His Excellency. This morning Sir John Thompson made this statement:

"Both Mr. Abbott and myself have been in conference with the Governor-General, but no one has been called on yet. I think that to-day His Excellency's choice will be made."

It is now generally conceded that between Thompson and Abbott the choice for Premiership lies. Either will serve under the other.

Disorder at an English Meeting.

LONDON, June 13.—The St. Olave's Guardians in South London had an exciting time over the baccarat scandal. A motion was made declaring that the gambling of the Prince of Wales is a disgrace to the country. The chairman refused to put the motion before the members. An exciting scene followed and the meeting was in an uproar. The friends of the mover of the resolution denounced the Prince of Wales in unmeasured terms. The chairman finally left his seat and quitted the hall, and the meeting broke up, disorder continuing to the end.

Johns Hopkins Will Lose Todd.

BALTIMORE, June 13.—Dr. Henry A. Todd, associate in the Romance languages at Johns Hopkins University, has accepted a professorship of Romance languages in the Leland Stanford University of California.

TWO MILLION GONE

Another Startling Discovery in Bardsley's Stealings.

THE SCHOOL FUND TAKEN.

It Was Paid to Him by Pennsylvania's State Treasurer.

Testimony Brought Out Against United State Officials—Assistant Bank Examiner Jones' Statement Creates a Sensation—H. H. Yard Arrested at Trenton for Complicity in the Bank Swindle.

PHILADELPHIA, June 13.—There was some very startling evidence produced before the Bardsley investigating committee during the day, and prominent United States officials' names were brought into the case in a manner entirely unexpected to the majority of the committee.

Assistant Bank Examiner Jones, who is very close to Bank Examiner Drew, and gave the committee information regarding Comptroller of Currency Lacey's knowledge of the affairs of the Keystone National Bank that has hitherto been kept carefully guarded. This was that on the 18th day of last February Comptroller Lacey was in this city and personally visited the Keystone Bank building and was shown the books and given a full insight into its condition as known at that time by Bank Examiner Drew.

Another Sensation.

Another sensation was the statement made by General Louis Wagner, the ex-Director of Public Works. This statement connected the name of Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Nettleton with the attempt to make Nelson F. Evans, director of the Spring Garden National Bank, receiver of the broken Keystone Bank.

Assistant Examiner Jones when called to the stand explained at some length, in answer to questions, the methods of examining national banks, and told when and how the Keystone had been examined. The discrepency in the ledger of the Keystone was first discovered by him on January 9, 1891, but not by any information furnished by Examiner Drew.

Comptroller Lacey Brought In.

After the committee had asked all the questions they wished, Assistant Bank Examiner Jones said: "There is another thing which I wish to state. Upon the 18th day of February Comptroller Lacey was in this city. There was a reception held at the Hotel Lafayette which he attended. After it was over Bank Examiner Drew brought Comptroller Lacey over to the Keystone Bank and I showed him the books and explained to him the condition of affairs as we then knew them to exist. I explained the padding of the New York Banking Exchange accounts, and informed him of the due bills which had been found. The difference found in the ledger and the stock accounts, for which the Lucas estate was held responsible at that time, was explained to him.

"Comptroller Lacey understood all about the Lucas defalcation, which at that time was understood to be $800,000. Then the assets were considered, and Comptroller Lacey called the Sea Girt and Spring Lake property worth $700,000 instead of $500,000."

This statement of Mr. Jones caused a great sensation, as Comptroller Lacey's visit to the bank had been kept a close secret, and Bank Examiner Drew has never, under the severe cross-examination he has been subjected to, allowed himself to give the slightest intimation of it.

Mr. Jones also stated that as an expert he did not believe it was possible to tell by the books of the Keystone Bank how much of the deficit in the Keystone Bank occurred before John C. Lucas' death and how much had occurred since.

SPECULATOR YARD CAUGHT.

He Was Going Under an Assumed Name in Trenton.

TRENTON, N. J., June 13.—H. H. Yard, a speculator, who has been wanted in Philadelphia to explain the relations of City Treasurer Bardsley to the looted Keystone Bank of Philadelphia, was arrested here last night.

He is charged with conspiring to defraud the city of Philadelphia out of $200,000. District Attorney Graham and City Solicitor Warwick came here early to give testimony, but Yard waived a hearing and the bail was fixed at $10,000 pending the arrival of a requisition from the Governor of Pennsylvania. Yard has been released on bail. He formerly resided in this city and has many friends here.

Yard registered at a hotel here under the name of Herbert. This shows that he expected to be arrested and was endeavoring to avoid it.

GOV. PATTISON WINS.

The Supreme Court Decides in Favor of Wright for City Treasurer.

PHILADELPHIA, June 13.—The Supreme Court of Pennsylvania has handed down a decision that W. Redwood Wright is the proper appointee to succeed Bardsley as City Treasurer. Richard G. Oellers is ousted from the office.

Oellers was elected by Councils and the County Commissioners, while Wright was Governor Pattison's appointee.

The point of the decision is that the office of Treasurer is held to be a county office and the right of appointment is vested in the Governor.

The justices were divided, four to three.

Omnibus Strikers Return to Work.

LONDON, June 13.—The settlement of the omnibus strike is the cause of very general satisfaction. A meeting of delegates, representing the striking drivers and conductors of all the omnibus yards in the city, was held during the day, at which it was resolved to accept the offer of the masters to concede a twelve-hour day with a slight increase of wages. The men will, by the terms of the agreement arrived at, resume work at once.

Test it Yourself.

Test it for Purity. Cleveland's Baking Powder is perfectly pure. The same claim is made for powders adulterated with ammonia and alum, but you can settle the question yourself. "Boil a teaspoonful of the baking powder in a teaspoonful of water; if adulterated the smell of ammonia can be detected in the steam."

Test it for Strength. Cleveland's Baking Powder is the strongest. It is the most effective and economical. Try it. A teaspoonful of Cleveland's will do more and better work than a heaping teaspoonful of other powders.

Test it by Results. Food made with Cleveland's keeps moist and fresh for days, but if made with others soon dries out and becomes "husky." Cleveland's leavens evenly, making fine grained, delicately fibred breads and cakes, results produced by no other leavening agent.

Cleveland's Baking Powder Stands all Tests.

A NEW LINE OF WORK.

The Position of Railway Postal Clerk Sought by a Woman.

WASHINGTON, June 13.—The following letter has been received at the Postoffice Department from a school teacher in one of the Middle States:

"In all the vocations of life during past time woman was considered inferior to man, but now she proves herself equally to and in many cases superior to him. The place woman is taking in this country increases daily. I have a desire to make a start for her in a new direction and get a position for which she is as well adapted as the sterner sex. I refer to the position of postal clerk.

"I understand there is a mere possibility of one of the clerks on the R. P. O. being promoted, which will cause a vacancy. I am perfectly capable of taking that position, and wish to be considered as applicant for same. I am a graduate of a high school in Ohio and a Normal in this State. I am perfectly healthy and can well stand the trials of the position. I weigh 145 pounds and am quite strong, being an old school teacher, and plenty able to handle all mail sacks."

The Elliott Murder Trial.

COLUMBUS, O., June 13.—Blanche Wilson, the young woman over whose shoulder and from behind whom W. J. Elliott is alleged to have fired the shots at Osborn, was put on the stand in the murder trial to tell the story of her thrilling experience. She corroborated the statement of former witnesses as to her position at the time and said the defendant shot over her shoulder into the crowd. Two hackmen testified that Elliott fired the first shot.

WILLIAM BLANEY HANGED.

He Murdered His Grandmother and Aunt, and Once Escaped from Jail.

BALTIMORE, Md., June 13.—At 10:15 a. m. the drop fell and William Blaney, the double murderer, who on the night of May 2, 1890, killed his aged grandmother and aunt with an axe at their home, 1035 Greenmount avenue, expiated his crime on the gallows in the yard of the Baltimore city jail.

Blaney died with calmness and nerve, professing penitence and confidence in the efficacy of the Roman Catholic faith which he adopted, to secure his peace with heaven.

Blaney's tragic end was the legitimate outcome of a life of wickedness, indolence and ignorance. The crime for which he was hanged was one of the most brutal and inhuman ever committed in this city.

The victims were his aged grandmother and his aunt, both of whom had always loved him and often aided and befriended him. The weapon used was a small axe. With it he literally pounded their heads to a jelly. He was detected by them while robbing their house and then committed the crime.

Blaney was convicted on Oct. 24, and on April 16, a few days after the death warrant had been signed and the day of execution appointed by the Governor, the city rang with the news that Blaney had escaped from jail. This he had accomplished by prying apart an iron window bar. He was recaptured the following day and the death watch was immediately placed over him.

THREE MEN KILLED.

A Coal Train Dashes Down a Mountain Side.

ALTOONA, Pa., June 13.—While coming down the mountain from Lloydsville to Bellwood on the Pennsylvania & Northwestern Railroad at midnight, a heavy coal train got beyond the control of the trainmen, and dashing down the grade at a fearful rate of speed, was piled up and smashed into kindling wood at a curve on the side of a deep ravine about three miles North of Bellwood.

The engine and twenty-five cars which had been loaded with coal lay piled up in a mass of broken wood and twisted iron at the bottom of the ravine, and among the debris were the bodies of the conductor, engineer and one brakeman, with almost all semblance to humanity crushed out of them.

The other train hands escaped with their lives, but all were more or less injured.

The accident is supposed to have been caused by wet rails and the air brake refusing to work properly.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

The farmers at Pottstown, Pa., are excited about the existence of glanders among their horses.

George Gardiner's wrapping paper and carpet lining manufactory at Millis, Mass., was burned during the day. Loss $10,000.

The trouble expected on the ore docks at Cleveland has been obviated for the time being at least. The strikers and employers have appointed committees to try and effect a settlement of the troubles.

Shortville, N. Y., citizens are excited over the assault on Editor Perry of the Enterprise of that town by Parker Hickey. The editor is at his home in a very critical condition. Hickey has not been arrested.

The men laying the tracks of the Merrimac Street Railway at Lawrence, Mass., struck for a reduction of the day's work to nine hours. The men now work ten hours. Trouble is feared, and a force of police are on hand.

Frank McKigney, a convict in the State Prison at Sing Sing, N. Y., attempted to escape by jumping into the river while the convicts were emptying their buckets near the guard house. He was captured by a keeper in a boat.

The rumor that Governor Bulkeley of Connecticut will resign and allow Lieutenant-Governor Merrin, the Republican candidate for Governor in last November's election to assume the duties of Governor, is denied by the Governor.

The Biggest Century Run Ever Held.

Four hundred and fifty wheelmen took breakfast in Plainfield this morning, and went on their way towards Philadelphia. They were the participants in the great century run from Newark. They made their first halt at Hotel Netherwood, and had their photograph taken. At the Plainfield Bicycle Club-house they regaled themselves on delicious sandwiches and milk. The reception the Plainfield boys gave them was very cordial and hearty. All the wheelmen were in the best of spirits, and were having a most jolly time of it. The number who turned out was larger than on any previous run. There were five ladies, two of whom turned back with their escorts after seeing the run start off on the road again from Plainfield. Capt. Frank L. C. Martin conducted the run from Netherwood to Trenton. Across Park avenue in front of his store he had a huge sign stretched, "Welcome, Century!" Cheers were given as the men passed under it.

Contractor Brewer Missing.

Bert J. Brewer, a contractor and builder living on High street, Somerville, has been unaccountably absent since last Monday night, and it is thought by his friends that he has gone to stay. He left his wife and two children. Mr. Brewer told his wife Monday night that he was going to Elizabeth, and that is the last she has seen of him. Several of his creditors have been to the place and endeavored to get possession of his property. Ballentine & VanFleet, the carriage builders, had recently sold him a surrey, but they had a chattel mortgage on it and took it away. Grocer J. W. Brokaw has a bill of $200 against Brewer, and attached his property. Mr. Brewer's father-in-law, James P. Major, is said to be a loser. William Bergen, a brother-in-law, is also one of the creditors.

Music was furnished by Wm. Chamberlin of Plainfield, banjo, Henry Chamberlin of Raritan, harmonica, and Mr. Hoehn, accordian. The reports of the secretary and treasurer, read by Mrs. V. Utzinger, proved that the society is in the best condition and very successful in its endeavors. After the entertainment refreshments were served.

The grounds about the proposed depot will be laid out in lawns and flower beds. All there is to the place now is a few newly-made streets, an avenue laid out in flower beds, and a pond adorned with a rustic summer-house and bridge. New houses are to be built, and three trains are to stop each day.

The Combatants.

The batting order of to-day's game as given below, is taken from a Somerville paper. The management here has n't even enterprise enough to let the people know who is going to play. No wonder interest is dying out in spite of what THE PRESS can do:

Last night the Westfields came here and bowled on the Elkwood alleys. The result was the same. Each team won one game, and the grand total was in Plainfield's favor—1,590 to 1,570. The bowling was remarkably good—the lowest score being 773.

Plainfield's Leaders Will Be There.

One of the cheapest and most enjoyable trips, combining pleasure and profit, and within the reach of most young men, is to be found in the one now being formed to go to Northfield this summer. This beautiful New England village is situated on the Connecticut River, at the intersection of the three States, Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Vermont, and is the home of evangelist Dwight L. Moody, Ira D. Sankey, Geo. H. Pentecost and other noted men. Every year, at Mr. Moody's invitation, college and other young men from all parts of the World assemble, and some of the most eloquent and learned men of this country and Europe are invited to address them. So popular have these conferences become, that last year 600 delegates were present, and more are expected this year.

Besides the great intellectual treat in store for those who go this year, special arrangements have been made to give prominence to the athletic department. This will be in charge of the famous ex-pitcher of the Yale College base-ball club, A. A. Stagg. So those who are fond of sports will have a rich treat.

The young men of Plainfield who are contemplating taking the trip to this World's Conference, will find the following information of use to them. The conference begins June 27 and ends July 8. $15.82 will cover boat and railroad fare for the round trip from New York, and all necessary expenses during the entire conference, including meals, share of tent, and registration fee.

The fine wall tents, 10 by 12 feet in size, will be provided with a fly and floor, giving protection against dampness from above or beneath. The tent will contain four fine canvas cots, with head rests, together with conveniences, including sheets, pillow cases, towels, etc. Special preparations are being made for a large delegation from Plainfield this year. Last summer two tents were fully occupied, but it is expected that even more will be required to accommodate those who will wish to go this season.

Among those who contemplate taking this enjoyable trip this summer are Wm. D. Murray, President of the Young Men's Christian Association, and its General Secretary, John H. Manning, also Charles B. Brown, of 19 Craig place. All of these gentlemen have been there before, and can testify of the great pleasure and profit received from having been there. They will be glad to furnish any information additional to the above to young men desirous of joining this year's party.

Stuck to His Post in Face of Peril.

Stephen Wenner, one of the oldest engineers on the Jersey Central Railroad, was nearly killed yesterday between Claremont and Communipaw by the connecting-rod of his locomotive breaking and tearing away the bottom of his cab. The train was running fast at the time. Engineer Wenner was severely hurt about the legs, but he stuck to his post and stopped his train, which was filled with passengers. A collection was taken up on the ferry-boat by the passengers, and a handsome sum realized for the brave man, who later in the day was removed to his home. The fireman was slightly hurt by flying splinters from the cab.

Arrested at the Prison Gate.

George Ewing, a Somerset county boy, nineteen years old, was liberated from State Prison this week. He has served three terms for forgery. Sheriff Codington was notified that the young man's time was up and was in front of the prison entrance at Trenton when Ewing came out. He was rearrested to answer another charge and taken to the county jail.

The Gasoline Exploded.

The exploding of a gasoline stove at the residence of Chas. H. Westphal, 301 South Second street, Thursday afternoon, caused considerable excitement, and almost a serious fire. Fortunately, Mrs. Westphal, with the assistance of Maggie Revelles, soon got the blaze that enveloped the stove extinguished, and so prevented it from reaching the wood-work.

I SUFFERED from acute inflammation in my nose and head—for a week at a time I could not see. I used Ely's Cream Balm and in a few days I was cured. It is wonderful how quick it helped me.—Mrs. Georgie E. Judson, Hartford, Conn.

Aspiring Little Housekeepers.

The Kitchen Garden girls of the W. C. T. U., were tendered a strawberry tea and lawn party at "The Wisteria", Central avenue, yesterday afternoon, and a most pleasurable time they had. Games were enjoyed and refreshments in abundance were served on the lawn. The bright, happy faces and neat aprons of the youthful aspirants for household honors, attracted much attention, and it was a very pleasing sight as they marched in couples through Central avenue. How tempting! Something "just as good" is offered when Hires's Root Beer is called for. The reason is plain. The unprincipled dealer makes more profit on imitation goods. The wise ones insist on getting Hires's.

I did so, and am pleased to find that they are as recommended, a cure for those ailments. I therefore subscribe myself cheerfully in recommending them to any who may suffer with those complaints.

OUR sales the first week in June this year were larger than any corresponding week since we have been doing business in Plainfield.

A good shoe is like a good friend—it will not disappoint you when you call upon it for real service. You know a good friend by trying him, and that's the way you can test a shoe; but the trouble in the case of the shoe is that, when you've tried it, you must keep it, whether it's good or not. You won't complain about having to keep our shoes, because we know what they are when we sell them, and what we know we let you know before you buy. There is nothing in the market which will give you a better return for your money than our $3 00 Shoe.

JOB MALE'S DEATH-BED.

Those Who Heard His Dying Words Testify in the Will Contest.

When ex-Mayor Job Male was dying, on the evening of Jan. 29, 1891, his hand was guided by Lawyer Craig A. Marsh in signing his name to a will which disposed of about one-fourth of a million of dollars in real and personal estate. Nearly a score of his relatives joined in contesting this document because it disposed of a large amount in public and charitable bequests, and because they thought that insufficient distinction was made between near and distant relatives.

Testimony was taken yesterday before Master in Chancery Herbert W. Knight, in Newark, in order to determine whether the will should be admitted to probate, the contestants having asserted that the testator was dead when his hand signed the will.

The first witness was Dr. George W. Endicott whom Dr. Davis, the family physician, called in at the last moment. Dr. Endicott testified that he was called in at 8 o'clock the evening Mr. Male died, and that, observing that Mr. Male was very weak and sinking rapidly, he left in fifteen minutes and sought Craig Marsh, who returned with him to the house. They went to Mr. Male's bedside, and Mr. Marsh asked: "Do you know me?" Mr. Male replied: "Yes: this is Mr. Marsh." A few remarks then passed about Mr Male's illness, and then Mr. Marsh asked: "Shall I attend to the drawing of your will?" Mr. Male said: "Yes: do." He said he wanted his brother's children to share in the estate, and upon being asked if he desired to remember anybody else he said: "Yes, I wish to leave $10,000 to my half-sister, Mrs. Gleason." He said also that he wished to leave his house in Park avenue to the Plainfield Public Library, together with the three houses in College place. He was asked if he wanted Mrs. Fennell to pay rent for the house she occupied, and he answered: "No, give her a deed for it." When he was asked what the number of the house was he answered correctly. When he was asked if he desired to remember Mrs. Stout, Mr. Male answered: "No. She has enough, but I wish her to have the free use of the house in which she lives, and the house to go to her nephew." He mentioned for executors Job Male, Jr., J. W. Harrison, and George W. Fennell He was asked whether the executors should have power to sell property, and he answered. "Yes." "After a year?" was the next question, and he said. "No." "After two years?" "No." "Three years?" suggested Mr. Marsh. "No. Make it five years," said the dying man.

Mr. Marsh was taking notes, and he spent twenty or twenty-five minutes in drawing up the will, Dr. Endicott said, and then read it to the witnesses, who agreed that it was correct. It was then read to Mr. Male, who in the meantime had sunk considerably. He could not be roused, and did not have strength enough to sign the document. Lawyer Marsh took his hand and guided the pen across the paper in making the signature, while the witnesses all gathered around and watched him. Mr. Male was then asked if he recognized his signature. There was no reply. Several attempts were made to arouse him, but he did not respond. He died within half an hour after the will was signed, and meanwhile he did not regain consciousness. Dr. Endicott testified that Mr. Marsh was prompted in regard to some of the questions by other persons in the room, and that Mrs. Stout and Mrs. Fennell made suggestions to the dying man in regard to the disposal of his property. The paper was read to the witnesses a second time. Mr. Marsh told the witnesses that they could not sign the will, as it had not been acknowledged by Mr. Male. There was present at the time Mr. and Mrs. Fennell, Job Male, Jr., Dr. Thomas S. Davis, A. C. Baldwin, Mrs. Stout, Mr. John W. Harrison of Jersey City, and the witness, Dr. Endicott.

Dr. Endicott was asked by Lawyer Marsh: "Do you believe Mr. Male was of sound mind at the time the memoranda were read to him?" The doctor answered: "I do—perfectly so. He was low, but perfectly rational."

In response to questions, Dr. Endicott said that Mr. Male spoke in response to suggestions in all cases except when he said he wished his brother's children to share equally in the estate. This was voluntary. The other bequests followed suggestions made by the lawyer.

Job Male, Jr., a nephew of the testator, took the stand in the afternoon, and gave substantially the same testimony as that of Dr. Endicott. The original memoranda and the draft of the will were put in evidence. The case was adjourned until Wednesday.

The heirs were represented at the hearing to-day by ex-Chancellor Runyon, R. V. Lindabury, Charles A. Reed, Counselor Endicott of Albany, W. M. Stillman, Foster M. Voorhees, and Enos W. Runyon.

A WARNING TO PLAINFIELD.

Rahway's Base-ball Patronage Falling Away Because of Continuous Games With Stale Old Teams.

In a long letter "to the public," the board of trustees of the Rahway Athletic Association has this to say: "We are asked, Why don't you play Plainfield? We reply that we have used every honorable means to try and induce the Plainfield management to give us a game, or a series of games, believing that such game or games would create and revive a local interest in base-ball that would be lasting; this interest would, no doubt, prove beneficial from a financial point of view for both teams.

"Hearing different tales regarding the Plainfield not wanting to play in Rahway, the president, manager and several others from the board of directors traveled to Plainfield, and met in consultation the managers thereof. We were received and treated courteously, but quietly informed that Plainfield had no open dates and could not under any circumstances give Rahway a game, but we have learned that since our visit they have made dates with Westfield. Now, if Plainfield is afraid to play the Rahway team, Rahway is willing to give them two runs on the blackboard to start with. The manager has scheduled only first-class teams to play with (there are only a few to choose from), and when they come with their best team they are expensive. The Greenpoint Athletics are to play here this week with their best team; they have always given Rahway a good game, and we have no reason to expect anything different now, Plainfield, notwithstanding, who charge the Greenpoints with putting up poor ball recently at Plainfield; there may be something back of this, for we were informed by the manager of the Allertons that Plainfield had offered him twenty dollars as a guarantee to take his team there for a game, which offer he refused on the grounds that it would be impossible to play his team for such a small amount of money, for after paying car fare there would be very little left for the players, and he would not take an inferior nine out under the name of the Alertons. To sum up, do the people of Rahway want base-ball continued? if so support the team."

Joers of the Expiring Enemy.

[From Yesterday's Somerville Democrat.]

If the Crescents win, it will be because they hit Harkins, but they can't do that. John is in fighting trim.

To-morrow afternoon the echoing cry of the West End warriors will be, "come ye West Ends, swing your bats, oola-lialia."

If the Crescents win here to-morrow, there will be no living in the town. They will attempt to own the place and run things to suit themselves. Be careful, ye Plainfielders.

In Plainfield this week excitement has been intense. They do not know who we have for substitute. Some of them think we have Tommy Esterbook, but they are way off. No one will know until they see him on the field.

The wives, sisters and sweethearts of the Crescent League members are all to wear the club's colors. Let the girls who support us and are glad when we win, do likewise, let them wear just a bit of apple green and white to show to which side they belong.

To Owners of Dogs.

I desire to call attention to the ordinance allowing dogs to run at large within the borough. This ordinance makes it unlawful for owners of dogs to allow them to run at large without muzzles during the months of June, July, August, and September. All such dogs are liable to be caught, and in order to save the owners of them much trouble and expense, I ask all persons to comply with the ordinance as strictly as possible. The marshals of the borough have been requested to enforce this ordinance.

CHARLES PLACE, Mayor.

North Plainfield, N. J., June 10, 1891.

A New Stone Station for Westfield.

A New York dispatch to the Westfield Standard says: "Plans for an elegant stone station for Westfield have been given out, and bids for construction are being received by the architects from contractors. It is to be much larger than the present structure. Bergen Point is also to have a handsome new stone station."

An Old Maids' Reception at Vincent Chapel.

Next Monday evening, in Vincent chapel, the Young Ladies' Missionary Circle of the Methodist Episcopal church will give a very unique entertainment, to be called an old maids' reception. The programme will be very entertaining, and the public generally are invited. No admission fee will be charged.

—Sherwin will sell $1.50 Oxford ties at 99 cents, the sale to begin Monday morning and to end Friday night of next week.

Pure and Old.

The attention of the readers of THE PRESS is called to the advertisement of the A. R. Tudor Co. in another column. They are introducing in this city for medicinal use A. R. Tudor's Rye Whiskey, which is warranted absolutely pure and ten years old. The importance of a pure old whiskey for family and medicinal use does not need to be dwelt upon. It is pleasing to know that there is one firm in this large country which is selling a genuine whiskey at a moderate profit and that they propose to adhere to it and not follow in the footsteps of others in the trade who are captivated by the exorbitant profits that follow the sale of an adulterated article. Ask your druggist for it.

Water-Works, Sewerage Works, and a New Councilman.

At last night's adjourned meeting of the North Plainfield Borough Council the resignation of Councilman Newton B. Smalley was accepted, and Robert T. Currie, a New York broker resident on Westervelt avenue, was unanimously elected in his place.

A proposition was received from J. M. Low to furnish to North Plainfield a water-works system and sewerage system the same as he offers to Plainfield. The matter was referred to the committee on fire, water and lamps.

The most beautiful woman in New York said that she "ascribed her good health and rosy cheeks to the occasional use of a tablespoonful of pure whiskey before meals. It increased the circulation, sent a warm glow through the system, and gave her a hearty appetite." That is the experience of all who drink pure whiskey moderately. A. R. TUDOR'S Rye Whiskey is warranted absolutely pure and ten years old.

TREATMENT for CONSUMPTION.

To the PHYSICIANS of Plainfield and Vicinity.

I would respectfully announce that I am prepared to supply the Solution of Iodo-Chloride of Gold and Manganese, lately suggested by Drs. Shurly and Gibbes, for the treatment of Consumption.

Recent experiments seem to promise better results from the use of this remedy than have been attained by any of the newly proposed methods of treatment, not excepting that of Dr. Koch. Absolute purity of materials and careful manipulation are required for the successful preparation of the Solution which, after repeated trials, we have attained.

THE LATEST FADS.

WATERPROOF rouge is the latest invention for the toilet taible.

THE latest fad among equestriennes is to ride one day to the left side, the next to the right.

AMONG the recent novelties in silver goods is a match box with a compass imbedded in one side.

CANDLESTICKS for the corners of rooms are now designed in wood. They are two feet high, new and inexpensive.

AN idea from Paris that one or two New York hostesses recently introduced is that of serving a dinner at small tables, in lieu of one long one.

ONE of the latest fancies of fashion has decreed carriage lamps in the shapes of various flowers. There is the lily lamp, the rose lamp, the violet lamp, and so on, all very odd and very expensive.

THE ladies of York, Neb., have a "guess party." The ladies send the gentlemen invitations reading: "Party in our set this evening. Guess where and come there." It is needless to say the boys get around late, as they frequently visit a dozen houses before finding the right one.

A NEW fad in New York is called the hot pine bath. Those who take it lie in a tank and have the tepid extract of the pine poured upon them, and are wonderfully exhilarated by it. "Taken your pine this week?" is a common question now in the different downtown stores.

COLUMBIA COLLEGE (Mo.) girls have an Engagement and Marriage club. Every time one of them has a gentleman escort to whom she is not engaged she pays twenty-five cents into the treasury. When a member becomes engaged she pays in five dollars. When a member gets married the club presents her with one hundred dollars.

A MUSICAL MELANGE.

DR. HANS VON BULOW has decided to give up public piano recitals.

SARASATE, the violinist, has pocketed twenty-five thousand dollars as the net profit of a two months' tour in England.

RUBINSTEIN says that fifty per cent. of the Germans understand music, sixteen per cent. of the French, and two per cent. of the English.

MISS SANDERSON, an American singer, received the gold medal of the Danebrog order from the king of Denmark after her first appearance in Copenhagen.

MR. JOHN W. HUTCHINSON, of the family of singers once so well known, recently held a reception on the occasion of his seventieth birthday at Lynn, Mass.

AMONG some music lately published is a Spanish dance by an Italian composer, with a French title page engraved and printed in Germany and published in London, with a Boston imprint added.

FRANCHETTI, the composer of the opera Asrael, has become insane, and has been placed in a private asylum. He is closely related to the wealthy house of Rothschild, and has been living in Dresden, near which city he is now confined.

THE late Harvey B. Dodsworth, the well-known New York bandmaster, furnished the music at presidential inaugurations for the last thirty years. During the war, free of charge for his own services, he furnished the armies of the north no less than fifty bandmasters and five hundred musicians.

NAMES NOT MENTIONED.

A CITIZEN of Banta, Ind., has a clock made entirely of wood, which has been an excellent timekeeper for sixty years.

THE Athens (Ga.) bar is made out of young men. One of the practitioners is under twenty-one, while six are under twenty-five and thirteen are under thirty.

A CELEBRATED German restaurateur, in bankruptcy proceedings, has confessed that for years he has served horse and asses' meat to his customers for venison.

THERE are twenty-three ancient widows now drawing pensions from the government because their husbands were soldiers in the revolutionary war. Three of them are 98 years old and the youngest 73.

SOME of the Alaskan natives acquire very respectable fortunes in the fishing trade. A Nicholas Bay Indian has been known to pay down one thousand dollars in hard cash for blankets and trinkets for one potlach.

A GOOD-NATURED colored lady, whose memory was a little hazy, died the other day near Columbus, Mo., of old age. It was her boast that "she was so old she couldn't zactly 'member; but she was between ninety and one hundred and thirty-four."

A YOUNG man with small feet was the last person to leave a friend's house after a social entertainment in Lewiston, Me. The only pair of rubbers that he could find proved to be badly matched —a No. 6 and a No. 11½. He wore the small one, and the other still awaits a claimant.

PITHY POINTS.

WHEN a rumor is in the air of course it has no foundation.

WEB LUNG is going to try Dr. Koch's lymph on his name.—N. Y. World.

THE bill poster knows his place, and there he sticks.—Yonkers Statesman.

EVERY one who goes up the Pike's peak railway travels in cog.—St. Joseph News.

"I've gone through a great deal," remarked the saw as it emerged from the log.—Jester.

A GREEDY man should wear a plaid vest, so as to keep a check on his stomach.—Ledger.

THE meat of a volume is generally found on the table of contents.—Binghamton Republican.

A SAILOR home from a long cruise couldn't sleep in the house, for it made him feel more at home to "lay out on the yard."

"THE Decline and Fall of Roam" is the title of the book which the great American tramp intends to write.—Indianapolis Journal.

QUEER TRAITS OF ANIMALS.

A DOG in Chester, Pa., will never walk when there is a chance to jump on a street car and ride.

THE rabbit cannot climb the outside of a tree, but he can climb up the inside of a hollow tree, provided the hollow is not too great in diameter. The thing is done by "humping" his back, and with his back against one side and his feet on the other side he works his way up.

AT Columbus, O., the other night a lady caught a rat making off with her gold watch and chain, which she had left upon a dresser on retiring. The rodent had dragged his prize nearly twenty feet, and in a minute more would have disappeared in his hole with it.

LEWIS MOUNTAIN, a lad of eleven years, at Monson, Me., has a dog team with which he recently drove from his home to that of his grandfather in Milo, a distance of thirty miles, in seven hours. The trip was made just after a snowstorm, when the roads were in very bad condition.

A HORSE that chews tobacco is owned by George Olmstead, of Shelton, Conn. The animal learned to chew years ago, in Danbury, when a man named Franklin Pierce was his driver. Whenever Pierce took a chew in the presence of the horse, he gave the animal some, and it has since become a habit with the latter, and evidently gives it great satisfaction.

GOOD WOMEN FOR LAZY MEN.

BY actual count 150 young women have taken up timber claims in western Washington during the past six months.

THERE are now 200 regularly ordained women preachers in the United States, where forty years ago there was only one.

ONE woman in Monroe, Me., has made in ten months time 1,876 vests, receiving therefor $210, beside doing the housework for herself and husband, and taking care of the milk of one cow.

GERTRUDE LINDEN is the poetic name of a young woman who makes a good living for herself and two children sweeping and dusting the private apartments of housekeepers and bachelors.

IN Austria women are employed to carry the mortar and brick to the builders. They work from seven o'clock in the morning till six o'clock at night with one hour at noon, and receive twenty cents a day. Most of these female hod-carriers are unmarried and homeless.

MRS. E. A. FLAGG, of West Hartford, Conn., shows a business tact that is surpassed by but few men. In addition to managing the grist mill and its large business, she has started an ice enterprise. A house, 62x32 feet and 22 feet high, has been built and filled with 2,000 tons of ice, which she proposes to sell the coming summer.

CURIOUS ADS AND SIGNS.

AN Italian prince advertises in a newspaper at Nice for an American heiress.

IN some foreign cities there are men hired to attract a crowd to their employers' windows by staring and gazing into them.

Ontario Center, N. Y. May 7, 1890.

E. C. Medicine Co., Rochester, N. Y.:

For seven or eight years my wife has been troubled with some kind of kidney trouble. She tried many different remedies but all in vain. She continued to grow worse. I have recommended it to many and it has benefitted in every case heard from.

MR. LACEY EXPLAINS

The Comptroller Talks About Philadelphia's Banks.

HE DEFENDS MR. WANAMAKER.

Examiner Drew's Reports Were Not Explicit Enough.

Why He Delayed in Appointing a Receiver—How Lucas and Marsh Manipulated the Accounts—Drew to Be Investigated—Bardsley Will Probably Make a Confession When About to Be Sentenced.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—The statement prepared by Comptroller Lacey and sent to Mayor Stuart, of Philadelphia, on the course pursued by him with the Keystone Bank of that city, has just been made public here. The statement includes the letter of Bank Examiner Drew, of Jan. 24, notifying him of the $600,000 defalcation of Lucas, the late president of the bank.

In this letter Mr. Drew explains how by adroit manipulation of the accounts of the bank, Lucas, with the assistance of Marsh, the former president of the bank, abstracted large sums of money from the bank to use in real estate speculation. Marsh, he reported, was ignorantly led into these transactions.

Accompanying this letter was a preliminary statement of the bank's condition which left a capital stock of half a million intact and a net surplus of $55,819. Later on, January 27, Mr. Drew in an interview with the Comptroller, stated that the property conveyed to the bank by the Lucas estate, was equal in value to the indebtedness which had been concealed. Mr. Lacey says he did not close the bank then for the reason that he had no lawful authority to do so upon the facts submitted.

In answer to criticisms for delay in appointing a receiver, Mr. Lacey says it was not made immediately because it was the duty of the Comptroller to facilitate the resumption of business by the bank. The Comptroller states that Postmaster-General Wanamaker never directly or indirectly suggested or solicited one day's delay in the closing of the bank nor in the appointment of a receiver, except as appears by the following telegram:

"FROM POSTOFFICE DEPARTMENT.
"Hon. Edward S. Lacey, Comptroller.
"Mr. Marsh, of the Keystone Bank, came down last night to say that it was reported you intend to appoint a receiver of the Keystone Bank unless something more definite was done to-day. I believe nothing would suffer from giving them 24 hours longer, at the end of which they may put on paper something more definite to be presented to you. From what he says they are getting along pretty well in securing subscriptions to the new stock. I would recommend the appointment of a receiver be deferred, say one day, until he had an opportunity to state something more definite.
"JOHN WANAMAKER."

In concluding the statement Mr. Lacey says:

"I deem it my duty to say that, in my opinion, the several reports made by the bank examiner did not reflect the true condition of the bank. The degree of blame, if any, which properly attaches to Mr. Drew, is yet to be ascertained.

"He has recently been so fully employed, by reason of the failure of the Spring Garden and Keystone National Banks, that it has as yet been impracticable to give the matter the consideration its importance demands. In the meantime, however, he has been directed to suspend examinations until the facts are submitted and a conclusion reached."

BARDSLEY WILL CONFESS.

He Says He Will Disclose All His Transactions With Public Funds.

PHILADELPHIA, June 15.—To a friend who visited him in prison John Bardsley said he proposed to make a full and complete statement of his dealings with public funds when he appears in court this week. His defalcations now foot up $1,375,000. Of this the State loses $821,000 and the city $554,000. In addition to this Bardsley has managed to cover up or lose $260,000, which he made since he became treasurer, making a grand total of $1,635,000 which he has gotten away with.

Mayor Stuart and District Attorney Graham say they propose to keep up their investigation until they find out what has become of the money, even if it takes all summer and fall. The Mayor's experts are still at work trying to trace what Bardsley did with the $450,000 of State school funds. That will prove a dead loss to the city. More than half of it was paid back to the State in settlement of licenses and taxes which Bardsley had collected and invested for his private gain.

Stage-Robber Geronimo Killed.

TUCSON, Ariz., June 15.—Deputy Sheriff Gray arrived here yesterday with the body of the notorious Mexican stage-robber, Geronimo, and Leon, his accomplice. They have been robbing stages in Southern Arizona during the past five years, and officers have been after them continually. Gray and his posse ran them down in the mountains near Panato. They made a fight, and Geronimo fired five and Leon three shots without effect. Geronimo was killed, and Leon surrendered.

Tebeau Managing the Denver Club.

DENVER, Col., June 15.—The interest in the Denver Baseball Club owned by Mr. Van Horne has been purchased by a number of prominent citizens, who organized for that purpose. Mr. Van Horne was immediately deposed from the management and Geo. Tebeau, the well known player, was chosen in his stead.

SEVERAL SUICIDES.

An Unusual Number Reported in New York and Vicinity.

NEW YORK, June 15.—There has been an unusual number of suicides and attempts at self-destruction in this city and vicinity of late. One day during the past week seven persons ended their existence at their own hands, and usually two or three cases are reported daily.

Yesterday three cases were recorded. George D. Greene, 48 years old, a veteran of the war, hanged himself in Central Park. Despondency caused by poverty is the supposed cause.

The second case reported was that of a young woman, Alice Griffin, who jumped from the fifth story of a tenement house, receiving fatal injuries. She was insane.

The third case occurred in Brooklyn, where an aged German tailor, Peter Schwartz, took a quantity of paris green. He had become tired of constant bickerings with his wife, and determined to end his life. The poison wasn't immediately effective, but the doctors say he will die.

TWO BIG SPORTING EVENTS.

The Suburban and Slavin-Kilrain Fight To-morrow.

NEW YORK, June 15.—At the uptown hotels crowds of sporting men discussed the two great sporting events set down for to-morrow—the Suburban and the Slavin-Kilrain fight.

Dick Roche, President of the Granite Club, stated to a reporter that the fight would be declared a draw if one pugilist or the other was not knocked out. Jere Dunn, who is to be the referee of the contest, said that he would declare that man the winner who, in his judgment, had the better of the contest if both men lasted ten rounds.

It was rumored in Jersey City that the authorities would stop the fight if any tickets were sold in New Jersey. The club officials will sell no tickets in that State, however, and the chances are that there will be no interference.

The sports are betting even money that Slavin will not stop Kilrain. The largest bet reported was made by Phil Lynch, who bet $400 that the Baltimorean would be on his feet at the end of the 10th round. Kilrain is expected here to-night.

STRIKERS ARMED.

They Say that No One Shall Take Their Places in The Mines.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., June 15.—The situation at the Mill Creek Mine is unchanged. Armed Poles and Huns are still on guard. To-day the strikers received more firearms. No one is allowed to get near the mine. The company officials would call on the sheriff for help, but they are afraid if they do this the strikers would become still more desperate and destroy property.

The strikers say they will harm no one, providing no attempt is made by outsiders to take their places. The company will try and compromise matters with them to-morrow.

Suicide in a Hotel.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., June 16.—Eugene Steyr, aged about 30, of New York, committed suicide at the West End Hotel last night by turning on the gas in his room. His body was found to-day. A letter in a memorandum book requests that the body be sent to Dr. Schweiz, of 26 East 20th street, New York city, for scientific purposes. A long, rambling letter was also in the book, which stated that he intended to commit suicide at the Garden Theatre. Steyr arrived at the hotel Saturday night.

The World's Student Conference.

EAST NORTHFIELD, Mass., June 15.—The World's Student Conference, held here annually at the invitation of Mr. D. L. Moody, will begin on June 27 and close July 8. The attendance promises to be larger and more representative than ever. The European universities will send fifteen delegates, while the universities of this country will each have a large representation.

Dickinson College Commencement.

CARLISLE, Pa., June 15.—The annual commencement at Dickinson College opened yesterday with the delivery of the baccalaureate sermon by President Reed. The services last evening were in charge of the college Y. M. C. A., and Rev. Dr. Merritt Hubbard, of Philadelphia, delivered the sermon.

Factories Closed for Want of Water.

BIRMINGHAM, Conn., June 15.—The drought is intense along the Naugatuck Valley. Factories are closed in many places for want of water, and hundreds of men are out of employment. In the Housatanic Valley there is an abundance of water. The Housatonic Water Company commence to-day to rebuild the dam

A Life-Saver's Body Recovered.

ERIE, Pa., June 15.—The body of Capt. William Clarke, the keeper of the life-saving station, who was lost in the surf while assisting the Badger State, was found yesterday. It is believed that the body was robbed.

Prince Bismarck Sick.

BERLIN, June 15.—Prince Bismarck is suffering from lumbago.

SIXTY WERE KILLED

A Bridge Falls With a Train in Switzerland.

RESCUERS RUSH TO THE SCENE.

All the Trainmen and Passengers in the Submerged Cars Drowned.

Not Less Than One Hundred Persons Injured—The Excursionists Were on Their Way to a Musical Fete—Several of the Cars Saved by the Breaking of a Coupling.

BERLIN, June 15.—A fearful accident is reported from Switzerland. A railway bridge across the Moenchen, a small affluent of the Rhine, at Stein, in the canton of Bassel, not far from Germany, gave way yesterday under the weight of an excursion train crowded with throngs of people who were on their way to a musical fete.

Two engines and the first car, with all its passengers, first plunged into the river, while cars remained suspended over the stream.

All the trainmen were killed, and every passenger in the submerged car was drowned. Thirteen cars were saved.

The number of killed was at least 60, and of those injured not less than 100.

The fearful calamity has caused a terrible shock in Switzerland and Southern Germany. Rescuers hastened to the scene, and the injured were taken care of.

SWALLOWED UP A FARM.

A Subterranean River Absorbs Mr. Miller's Real Estate.

SEDALIA, Mo., June 15.—The farm of John H. Miller, who lives 18 miles southeast of here, is slowly being swallowed up in what seems to be a river flowing beneath the surface of the earth. The phenomenon was first observed last Saturday, when Mr. Miller's family heard a rumbling noise in the orchard. Investigation revealed a hole in the ground about six feet in diameter and several feet deep, with water at the bottom. The cavity is now nearly circular in form, 16 feet in diameter at the top and tapering to 10 feet at the water line, which is 26 feet from the surface.

The water is 25 feet deep and seems to be a flowing river, as sticks thrown into it are carried rapidly away by the current. The water is in the prairie land, not near any spring or body of water. The cavity is gradually enlarging, and, as Mr. Miller's residence is only 60 feet distant, he is greatly alarmed for the safety of his home and family.

Rudyard Kipling's Illness.

NEW YORK, June 15.—Reports published yesterday of the serious illness of Rudyard Kipling are directly at variance with recent trustworthy advices from his family. The last letter which the late Henry J. McDonald, the well-known financial writer, received from his relatives in England, came to hand on Wednesday last, and was from his sister, the mother of Kipling. It bore date of June 3, and in it she wrote, as if it were a matter of no special anxiety: "Rudyard is poorly. He has worked too hard and is exhausted nervously. I shall run down to Brighton with him for a few days." This does not indicate, as the dispatch from Pittsburg printed yesterday did, that Kipling is dying of consumption in Italy.

The Government's Fair Building.

WASHINGTON June 15.—The estimates, elevation and ground plan for the government building at the World's Columbian exposition have been submitted to and formally approved by the Secretary of the Treasury, the Postmaster-General and the Secretary of the Interior, these officials being required by law to pass upon the plans of all buildings constructed for the use of the government. This is the last legal formality to be complied with previous to the advertisement for bids and the letting of the contracts for construction.

Bishop Knight's Will.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., June 15.—The will of the late Bishop Knight which has been made public, disposes of an estate valued at $100,000. The entire property goes to his wife. It includes cottages and grounds at Saybrook, Conn, a home in Lancaster, Pa., an orange grove in Florida, together with $20,000 in life insurance. Mrs. Knight will continue to reside in Milwaukee. The fact that the bishop was possessed of any amount of property will be a surprise to his friends, as the diocese did not pay an extravagant salary, and he was exceedingly generous to charitable and educational institutions under his direction.

Crops Damaged by Insects.

READING, Pa., June 15.—The wheat fields in many parts of Berks, Montgomery and Chester counties are suffering severely from the ravages of "wheat flies" which have made their appearance by the million. Potato farmers hereabouts are very much frightened by an unusual visitation of potato bugs.

BIG ABATTOIR BURNED.

Two Thousand Carcasses of Beef Entirely Consumed.

PHILADELPHIA, June 15.—The main building of the abattoir, west side of the Schuylkill River, opposite Arch street, was completely destroyed by fire early in the morning, and at 3 o'clock the surrounding buildings had ignited, the firemen devoting their attention to these and abandoning the main structure to its fate.

The origin of the fire is somewhat of a mystery. Some say it started in the engine house, while others place it at other points.

Three alarms were sent in, and soon nearly all the engines in the city were at the scene of the conflagration. There were several explosions from the ammonia condensers, used in the refrigerating building, which keep the temperature below the freezing point the year around. In this store room were 2,000 carcasses of beef, which were entirely consumed.

Charles Hoecke, a curiosity seeker, was hit on the head with a flying timber and received injuries from which he will probably die.

It is understood that the total loss, including machinery, building, sheds, refrigerating apparatus and dressed beef, amounts to nearly $500,000.

The fire was got under control about 4 o'clock. The buildings are said to be fully insured.

HAUNTED BY HIS CRIME.

Thirty Years of Remorse Drove a Murderer to Suicide.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., June 15.—A remarkable story of remorse comes to light in the suicide of Jesse Devore, an old man nearly 90 years old, who lived in the country several miles from the town of Bridgeport.

Forty years ago Devore murdered a negro, and for the past 30 years he has been at times tormented in imagination with gangs of negroes who pursued him to kill him for his crime. About 20 years ago he shot himself through the head in order to rid himself of haunting memories, but recovered. A year or two later he stood on the bank of a stream and struck himself on the head with a stone, knocking himself unconscious into the stream, where he would have drowned but for a passer-by who dragged him out more dead than alive.

Devore made several other unsuccessful attempts at suicide. Finally, on Thursday last, he went to the house of a neighbor named Bumgardner, where he put up for the night. After all the family had retired, he got up, secured a rope, and hanged himself.

BURNED TO DEATH.

Three Members of One Family Caught in a Tenement House Fire.

NEW YORK, June 15.—Three persons, members of one family, were burned to death yesterday in a tenement house fire on upper Third avenue.

Those who lost their lives are: Philip Brady, aged 55; Catherine Brady, his wife, aged 40, and their 18-year-old son, Philip Brady, Jr.

The fire broke out at 5 o'clock in the morning and caught the tenants asleep. The Brady family lived on the fifth floor, and from the positions in which their bodies were found, it was evident that they were not awakened until the fire had them surrounded. Their bodies were burned almost beyond recognition.

Many others of the tenants had narrow escapes. The pecuniary loss to the building and tenants is about $12,000.

The Wheat Sprouted in His Head.

SALEM, Pa., June 15.—Thos. Stretch, the 5-year-old son of miller Reeve A. Stretch of Lower Alloway, Creek Township, was quite seriously injured on May 18 by being caught in a belt at the mill, and would have been killed but for the promptness of his father in stopping the machinery. He has now almost recovered from the effects of the accident, but a few days ago a dark spot was noticed over his eye. It was carefully opened with a lance, and was found to be a grain of wheat which was sprouted. The grain was probably forced under the skin when his head struck a bin while he was being whirled around the shaft.

Canada's New Ministry.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 15.—Senator Abbott, who was called upon by Lord Stanley to form a cabinet, being asked as to the composition of the new Ministry, said he thought it would only be proper that the House of Commons should be first taken into his confidence. The names of the members of the Government will therefore be made known when the House meets to-morrow. Mr. Abbott's selection is a great disappointment to the Chapleau wing. The ex-Secretary of State had a conference yesterday with Mr. Abbott and then left for Montreal.

A Big Woollen Firm in Trouble.

PHILADELPHIA, June 15.—The large woollen manufacturing firm of Seville, Schofield, Son & Co., of Manyunk, which employs 2,000 hands, is in financial difficulty. Its liabilities will probably reach $800,000. Among the largest creditors are Coats Bros., $85,000, and Chas. Webb, $35,000. The mill property is worth from $500,000 to $1,000,000. It now seems probable that John Dobson, Mr. Schofield's son-in-law, will be made the assignee if an assignment becomes necessary.

1,000 Men Strike.

CHICAGO, June 15.—Over 1,000 men engaged in the architectural iron trade and its branches, including the metal workers and pattern makers, went on strike to-day for 8 hours work per day at the rate of 30 and 35 cents per hour. This decision was arrived at a meeting held Saturday night.

Has an Offer from Philadelphia.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., June 15.—Pitcher Tim Spaulding, of the Williams College nine, has received an offer to play with the Philadelphia League team, beginning immediately after commencement. He will probably accept.

CLOSE CALL AT SEA

The Steamship City of Richmond's Cargo in Flames.

ASSISTANCE QUICKLY ON HAND.

During the Excitement a Captain of the Vessel Drops Dead.

The Burning Steamer Escorted to Queenstown by the Servia—All the Passengers Safely Landed—Ministers Don't Dance the Prince of Wales—Parnell's Marriage Announced for Next Week.

QUEENSTOWN, June 15.—The steamer Servia, from New York, has just arrived with news of a serious accident to the steamer City of Richmond.

At midnight on Thursday the Servia sighted the City of Richmond flying signals of distress. On making inquiries, the Servia learned that the cargo of the City of Richmond was on fire. The Servia steamed slowly alongside the City of Richmond until Browhead was sighted.

The fire had been discovered at midnight Tuesday, when a cabin passenger noticed that the floor of his stateroom was hot. He at once gave an alarm, and the crew was promptly aroused. On examination smoke was found to be issuing from the forehold. The smell indicated that cotton was burning. Steam and water were injected into the hold and it was supposed that the fire was quenched.

About 9 o'clock on Wednesday, on a further examination being made of the hold, three burning bales of cotton were found and taken out of the ship.

The steamship Counsellor, of New Orleans, stood by until the Servia came.

When the steamship Counsellor came alongside the City of Richmond the captain of the Counsellor dropped dead on the deck, and the chief officer took command and remained by the Richmond.

It was believed that the fire was subdued before reaching Queenstown. The City of Richmond proceeded to Liverpool.

Beyond a scare the passengers are all right.

PARNELL'S MARRIAGE.

It is Expected that the Wedding Will Take Place Next Week.

LONDON, June 15.—Intense curiosity prevails as to when Parnell proposes to marry Mrs. O'Shea. Rumors continue to circulate that he will not marry her at all; while, on the other hand, there are equally confident rumors abroad that he has married her already. Both stories are untrue.

The fact is that troublesome legal difficulties at first cropped up. When these were settled, Parnell found that the local clergymen had objections to raise also. Though these are believed to be frivolous and only dictated by political animus on the part of the clergymen, it has taken some time to have them set aside. An appeal has been sent to the Archbishop of Canterbury.

Many delays must be overcome before that appeal can be decided. It is expected, however, that the wedding will occur next week. When married, Parnell intends to live the larger part of each year at his ancestral home in the County Wicklow.

ROYALTY AND BACCARAT.

The Prince of Wales Denounced by Nonconformist Preachers.

LONDON, June 15.—The allusion to the scandalous conduct of the Prince of Wales yesterday by Nonconformist preachers left no doubt, if any was entertained, of the attitude of the dissenting clergy on the subject of royalty and baccarat.

The manner in which those allusions were received by the congregations showed with emphasis how the people who are the bone and sinew of England, feel as to the confessed violation of law by the future king.

The energy of the police in prosecuting cases of petty gambling by the poor has added strongly to the public feeling, and everywhere among the toiling masses the demand is heard that the law shall be enforced against the gamblers of Tranby Croft.

Heretofore Home Secretary Matthews has disclaimed all knowledge of the Tranby Croft affair. This he can do no longer, as the evidence in court, including the testimony of the Prince of Wales himself, has removed any ground for ignorance or denial.

Instead of being allayed, the sentiment on the subject of the scandal is growing. When it was remarked yesterday in the presence of the labor agitator, Tom Mann, that the Earl of Coventry would be removed from the office of Master of the Buckhounds, Mann asked: "If Coventry is unfit to be Master of Hounds because he is a gambler, is the Prince of Wales fit to be master of a kingdom?" This is but an illustration of the general sentiment among all below the rank of the aristocracy and among the aristocrats disquiet and disgust prevail.

Hundreds Down With the Grip.

HALIFAX, N. S., June 15.—A dispatch received here last evening says that la grippe is spreading with alarming rapidity on the Magdalena Islands. Fishing is practically suspended. During the past ten days fifty persons have died of the disease and hundreds of others are down with it. Unless an abatement of the disease comes soon starvation will have to be met by many on the islands. The sick are unable to obtain the necessary medical attendance to relieve their sufferings, and in some of the fishermen's homes the inmates have been put on short allowance of food.

Brigands Retreating.

VIENNA, June 15.—The brigands who robbed a Turkish train and seized several rich Germans, who were afterward ransomed, have been retreating toward the Black Sea. On the way they were attacked by Bulgarian gendarmes, and it is believed that the brigand chief, Anastasius, was wounded.

MERCY FOR MURDERERS.

Justice Poorly Administered to White Men in South Carolina.

COLUMBIA, S. C., June 15.—The fact that it is very difficult to find a South Carolina jury which will convict a white man of murder was again strikingly illustrated during the morning, when B. T. Jones, the famous Edgefield County "family exterminator," was found guilty of manslaughter.

Six years ago Jones brutally murdered three of his kinsmen, Edward Pressley, sr., aged 78, and his two sons, Edward and Charles. He shot and cut them to death because they were planting a piece of land concerning the title to which Jones and the Pressleys had had a dispute.

Previous to the trial just ended, Jones was tried five times for his triple crime in Edgefield County, the jury in each instance failing to agree, in spite of the fact that the evidence was overwhelmingly against him.

Jones will probably be given 20 years in the penitentiary, but declares he will poison himself before he will go there.

TROUBLE IN BERLIN.

Bread Riots Expected on Account of the Corn Duties.

BERLIN, June 15.—The agitation in Berlin over the corn duties has become so serious that the Ministry has ordered a strengthening of the garrison. There is no talk of an outbreak, but popular feeling is intense, and a bread riot is possible, as there are thousands of destitute people in the city, without the new element that is flocking in from other parts adding to the destitution and to the struggle for employment.

The police have become more vigilant in enforcing the laws against vagrancy, but the evil continues to grow, and the multitude of unemployed increases with the price of bread.

THE VEILED PROPHETS.

Their Second Annual Convocation at Hamilton, N. Y.

NEW YORK, June 15.—In the pretty village of Hamilton, Madison county, occurred the second annual convocation of the Supreme Council of the Mystic Order of Veiled Prophets of the Enchanted Realm. This is not a Masonic order, and the degree is in no sense a Masonic degree.

About 70 members were present. A dispensation was granted for the institution of a grotto at Ilion. The following supreme officers were elected: Most Potent Grand Monarch, Gen. Thomas H. James, of New York; Right Potent Deputy Grand Monarch, Leroy R. Fairchild, of Hamilton; Grand Prophet Veiled and Right Eminent Grand Chief Justice, G. H. Raymond, of New York; Eminent Grand Master of Ceremonies, G. C. Terry of St. Paul; Eminent Grand Keeper of Sagas, Prof. O. Root, of Clinton; Eminent Grand Orator, Rev. J. B. Murray, of Waverly, N. Y.; Eminent Grand Treasurer, William M. West, of Hamilton; Eminent Grand Secretary, S. D. Smith, of Hamilton.

The King's Daughters furnished the banquet. Prof. McGregory of Colgate University acted as toastmaster, and responses were made by C. E. Smith, G. W. Salisbury, of Canonovia, Messrs. Griffith and Edwards of Delhi, and a large number of others. Thus was concluded the second annual convocation of the Supreme Council of the order.

Connecticut's Political Trouble.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 15.—The Republican leaders of the State are considering a plan to get a speedy decision in the Gubernatorial contest. They will propose to the Democrats that the single question: "Has the Legislature power to go behind the returns?" be submitted to the court. If the decision is in the affirmative, then the Legislature must count the "for"; ballots and Merwin will be elected. If in the negative, then Judge Morris will be chosen.

Drowned While Bathing.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 15.—David Lacroix was drowned last evening in Scott's pond, between Sayleaville and Lonsdale, while bathing. His two cousins, E. Gilmet and Louis Francois, it is said, made no effort to save him, but started after an undertaker's wagon as soon as he sank from view. Several of Lacroix's valuables are said to be missing. An investigation of the case will be made by the police.

Fletcher's Body Found.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., June 15.—The body of missing George A. Fletcher, who was connected with the Johnson murder mystery, was found floating in the river last evening near Egg Island, where the body of Johnson was found. Later an autopsy was held over the remains, but the physicians refused to make public any discovery they may have made.

—The regular meeting of the Plainfield Building and Loan Association Directors will be held this evening, at 8 o'clock, in Jackson & Codington's office.

—From Monday morning to Friday night Sherwin sells his regular $1.50 ladies' Oxfords for 99 cents. Don't miss this chance. They are worth $1.25 wholesale by the case.

—There are five more games to be played between the ball teams of Plainfield and Somerville, but the former must win all but one of them to gain the credit of a majority of the series.

—Messrs. Vail, Emerson, Teel, Arnold, King, Haven, Stelle, Doane, Hetfield and Davis, of the Crescent League, will bowl versus the Y. M. C. A. team to-morrow evening on the Crescent alleys.

—The Ladies' Aid Society of the New Brooklyn Baptist church will hold a festival in the old flax factory, South Plainfield, Wednesday evening. There will be an abundance of ice-cream, cake, strawberries and confectionery, and music by a cornet band.

—The North Plainfield Borough Councilmen have at last become disgusted with the flickering habits and miserable quality of the gas light in their council chamber, and have ordered the gas shut off and electric light from the Edison company substituted.

—Robert P. Wilder, one of the originators of the student volunteer missionary movement, will speak at the Crescent Avenue church Wednesday evening. At 9 o'clock there will be a social meeting to which all persons who would like to meet Mr. Wilder are invited to be present.

—A horse belonging to Mr. Runyon, of Broadway, ran away on Park avenue Saturday afternoon. It turned up East Front street and ran into another wagon, breaking one of the hind wheels and also breaking one shaft of the wagon to which it was attached. It then ran up against an electric light post and got its legs curled around it, and someone ran and caught it.

—Local business men who have been criticising the action of the Plainfield banks in deciding to suspend Saturday afternoon business during the summer will indorse the following from the New Brunswick Home News: "After July 1, the banks of Plainfield will close at 1 o'clock Saturdays. This is better than closing at twelve noon on that day, but the old practice of keeping open until three o'clock was better still for the public."

—A number of Plainfield carrier pigeons that were released at the Somerville ball grounds, Saturday, flew up on the roof tops in the vicinity and sat there with tears in their eyes. They were either ashamed to go home with the news or were too heavily loaded with Somerville runs. THE PRESS birds, however, felt they had a duty to perform and brought the score to the office, up to the fifth inning. After that they, too, hid themselves and came into town after dark.

—The newly-appointed committee men of the Young Men's Christian Association met at the residence of C. T. Kissam, 208 Central avenue, Saturday afternoon and evening. The latter part of the afternoon was devoted to athletic sports and social intercourse, after which refreshments were served. After a general conference in regard to the work, the committees met to consider the special work entrusted to them. The conference was well attended and was a pronounced success.

Children's Day at Trinity.

The Trinity Reformed church departed from its usual custom yesterday, in its observance of Children's Day, and introduced new features into the celebration. A raised platform five tiers high was arranged at the front of the church. The main school marched in, and remained standing and singing while the primary department followed, and all took their seats on the platform. The singing was very nice, and the scene was very pretty. The Rev. Mr. Schenck and Superintendent Anthony made brief addresses. The exercises were very pleasing throughout. The arrangements were under the charge of Horace Martin, who deserves great credit for the success of the affair. The first attempt at a new departure was well done, and deserves repetition another year.

Hello, Rip Van Winkle! What a pity that you don't drink Root Beer made with Knapp's Root Beer Extract; it doesn't intoxicate.

WERE WE SCARED TO DEATH?

Somerville's Team Wins the First of the Series of Ball Games, in the First Inning.

It was n't the Crescent League's gilt-edged base-ball nine—the team that Plainfield is so proud of—that played against the West Ends at Somerville, Saturday afternoon. It was a field full of rag-weed. And when that rag-weed came in from the field, John Harkins's strong right arm mowed it down with ease—first clipping its yellow blossoms and then cutting it off close to the roots.

There are many men of many minds as to any one particular cause for Plainfield's deep disgrace. Judges and experts say Taylor is no good, while a base-ball connoisseur was heard to remark that the Crescents lost because Harkins was sober.

The reason of the result is just this: the West Ends made the greatest effort of their lives and put up a well nigh perfect game; while the Crescents were scared to death at the start and up to their necks in hard luck throughout the game.

The battery work of Harkins and Kennedy was phenomenal. Only once each in the second, seventh and ninth innings, did the Crescents place the ball out of reach. Kennedy's back-stop work was the feature of the game, and he made two miraculous foul-fly catches that drove the townies on the bleachers insane with admiration. The only error of the West Ends up to the ninth inning, was the muff of Lufbery's fly by Carby, the beautiful, and that he dropped because it was so superlatively simple a catch. In the ninth inning, Moorhead and Heiser each let a short hit get away from them, but only the first was a costly error. The latter player, who fills Williams's place on third, did not prove an acquisition. He did not make a hit, nor a run, nor steal a base, and struck out twice. Farrell covered his position in fine shape and accepted seven chances to the Queen's taste. Roberts played first as fine as spit-silk.

The West Ends went to the bat 40 times, were given first base on balls 9 times, made 9 hits and stole 12 bases. They trotted from base to base with impunity through no fault of Jones. Taylor's useless motions before delivering the ball, enabled the runner almost to reach second or third before the catcher received the ball. Otherwise the score would have been different, because Taylor struck out five of the West Ends in the first two innings. One of the strike-outs, however, Umpire Faas would not allow, because he said the batter was struck with the ball. This was the only exception that could be taken to his ruling during the entire game, but it was a plain case of robbing the dead. There is no rule in existence that can even be twisted to permit anything of the sort.

The less said about the Crescents' game the better. No one served with credit except McIndoe, who played first without an error, and Bonner, who had nothing to do. The latter made a fine hit, and so did Gregg. McIndoe, in the fourth inning, met a ball with such force that it would have landed in New Brunswick, but his bat broke and the end of it crossed the line between first and second base before it dropped in the grass. Harkins did n't give Mac another chance but sent him twice to first on balls. This is the score:

As to the merits of Taylor the new pitcher, it is hard to judge. The Crescents seemingly refused to support him. Hammill and Gregg, the regular pitchers of the past, made glaring errors that it is hard to believe were not purposely done. Then, although Jones tried hard to hold him, Taylor was compelled to let up on his speed whenever his catcher was behind the bat. In the five innings that Taylor pitched, he had two strikes on each of nine other men besides the six he struck out. When Jones played way back, Harkins, Kennedy, Heiser, Lindy, Roberts and Davanport, had strike after strike called on them. During the five innings pitched by Taylor there were 36 strikes called on the West Ends, while during the same five innings pitched by Harkins the Crescents had only 17 called on them.

The lack of support given Taylor and the impossibility of his pitching his game without an old and heavier catcher, kept him in the box from five to ten minutes almost every inning. The glaring sun and the strain he was under, told on him and Hammill was substituted. The latter proved himself either a traitor or a back number. The first inning he pitched the Somervilles made two hits, two bases on balls, stole second twice and third once, and netted three runs. In the whole five innings Taylor pitched there were only four hits made off him, while there were five hits off Hammill in four innings. Taylor gave only four bases on balls in the whole five innings he pitched, while Hammill gave four in the first two innings he was in the box. Taylor struck out 5; Hammill 2.

So it is very evident that the Crescent management made no mistake in giving a man like Taylor a trial. He was expected weeks ago, and if he had been able to get here the managers would have known all about him, could have got a catcher to hold him, and might have persuaded him to cut loose from that contortion act of his before the delivery of the ball.

DUNELLEN DOINGS.

Interesting Items from a Thriving Borough, by Our Own Correspondent.

Children's Day was pleasantly observed in the Dunellen churches. At the Methodist church in the morning the pastor, the Rev. Mr. Kensey, gave a talk to the children, illustrated with black-board exercises. In the evening a cantata was given by the young people. The church was prettily trimmed with flowers.

The Presbyterian church was beautifully decorated. An arch made with evergreens reached across the church, with a dove suspended from the centre. Another noticeable floral piece was the "Gates Ajar". In the morning the pastor, the Rev. Mr. Martine, preached to the young people. In the evening the exercises differed somewhat from former years. There were two addresses, one by the pastor to the children, and one by Miss Carrie Peck, the missionary, who told the congregation how Children's Day was observed down South and how the missionary work was progressing.

The entertainment given by the young people of the Presbyterian church last Friday evening was a great success. The programme, which was enjoyed by all present, consisted of instrumental and vocal music, with banjo accompaniments, and readings. The charade was very good, and showed what imagination can do. These entertainments are well patronized, and it shows the young people that their efforts are appreciated.

The public school will hold their commencement in the Methodist church Thursday evening, June 18. There will be an entertainment given by the scholars, which is always enjoyed by all, but it is hoped that the exercises will not be as long this year as they were last. The parents as well as the little ones were restless.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

William A. Lord and family, of Netherwood, are at Monmouth Beach for the summer.

The family of John M. Clark, of Park avenue, will spend the summer at Amherst, Mass.

Miss Ida Spicer, of this city, will to-morrow attend the marriage of her cousin, Miss Helen Spicer, at Westerly, R. I.

The wife of A. V. Searing who was some years ago a prominent tea and grocery merchant of this city, died at her home on Elm street, just before noon to-day, after an illness of two years.

A tea will be given at the residence of Mrs. B. A. Hegeman, Jr., Myrtle avenue, to-morrow, from four to seven o'clock, in aid of the fund for the enlargement of Holy Cross Sunday-school building. The affair will offer a pleasant opportunity for the members of Holy Cross parish to bid farewell to their rector, the Rev. T. Logan Murphy, who will be present and who sails for Europe on Wednesday.

The Rev. James J. Dolliver, of Fort Dodge, Iowa, who has been for fifty years a Methodist minister, and his daughter and son, Congressman J. P. Dolliver, are the guests of his cousin, G. Q Dolliver, of Manning avenue. Mrs. Jane Brokaw, of Newark, who is a sister of the Rev. Mr. Dolliver, with her son and two daughters, is also of the happy party that is overflowing that North Plainfield home. The Congressman, who is serving his third term, is one of the finest formed, noble faced, open hearted, dignified yet cordial men on the face of the earth to-day. He might be mistaken for one of those grand old leaders of the Democracy like Bayard or Gorman, but he stumped New York for Harrison and was one of the speakers at the McKinley banquet. He is on his way home from a governmental inspection of the United States naval academy at Annapolis.

President Murray made the presentation. Mr. Manning expressed his surprise and gratification. The Y. M. C. A. members and their friends were so eager to contribute towards the purchase of the wheel for the faithful, hard-working secretary that the most generous offers had to be cut down in order that all might give who wanted to.

The O'Brien-King Battle.

HAMMOND, Ind., June 15.—Billy O'Brien and Jack King fought to a finish with two-ounce gloves near the pineries last evening for $350 and the middleweight championship of Indiana, and O'Brien won. King received severe punishment. In the 20th round O'Brien forced the fighting, landing heavily on King's face and neck, and then feinting with his left, landed his right like a steam hammer on King's jaw and knocked him down and out.

MISREPRESENTATION STILL CONTINUED.

A Few More of the Old Woman's Crooked Statements Straightened.

That scolding old woman the Central Times, in her issue of Wednesday last, says:

Mr. Low wishes $25 per hydrant from the city for the water he hopes to supply for fire purposes, with the understanding that twelve hydrants per mile are to be used and paid for. The Water Supply Company's offer is $15 per hydrant for ten hydrants to the mile. Mr. Low's offer will cost the city $300 per mile and that of the Water Supply Company $150.

The Water Supply Co. might cost the city $1,000 per mile. Mr. Low's price per hydrant is for the use of the water not alone for fire purposes but also for flushing the sewers. The offer which the Times says the Water Supply Co. made per hydrant, is for fire purposes only. The Company can add to that any figure they please per hydrant for flushing the sewers—in fact could make the price so high as to prevent any company, or even the bonded city that they have in view, building sewers in Plainfield until the Water Supply Co. bosses were "fixed."

In the same issue of the Times, she says:

It must be pretty hard sometimes for the Corporation Counsel to save Mr. Low and the combine from legal pitfalls, in view of the manner in which they have treated him.

The way the "combine" have treated Corporation Counsel Marsh is: They not only raised his salary to a higher amount than was ever before paid a corporation counsel of this city, but they engaged the best to be had as assistant counsel to relieve him of some of the arduous labors that devolved upon him.

The following is another fallacy from last Wednesday's Times:

The street railway ordinance is in the Courts because of your [the "Big 6"] reckless haste.

The railway ordinance was passed by the Council unanimously—excepting Mr. Ginna, of course—and was approved by the Mayor. It is in the Courts, as everybody knows, because of the spite of the Times' bosses who are bound to rule or ruin. That is the incentive and the reason of it all.

This is also from the Times of Wednesday last:

Suppose the Supreme Court declares that the law is constitutional, and the Water-Works Company, which is now with its plant and franchise the property of another company, continues its work, puts in the required number of hydrants and announces to the Council that it is ready for business, what will the "Big Six" do then? The Water-Works contract will be valid, the Low contract will be in existence, and the city will have the privilege of paying for two sets of hydrants for a given number of years.

The Water-Works Co.'s contract is probably invalidated long ago, but if not the company itself (which would have had water in our houses by now) has passed entirely out of existence, having been choked to death by the same bosses whose collar fits so snugly around the neck of the Times. As to the contract given it by the city being the property of another company, such transfer can only be effected with the consent of the party that gave the contract. Such consent, it is needless to state, was never given and never will be given unless the water bosses elect the majority in the next Council as they are already boasting of doing.

Music by a Young People's Choir.

Very pretty Children's Day services were held at the Seventh-Day Baptist church Saturday. A young people's choir gave charming music. The voices were: Sopranos, Bessie Titsworth, Ernestine Smith, Mabel Mitchell, Lizzie Allis; altos, Mabel Maxson, Lulu Lewis; tenors, Frank Clawson, Harry Maxson; bassos, Arthur Spicer, Harold Tomlinson.

An offertory was sung by little Misses Myrtie Randolph, Bessie Randolph, Eva Lewis, Ethel Titsworth and Nellie Miller. Dr. Lewis spoke appropriately of the value of children to the church. The musical programme was very ably arranged by D. E. Titsworth. Jessie Utter was the efficient organist.

Two Williams Break the Records.

Already twice this season have long standing records been broken by fishermen in the waters of the Megantic Club's preserves in Canada, and both times the honor has fallen on the shoulders of members of the Club residing in this city.

A few weeks ago W. K. McClure, Esq., caught a black bass weighing 6¼ pounds, which is heavier than any ever caught before in the Club's lakes. Last week William H. Brower captured an 8¼ pound brook trout, after a long struggle. This is not only larger than the Megantic Club has record of, but probably larger than the majority of fishermen have ever heard of.

A Chicken Thief Gets Fifteen Years.

Louis Wahl, the principal of the two thieves who stole so many hundreds of chickens in this section, and who were finally entrapped at the hut in the woods near Plainfield, was sentenced by Judge McCormick, Saturday, to fifteen years' imprisonment. He is an old offender, and has been in State Prison before, so took his sentence coolly. August Arnold, his pal, who is quite a young man, was sentenced to six months' confinement in jail. The reason for dealing so lightly with Arnold, the court said, was because it was evident that Arnold had been led astray by Wahl and would reform.

The market is flooded with decoctions under the name of Root Beer. Why should you experiment on such goods when the genuine Hires's Root Beer can be had? It is known to be safe, delicious, and healthful temperance drink.

THAT DANGEROUS CROSSING.

A Plainfield Commuter Who Dreads It as a Death Spot.

Everybody who has ever gone through the city of Elizabeth, on a railroad train knows the crossing of the Central Railroad of New Jersey and the Pennsylvania Railroad at the Broad street depot in that city. This—says the New York Recorder—is the most dangerous railroad crossing in the United States. Coupled with the fact that at some hours of the day freight and passenger trains pass through here every ten minutes, and that the trains on one road are hidden from the occupants of trains on the other until they are almost on the crossing, it is a wonder that frightful smashups do not occur. It is only by the exercise of the greatest care, however, that accidents are avoided. The crossing, aside from the constant danger from colliding trains, is a frightful menace to human life and many have been killed. At least fifteen thousand people cross the tracks there every day, besides vehicles of every description numbering up among the thousands.

A few days ago an express train of the Philadelphia and Reading running at a speed of thirty-five miles an hour, consisting of one of the big camel-back engines, a baggage, three passenger cars and a Pullman coach, on the Central New Jersey tracks, ran full tilt into a Pennsylvania freight train right in front of the depot. The freight train had the right of way, and the passenger train was signaled to stop, but Engineer Frederick Copson said his air brakes failed him, hence the accident. Before the collision came Joseph McMannerin, his fireman, leaped from the engine and saved himself, but Copson stuck to his engine until she struck the freight train. The locomotive of the passenger train struck a freight car loaded with kegs of nails and spikes and wrecked the car, the engine turning over on its side. Another freight car was turned over, while the third mounted the prostrate engine and fell over on its side also. As Copson was in the cab when the crash came he was supposed to be dead, but he was finally pulled out from under the wreck with no further injuries than having his face scorched and his arms badly scalded by escaping steam from the wrecked engine. The passengers in the coaches received a severe shaking up, but nobody was injured.

Ever since the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad leased the Central New Jersey system the Central company have retained control of the local trains, and all Philadelphia and Reading trains have been run between Bound Brook and New York with Central New Jersey engines driven by engineers trained on the road. About a month ago the Philadelphia and Reading Company put on their own engines and engineers between Bound Brook and New York, much to the dissatisfaction of the Central New Jersey engineers. When the change was made, the old engineers were put upon the Philadelphia and Reading engines to coach the new engineers concerning crossings, where to slow up, where to speed and all the technical intricacies of running through the thickly crowded towns between New York and Bound Brook. It is rumored that when they were put aboard the engines instead of acting as instructors and counselors they assumed charge of the engines and left the regular engineers to learn what they could from observation. The pilots were removed from the Philadelphia and Reading engines only a few days ago, and the first thing on the new programme was a smashup at the dangerous crossing. This could not have happened had Engineer Copson followed the rule always followed by the engineers of the Central New Jersey Railroad in lessening speed before he rounded the Madison avenue curve.

The accident has opened the eyes of Elizabeth people, and they have at last awakened to a full realization of the danger caused by the railroad crossing. The agitation which some time ago assumed such proportions has been renewed, and demands are made that the dangerous crossing be abolished, and that all grade crossings in the city, both of railroads and railroads and streets, be arranged by an elevated or depressed system. Three different sets of trains, the Central New Jersey, Philadelphia and Reading, and the Royal Blue Line express trains of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad are now crossing the Pennsylvania tracks at the Broad street crossing. They run with shuttlelike regularity, and hardly has a train on one track pulled out of the station before one on the other track pulls in. A Fulton street merchant who lives in Plainfield said yesterday: "I pass that crossing twice every day, and whenever I come near it I hold my breath, expecting every moment to be plunged into eternity at any moment. It is a spot rife with fearful danger, and one which should not be tolerated for a moment. I expect some day to hear of such an appalling disaster at that spot that the whole country will shudder with horror. As I live in Plainfield I may be one of the victims, because I take my life in my hands every time I step on a train which goes over that crossing."

The Wheelmen Have a Jolly Time on Their Hundred-Mile Run.

The Fourth Annual Great Century Run of 100 miles last Saturday was a monster success. The start was made from the Continental Hotel, Newark, at 4 a. m. As the new county roads were in such excellent condition, the run arrived in Plainfield about 15 minutes ahead of time. F. C. Langhorne took a photograph of the party at Hotel Netherwood. There were 492 participants in the run, three of whom were ladies. Only two members of the Plainfield Bicycle Club took part. They were Captain Frank L. C. Martin and Geo. W. Moreton. Both started with the party from Newark and rode the entire distance. W. A. Clapp of Plainfield also made the entire run. Captain Frank L. C. Martin acted as pacemaker from Newark to Holmesburgh, eight miles from Philadelphia, where Captain C. W. Dalsen of the Century Wheelmen of Philadelphia, took charge. Captain W. E. Fuller of the Brooklyn Bicycle Club, acted as bugler in his regular good style. As a number of participants in the previous years runs left the party at intervals and took the train for a few miles, making the others believe that they had ridden on their wheels the entire distance, the committee in charge of the run had checkers along the route who took each man's number as he passed, thereby making it impossible for anyone to claim that he had ridden the whole distance unless he really had.

The Century Wheelmen's club-house was the wind-up of the run. The riders were received in open arms and given a royal good time. After washing up, a supper was served in the wheel room. The headquarters of the wheelmen in the Quaker City were at the Continental Hotel. Yesterday morning at 10 o'clock a party comprising the survivors of the Century Run and members of the various Philadelphia clubs, numbering in all nearly 600, took a long run through Fairmount Park, to Strawberry Mansion, on Strawberry Hill, where they were again entertained by the members of the Century Wheelmen and treated to ice-cream, strawberries, cake, lemonade, etc., after which a photograph of the party was taken on the bank of the reservoir in the park. A special train had been scheduled for the accommodation of the wheelmen, who left Philadelphia for their homes at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Everyone on the run agreed that they never had had a better time, the roads and weather having been all that could have been wished for. Along the route could be seen tool bags, oil cans, wrenches, coats, handkerchiefs, and various other things, that were lost by the wheelmen. The only drawback to the run was the dust, which was very thick, especially for those riding in the rear.

Appended is a list of those who finished:

THE NEGRO'S SONG.

It Breathes a Sadness Induced by the Wrongs His Race Has Borne.

No Other Music Can Match It in Melancholy Sweetness, and It Was the Only Thing That Slavery Left Him—Reasons for Its Excellence.

Ninety years ago in a little grass-matted hut beside the Niger river a white traveler lay tossing in the agonies of a tropical fever. Sometimes in his delirium he murmured broken fragments of Scottish songs—sometimes, as the pangs of the fever momentarily abated, the sound of the bagpipes seemed to ring in his ears, and, roused to semi-consciousness by the sweet illusion, the sick man would rise from his couch of reeds and cry: "Play the 'Blue Bells of Scotland,' piper—play the 'Blue Bells.'"

Then a woman, dark of face, and clad only in a blue cotton skirt, entered the hut. Sitting down beside the invalid she began to softly croon a song of wondrous melody. In the music of that African song pathos, sympathy and anxiety seemed to blend with hope and confidence, while the sound, ever soft and low, touched gently the ears of the sufferer, and soothed him to rest and sleep, from which he awoke, weak, but free from the fever's grasp.

That traveler, says the Chicago Globe, was Mungo Park. In his memoirs he says: "I am firmly convinced that the soft music of that negro woman's song saved my life and gave me new strength for my undertaking."

How or when the negro acquired his love of music history cannot tell. Herodotus tells of the "sounding bows" of the Ethiopians—black bows whose strings gave out a melody sweeter than the notes of lyre or cithera, and which were in great demand at festivals. In Roman times the Mauritanian blacks were noted for their musical skill, and the chroniclers of the middle ages often speak of the sable musicians who delighted the lordly Saracens with their talent. In the strange, mysterious land of Africa the negro has little to do and abundance wherewith to support life. Doubtless, in the earlier ages, he lounged about his hut day after day, until at last from sheer ennui, he turned to music as a means of employing his idle time. As the centuries rolled on the black became more and more skilled in musical art until, when his race first began to see the shores of America, he was already a vocal and instrumental genius of high merit.

But it was among the negro slaves that the "divine art" reached its perfection. The poor African, torn from his native land, and sent from ease and idleness to hard work, under an exacting master, could not express his thoughts in the ordinary language of common conversation, but all the pathos, all the sorrow of his misfortunes and his surroundings, acting upon his sensitive and romantic nature, combined to produce a type of song which the world has never seen surpassed. Perhaps a wife or child would be sold into servitude, far away from the poor slave who composed the song; perhaps a kindly master would pass beyond death's river; perhaps the slave himself would be sent into a distant state, never again to see the home which had become dear to him by countless ties, but, whatever the cause, the negro songs remain matchless in their melancholy sweetness, marvelous in their patient resignation to fate and "massa's" will.

But there were gleams of light and happiness in the life of the slave. In the evening, when the work was over, the darkies would assemble in the "quarters" and, while the 'possum and the hoe cake, the sweet potatoes and the corn were being cooked to perfection by the skillful "aunties," the fiddle and the banjo sounded merrily and the uproarious chorus mingled with the shuffle of the dancing feet.

From these festive occasions sprang the idea of negro minstrelsy, which has since become so distorted that not one person in fifty north of Mason and Dixon's line has any idea of real plantation music or of the real depth and richness of those unique and matchless melodies. Since the war the negro has been free, but he has not forgotten his music, and he, and his descendants, even those in whose veins lingers hardly a drop of negro blood, still sing the songs that once delighted "young massa" and rose sadly around "old massa's" grave. But even among the negroes there was a great variety of music, tinged by locality, of course, and often by the ancestral tribe of the negro. Thus, in New Orleans the blacks had a list of songs much different from the music of Virginia or the Carolinas. The songs of Carolina dwelt upon cotton lands and rice fields; those of Louisiana less upon material surroundings and more upon sentiment and love.

Much French blood ran in the veins of these people and their music showed the combination of races. Even now, in Louisiana, the creole women—women of whom a southerner once said that they were the most beautiful in the world—the quadroons and octoroons, chant their songs and lullabies in both French and English, and the mellow accent of the negro tongue yet clings to every melody, in either language.

The south may change as the years pass by; the negro may be blended with the white, and lost from view in the millions who will yet people that lovely southern land, but the songs of slavery, the wondrous expressions of all the music of a hapless race, will live forever and be sung in future ages by men and women who can claim no trace of African lineage, and who will remember nothing of the sable composers, save the song.

Tell the Truth.

There is a large class of people who are easily "gulled," and who can be drawn into anything that promises something for nothing. They like to be humbugged. Those who are so disposed find ample use for their imagination writing advertisements that are intended to mislead. The only way in which houses that do business on a solvent basis and give value for value can compete with these lying tradesmen is to adhere to the straightforward, confidential style of advertising. It is the straight truth about straight goods or honest service that sets the people right on the question of patronage, and educates them to detect the difference between the fair dealer and the swindler by the tone of their advertisements.—Printers' Ink.

Successful Advertising.

The important effect of advertising is one of a direct nature. It conveys the impression that the party is anxious for business. One who is anxious for business is unavoidably supposed to be an industrious, attentive, civil person who keeps the best of articles at the cheapest rate, does everything in the neatest and most tradesmanlike manner, and in general uses every expedient to gratify and attach customers. People like to purchase under those circumstances, and the system of advertising assuring them that such circumstances exist at this particular shop, they select it accordingly.

During the Dull Season.

A prominent business man who advertised very little during the late spring season recently gave a large order to The Times to continue during the dull season, "because," as he said, "my experience is that advertising and success in trade are inseparable." He had plenty of trade during the business season; but the time has now come when he must stimulate and create trade, and he turns to the widely read newspaper as the only agency through which it can be done.—Philadelphia Times.

A Panacea for Bad Business.

Quoth an Albany merchant to a reporter for The Press: "When I hear merchants complain about bad business I make up my mind that they do not advertise. Some people have an idea that all that is necessary is to get a stock and hang out a sign, after which crowds will flock in. I often think that such people have an idea that Barnum could fill his immense canvas just as well by putting out a four by six dodger."

How to Draw Trade.

This age is too bustling and competition is too great for the merchant to allow himself any longer the luxury of waiting supinely behind his counter for trade. He must show in advance of purchases just what he has to sell and how he intends to sell it, and a persistent publication of his wares is the means by which such showing can be made.—York (Pa.) Gazette.

"NO MORE DOCTORS FOR ME!

They said I was consumptive, sent me to Florida, told me to keep quiet, no excitement, and no tennis. Just think of it. One day I found a little book called 'Guide to Health,' by Mrs. Pinkham, and in it I found out what ailed me. So I wrote to her, got a lovely reply, told me just what to do, and I am in splendid health now."

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S Vegetable Compound conquers all those weaknesses and ailments so prevalent with the sex, and restores perfect health.

All Druggists sell it as a standard article, or sent by mail, in form of Pills or Lozenges, on receipt of $1.00.

For the cure of Kidney Complaints, either sex, the Compound has no rival.

Send stamp for "Guide to Health and Etiquette," a beautiful illustrated book.

THE PAPERS SIGNED

Seal-Killing Will be Stopped for One Year.

CONCESSIONS FROM ENGLAND.

The President Issues His Proclamation Announcing the Agreement.

The United States Can Seize Offending British Vessels—Secretary Foster to Send Instructions to the Revenue Cutters Bear, Rush and Corwin—The Two Governments to Police the Sea.

WASHINGTON, June 16.—Sir Julian Pauncefote, accompanied by his first secretary, called at the State Department early in the morning to put the finishing touches to the agreement between the United States and Great Britain looking to the protection of the seal fisheries in Behring Sea.

After a preliminary conversation between Sir Julian and Acting Secretary of State Wharton, an official document, with the decorations of important State papers, was produced and carefully perused by the British Minister.

It was apparently satisfactorily drawn, for he afterward placed his official signature to it, and Acting Secretary Wharton, as representative of the United States, did likewise.

Later the President issued a proclamation, stating that an agreement, a modus vivendi between the government of the United States and the government of her Britanic Majesty in relation to the fur seal fisheries in Behring Sea was concluded on the 15th day of June, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and ninety-one, for the purpose of avoiding irritating differences, and with a view to promote the friendly settlement of the questions pending between the two governments touching their respective rights, and for the preservation of the seal species.

The agreement authorizes the United States vessels to seize offending British vessels, which, however, are to be turned over to the British authorities for trial. This feature is expected to prove of great value in the pressing emergency that is held to exist of clearing out the law-breaking vessels before irreparable damage is done to the seal fisheries.

The President also addressed communications to the Secretaries of the Navy and Treasury Departments advising them concerning the modus vivendi. Secretary Foster will send instructions to the revenue steamers Bear, Rush and Corwin, and the Secretary of the Navy to the commanders of the cruisers at the San Francisco rendezvous at San Point, where the British men-of-war will meet them.

Sealing craft are not likely to start before July 1, thus giving them ample time for notification that the two governments propose policing the sea for the purpose of protecting the seals.

CRACK YACHTS READY.

The Racing Season in Eastern Waters Begins To-morrow.

BOSTON, June 16.—The racing season in Eastern waters will begin this week. The first of the big races will be the annual regatta of the Massachusetts Yacht Club, off Nahant, to-morrow. The owners of a majority of the local 46-footers will enter for this race, and the outlook is that the Oweene, Barbara, Alborah, and the Gossoon will be among the starters. The ironwork on the Beatrix is not ready, or else she would have been in the race.

On Friday next the sweepstakes race of the Eastern Yacht Club will take place off Marblehead, and the 46-footers will also take part.

The Burgess 46-footers, Sayonara, Minerola and Oweene, have been on their trips, and a weakness in their channels has shown itself. They were not strong enough in the first place, as no strengthening piece was put on them when first made. The Paine and Burgess boats have two main shrouds, while the Barbara, with shorter spars, has three. The channels of the Barbara have strong bracing.

From what has been seen of the Burgess 46-footers under sail, they all carry a little too much sail, and the Oweene, when hit by a not very hard puff, lay out at a good angle. The Burgess boats all float well above their lines, and it is well known that the Minecola took on board a good bit of lead before sailing for New York. The Oweene will not require much less than two tons of lead to bring her down to her lines.

Hot in Maine and New Hampshire.

BOSTON, June 16.—Heat advices from many towns in Maine and New Hampshire show a very sultry condition of things. The thermometer reports received from Maine points show a range from 82 to 90, the latter in Portland. Of 18 towns in New Hampshire but one shows below 90 and that is Fabyanhouse, where the thermometer is 88, while the other towns report from 90 to 99, the latter figure at Contocook. White River Junction, Vermont, reports 92; Woonsocket, R. I., 95; Newport, R. I., 78.

Ex-Senator McDonald Sinking.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 16.—There has been a very decided change for the worse in ex-Senator McDonald's condition within the past 12 hours, and he is now so enfeebled that no hope is entertained of his recovery. He suffers very little pain and is quite cheerful, but he and his attendants regard the end as near. Mrs. McDonald is constantly at his bedside, and three physicians are in attendance.

The Waiters Struck.

TO-DAY'S GREAT BLAST.

Gov. Hill and Prominent Electricians to See an Explosion at South Bethlehem.

ALBANY, N. Y., June 16.—Gov. Hill, Secretary of State Rice, members of the press, prominent electricians and mining experts from all over the country will witness the blasting away of 60,000 tons of limestone at Peter Callanan's quarry at South Bethlehem this afternoon.

One hundred and fifty holes on three separate ledges have been drilled and each to a depth of 30 feet. These are filled to the surface with dynamite, and when the current of electricity is turned on 5,000 pounds of that explosive will ignite. The current will be turned on by Miss Helen Callanan, the 16-year-old daughter of the proprietor.

A face of rock 90 feet high, 400 feet long and 90 feet deep will be displaced. The Edison Company, of New York, laid the wires, and the blast is the largest ever made in this country.

THE BIG SUBURBAN.

Great Crowds Expected at Sheepshead Bay This Afternoon.

NEW YORK, June 16.—This afternoon the great running race of the season—the Surburban Handicap—will be decided at the beautiful track at Coney Island. This race is the event of the turf, and generally draws the largest crowd of the summer. The betting has been unusually heavy, and one bookmaker estimates that at least $1,000,000 will change hands on the result. The race is an extremely valuable one to the winner.

The fields this year will not be as large as that of last, but it will have more than a dozen starters, and a stirring and exciting race is promised. Some of the very knowing ones think the race will end as follows: Tenny, first; Tea Tray, second, and Diablo third. But there is many a slip between the cup and lip—particularly in horse races.

OHIO REPUBLICANS MEET.

The State Convention to be Called to Order This Afternoon.

COLUMBUS, O., June 16.—Nearly all the candidates with many supporters have arrived for the Republican State convention, which convenes to-day at 2 p. m., and which will continue till Wednesday.

Major McKinley, who is to be nominate for Governor, arrived on a special train from Canton at noon. A number of Stark County clubs and the Cleveland delegate came at the same time Senator Sherman came down from Mansfield this morning.

The indications point to a lively contest for some of the lesser places on the ticket. The names of farmer candidates for Lieutenant Governor are meeting with much favor, but it is not certain that one representing this element will be chosen.

SHOT AN EXETER STUDENT.

Result of an Early Morning Fracas Over a Bonfire.

EXETER, N. H., June 16.—The Phillips Academy students attempted early in the morning to build their annual bonfire, but the authorities prevented it.

About 2 o'clock a crowd of angry students, inflamed with champagne and accompanied by friends from Portsmouth, Manchester and Haverhill, started to storm the house of the selectman who issued the obnoxious order.

They mistook the place and invaded the house of a merchant, who fired three shots with a pistol. One student, aged 16, was wounded in the leg.

Yale's Commencement Near.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 16.—Commencement day is near. Just now everybody is busy with examinations, and there is a sort of hush in college affairs, which will, however, give place to a gleeful burst when examinations are finished to-morrow. The graduating class at the law school numbers 60 students, the largest class that has ever graduated from that department. It contains representatives from Japan, France, Italy, Canada and one Indian tribe.

A Train Breaks Through a Trestle.

WATERBURY, Conn., June 16.—A loaded New England Railroad coal train broke through a trestle at the works of the Waterbury Brass Company, severely injuring Ward Knickerbocker, engineer; Timothy Leary, fireman, and John McIntyre and Patrick Gallagher, brakemen. The engine and train fell 15 feet. The trestle, which was owned by the brass company, was rotten.

He Wanted a Death Sentence.

NEW YORK, June 16.—The jury in the case of Ferdinand Legrano, charged with the murder of Charles Mauro, April 20, 1891, returned a verdict of murder in the second degree. When Legrano was informed of the nature of the verdict, he exclaimed: "It's a humbug. I don't want imprisonment for life. I want a death sentence!"

Run Down by an Electric Car.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., June 16.—John J. Whitney, aged 50 years, and George Van Schuyver, aged 40, were run down by an electric car last night while marching in a parade in honor of Lieut. Schoffel, just returned from West Point. Whitney and Van Schuyver were badly hurt [illegible]

POLICEMEN AT WAR

The Trouble in Bridgeport Culminates in a Riot.

PATROLMEN DEFY THE MAYOR.

Disarmed by Their Brother Officers After a Terrific Struggle.

The City in a Furore of Excitement—The Militia Ordered to be in Readiness—Thousands of People Gather About the Central Police Headquarters and Break Windows—Bloodshed is Feared.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., June 16.—There was a serious riot in this city last night. For several weeks there has been a dispute regarding the legality of two Police Commissioners on the board in this city, and the old board of last year has held over and had secret meetings, attended only by Commissioners W. E. Grant, David Walsh and A. Risbor.

At a secret meeting last Saturday night they dismissed Chief Rylands, the Democratic head of the police force, and Mayor Marigold, Republican, refused to recognize their right, and officer Murphy, who had recently been suspended by Chief Rylands for drunkenness, reported to Capt. Pinkerman, the head of the police force in the absence of a chief, by order of the old Police Board.

The 45 patrolmen of the city, when ordered out for duty last night, took sides on the dispute as to who were the legal commissioners, and one-third of them, Democrats, refused to obey the order to remain on duty. They openly defied Chief Rylands and reported to the captain.

Mayor Marigold, the highest authority in the city, was called, and ordered the men to obey Chief Rylands. One-third of the patrolmen refused, and the others were commanded to disarm their brother officers. This they did, but only after a terrific struggle.

Charged Upon the Mob.

When the militia were ordered to report, thousands of people gathered about the Central Police Headquarters and broke windows and created an uproar. The reserve force of the police department was called out and charged upon the mob, and after a short combat dispersed it, but the rioters returned again and again, only to be repelled by the officers.

The militia could not be brought to the scene quickly, as Superintendent Barnes, of the Fire Alarm Telegraph, could not be found.

The utmost excitement prevailed until Adjutant-General Embler, of Hartford, of the State militia, and Brigadier-General Van Keuren arrived. They ordered the militia to be in readiness and remain on duty all night.

The City Excited.

The city is now in a furore of excitement and the station house is still surrounded by a howling mob and the lives of the citizens are still in peril.

The city is stripped of its police protection and thieves from New York are already arriving here, presumably to rob houses in the city. The rebellious policemen who were stripped of their authority by force are James Halpin, Patrick Otis, Bernard F. Lennon, Charles Campana, S. Byrnes and John Murphy.

DOUBLE TRAGEDY.

An Insane Clergyman Murders His Boy and Then Commits Suicide.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., June 16.—While temporarily insane, Rev. Frank D. Lee, son of the late Cassius F. Lee, living near the Theological Seminary in Fairfax County, killed his nine-year-old son, to whom he was greatly attached, and then committed suicide. The tragedy was only discovered last night. The neighbors, suspecting that something was wrong, broke open the house and found the bodies lying upon a bed.

Mr. Lee was a man of superior ability and cultivation, was a graduate of the University of Virginia and of the Theological Seminary, and for several years exercised acceptably his ministry in the Episcopal Church. He was subsequently compelled to give it up on account of ill health and since 1886 has been living in retirement on Seminary Hill.

LADY BROOKE'S PLIGHT.

A Divorce Rumor in Which the Prince of Wales is Interested.

LONDON, June 16.—There is a rumor, which cannot be confirmed to-day, that Lord Brooke has filed a petition for divorce from his wife on the ground of adultery, the Prince of Wales being charged as co-respondent.

It is a matter of common knowledge that heretofore both the Prince and Lord Brooke maintained that the intimacy between the Prince and Lady Brooke was platonic.

CHICAGO, June 16.—Ignatius, the Anglican monk, has been compelled to give up preaching for the present and retire to the country. He has throat affection and is unable to speak above a whisper.

"FRITZ" EMMET IS DEAD.

The Popular Comedian Ends His Long Career on the Stage.

NEWBURGH, N. Y., June 16.—J. K. Emmet, the comedian, died at Cornwall at 11:15 a. m. of pneumonia.

Mr. Emmet was in poor health when he arrived at Cornwall about 10 days ago, and the symptoms of pneumonia developed about a week ago. He and his son came to Cornwall to spend the summer, and had rooms at the Storm King House, a pretty place on the mountain side. He was in charge of a nurse. A village doctor visited him daily, and at last a New York physician was called in consultation.

Mr. Emmet spent several months there last summer and was so well pleased with the place that he expressed his intention of buying a residence there.

Joseph K. Emmet was one of the most popular specialty comedians of the day. He was 50 years old last March. Buffalo, Cincinnati and St. Louis each claimed him as a son, but Emmet always claimed St. Louis as his native city.

He leaves one son, J. Kline Emmet, jr., who managed him during the past two years. His fortune is estimated at several hundred thousand dollars.

Valuable Revolutionary Relic.

LEBANON, Conn., June 16.—The Connecticut Historical Society yesterday took possession of a most interesting and valuable Revolutionary relic, the building used by Gov. Jonathan Trumbull as an office and executive seat during the War of the Revolution. Imposing exercises were observed, the society being assisted by the Connecticut branches of the Sons of the Revolution. Addresses were delivered by Senator Hawley and Rev. Leonard W. Bacon, D. D.

A Party of Four Drowned.

ROCKFORD, Ia., June 16.—A party of four, Miss Jessie Rollin, Miss Anna Kockler, C. H. Anderson and A. D. Cooley, were out boatriding on the Shell Rock River last night. In some manner their boat capsized and all were thrown into the river. Their cries for help were heard, but, before they could be reached, all were drowned. The river was dragged and their bodies secured.

Connecticut's Senate Adjourns.

HARTFORD, Conn., June 16.—When the Senate met an attempt was made by the Republicans to have the bill, instructing the Comptroller to draw his order for all just claims against the State, put upon its passage. The Democrats, however, voted against it and had the bill referred to the Committee on State Expenditure. The Senate adjourned until June 29.

Suits Brought for Big Claims.

NEW YORK, June 16.—The Bragg Manufacturing Company has brought suits in this city and Brooklyn against the fire departments of the respective cities for an infringement of a patent taken out by Robert Bragg of California concerning a horse-releasing device. The claims aggregate three-quarters of a million dollars.

A Professional Sneak Thief Caught.

PORTAGEVILLE, N. Y., June 16.—A gang of burglars visited this place Sunday morning and entered both hotels and five residences, securing quite an amount of booty. The police of Hornellsville in the afternoon arrested a professional sneak thief named Davis at Portage bridge. On his person were found some of the articles stolen from Portageville. He was locked up.

TROUBLE IN CANADA

The Political Situation Creating Wild Excitement.

LIBERALS ANXIOUS FOR A SPLIT

A Prediction that the Present Government Will Not Last a Month.

Abbott is a Canadian Pacific Man—Chapman and Mackenzie Clamoring for the Ministry of Railway and Canals—Tupper Now Said to be the Only Man to Save the Ship and May Become Premier.

MONTREAL, June 16.—The outlook of the Conservative party is anything but encouraging, and it is admitted that Thompson's failure to form a Cabinet and Abbott's acceptance of the responsibility shows that the party is rapidly falling to pieces. Abbott is nothing if not a Canadian Pacific man. He was until Saturday a large shareholder and a director in that company, and he has made millions by his connection with it. He was mixed up in the first Canadian Pacific scandal and has no actual following in Parliament.

No one expects that this government will last a month, and it may go to pieces this week if it does not satisfy the personal claims of Chapman and Mackenzie Howell, who are already clamoring for the Ministry of Railways and Canals. The only man to save the ship is Tupper, and it is expected that Abbott will, if possible, have the supplies voted and adjourn until autumn, when Tupper will meet the House as Premier.

Official Circles Excited.

OTTAWA, June 16.—The political situation here continues to create the wildest excitement in official circles. No one seems to know exactly how matters stand and even the most trusted emissaries of the Conservative party are continually putting their foot in it by making positive statements in the press which they have to contradict the next day.

The Liberals are doing their utmost to create a split.

CONFESSED HIS FAULT.

Parliament Listens to an Apology from the Prince of Wales.

LONDON, June 16.—According to programme the Prince of Wales was ready with his apology in the House of Commons. So was Berkeley Levett, to whom the Prince has been acting as a fidus Achates. Hon. Edward Stanhope, Secretary of State for War, amidst profound silence, and followed by the close and anxious attention of a House crowded on floor and in gallery, and speaking with the utmost deliberation, said that His Royal Highness, the Prince of Wales, on looking back upon all the circumstances of the gambling case, authorized him (Mr. Stanhope) to say that he now saw the error of judgment which he committed. The Secretary of State for War also informed the House that Lieut. Berkely Levett had written to his commander (Colonel Stracey of the Scots' guards) expressing his deep regret that he had failed to act in accordance with army regulations.

Mr. Stanhope concluded his statement by saying that it was not proposed by the government to take further action in the matter. When Mr. Stanhope had finished his statement on behalf of the Prince there was a general outburst of applause, but when in his concluding remarks he declared the matter dropped by the government the cheers came only from the Tory benches.

A movement is on foot in several clubs to force the resignation or expulsion of Sir Edward Clarke in consequence of what is styled his "disloyal" speech in the baccarat trial, wherein he attacked the Prince of Wales.

Sir Edward Clarke does not seem to stagger under the aristocratic displeasure which he incurred by his attack on the Prince. Sir Edward is a man of the people, sprung from a respectable family, but not akin to the tanta-ra-ra classes.

GIANTS BATTLE TO-NIGHT.

All Ready for the Contest Between Slavin and Kilrain.

NEW YORK, June 16.—All is in readiness for the 10-round glove contest between Francis Patrick Slavin and Jake Kilrain for $10,000 this evening.

It will occur before the Granite Athletic Club of Hoboken, and, as the managers declare that it is not an infringement of the law in any particular, there need be no fear that it will not come off as advertised.

Slavin will be seconded by Charley Mitchell and Ed Stoddard. Kilrain's squires will be Muldoon, and, Probably, Mike Cleary. Jere Dunn will be the referee.

Skeleton Found by Workingmen.

CONTOCOOK, N. H., June 16.—The skeleton of a man was found at 11 a. m. by some workmen who were removing a shed on the Perley Beck place. The bones were found underneath the structure and gave evidence of foul play. There were two fractures of the skull and the thigh bones were broken. It was also shown that lime had been used to destroy the body. It is supposed to be the skeleton of Calvin Beck, believed to have been murdered by his brother, Perley, ten years ago.

Railroad Strikers Return to Work.

LAWRENCE, Mass., June 16.—The strike on the Merrimac Valley Street Railroad has virtually ended, nearly all the strikers returning to work at former prices and hours of labor. The Italian laborers who took the places of the strikers have left town.

Boston's Financial Receipts.

BOSTON, June 16.—City Treasurer Turner reports the receipts for the year ending April 30, 1891, to have been $27,027,312, including balance on hand a year ago of $5,231,319. His payments were $22,576,813, leaving cash balance carried forward of about $4,953,519.

MOUNT TROY'S MIRACLES.

Many Invalids Still Calling on the Priest Physician.

PITTSBURG, June 16.—The little church of the Most Holy Name, on Mount Troy, continues to be the centre of attraction for hundreds of afflicted humanity.

About 500 invalids applied to Father Mollinger for his blessing during the morning, and all were accommodated. In no instance, however, was a prescription for medicine given out. The terrible heat added much to the sufferings of the invalids, who braved the sun's rays in their efforts to reach the presence of the priest. Many of the sufferers, weakened by disease and long confinement, were overcome and fainted. They were revived by attending friends and in some instances removed to their homes.

Martin Lavin, of Somerset, Niagara County, N. Y., a 15-year-old boy, who had never walked since he was a child, was carried into the presence of Father Mollinger. After anointing and blessing the young man, the priest commanded him to walk, which, to his great delight and the amazement of the vast audience, he did, walking from the altar rail to the rear of the church unassisted.

It is said that the priest physician will remain on Troy Hill until the latter part of the week.

SWITZERLAND'S HORROR.

Further Details from the Scene of the Terrible Railroad Accident.

BERNE, June 16.—Further details received from the scene of the terrible railroad accident near the village of Bale, on the Muenchenstein and Bale Railroad, show that 120 excursionists were drowned, though many of the bodies have not yet been recovered. Of the large number of persons injured, many will probably die, as their injuries consist of bad lacerations, and in some cases limbs have been completely severed. Passengers for Muenchenstein are using the ordinary foot bridge.

Gangs of men are working with untiring energy to recover the bodies of these victims, and to clear away the wreck. Fears are entertained that many of the dead still remain entangled in the submerged debris.

Up to the present hour fifty-seven bodies have been recovered from the wreck.

Forty persons were severely wounded and many others received painful cuts and bruises.

Hardly a street but has its houses bearing the symbols of mourning. Everything that the authorities can do is being done. Clergymen and physicians, a large force of troops and firemen and scores of vehicles, to be used as ambulances, have been dispatched to the scene of the wreck.

Yard Released on Bail.

PHILADELPHIA, June 16.—Henry H. Yard, who was arrested at Trenton on Friday last on the charge of conspiring with ex-City Treasurer Bardsley to misuse $300,000 of city and State money, has surrendered himself and was released on $10,000 bail.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Ivanhoe Council, American Legion of Honor, will meet to elect officers to-night.

—C. W. Dorream, of Eldred, Pa., is a guest of the Rogers Bros., of West Front street.

—Liveryman Stelle lost a horse on Sunday. It died after being driven to New Brunswick.

—Sixteen "wants-and-offers" ads in THE PRESS, and seven in the news, was yesterday's record.

—The North Plainfield public school Commencement will take place Thursday evening of next week.

—Luckily for sweltering mortals, a gentle breeze tempered the intense heat somewhat this morning.

—The nicest shoe for warm weather wear, says Kenney, is an oxford tie. He has 'em for ladies at 75 cents and $1.

—The delicious fruit crushes and other soda-water delicacies Reynolds sells are a potent factor in keeping Plainfield people cool.

—On account of the hot weather, the bowling game proposed for to-night between the Crescent League team and the Y. M. C. A's is postponed.

—Be sure and get a pair of those ladies' oxfords that Sherwin is selling for 99 cents. They are his regular $1.50 shoes. This special price is good until Friday night.

—The Grasshopper Guard of Newark visited Feltville, Sunday, and fished. Frank Buehler caught a two and a half pound eel, Charles Hosp got first prize in a frog-shooting match, and Charles Wernisch got second.

—A colored minister Sunday morning asked his people if the heat was so great as to stop their coming to church, how would they be able to stand the heat of another place—he named it—where ther'd be none of that ice-cream stuff they stayed at home Sundays to eat!

—A woman's exchange and industrial union is to be opened by Sherman & Becker at 63 Park avenue, Thursday. In connection with the exchange a lunch table will be established, where a light luncheon of sandwiches, fresh cake, coffee, tea, cocoa, or lemonade, may be had.

—Some brutal boy struck a dog a blow on the head with a base-ball bat, on Park avenue, Saturday evening, and the dog, bleeding at the mouth, and frenzied with pain, ran howling into a store and drew a big crowd of people who thought he was mad. His owner finally appeared and took him away.

—Wm. Wilson and John Booker, two gentlemen of color, had an argument at the corner of Second street and Park avenue, Saturday night, and eventually came to blows. They were arrested before either had spoiled the other's beauty. Wilson seemed to be the more to blame, and was fined $8. Booker was fined $3.

—Yesterday has passed into history as the hottest 15th of June ever recorded. At 8 o'clock in the morning the thermometer on the street level stood at 70°, and at noon it had jumped to 85°; but at 2:30 the record was smashed, and the mercury indicated 97½°. It was the hottest day of the year, so far.

—Some people seem not to have understood what is meant by Flag Day. It is the anniversary of the adoption of the Stars and Stripes as the national ensign of the United States. Sunday was the 114th anniversary, but was celebrated yesterday. Two private citizens in town were patriotic enough to fling out the starry banner. Not all of the schools displayed their flags.

—Thomas Smith of New Brunswick came to town Saturday and drank to the prosperity of the beautiful city so often that he speedily became intoxicated. Judge Codington, before whom he was taken for drunkenness and disorderly conduct, was not long in determining what would be the greatest punishment he could inflict on Thomas. He sent him back to New Brunswick.

—Police captain Grant is anxious to find out who first struck the dog that caused so much excitement and drew such a crowd on Park avenue, Saturday evening. He threatens to have punished for their cruelty various of the parties that kicked, beat and otherwise abused the animal. "The crowd acted like a lot of crazy people,"—he said—"and because some one said the dog was mad treated it shamefully. It had only strayed away from its master and some one had beaten it and driven it into a frenzy of pain."

PARTICULAR MENTION.

R. H. Milliken of Central avenue has gone to Atlantic City.

Miss O. L. Rogers will leave to-morrow for Cornwall, Litchfield county, Conn., for the heated term.

The family of B. O. Bowers will seek coolness and recreation at Fredericton, New Brunswick, Canada.

Prof. and Mrs. Edwin Lewis will summer in the company of Dr. Green, of Johns Hopkins University, at Avon-by-the-Sea.

The members of the Washington Park Whist Club gave a surprise party last evening to Mr. and Mrs. Samuel St J. McCutchen, at their home on Rockview Terrace, the occasion being the fifteenth anniversary of their marriage.

NEXT SATURDAY'S GAME.

The Crescents Will Have to Play Hard to Win—A Schedule of Games to Come.

The base-ball team that is to play against the Crescent League nine, Saturday, is from Seton Hall College, Orange, and is probably one of the strongest teams in the State. In the past two years it has defeated both Princeton and Yale. During the present season they have won every game at home, and though they were defeated at Somerville their game there was very strong. Last Saturday they defeated the Orange Athletic Club, which is composed of the best players of the old Jersey City and Newark professional clubs of last year. Those who follow base-ball closely say that the Crescents will have to play hard to win.

A glance at the schedule of games to come will convince anyone that it is as strong as it can possibly be made. The management early in April endeavored to secure a date with the Princeton University nine, but failed because of the inability of the college management to name a date before the close of the college season.

Referring to the article copied in THE PRESS from a Rahway paper, as to the amount offered the Allertons, the Plainfield managers say the statement has no foundation in fact. In view of the weak game the Allertons played here last year, it was not thought advisable to schedule a game with them at the time they asked for a date, which was during last February.

Following is a complete list of the games already played, and those scheduled for the rest of the season. Cut it out and keep a record:

May 2—Unions of New Brunswick, at Plainfield, 10 to 6.

A Good Crop of Fruit at Last.

There is an abundant crop of cherries in New Jersey this year. Last year the crop was a failure. The supply of New Jersey strawberries is also abundant, and the berries are maturing early enough to give growers remunerative prices. From present indications the peach crop, which was a total failure last year, will turn out well in quantity as well as in quality. There is also an excellent prospect of a good yield of blackberries, huckleberries and other small fruits so abundantly raised in this State. It is yet too early to make an accurate forecast of the outcome of the cranberry crop, but from present indications there will be at least a fair yield.

FOR THREE weeks I was suffering from a severe cold in my head, accompanied by a pain in the temples. Ely's Cream Balm was recommended to me. After only six applications of the Balm every trace of my cold was removed. —Henry C. Clark, New York Appraiser's Office.

I SUFFERED from acute inflammation in my nose and head—for a week at a time I could not see. I used Ely's Cream Balm and in a few days I was cured. It is wonderful how quick it helped me.—Mrs. Georgie S. Judson, Hartford, Conn.

Pingry's Academy Soon to Change Hands.

The famous Pingry Academy at Elizabeth, from which various Plainfield people have been graduated, is about to change hands The Rev Dr. Pingry, the venerable tutor, who established the school and maintained it for over half a century, is about to retire and a stock company is to be incorporated. Dr. Pingry, whose name and abilities as an instructor placed his school in the foremost rank of private educational institutions of Elizabeth, lost his wife several months ago, and his increasing years and physical infirmities warn him that he must give up his nearly life-long vocation. A meeting has been called, and a circular letter sent by the Faculty of the Academy to all those who it is thought might feel an interest in its continuance. The plan is to have the Rev. Mr. Lyttle, the present Principal, a member of the Board of Directors ex-officio, and also in consideration of his services to have a certain number of shares of stock apportioned to him.

The Jersey Central Is Stubborn.

The merchants of Bound Brook are greatly exercised over the occasional blocking up of what they call the "Southern Gate", which is the road that leads from Bound Brook across the tracks of the Central and Lehigh Valley Railroads and thus across the river and canal to South Bound Brook. Excellent wagon roads lead into Bound Brook from the north, east, south and west, but the approach to the town from the south is often blocked, so the merchants claim, by the railroads. It is said that the Lehigh Valley people are ready to correct matters but that the Central officials will not co-operate. The merchants have been trying for some time to have the matter amicably settled, but they failed to accomplish anything on that line. Now they propose to take the matter to the courts unless the railroad officials take steps immediately to give a free course across the tracks.

Plainfield Professorships at Alfred.

Edwin H. Lewis, son of the Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, of this city, has prepared a comprehensive and interesting pamphlet giving the course and method of study at Alfred University, Alfred Centre, N. Y. Concerning the faculty for the coming term of '91-'92 the following announcements of local interest are made: Edwin H. Lewis, A. M., the Wm. C. Kenyon Professorship of the Latin Language and Literature; the Rev. A. H. Lewis, D. D., Professor of Church History and Homiletics; the Rev. L. C. Rogers, father of Charles Potter Rogers, of this city, the Charles Potter Professorship of History and Civics; E. M. Tomlinson, the Wm. B. Maxson Professorship of the Greek Language and Literature; and Thomas R. Williams, D. D., Ph. D., the Plainfield Professorship of Systematic Theology and the Hebrew Language.

John Brown a Wife Beater.

John Brown of South Second street is evidently not as humane and noble a man as was the old John Brown whose body lies mouldering in the grave. This morning his wife told the local police court that he was in the habit of beating her cruelly. After she had had him arrested and held to await the action of the grand jury she repented of her action and begged that he be released, as she was sure he would do better. The court told her she was foolish to believe that he would never molest her again if he got a chance. John has been forgiven repeatedly for similar offenses.

Jennie Wiley's Fate.

Samuel C. Beekman, the negro, and Jennie Wiley, the white woman, who have been on trial for two days in the Union County Court at Elizabeth for the beating to death of Pearl Beekman, a 6½-year-old daughter of the negro by a deceased wife, were both found guilty last night of manslaughter. The testimony was very strong against the prisoners, even the medical expert put on the stand by the defence giving damaging evidence against them. Beekman is 27, and his white paramour 22 years. They will be sentenced either to-morrow or Saturday.

The Old Bell's Parting Peal.

The local firemen are greatly attached to their old bell, and now that it has been supplanted by a modern fire-gong and is to be sold they want the privilege of ringing it for a last time on Independence Day. Let the Council give its permission to usher in the Fourth by its old familiar clangs!

Illegal Juries Drawn.

WHEELING, W. Va., June 16.—A sensation has been caused in legal circles of the State by the discovery that over four-fifths of the juries drawn since the session of the Legislature were drawn illegally. At its session the Legislature modified the jury laws, but owing to a misunderstanding the changes were generally disregarded. Dozens of important trials will be rendered void and thousands of dollars lost. In some circuits the judges have refused to hold court until the new law is tested.

Bills Before the House of Commons.

LONDON, June 16.—In the House of Commons the Hon. W. H. Smith moved that for the remainder of the session government measures precede all others. He said that all would be dropped except the Irish Land bill, the Education, the Factories, the Public Health, and the Renewal of Gold Coinage bills. Mr. Labouchere protested, but the motion was adopted.

A New French Parish.

BOSTON, June 16.—Archbishop Williams has appointed the Rev. George Rainsville of Natick to take charge of the formation of a new French Catholic Parish in this city.

Fletcher's Death Due to Drowning.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., June 16.—A further examination of Fletcher's body has satisfied the authorities that his death was due to drowning. The gash in the head back of the ear, it is believed, was made by striking against the stones at the bottom of the harbor.

Killed His Young Brother.

EASTON, Pa., June 16.—Joseph Scarlow, aged 15 years, accidentally shot and killed his 11-year-old brother Frank during the afternoon. The boys were hunting near their home at Riegelsville when the accident occurred.

Meeting of the Friends.

PORTLAND, Me., June 16.—The morning session of the Friends' yearly meeting was entirely devoted to listening to reports, which were approved.

Killed His Grandmother.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., June 16.—Alexander Boyd, of Cold Spring Hollow, near here, shot and killed his grandmother, Rachel Boyd, about 1 a. m. The shot was fired through the door and struck the old lady, who was on the outside. The coroner's inquest developed the fact that Boyd had been much enraged for some time because his grandmother lived with him, and on Sunday last quarrelled with his father and demanded that he take his mother away. Boyd was therefore arrested on a charge of murdering the old lady.

All Will be Beheaded.

SHANGHAI, June 16.—An edict of the Chinese Emperor has been published, ordering the prompt beheading of all implicated in the recent riots and massacres.

Clark on Trial for Murder.

WOODSTOCK, Vt., June 16.—The trial of Lyman G. Clark, charged with the murder of Mrs. Miriam Marston, his mother-in-law, has begun in the Supreme Court here. The day was consumed in the selection of a jury and visiting the scene of the murder.

Crushed to Death.

CUMBERLAND, Md., June 16.—While at work in the Hoffman Mine, two miners named Jacob Legeer, aged 50 years, and John Murray were caught by a heavy fall of coal, which crushed Legeer to death and fatally injured Murray.

A Great Saving.

"You always get the best of attention in those parlor cars. Do you fee the porters?"

"No, indeed! I found a cheaper way than that. I bought my own car."—Jury.

Mrs. Giltman—I don't see why you should object to Victoria spending a season in Paris.

Mr. Giltman—If a season was the only thing she would spend there, I would not object.—Jury.

Jones—We must make this banquet a grand success. Have you got some good cigars to give away?

Brown—Oh, yes; they're excellent ones to give away.—Life.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 20, 1890.

Having been a sufferer for sometime past with Biliousness, etc., I was recommended to use Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills. I did so, and am pleased to find that they are as recommended, a cure for those ailments. I therefore subscribe myself cheerfully in recommending them to any who may suffer with those complaints.

St. George's Cricket Club, at Elizabeth.

The St. George's Cricket Club of Plainfield played their first game of this season at Elizabeth, Saturday, against the Pioneer Cricket Club of that city. The game was characterized by the good feeling and cordial fellowship shown for one another by the clubs, and also the universal satisfaction with the umpire's decisions. Taken altogether it was a clean, gentlemanly game, and with a little more practice the Plainfield Club will be in the front rank.

The score in detail was as follows:

The Elizabeth Journal said: "The hearts of the Pioneer Club nearly failed them on Saturday, as they, with only ten men to start the match, gazed on the Plainfield contingent, who appeared on the Chilton street grounds in full force. The St. George's eleven of Plainfield looked to be a fit lot of men to cope against, but the phenomenal bowling of Mr. T. Jones, who in six overs took seven wickets, pretty well decided the game in favor of the home team, who followed and got a score of 49. Mr. Alex. Dunbar was top score man with 17 runs. After the deciding inning's were played the Plainfielders again went in to bat and put up 33 runs for five men out, proving that under more favorable circumstances they could have shown better results."

The second inning was as follows:

Dr. Holmes and Dr. Coles.

Miss Emilie Coles, of Scotch Plains, daughter of the late Dr. Abraham Coles, has received from Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes the following letter of consolation:

MY DEAR MISS COLES:—I should reproach myself for not having written to you before this had not my time been taken up with cares and griefs which gave me so much to think of that I could claim forgiveness for many omissions which seemed like negligence. I have had a whole circle of friends on beds of sickness. One of them is, I fear, going to leave us—and he will leave a wide blank when he bids us farewell.

* * * *

The death of your father puts out another light in the fast-gathering evening shadows. I have always considered it a great privilege to enjoy the friendship of so pure and lofty a spirit—a man who seemed to breathe holiness as his native atmosphere, and to carry its influences into his daily life. What precious memories you have to carry with you all your life; not only that there was no line which dying he could have wished to blot, but that there was no line which the purest of God's angels, looking over his shoulder, would not have looked upon approvingly.

It is a blessed record your father has left. His memory will long be cherished as one of our truest and sweetest singers, and the most precious of consolations now that he is not with you in bodily presence is in remembering all that he has been.

With sincerest and most affectionate regards, I am Yours sincerely,

OLIVER WENDELL HOLMES.

Boston, June 9, 1891.

Founded on Captain Martin's Idea.

The annual century run of 100 miles from Newark to Philadelphia was inaugurated three years ago by twenty enthusiasts, led by Captain Frank L. C. Martin of this city, who determined to try to cover the course in a day, though only six of the starters succeeded in accomplishing the run. From that time the run has grown until the affair of Saturday was the largest long distance run ever held.

The only prize offered is a silk banner to the club having the greatest number of "survivors", but the trophy is as eagerly sought for as would be the most valuable prize.

For the second time the Century Wheelmen of Philadelphia have the honor of capturing the coveted pennant, sixty-three of the sixty-four men starting at Newark being registered on the checker's lists between the two cities. This is a good record for a single day's run for one club, and much of the credit is due to Captain Dalsen, who maintained an easy and steady pace throughout and allowed no "scorching", or racing. The second prize, also goes to Philadelphia, the Park Avenue Wheelmen, under Captain Bilyeu, making a first-class record of thirty finishers out of thirty-five starters.

The first man to arrive was A. W. W. Evans, of the New York Athletic Club, who left the body of the run at Trenton and registered at Philadelphia at 4:30. Mr. Evans was also the first man to finish last year.

—Too lovely for anything, but just the thing for you—Peck's new white goods.

THE LEHIGH VALLEY'S FROG.

The Jersey Central Marshals a Small Army to Keep it Off.

Two hostile armies of railroad laborers glared at each other on the meadows which stretch between Newark and Elizabeth, yesterday. In one of the armies, under the command of Jersey Central officials, were 250 men. The other army, 150 strong, had been gathered by Lehigh Valley and Pennsylvania Railroad officials. The Lehigh Valley men had been called together to lay a frog in the Jersey Central Railroad's track, and make a crossing. The Central recruits were on hand to prevent them from doing it.

The companies have been fighting for two or three years over the crossing at this point. The Commissioners appointed by the court awarded the Central $10,000 damages, a long time ago. The company was dissatisfied and appealed. In Judge Depue's court the damage allowance was increased by a jury to $36,000. The Lehigh officials paid the money into court, and on Saturday sent word to the Central people that they would be ready to put in the frog on Saturday night. The Jersey Central had blocked the progress of work by building an embankment, and sinking a locomotive in the soft earth at the point in dispute. The notification was sent to give the company time to remove the obstructions.

When the 150 laborers whom the Lehigh Valley sent to lay the cross track reached the meadows, they discovered that the obstructions had been multiplied. The embankment had been reared to a height of 20 feet, and gondola cars, freighted with rocks, had been sunk into it. There were, besides, 250 Central laborers on hand to see that the opposing forces did not disturb the obstructions. There was danger of an outbreak of hostilities, and the Newark police were summoned to the place to preserve the peace.

The Lehigh Valley men fell back to await further orders. All day yesterday the opposing forces loitered in the vicinity, but the attempt to cross was not made, and there were no serious disturbances. Hostilities were, however, expected to open momentarily.

On the Central tracks at the disputed point have been placed three big "hog scalders" and engines from which can be thrown streams of hot water, and which will back up the 300 coal heavers whom the Central people have gathered there to fight the Lehigh encroachments. In the little telegraph office was Captain Hopper commanding the attacking forces.

The two gangs of men glared at each other for a few minutes and then the attacking party retreated. They did not appear again, and the Central Railroad divided its forces into watches. Passenger coaches were run in on side tracks for the men to sleep in, and provisions were sent out from Jersey City. The watches took their turns guarding the crossing, and Captain Hopper stayed down until 8 o'clock this morning. When he came up he was covered with little red blotches, the result of the raid of mosquitoes. It was not pleasant, but he had been ordered to guard the crossing at all hazards and would do so.

As the scene of battle is in Newark, Captain Daly, of the Third Precinct, went down with a force of men, but finding no fight in progress returned.

W. H. Peddle, the general superintendent of the Central Railroad, took charge this morning, relieving Captain Hopper. A few of the men were sent away, but the majority were retained and will hold the fort. No attack, however, is expected from the Lehigh Valley Railroad, as their men are laying quietly in the farmhouses on the old Nugent farm on the meadows about a mile away. The Lehigh Valley has established a telegraph station at Hamburg place.

"The point with us"—said Mr. Peddle this morning—"is this: If the Lehigh Valley Railroad crosses our tracks at grade the Pennsylvania Railroad, which has already made preparations to cross the tracks, will demand a grade crossing, and our trains will have to run through a labyrinth of trains."

Preparations are being made for a big fight by the Central Railroad, and chairs, sofas and other furniture were sent down to put in the cars which have been sidetracked near the crossing. Joseph Coult has been retained in Newark to watch the Central Railroad's interests from a legal standpoint, and says that the road will fight a crossing until the $36,000 awarded is paid.

Thomas N. McCarter, the legal representative of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, went out of this city this morning, but his son Robert said that there would be no attack made on the Central Company's tracks to-day, but that to-morrow application would be made to the Court of Chancery for an injunction compelling the Central Railroad to allow them to cross the tracks.

Westfielders on Mettlesome Steeds.

The Westfield Equestrian Club had a fine ride through Springfield, Cranford and Union, Saturday evening, and dined at Van Court Inn, Roselle. The following comprised the cavalcade: Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Tancey, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Miller, Dr. J. Jackson, Miss Jackson and Mrs. Dr. Jobs.

HARVEY RESIGNS HIS OFFICE.

The New Jersey Commissioner of Insurance Finds His Salary Too Small.

George Brinton McClellan Harvey, New Jersey's Commissioner of Banking and Insurance, resigned his office yesterday. In a letter to Governor Abbett he reviews the work of the department since its creation by legislative enactment ten weeks ago, and makes some interesting suggestions as to insurance legislation. Mr. Harvey's reason for resigning, he writes, is that he cannot afford to give the amount of time which the work demands for the remuneration offered. Governor Abbett urged him to remain, but without effect.

The retiring Commissioner first tells how the fraudulent concerns have been dealt with. Those mutual benefit societies established under the "Benevolent and Charitable Act", primarily for benevolence, remain untouched because protected by that act. But he finds that the law conflicts with the insurance code of 1890 as regards all others of this class. A large number of arrests have been made.

As to the concerns incorporated in other States, but operating in New Jersey, the method of an injunction was adopted with success. "So far as I can learn"—writes the Commissioner—"the business is at a complete standstill."

In referring to a revision of existing laws, it is observed that, "because a few sharpers have profited by defects in the laws authorizing it (the assessment system) in other States, it is no reason why the entire system should be denounced as pernicious". The mutual plan may be more economical.

The enactment of a law similar to that in Massachusetts relating to "lapses" is suggested. In this connection it is remarked that "It does not seem fair or just that inability to meet a policy payment should deprive a person of all the money which he has already paid to a company. A liberal deduction for the transaction of business should be made, of course, but beyond that the rights of the insured person should have full recognition. To accomplish this purpose it might be deemed advisable for the State to prescribe the forms of policies which may be written."

The view is expressed that the National Building and Loan Associations "cannot be relied on to furnish opportunities for safe investments". One-third of the savings banks in the State have been examined.

WORK FOR BOARDS OF HEALTH.

State Officials Warn the Public of Existing Dangers.

The State of New Jersey has begun an investigation into the existence of bovine tuberculosis and its relation to the milk supply. This disease is more or less prevalent, and considerable agitation has been given to it during the past six months. The malady is similar to consumption in human beings, and many believe that the milk coming from such cows becomes affected. If such is the fact it becomes the vehicle for the spreading of lung troubles.

Dr. Hunt, of the State Board of Health, and Dairy Commissioner George McGuire are now at work gathering data and facts. They have reached the conclusion that the city boards of health throughout the State should inaugurate periodical inspections of all cattle within their jurisdiction. These two officials are also giving their attention to the general use of skim milk. Heretofore when butter was made by the old-fashioned churn the milk left was known and sold as buttermilk, and legally allowed, because it was regarded as an article of food. But recently the use of separators has become general, and the milk left by it is nothing but skim milk. The law does not allow it to be sold unless so marked, because it has no value as food; having been deprived of all the nutriment there is in it. This care is being exercised by the State because many poor people are deceived by the sale of skim milk as the genuine article.

There is considerable diphtheria throughout the State, and a search is being made for the cause. At Bordentown twenty-five cases have been reported. Here it has been learned that the cause came from the spreading of compost over the farms and the continued dry weather. The State Board of Health expresses the opinion that it is necessary for the people of Newark and Jersey City to exert themselves in the matter of securing protection from epidemic diseases. They call attention to the bad effects that come from the presence of the great manure heaps on the Hackensack River, and that they should do something at once to rid themselves of these nuisances. Investigation here as well as in foreign countries show these heaps to be a source of much trouble, and spread diseases.

—There is to be a new road house established between Dunellen and Bound Brook at the turn of the road continuing out from Front street.

Shiloh's Cough Cure

This is beyon question the most successful Cough Medicine we have ever sold; a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price 10c., 50c. and $1. If your lungs are sore, chest, or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by J. G. Miller, No. 10 East Front street, Plainfield, N. J. 6 28 tf

WE ARE GLAD

To know that at least one of our competitors knows we are in town. We are always glad to have them criticise our advertising. It shows they feel us and our ability to sell shoes cheaper than they can, and that is what hurts. Our patrons do not kick when we give them bargain shoes, but we can understand why the competitor should object. We will sell you any kind of a shoe you want, but we advise you to buy our

TREATMENT for CONSUMPTION.

To the PHYSICIANS of Plainfield and Vicinity.

I would respectfully announce that I am prepared to supply the Solution of Iodo-Chloride of Gold and Manganese, lately suggested by Drs. Shurly and Gibbes, for the treatment of Consumption.

Recent experiments seem to promise better results from the use of this remedy than have been attained by any of the newly proposed methods of treatment, not excepting that of Dr. Koch. Absolute purity of materials and careful manipulation are required for the successful preparation of the Solution which, after repeated trials, we have attained.

THE ARIZONA KICKER.

Some Kicks Worthy of an Enterprising Western Editor.

THE COLONEL COULDN'T HELP BEING ABSENT.

THE deadlock in the common council was broken last night by the absence of Col. Taylor. The colonel couldn't help being absent. Some of the boys had him out in the suburbs, under a tree, with a rope around his neck. It was either hang or break the combination, and the colonel decided to help break it. We want to say right here and now that if there is any more "fussing" in the council we will move to impeach the whole gang, and if we can't get 'em impeached we'll head a body of outraged citizens and clean 'em out to a man. They were elected to do public business and the public is in no humor to put up with their personal quarrels. Col. Taylor exhibited wisdom in coming down off his high horse, and we trust the lesson he received will not soon be forgotten.

A WORD TO THE MAYOR.—The mayor of this town hasn't the decency of a wolf nor the dignity of a monkey. He has been drunk at least three times a week for the last month, and he would as soon pull hair with a half-breed as to argue with a gentleman. We've got tired of his capers and we now give him due notice that unless he comes to a right-about-face we'll give him dead away and rid the community of his presence. An individual about his size is wanted in one of the eastern states for cow stealing, and while we don't want to be pizen mean we owe a duty to this community. We have got our eye on the mayor.

COME OUT, JIM!—While Jim Kaniff was not elected mayor of this place on a temperance platform, the public expected him to be decent about getting drunk and whooping up and down the streets. It is with sorrow that we announce the fact that Jim is a complete failure except as an old soak. He hasn't drawn a sober breath in six months, and his official career has been enough to shame a wolf out of the country. We have kept quiet on this matter, hoping Jim would brace up, but the time has come for a little plain talk. We say to him in the most friendly spirit, that he must come out of that and brace up. The boys are muttering and growling, and if his honor continues his present career something will happen within a fortnight. He'll be waited upon by a committee, mounted on a mule, and the mule will be headed towards the hills and told to travel. His honor will keep going and never return, or if he should be foolish enough to refuse, the boys will plant him and proceed to sign a call for a special election.

NO RED TAPE.—We learn that a gentleman named Scott is coming here from Ohio to establish a bank. It is good news, but we feel it our duty to utter a few words of friendly advice to the newcomer. Remain sober during business hours. Don't be too anxious to pick a quarrel in order to show off. Have a back room where the boys can sit down and discuss financial questions. If any of our people want $50 for sixty days don't demand that the whole town shall indorse. Make your rate of interest a reasonable one. Treat every faro bank alike, and show up in one saloon as often as in another. By paying attention to the customs and characteristics of our people you will do a rushing business here and be elected to the legislature. The other road leads to certain failure and a midnight departure.—Detroit Free Press.

A Clever Dodge.

A man who was fond of a joke went to the market, where he stopped at a poulterer's stall.

"Two dozen black hen eggs, if you please."

The woman in charge opened her eyes wide with astonishment—

"How can anyone tell the eggs of a black hen?"

"I can."

"Well, then, choose for yourself."

The customer picked out the twenty-four largest eggs he could find, paid, and walked off.—O. Estarrejense.

The Telltale Chestnut.

Miss Haughton—M. De Luc, pray explain yourself. What did you mean by shrugging your shoulders at the dinner table when I told them that that nut I made was original with me?

M. De Luc—Ah! mademoiselle did not see. Zat was ze great compliment, mademoiselle. Zat was to say mademoiselle do not look as ze centenarian.—Harper's Bazar.

Feline Amenities.

Cora—I do so adore a masquerade ball; one can be made love to and no one knows who is who.

Her Friend (sweetly)—Lucky for you, dear; isn't it?—Judge.

Quality of Circulation.

Advertisers should consider the kind or quality as well as the size of the circulation of the paper they propose to use. Nobody ever saw an advertisement of "Ben-Hur" in The Police Gazette. A merchant who wishes to reach the family circle is throwing good money away to advertise in a "street publication"—a sheet that is bought for its cheap sensations, which is read in a hurry and the paper then thrown aside. It goes without saying that a journal which enters the homes, which is read by every member of the family, is infinitely more valuable as an advertising medium than one of double or triple its circulation, when the vast bulk of this circulation is in the saloons, the restaurants and the offices—to be scanned, not read, and then thrown into the waste basket.—Cleveland World.

SEABRIGHT IN RUINS

The New Jersey Summer Resort Swept by Flames.

OVER 400 BUILDINGS BURNED.

One Hundred Families Driven Into the Streets and Are Homeless.

The One Fire Company in the Town Was Helpless—Firemen Brought in from Asbury Park and Long Branch—Affecting Scenes in the Streets—The Loss Estimated at $500,000.

SEABRIGHT, N. J., June 17.—This well-known summer resort was visited by a disastrous fire last night, which reduced to ashes the larger portion of the town. About four hundred buildings were burned. Several hundred families have been rendered homeless. The total loss will reach at least $500,000.

The fire broke out in a livery stable on River street, and as a gale of wind was blowing along the coast at the time the flames spread rapidly. In a remarkably short time a whole block of buildings on River street was burning. There is but a small fire department in the town and help was telegraphed for from Long Branch and Asbury Park.

By the time this assistance arrived a large portion of the southern portion of the town was in flames.

Women and children ran through the streets crying and wringing their hands in a frantic manner, while the men aided the firemen in attempting to check the flames.

The flames at this time made such rapid headway that in many instances the inmates of the buildings barely had time to escape with their lives.

The Burned Section.

The section burned over extends from the Shrewsbury River to the ocean and to the point where the New Jersey Southern Railroad crosses Ocean Grove.

Among the buildings burned were the postoffice, the Seabright and Poppenger's Hotels, the Methodist Church, schoolhouse, buildings occupied by the New Jersey Telephone Company and the Elberon Steamboat Company. Part of the Octagon Hotel was burned.

Many residences were burned, and the portion in which the fishermen dwell suffered severely. Many of these hardy people lost their all and to-day are homeless and penniless.

Many of the wealthy citizens and the hotels which escaped destruction have thrown open their houses to the sufferers.

Pastor Owens of the Asbury M. E. Church, lost everything after he thought he had escaped. His furniture was moved into the street, but before it could be carted away it was set on fire by a spark and burned.

One of the saddest features of the fire lies in the fact that but few of the dwellings were insured, the inmates being unable to carry any insurance. Upon the total loss not more than half is covered by insurance, Editor Van Sant of the Sentinel says his paper will be issued this week from the office of the Long Branch Times.

THE GREAT SUBURBAN.

Over 30,000 People saw Loantaka Win the Sensational Race.

NEW YORK, June 17.—The great Suburban has been run and will pass into history as the greatest turf event of 1891.

Never before has such a crowd witnessed a horse race in this country, and this despite the fact that it was the hottest June day ever known in the vicinity of New York. At the track it was simply blazing, blistering hot, with not a nook or corner within reach where the heat could be escaped.

A conservative estimate placed the number of persons present at 30,000, but many believed that 40,000 was much nearer the figure.

The race itself proved very sensational, inasmuch as Tenny, who went to the post the hottest favorite ever known in the Suburban, was not only defeated for first place, but finished in the ruck. The second choice, Tea Tray, finished absolutely last, but Major Domo, the third choice, managed to get the place by a length from Cassius.

The winner turned up in Loantaka, the 5-year-old son of Sensation and Peggy Dawdle, who was a long shot in the betting, there being as much as 40 to 1 against him.

When the judges summoned the horses to the post they paraded past the grand stand and back again. After a little manœuvering they came down toward the starter on a line. Down went the red flag, and with a mighty roar of "They're off!" the race was on.

Major Domo was the first to break the line, and came toward the stand with a head the best of it, while Cassius was second, a length before Banquet, who was a length in front of Demuth, who in turn was a head before Isaac Lewis, with the rest all bunched. Tenny, Tea Tray and Loantaka were bringing up the rear. Tea Tray was sulking and, notwithstanding Garrison's efforts, refused to run.

When the backstretch was reached the order was about the same, and Murphy tried to improve his position on Tenny, but the little swayback could not gain a yard. As they approached the upper turn, Major Domo had three-quarters of a length the best of it, while Demuth was two lengths in front of Cassius, with Fitzjames next, followed by Tenny, who was getting the whip. The interest at this period was intense and shouts of dismay arose. "Tenny is beaten," cried the backers of the favorite, and so he was, for, notwithstanding Murphy's most vigorous efforts, Tenny could not improve his position.

As they swung into the stretch, Major Domo was the first to show, a head before Demuth, who was a head before Cassius. They ran in this order down to the last furlong, when Bergen cut loose with Loantaka and it was all over. With space-killing strides he passed horse after horse, amid the plaudits of winners and losers alike, and won, a length and a half from Major Domo, who beat Cassius a length for the place. Then came Fitzjames, Banquet, Tenny, Riley, Demuth, Isaac Lewis and Tea Tray in the order named.

The fractional time of the race was: Quarter, 0:23 1-5; half, 0:50; three-quarters, 1:15; mile, 1:41; mile and a quarter, 2:07.

DISCUSSING THE SCALE.

The Amalgamated Convention Forwarding Its Work Very Rapidly.

PITTSBURG, June 17.—The Amalgamated convention will soon be through with the wage scale discussion, and by the end of the week will probably be going over the reports of the officers. These are also very important in the convention, and this year will show that the organization is splendidly equipped in their knowledge of all the details of their branch of the industry. The reports will also show that the association is well supplied with the sinews of war, better, perhaps, than any single labor organization in the world.

It is expected that the discussion on the iron scale will close to-day, and the work of the scale committee approved by the adoption of the schedule. Then either the officers' reports or the steel scale will come up. From this point on, however, the work of the convention will go forward very rapidly. There will be little time spent on the other officers' reports, and, as the iron scale is the foundation of all their work, the rest will be finished in a hurry.

The election of officers will also be put through without much loss of time. The incumbents are recognized as being fully able to fill the bill, and will be given an undivided vote as an expression of satisfaction and confidence.

THE FIGHT AT BRIDGEPORT.

Excitement Over the Police Muddle Has Quieted Down.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., June 17.—Excitement over the police muddle has quieted down somewhat and no general outbreak is feared at present.

Counsel for the old Democratic Board of Police have brought two actions in the courts against Chief Hylands, which serve to tie his hands until the case can be tried. The case will be heard next Tuesday.

Capt. Pinkerton is acting chief at present under the direction of the mayor. The police detail was sent out last night as usual and good order prevailed.

The military assembled at 6 o'clock, but at 9 o'clock they were relieved from duty until further notice.

ACQUITTED OF MURDER.

Dennis Munley's Wife Was the Only Witness Against Him.

SCRANTON, Pa., June 17.—Dennis Munley was acquitted of the murder of Patrick Barrett in February last in the courts here. The murder was very brutal, Barrett being kicked to death.

Munley was acquitted because the only witness of the killing was his own wife. She was allowed to testify at the coroner's inquest, but the court would not permit her to be heard because she was disqualified by law.

Mary Emerson's Alleged Murderer.

BOSTON, June 17.—Regarding the identity of the man arrested at Baracoa as the alleged murderer of Miss Mary Emerson at Dedham, June 2, the Consul at that place telegraphs that the description sent by cable corresponds with the man as to eyes, nose and fact of speaking little English. He inquires whether this is sufficient to hold the prisoner. A cable will be sent asking if the man has the India ink marks referred to in the description as first cabled. If the reply is satisfactory immediate steps will be taken to have him brought to this country.

$1,000,000 Given to Hamilton University.

UTICA, N. Y., June 17.—At a meeting of the trustees of Colgate University at Hamilton, last evening, a letter from James B. Colgate of Yonkers was read. It was accompanied by an indenture, by which Mr. Colgate gives the University a million dollars without reserve. There are certain suggestions, however, among them one that the principles of the Baptist creed be taught.

M'KINLEY SELECTED

Ohio Republicans Nominate Him for Governor.

THERE WAS NO OPPOSITION.

The Balance of the Ticket Will be Nominated this Afternoon.

Asa Bushnell Permanent Chairman of the Convention—His Selection Said to be Foraker's Choice and a Defeat for Senator Sherman—Text of the Resolutions—Ohio Democrats to Meet.

COLUMBUS, O., June 17.—The capital of the Buckeye State bubbled over with Republican enthusiasm to-day. The crowd gathered here is the largest that has been drawn together by any political State convention since war times.

When the convention assembled this morning the prominent leaders of the party were enthusiastically cheered.

Asa Bushnell of Springfield was selected permanent chairman. The result is a signal defeat for Senator John Sherman and a corresponding victory for Joseph B. Foraker. The latter had 18 members of the committee out of 21.

Sherman was not even placed in nomination, although it had all along been understood that in coming here as a delegate-at-large he had expected to preside over the gathering. When, however, it was proposed that Bushnell be chosen by acclamation the three objected with one voice and protested against gag law. One in particular said that he had been sent to the convention as a Sherman man, and proposed to stand by his colors. Finally Bushnell was selected by a majority vote. This means that no resolution endorsing John Sherman for Senator will be submitted to-day. His last course, however, may be approved by a perfunctory resolution.

Major William J. McKinley was unanimously nominated for Governor.

After the nomination the convention took a recess and Major McKinley received his friends.

The remainder of the ticket will be completed this afternoon, and an open-air meeting will be held this evening, when the nominee for Governor will make a speech and accept the nomination.

The Resolutions.

The resolutions arraign and denounce the present Democratic State administration, and the recent Democratic Legislature is denounced for its falsity to its pledges, its incompetency, its extravagance, and its election to the United States Senate of a "financial speculator," and "a man who is practically a non-resident of Ohio, who had no record of statesmanship and nothing to recommend him for the honor but his money—a man more in sympathy with Wall street than with the people of this Commonwealth." Also for having unseated, without regard to even the forms of law, a legally elected Republican Lieutenant-Governor in obedience to the decree of a party caucus for purely partisan purposes.

The Democratic Legislature is also arraigned for passing the most unfair Congressional gerrymander ever enacted in a Northern State, under which the Republican party, with a majority of 20,000, was given less than one-third of Ohio's representation in the national House.

Ohio Democratic Committee.

COLUMBUS, O., June 17.—Chairman Norton has called the State Democratic Committee to meet here on June 24 to fix a date for the State Democratic convention.

GEN. GROSVENOR RESIGNS.

Secretary Foster Will Give Him Another Position of Responsibility.

WASHINGTON, June 17.—Secretary Foster has received the following dispatch from Gen. Grosvenor, chairman of the Immigration Commission to visit Europe:

"Fearing that the assaults upon me by certain of the press on misrepresentation will impair, if not destroy, my usefulness in the Immigration Commission, I respectfully tender my resignation. I cannot afford to hold office to the injury of my party. Let my resignation take effect at the pleasure of the Department."

Gen. Grosvenor's resignation will be accepted to-day. Secretary Foster says that the manly course of Gen. Grosvenor was highly appreciated by the President and by himself. The Secretary will give Gen. Grosvenor another position of equal rank and responsibility, thus testifying to his confidence in the General and his appreciation of the high stand he has taken.

Gladstone Entirely Recovered.

A GHASTLY FIND.

Several Dead Infants Found Secreted in a House at Hyde Park.

HYDE PARK, Mass., June 17.—Recently Calvin Schofield purchased and with his family moved into a house on Providence street. For several days past the family were annoyed by a stench about the premises, and investigation led to the discovery of the bodies of half a dozen partially dissected infants in the cellar and secreted in other parts of the house.

The former occupant of the house was a medical student, but it cannot be learned where he procured his subjects. The authorities are investigating the affair.

Firemen Fall from a Burning Bridge.

PITTSBURG, June 17.—A spark from a passing steamboat set fire to the Pittsburg end of the Sixth street bridge, connecting Pittsburg with Alleghany from Sixth street to Federal street. A strong breeze fanned the flames, and in a short time a large part of the first span was burning fiercely. After hard work the fire was extinguished causing a loss of $5,000. During the fire one of the lines of hose kinked, knocking two hosemen down. The liberated hose slashed about wildly, and knocked three other firemen off the bridge into the Alleghany river, twenty-five feet below. They were rescued by the crew of a passing tow boat.

Fire in a Cincinnati Hospital.

CINCINNATI, June 17.—Shortly after midnight fire was discovered in the City Hospital and the prompt work of the fire department saved the big building. The scene was a thrilling one, and for a while confusion reigned supreme. All of the patients were gotten out in safety, and in a short time the blaze was extinguished. The loss is about $3,000. Miss Herrington, a nurse, had to be lowered from a window.

A School Principal Arrested.

RONDOUT, N. Y., June 17.—Lincoln B. Haskins, principal of the South Rondout public school, was arrested here last evening by Deputy Sheriff Miller of Cortlandt County, on bastardy proceedings, instituted in behalf of Emily Southwick, a pretty 18-year-old farmer's daughter. The prisoner is unmarried and is about 35 years old.

Ex-Senator Warner Miller's Denial.

NEW YORK, June 17.—A dispatch from San Francisco says the charges of extravagance made against the officers of the Nicaragua Canal Company, are denied by Warner Miller, president of the company. The charges are made by B. C. Knight, who, Miller says, is a discharged employe and does not own any stock in the company.

Eloped at Fifteen.

WILMINGTON, Del., June 17.—The city of New Castle is much excited over the elopement of Fannie, the pretty 15-year-old daughter of Joseph Bartlett, with John H. Reed, a prominent business man. The girl left home presumably to visit relatives in Salem, N. J., but went to Delaware City where she met Reed, and the couple went to Wheeling, W. Va., and were married. Reed has a wife and

KILRAIN IS BEATEN

He Falls Before Slavin, the Australian.

NINE ROUNDS IN 35 MINUTES.

Referee Dunn Decides that the Baltimorean Was Not Knocked Out.

A Misunderstanding About Time Stops the Fight—Kilrain Was Knocked Down Several Times—He Stood the Australian's Punishment Gamely—A Large Crowd of Sports Present.

NEW YORK, June 17.—The glove contest for a purse of $10,000, of which $2,500 goes to the loser, between Frank P. Slavin of Australia, and Jake Kilrain of Baltimore, ended in the ninth round.

Referee Jere Dunn decides that Slavin won the battle. All bets that Slavin would knock out Kilrain, however, the referee decides off.

The result of the contest creates some dissatisfaction, but in the opinion of experts Dunn's rulings are fair.

The trouble arose over the failure of the electric gong to work, necessitating the appointment of a timekeeper, "honest" John Kelly, who after Kilrain was knocked down in the ninth round counted 10 seconds, whereupon the referee who did not see the Baltimorean's efforts to get up awarded the match to the Australian.

William Muldoon, Kilrain's second, entered a protest, and so did others, who claimed that the sound of the gong indicated only the ending of the round. It is purely a technical point.

From the first half of the third round it was practically certain that the $10,000 would go to Slavin. The contest therefore was a magnificent exhibition of gameness on the part of Kilrain—a quality partly due to the excellence of his condition. The Baltimorean is much the cleverer boxer, but Slavin's strength and reach told the story.

Friends of the champion, John L. Sullivan, among them Dan Murphy, of Boston, declare that the Australian would not last two rounds before the big fellow. Others express high admiration of Slavin's skill and consider him a world-beater.

Before the Fight.

A good crowd of sports cheered the principals and their seconds when they entered the ring at 11:18. Both men claimed to be in good condition. Kilrain weighed about 190 pounds, while Slavin tipped the beam at 185.

Slavin's seconds were Charley Mitchell, Pony Moore and Ed. Stoddard, while Kilrain's interests were looked after by William Muldoon, Mike Cleary and Dan Murphy.

The betting was decidedly in Slavin's favor.

The Battle.

Kilrain stood up pluckily in the first and second rounds, but after that Slavin got in some terrific blows, and Kilrain was repeatedly knocked down.

The third, fourth and fifth rounds were repetitions of the first and second, and in the fifth Kilrain was only saved from a knockout by the call of time.

The Baltimore man seemed wonderfully plucky in the sixth and seventh rounds and took considerable punishment, but in the eight he was evidently done for and could scarcely stand on his feet.

In the ninth round he went to ground at Slavin's first blow, cut struggled to his feet only to be knocked down again.

The Financial Part.

The managers said that they had no doubt that the financial part of the business was a success. Kilrain will receive $2,500, but it will scarcely be a salve to his wounded body and spirit.

Gibbons Knocks Out Varral.

LONDON, June 17.—Austin Gibbons knocked out Jim Varral in four rounds at the Pelican Club last night. Gibbons had it all his own way from the start.

CANADA'S CABINET.

The Present Members Will be Continued in Their Positions.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 17.—All reports as to the possibility of a crisis in Ministerial circles have been disposed of.

When the House of Commons met at 1 p. m., Sir Hector Langevine read a statement, which, he said, had been entrusted to him by Premier Abbott. It stated that, acting on Sir John Thompson's advice, he (Abbott) had instructed that the present Cabinet should be continued in their positions. Abbott will assume the position of President of the Privy Council, and the Railway Department will be administered by another member of the Cabinet.

Jews Emigrating to Constantinople.

LONDON, June 17.—Lord Salisbury has received a despatch from the British Consul at Odessa denying the reports of an exodus of Russian Jews to England, and saying that the ticket agencies had received numerous inquiries from Jews who were desirous of emigrating to America. The agencies have done very little, however, the majority of emigrants going to Constantinople.

Desertions from the Army.

JAIL FOR HERR MOST.

The New York Court of Appeals Affirms the Anarchist's Conviction.

NEW YORK, June 17.—The Court of Appeals handed down its decision affirming the judgment of conviction against Herr Johann Most, and now the apostle of anarchy must go to the penitentiary.

William F. Howe has been Most's counsel during all his troubles, and has succeeded in keeping the warp braised philosopher out of jail three and a half years.

Most was convicted of violating the statute against inciting persons to unlawful acts.

Most was arrested, tried, convicted and sentenced before Judge Cowing, who told Most that he had an overwhelming majority of the American people against him, and in America the majority rules.

Most was sentenced on Dec. 8, 1887, to one year in the Blackwell's Island Penitentiary. The case has been in the courts ever since. This will be Herr Most's second visit to "the Island." He served a year on the Island by a sentence of Recorder Smyth pronounced in May, 1890, for a similar speech in which he held up a rifle, said they cost $10 each and advised his friends to buy them to shoot capitalists with.

ORDERED OUT OF TOWN.

Dr. Jones of Scranton Suspected of Causing the Death of His Wife and Child.

SCRANTON, Pa., June 17.—Dr. A. E. Jones, who has been practising medicine in the Providence section of the city, has been warned to leave Scranton. A petition signed by leading business men and citizens in that portion of the city politely told him to remove, in order to save trouble.

Dr. Jones is charged with having neglected his practice and treated his family with barbarous cruelty, the death of an infant child being followed on Friday last by that of his wife, whom he is charged with having abused.

The wife's body was sent to Wilmington, Del., to her family for burial, kind-hearted neighbors looking after this ceremony, while the husband absented himself from the house, and even refused to accompany the corpse to the last resting place.

The Big Blast a Success.

SOUTH BETHLEHEM, N. Y., June 17.—The big blast at Callahan's quarry was a grand success. When everything was ready the engineer in the engine house, 300 feet from the rock, started his engines, and when the electric light on the hill shone out good and bright, showing that the current was strong, then Miss Callahan, after giving the engineer time to leave the quarry, stepped to the switch board, took hold of the button, gave the small lever a turn and instantly the great mass of rock gave way with a terrific shock. The concussion was felt for several miles around.

—Tier's ice-cream is the one thing that keeps people cool and makes life enjoyable these intensely hot days. The only reason that the PRESS office employes managed to survive the labor of getting out this issue was because Mr. Tier sent around a generous quantity of his delicious cream, which is so refreshing and invigorating that to those who partake of it it seems like the elixir of perpetual youth.

A Bicyclist Injured by a Dangling Wire.

James Allen Sangston was riding along Park avenue on his bicycle after the shower last evening when he ran into an electric messenger service wire which was dangling in the air. The wire caught him under the chin and had he not applied the brake at once and brought himself to a sudden halt it must have cut his throat. As it was an ugly welt was raised on the flesh, and he and his machine were somewhat damaged by the tumble they had to take. A similar accident happened to Dr. Wells a short time ago.

FOR THREE weeks I was suffering from a severe cold in my head, accompanied by a pain in the temples. Ely's Cream Balm was recommended to me. After only six applications of the balm every trace of my cold was removed. —Henry C. Clark, New York Appraiser's Office.

LIGHTNING, WIND AND RAIN.

A Fierce and Destructive Storm Visits Plainfield and Vicinity.

The storm which burst over this city yesterday afternoon was a welcome change from the intense and oppressive heat in which the people had been sweltering so many painful hours. The breezes that began to stir when the dark clouds came skimming across the mountain tops, shutting out the sun's fierce glare, and giving promise of cooling showers, were very refreshing. The business of downtown offices and store, which all day had been as nearly like ovens as anyone cared to have them, was for a time suspended, and the clerks gathered at open windows and on the sidewalks to watch the progress of events. For some time the great swirling clouds kept sheering off from Plainfield without shedding the drops that would have been so welcome, and presently blue sky and hot sun again were visible, and it looked as if the city were not going to receive any of the moisture that the clouds contained and that was being scurried away to other sections. But fresh clouds loomed up on the horizon, and soon the thunders from being distant and muttering became loud and violent, and a drenching downpour of rain began.

The wind that blew during the storm did not seem fierce to those who watched it, but its strength was greater than was realized. It tore large limbs from the shade trees in various parts of the city, and wrecked high board fences every chance it got. Along Fifth street and other thoroughfares several fine trees were dismembered. The torrents of rain that fell submerged the streets under the railway bridges and the crossings at the street corners. It came down faster than it could be carried away.

The display of lightning was very peculiar. The air was constantly filled with terrific flashes, forking, splitting and zig-zagging in every direction. Frequently innumerable flashes would burst forth on divergent lines from a common centre, and the atmosphere was continually vibrating with the sharp cracklings of the discharges. Sparks kept issuing from the electric wires in the streets, and telephone bells kept jingling, and telegraph keys clicking, with messages from cloudland.

When the worst of the storm was over, and the artillery of the sky was retreating eastward, there came a sudden terrific crash, the most startling, deafening and unexpected of all, and everybody knew that something had been struck. There were two forks to the thunderbolt that caused so tremendous a clap. One struck the wires of the electric light station, and rent into fragments the armature of one of the big and expensive dynamos. The noise of the explosion was ear-splitting, and a great flash of flame filled the place for an instant. The shock stunned the workmen momentarily, but no serious injury resulted. The lights attached to the shattered dynamo of course were extinguished for a time, but as soon as possible another dynamo was attached, and later a brand-new armature was substituted for the ruined one.

The other fork of the thunderbolt struck in a vacant lot on Sixth street, adjoining J. J. Sharp's carriage factory. Mr. Sharp, who saw the flash and was for a time dazed by it, says that it seemed to burst with a fearful crash into midair right before him, and that its many forks then entered the ground without damage.

Electric wires were torn from the poles in various parts of the city. Henry Southard was passing along West Front street, near Liberty, when he stumbled on a mass of fallen wires. Heedless of the fact that they were "live" and charged with a heavy current, he took hold of them to clear them out of the way. Instantly he was doubled up with an agonizing shock, and only with great difficulty was the strong man able to free himself from the wires. He managed to limp painfully homeward without assistance, but he was very weak, and his nerves were shattered, by the shock.

Lightning has in times past committed many strange freaks, but never a queerer one than that which it did at the home of John W. Murray, Jr., First Assistant Chief of the Fire Department. A flash entered through the open window of one of the rooms down stairs. Besides the crackling crash peculiar to a lightning stroke there was heard a sudden heavy slam. The sash that a moment before was raised to the top of the window frame had been lowered by unseen hands. The window that had been open was shut; the lightning had clutched it and pulled it down in passing. The flash did no damage to the house, but entered the bell and tapper which is Mr. Murray's part of the fire-alarm signal system. The electricity passed safely off through the wire, and did no serious damage, but it broke the wire and sent in a blow, signifying "break", on the fire-gong. At nine o'clock in the evening the break was found and repaired, causing another single blow to be sounded. The fire-alarm signal boxes were not injured, nor could they easily be damaged by lightning. When the doors to the boxes are shut the boxes are cut off from all electric connection, so that only a most tremendous discharge can cross the space left vacant, complete the circuit, and pass through the mechanism of the boxes. Nevertheless, as a precautionary measure, all the boxes will be tested by Chief Engineer Doane to-day.

A large tree on West Front street between Dunellen and Evona was shattered by lightning and another near by was blown over.

The lightning bit a huge chunk out of the trunk of a valuable shade tree, a horse chestnut, in the yard at the corner of Peace and Second streets, where Isaac Connett lives, and crippled the tree so that it will have to be cut down.

THE STORM IN THE MOUNTAINS.

Crops Destroyed by Hailstones, and Trees Laid Low.

To the residents of Passaic Valley, on the other side of the mountain range which sheltered North Plainfield and Plainfield, the storm seemed a veritable tornado. The wind blew with great violence, uprooting trees, and bowling over telegraph poles like tenpins. The telegraph service was cut completely off, and messages from Plainfield had to be sent by train. The storm began in a furious whirlwind. A huge black cloud, from which lightning flashed incessantly, seemed to spring out of the very ground in the northeast. Large hailstones fell, cutting off the young corn in many fields, and leveling the wheat and rye, which was just blooming. The farmers welcomed the rain, which was of great benefit to the hay crop and vegetables.

A HURRICANE AT WESTFIELD.

A House Blown Down, and Other Damage Done.

The storm at Westfield began with hail. The wind did considerable damage. On Summit avenue a new house was being built by J. Wallace Cox, the carpenter and builder, for himself. The frame-work was raised and inclosed. Carpenters were at work in the building when the storm came up. The wind shook the house so that they fled. Scarcely were they out of it when a terrific gust blew it completely over, causing a total wreck, and a loss of at least $1,500. The roof went sailing on the wind to the house of Mr. Barnaby. Mrs. Barnaby, carrying her baby, fled from the bay-window just in the nick of time. The dismantled timbers crashed into the window just where she had been sitting. It was a narrow escape.

A small shed at Park street and the Boulevard, on lawyer Charles M. Codding's place, was wrecked. The horse of Wm. Smith, the painter, had been standing in the shed. When the timbers stopped falling around him he broke loose and ran away, till he struck a barbed-wire fence and got badly tangled in it. His flesh was terribly lacerated by the barbs.

Shade trees all over town were blown down. Two large ones were uprooted on Mountain avenue in front of William Gilby's house. One of them fell on Mr. Gilby's steps and smashed them. A large linden near the Presbyterian church was twisted off as though by a cyclone, leaving a stump three feet high.

A HOUSE STRUCK AT BOUND BROOK.

A Stove Shattered, and a Woman Prostrated by the Shock.

During the storm lightning struck the house of Philip Eder, father of Joseph Eder of North Plainfield, at Bound Brook. The lightning came down along the chimney, lifted the pots and kettles off the stove, shattered the stove itself, and tore a big hole in the wall. Mrs. Eder was stunned by the shock, and is still prostrated.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

The Rev. T. Logan Murphy sailed at 2 o'clock this afternoon on the White Star liner "Majestic", for a ten weeks' tour of Great Britain and the Continent.

An enjoyable afternoon tea was given at the residence of Mrs. B. A. Hegeman, Jr., yesterday, in aid of the Holy Cross Sunday-school enlargement fund.

Chief Doane of the Plainfield Fire Department, and Chief Stagg of the Paterson Fire Department, were at Easton, yesterday, the guests of Chief Smith. Both visiting Chiefs were members of the 11th New Jersey Regiment which held a reunion in Phillipsburg.

The PRESS office received a call to-day from F. E. Busby, a former resident of Plainfield and now of Denver, Col., where he acts as General Manager of The Washington Life Insurance Company of New York, for the State of Colorado. Mr. Busby speaks in glowing terms of Denver, and praises the trolley system of electric railways, which the city has adopted over the cable system.

The wedding of John Henry VanWinkle, the esteemed counselor and popular ex-Mayor of North Plainfield, to Miss Emma TenBroeck Judson, will take place to-morrow afternoon at two o'clock at Paris, Illinois. The bridal trip will include a visit to Chicago. The bride and groom will be at home on Duer street, North Plainfield, after July 1. The groom's residence has been handsomely refitted and refurnished, awaiting the happy coming of the bride.

Hung by the Hand on a Butcher's Hook.

James Heath had a hand badly torn by one of the hooks on which meat is hung, in George Moore's meat market, yesterday afternoon. He slipped from a chair on which he was standing, and as he fell the hook entered two of his fingers and made ugly holes in the flesh. The injury is a very painful one.

I SUFFERED from acute inflammation in my nose and head—for a week at a time I could not see. I used Ely's Cream Balm and in a few days I was cured. It is wonderful how quick it helped me.—Mrs. Georgie S. Judson, Hartford, Conn.

UNWELCOME TO WELCOME.

An Unhappy Incident in a Former Plainfielder's Married Life Brought About by a Personal Advertisement—His Wife Says the Men Thrown Out Were Her Sister's Friends.

A few months ago one of the acknowledged belles of this city was Mrs. Edward Welcome. Her beauty attracted attention wherever she went, and as she was often on the streets of Plainfield and a constant attendant of Music Hall entertainments almost everybody had seen her and admired her. Since then she has resided at 13 Bank street, Newark, where during Wednesday night of last week her husband was responsible for certain violent scenes which neither of them deny.

He returned to his home at a late hour, so the story goes, and found two young men in the house, one of whom is said to be a prominent young society man of Plainfield. Without waiting to learn whether the visitors called to see him on business or for some other purpose, he rudely seized one of them, hurled him stairward, bounced him down the steps, and finally kicked him pitilessly into the night. Visitor number two, not liking Welcome's undue familiarity, sought to avoid a meeting, but was forced to submit to an illegal process of forcible ejectment, such as had brought pain to his comrade's person and sorrow to his finer feelings.

It must not be inferred that Mrs. Welcome upholds her husband's rude conduct; on the contrary, she is pronounced in her condemnation of it, and claims that he acted under a misapprehension of facts. Mrs. Welcome is an easy conversationalist and pretends to the possession of literary ability. She has contributed many articles, she says, to magazines and newspapers. She dresses in a bewitching manner, very becoming to her style of intellect. Lately she has followed the profession of manicurist, or chiropodist, including among her patrons many old and new friends of this city. The revenue from her practice of polishing nails far exceeds the income derived by her husband in his business of driving nails. Mr. Welcome is a carpenter.

"It is really mortifying to me that such an unpleasant scene should have been enacted in my house"—said Mrs. Welcome to a reporter.—"My patrons are people of high respectability, and it may be that my husband's unceremonious and, I must say, disgraceful conduct, may tend to injure me temporarily in my profession. There was not the slightest justification for my husband's rudeness. My sister makes her home with me. She is seventeen years of age, and her regular company is an exceedingly agreeable young gentleman. Mabel and I were introduced to my sister's young man by a well-known physician at a reception given at Senger Hall. He asked to call on my sister, and she granted the request. While on his way to see Mabel he met a friend, a 'pal', you know, who, by the way, had also been introduced to us, and invited him to go along. My sister and her young man engaged in pleasant chat at one end of the room, and the other young man sat at the centre table looking at pictures and books. I was reading at another table.

"At about 11:30 o'clock one young man remarked to the other: 'We must not forget the 12 o'clock car'. The other replied: 'I'm ready any time you are'. Well, like lovers, you know, my sister and her company heeded not the flight of time. About midnight I heard the front door open and some one pass upstairs. Thinking it was a party who lodges in the house I paid no attention to the incident. What was my surprise a moment later to see my husband, who I had not seen before in two weeks, emerge from my bedroom door.

"'Good evening, Mr. W.'—was my greeting. I call him W. for short. Without even replying to my greeting Mr. Welcome seized my sister's friend and started towards the stairs with him. After throwing the gentlemen out Mr. Welcome turned towards his companion, who was endeavoring to get away without being roughly used. He failed to escape, however, and like his gentleman friend was abused. I feel for the young gentlemen and for my sister. Her friend will probably never call to see her again

"My husband is insanely jealous, and has not the slightest provocation for such feeling. I can not be too severe in condemnation of his conduct. So jealous is Mr. Welcome that he has more than once threatened to bring me to open shame."

The husband, just to be contrary perhaps, or because he thinks he is right, tells a story which differs entirely from his wife's narrative. He was at Summit, working on a building being erected by a Newark builder, when, in a letter, a friend advised him to pay some attention to things at home. Welcome says he decided to visit Newark Wednesday night. He found no one at home when he called, but there were two empty bottles and some glasses on a table, besides several cigarettes.

He searched through some female wearing apparel, and he claims that he found in his wife's pocket-book a slip authorizing the bearer to receive answers to letters addressed "Sincere, Box H, News office". After a long search he found a copy of the News containing the following personal:

PETITE, REFINED, SOUTHERN LADY of 25 desires the aquaintance of an honorable, handsome, dark man of means. Address SINCERE, Box H, News office.

This angered him, he frankly admits, and although he did n't enter into details, he expressed himself generally on the subject of "personal" advertisements. When he found the strange men in his house he proceeded to knock them out, and he thinks he succeeded effectually. He says he cut both men about the head and face.

Mr. and Mrs. Welcome were married nine years ago in an inland town in New York State. She was then a telephone girl. The couple moved from Plainfield to Newark about a year ago. Mrs. Welcome opened the business of manicurist and chiropodist which she had followed in New York. Her sister has lived with her since her marriage to Welcome.

In speaking of her husband, Mrs. Welcome said that he has occasional insane spells and that her friends have advised her to separate from him.

"But I am not one who thinks lightly of marriage ties"—she continued.—"I have suffered a good deal, but I have put up with it rather than make my troubles public."

Mr. Welcome says that four years ago he had trouble with his wife while they lived in Saratoga.

CHASED HIS MOTHER WITH A KNIFE.

The Woman Afraid to Stay Home at Night, for Fear Her Son Would Kill Her.

Charles Bradford Donaldson, a ten-year-old lad whose parents live at Westfield, was captured last night by detective John M. C. Marsh, who has been looking for him for some time. Young Donaldson is an incorrigible boy. He possesses a fiendish temperament, and has long been a terror to his father and mother. Recently he chased his mother out of her own yard and stoned her, so that she had to take refuge with neighbors. Later he attacked her with a big butcher knife and repeatedly tried to stab her. She told Mr. Marsh she was afraid of her life, and did n't dare to stay home alone nights, for fear the boy would kill her. When her husband has been away she has had to sleep at the home of friends, and even with her husband at home she has been in constant danger, as the lad would attack his father just as ferociously, and was a wild beast in strength and deviltry. Some weeks ago young Donaldson burned up a barrack of hay. In every way he has been a terror to the town. His parents asked Mr. Marsh to arrest him, but the young scapegoat kept out of sight. Last evening Mr. Marsh came across some boys who sat on a big clothes basket, holding down the cover. From the basket smothered cries issued.

"Hello, boys!"—said the detective.—"What have you in the basket?"

"Charlie Donaldson!"—they answered. So Mr. Marsh got his prisoner in a jiffy and took him to the Elizabeth jail. The lad will be sent to the Reform School.

DYING OF POISON.

Fatal Mistake of Aged Mrs. Keen, Who Plucked a Deadly Plant for a Vegetable.

Mrs. William Keen is dying of poison at her home in Union Village. She was getting greens from the garden a few days ago when by mistake she plucked a number of deadly poisonous wild parsnips. Whether or not she cooked some of the fatal plant with the greens that she ate, or whether the mere handling of the poison caused the sad result, is not known, but at any rate the next day large white swollen blotches appeared on her hands and spread all over her body. The usual remedies were applied, and medical aid was given, but the woman's sufferings grew constantly worse, and now her life is despaired of.

Mrs. Keen is more than 80 years of age. Her husband was formerly principal of the Newark High School.

Are the "Futile Five" Blocking Another Public Benefit?

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—Can you give us any reason why the Council are so slow in either opening or refusing to open Peace street? The Y. M. C. A. have been very patient for a long time awaiting their movements, but now I understand they are getting tired, and some are advocating a new site. Now it would be a detriment to that part of our city to have them leave it, but no one could blame them. I have understood that the "Big 6", as they are called, are in favor of it, and ready to act. But what is the matter with the "5" who seem to have the matter in charge? Are they trying to kill another grand improvement? If you can give us any light on the subject you will oblige.

"THE PUBLIC."

The Veterans Marched Through Lines of Children.

Captain William Hand and T. O. Doane, of this city, John Goodwin, of North Plainfield, and A. S. Titsworth, of Dunellen, were among the veterans of the Eleventh Regiment, N. J. Vols., present at its reunion in Phillipsburg yesterday. It was an inspiring affair. As the old heroes marched through the streets the school children arranged themselves along each side and sang "America" and "Marching Through Georgia".

The men marched by the children with uncovered heads and at first in silence, yet the feeling within them was plainly visible from their moistened eyes. As the column moved to the church on Chambers street, the men were again marched through two lines of scholars. The scene was too inspiring for the veterans to retain their silence any longer, and they gave vent to their feelings with hearty cheers. The children sang "The Red, White and Blue".

The Harrisons' Way of Keeping Cool.

Alonzo Randolph and Harrison Randolph, two brothers, colored men, kept cool in spite of the intense heat yesterday. They had a fight in a Second street alley. After each had done considerable pummeling one got the other down and cuffed and kicked him to his heart's content. Then both went home happy.

WORDS.

Arrow of flame! or blow of might!
Keen sword, or weapon weak and trite!
Viewless, while winged with burdened trust,
More potent than this arm of dust,
They woke to life in earlier Greece
Those slumbering in inglorious peace,
They shook Rome's Forum with their might,
Till deaf she fell in darkest night.

Words! lighter than the floating down
That crests the ripened thistle's crown!
Words! deadlier in their soothing stroke
Than the thunderbolt that rends the oak!
Who has not wept in proud despair
O'er wrecks made by these things of air?
Who has not listened to the song—
Sung by the siren Hope—too long?

As the "Son of Peace" on the raging sea,
Spoke words that stilled wild Galilee,
So gentle words have shown their power
Breathed low in some tempestuous hour.
They have sounded like a trumpet's call
To build for right one mighty wall,
Moving like fate some mighty host
Seeming to truth and honor lost.

They burn on many an immortal page,
Undimmed by the corroding dust of age;
Inscribed by sage or poet old,
Whose spell the hearts of men yet hold.
Oh! deathless words that live and glow,
That thrilled men's veins in the long-ago.
The spirit flame their page inspires
Were caught from deathless altar-fires.

DID HE DO RIGHT?

A Nice Question of Ethics for Readers to Decide.

Jerry and Pete were two industrious mechanics. They lived in a fourth ward tenement, and each had a couple of children to support, besides their wives, who, also, were not unacquainted with a noble art frequently practised by char-women.

Jerry and Pete were hard workers; they worked far into the night, and occasionally the thin mists of dawn had begun to break on the narrow city pavements before their labors would cease. Nobody would say that theirs was not a hard-earned pillow. Sometimes they did not toil in vain. It depended largely upon the police.

It was a chilly night in November that this horny-handed pair planned the burglary of a certain safe in the establishment of a furniture concern on the West Side. On the evening in question the book-keeper had had a wrangle with his accounts.

"I can't make head or tail of this," he said to the senior member of the firm, "but I know every thing is all right. An error of several hundred dollars has been carried over from each daily footing but where the error begins or ends I haven't found out."

The fact was the monthly sales had been extraordinarily large, and a page of the balance had been mislaid. The head book-keeper spent an hour in again casting up both the entries of himself and his subordinates after the establishment closed its doors for the day.

Then he went home for his supper, determined to locate the deficit if he didn't get a wink of sleep that night.

Book-keepers, it must be remembered, have singularly sensitive organisms, susceptible to the slightest atom of any thing which reflects upon their probity or skill.

At half past eight he returned and commenced anew his critical calculations. He worked precisely two hours, at the end of which time he suddenly slapped his forehead and exclaimed:

"Great Scott! Why haven't I looked through the safe for a missing sheet? Ten to one Weeks forgot to number them!"

He turned over the pages of the balance in his hand and, sure enough, the usual numerical mark of designation in the upper left-hand corner was wanting. In all likelihood one page, or perhaps two, had slipped in some remote corner of the safe.

The safe was a large one, partially receding into the wall, and containing all the papers documents and several days' receipts in cash and drafts of the firm.

The book-keeper, in his efforts to unearth the lost page was obliged to introduce his entire body into the safe. Fearful lest the candle he held should attract attention from the street, showing out as it did in glaring relief against the black recesses of the safe, before entering he drew the door slightly ajar.

As he stepped in the tail of his coat probably caught on an angle of the huge riveted hinges of the lock. The massive gate swung to as if it weighed no more than a single pound and the book-keeper was a prisoner.

He heard a resonant click, that was all, and his candle went out.

There is nothing especially remarkable about the incident—tragic as it certainly must have been to the unfortunate wretch inside. Many men have been imprisoned in safes before. But this reflection would hardly soothe the agony of that horrible moment.

The book-keeper at the outset lost his presence of mind. He fought like a caged demon, after first exerting almost superhuman strength against the four sides of the iron tomb. Then his body gave out, and without for an instant losing consciousness he found himself sitting in a partially upright posture unable to stir hand or foot.

At that instant, when hours seemed to have elapsed, the drum of his ear, now abnormally sensitive, was almost split into fragments. A frightful monotonous clangor rent the interior of the safe.

The book-keeper used to say afterward that a second's deviation of characteristic thought and he would have gone mad.

Stronger minds in a parallel situation would have collapsed. But a weaker personality clings more strongly to hope. Only weak individuals while in the act of drowning catch at straws. As the book-keeper felt himself gradually growing faint from want of air his revivified hope led him to deliberately crash his first into the woodwork with which the interior of the safe was fitted, in secretaire fashion, one drawer being built above another.

As may have been conjectured, the noise which smote the book-keeper's ear was that of a drill. Although keenly distinguished from the inside, the sound was practically smothered on the outside of the vault.

At one end of the drill was a cavity rapidly growing larger in one of the steel panels. At its other end was a heavy, warty flat, part of the anatomy of Pete, the industrious mechanic.

Pete held the drill while his friend Jerry pounded it in.

Pretty soon the two burglars became aware that a terrible commotion was going on within the safe. It nearly drove them into fits. They were certainly very much startled.

Jerry was for throwing up the job, but his companion rejected the proposal with scorn as savoring of the superstitious. Pete had a large family to support, he argued. He spoke frankly to his friend and co-laborer. The burden of his remarks was in these words:

"You make me tired with yer ghosts and things, and I don't want any more darn fooling—see? De blamed job is most t'rough, any way."

Pete and Jerry went back to work. At the first crack of the drill Jerry said: "Pete, there's a man or something in that safe!"

Both men grew as pale as ghosts at the mere suggestion. Pete intrepidly applied his ear, first to the lock and then to the drill-hole.

"Hey, in there!" he shouted, not so loud, however, as to be heard out on the sidewalk. There came the faint responsive, very faint indeed:

"For God's sake, give me air! I am locked in here. Try and burst open the safe."

The two burglars did not stop to talk, but went at once to work as if their own lives depended on the result of their labors, instead of the unfortunate book-keeper's. In less than three minutes they had a hole somewhat smaller than the business end of a collar button knocked into that safe.

Then they stopped to rest, and the man inside, who had come so near to death, breathed.

It was now that the two burglars became aware of their predicament. In all probability this was a member of the firm or an employe. This fact knocked the success of the night's adventure sky-high, unless, when they let the man out, they gagged and bound him into silence.

But this course would have an ugly look. It might mean murder in the end, whereas, if they did not let him out, the chances were he would fall back exhausted before morning, and they would still be murderers and responsible for his taking off.

These were highly comforting reflections, but there was still one more powerful. What it was remains to be seen.

"Hey in there!" cried Pete, "what's the combination of yer safe?"

"3—15—78," came back in an almost sepulchral tone.

It was evidently hard work to draw breath through that hole. In exactly fifteen seconds the lock of the safe gave forth the same resonant click it had given a half-hour previously. Thanks to the advent of the burglars, it opened as lightly and airily as it had closed just thirty minutes before on the unhappy accountant.

The latter gasped once or twice, and without any assistance stepped out into the free air.

Now comes the interesting part.

He was very pale and his dress was much torn and disordered when he stepped to the floor, but the pallor gave way to red flush at perceiving the two burglars.

They stood stock still as if they had seen a ghost.

Without any kind of speech or warning or any attempt at bravado the book-keeper walked straight to his desk and rang a call for police.

Almost simultaneously, so quick and quiet was the action, he opened a drawer, took out a pistol and covered the two burglars with a fatal precision. As he did so he uttered these words:

"Gentlemen, I would be the basest of men if I did not feel profoundly grateful for what you have just done. I shall always regard you as any man should regard those who have saved his life with peril to themselves. Any thing you wish of me I shall make an effort to perform. I have accumulated a little money, and with it I shall see that the best counsel are engaged for your defense. If you are convicted, why—"

Here the officers entered, having broken in the door with a crash.—N. Y. Herald.

The Way We Look at It.

Shippen Clarke—You must excuse me, Hoyle, for having sent back that gift you sent me Christmas. I really could not accept so costly a thing, you know.

Stanford Hoyle—Tut, tut, man; my income is a hundred thousand.

Shippen Clarke—Yes, I know; but mine isn't, you know.—Puck.

That Accounts For It.

Jones (to his roommate)—That alarm-clock of yours is a nuisance. It makes noise enough to wake the dead.

Robinson—Still it doesn't arouse me.

Jones—Oh, well, you're from Philadelphia.—Judge.

The Road to Fortune.

"You look prosperous."

"I am prosperous."

"What line are you in?"

"I manufacture a complete assortment of silver antiques."—Jewelers' Circular.

Truthful Deception.

"Why you poor malarial mortal, you! I thought you told me your average health was good?"

"So I did. I run to chills one day and fever the next. The average is normal."—Munsey's Weekly.

Reciprocity.

Lord Fitzenston—Gad! British noblemen furnish the money to run your American industries.

Miss A—Yes; but American wives furnish the money to run your British noblemen.—Life.

The Ruling Passion.

Visitor—What do you think, Miss Jennie? Last night I dreamt I saw you dead in your coffin.

Miss Jennie—You don't say so! What kind of a dress did I have on?—Texas Siftings.

"NO MORE DOCTORS FOR ME!

They said I was consumptive, sent me to Florida, told me to keep quiet, no excitement, and no tennis. Just think of it. One day I found a little book called 'Guide to Health,' by Mrs. Pinkham, and in it I found out what ailed me. So I wrote to her, got a lovely reply, told me just what to do, and I am in splendid health now."

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S Vegetable Compound conquers all those weaknesses and ailments so prevalent with the sex, and restores perfect health.

All Druggists sell it as a standard article, or sent by mail, in form of Pills or Lozenges, on receipt of $1.00.

For the cure of Kidney Complaints, either sex, the Compound has no rival.

Send stamp for "Guide to Health and Etiquette," a beautiful illustrated book.

Mrs. Pinkham freely answers letters of inquiry. Enclose stamp for reply.

THIRTY-ONE KILLED

They Were Swept Away by a Deluge in Mexico.

OVER 100 PERSONS INJURED.

There Was No Indication of the Impending Disaster.

The Killed and Injured Were Miners—The Water Came Down in Almost a Solid Mass—Several Houses Were Carried Away and the Mountain Streams Were Made Raging Torrents.

CITY OF MEXICO, June 18.—A cloudburst killed at least 31 people and many mules, besides doing great damage to property at the Concepcion Mine in San Louis Patosi.

The mine was working full blast at the time, and there was no indication of the impending disaster early in the morning.

As the day advanced, however, heavy clouds began to bank up in the southeast and shortly before noon it began to blow and rain.

Then it looked as though the floodgates of the heavens had been opened. The water came in almost a solid mass, and when the clouds had passed away it was found that several houses had been washed away; the mountain streams were raging torrents; the mines were so that they could not be worked, and men and mules were swept away by the deluge.

The latest telegrams place the number of bodies recovered at 31. So far over 100 persons are known to have been hurt.

Work at the Conception Mine is entirely suspended.

DISCOVERED IN TIME.

A Drunken Man Causes a Gas Explosion at Yonkers, N. Y.

YONKERS, N. Y., June 18.—While four laborers were at work at 2 a.m. excavating the street in front of the police station one of them, Thomas Meany, who was drunk dropped a large stone on the gas main, breaking the pipe.

The leaking gas main exploded, having caught fire from the lamp which was used to enable the men to see to work. Michael Quinlan and Jere Malone were severely burned and Meany and Samuel Cunningham were blown 10 feet away.

At 9:15 a. m., Roundsman Cooley had occasion to go down to the prisoners' cells, which are situated in a basement below the level of the street. There were six prisoners confined there for trivial offenses. He found them all unconscious. The gas had escaped from the broken pipe in the street and had overcome the prisoners. The odor was overpowering. The prisoners were quickly removed to the open air by a number of citizens who rushed in to aid the roundsman. One of the prisoners recovered and he managed to escape during the excitement. The other men were taken to the hospital and were revived after hard work.

Meany, the cause of all the trouble, was arrested and fined $10 for being drunk.

REFEREE DUNN'S DECISION.

Slavin Won the Fight and 75 Per Cent. of the $10,000 Purse.

NEW YORK, June 18.—Jere Dunn, the referre in the glove fight between Frank P. Slavin and Jake Kilrain in Hoboken has made known his official decision. He decides that Slavin won the bout and was entitled to 75 per cent of the $10,000 purse, but that all bets that Kilrain would be knocked out within the ten rounds were off.

New York sporting men look upon the decision as inconsistent. They claim that a ten-round contest must be concluded unless one man is knocked out, or injured so that he must stop, and that only an event of either character can end a contest of a limited number of rounds.

It was learned to-day that the purse was about $3,000 short, but the Granite Association will doubtless make up the deficiency.

Mitchell, Slavin and Moore will sail for England the middle of next week. They expect to return to this country in September, when Slavin hopes he will be able to get on a match with either Peter Jackson or Jim Corbett.

Jackson's View of the Fight.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 18.—Peter Jackson, commenting on the Kilrain-Slavin fight, said: "Well, that puts Slavin up pretty high. In my judgment, he has more right to claim the championship than Sullivan. He has whipped a man in nine rounds that it took Sullivan over 70 rounds to whip, but he won't get any credit for it. It's all Sullivan in this country. Will I fight Slavin? Yes. I am ready to fight anybody who is in the business; Slavin, Sullivan or any other man. I don't care who he is."

Ohio's Republican Ticket.

COLUMBUS, O., June 18.—The Republican State Convention, after nominating Major McKinley for Governor, completed the balance of the ticket as follows: Andrew L. Harris of Preble County was nominated for Lieutenant Governor; Ebenezer W. Poe of Wood County for Auditor; W. T. Cope of Cleveland for State Treasurer, and Senator John K. Richards of Lawrence for Attorney-General.

NEW YORK, June 18.—The largest number of pension checks ever received in one day was presented at the Sub-Treasury in this city yesterday. They aggregated 44,600 checks, which, at an average of $39 a check, made the payments amount to $1,700,000.

SEABRIGHT'S BIG FIRE.

Over $12,000 Raised for the Homeless Families.

SEABRIGHT, N. J., June 18.—No lives were lost in the big fire. Every business house in the place was destroyed, not even a grocery store being left.

Two hundred families have been left destitute by the fire. It will require from $15,000 to $20,000 to afford them temporary relief. In answer to a general appeal for funds, issued to the residents of the surrounding places, $12,000 have been subscribed.

As yet no attempt has been made to clean away the debris. The town is one mass of ruins. Telegraph, telephone and electric wires are all over the streets and progress through them is almost impossible.

The committee have not decided what steps they will take toward relieving the poor. A dispatch was sent to Governor Abbett asking for the loan of 100 National Guard tents, and the Governor immediately responded, saying that they would be shipped in the afternoon.

The Rev. E. H. Stokes, president of the Ocean Grove Camp Meeting Association, sent 50 tents, and the Seabright cottagers 100 cots. The tents will be spread on the big lawn of the Roman Catholic Church.

The details of the calamity are coming to light every hour. One woman, Laura Curtis, whose home was near the seashore was compelled to embark in a boat with her baby in her arms. She was so frightened that she failed to provide herself with oars. She pushed the boat out from the shore and drifted out to sea, but was discovered in time and was brought back in safety.

Kelly, the man who started the fire, was arrested by order of Mayor Blair. He made a statement to the village authorities, saying that he had come to the village with horses belonging to one of the cottagers, and that, feeling tired, he fell asleep in the stable. He further said that he knew nothing of the fire until one of the stable men aroused him and warned him of his danger.

CAUGHT AT LAST.

An Anonymous Letter Writer Who Caused Trouble in Many Families.

SING SING, N. Y., June 18.—Robert Robinson, aged 45, is under arrest here charged with sending obscene literature through the mails.

It is alleged that for over five years Robinson has been writing letters to a gentleman of this village charging his wife with infidelity and then wrote to the wife charging the husband with a crime of a similar nature. Robinson admits writing one of a large batch of letters which are all in the same handwriting. Many homes were almost broken up as a consequence of Robinson's work.

Robinson never went on the street in the day time to mail the letters, but always went around late at night and dropped them in different boxes, thus eluding the vigilance of carriers who had been on the lookout for him.

It is said that Robinson has had a mania for writing anonymous letters for the past 25 years. An examination will be made as to his sanity.

LUCY GARDNER'S SENTENCE.

The East Orange Belle Will Not Go to Prison.

NEWARK, N. J., June 18.—Miss Lucy Gardner, the East Orange belle convicted of stealing goods delivered at her residence by Stern Brothers, of New York, was sentenced to pay a fine of $100 and costs of prosecution.

Her counsel presented a petition for a writ of error to carry the case to the Supreme Court, at the same time furnishing security in $500 that the fine should be paid. Miss Gardner was then released.

Heavy Storms Along the Hudson.

RONDOUT, N. Y., June 18.—Heavy showers prevailed along the upper Hudson last evening, accompanied by thunder and lightning, which at some points was unusually severe. Throughout the Catskills the fall of rain was the greatest witnessed in many years. At Margaretville and other villages in that section the streets were flooded and for some time impassable, as huge volumes of water made their way to the mountain streams.

Drowned in the Schuylkill.

POTTSTOWN, Pa., June 18.—Jennie Knerr, aged 10, and Frank Bixbee, aged 28, were drowned in the Schuylkill, near Parkersford, last night. Miss Knerr and several companions were wading in the water near the bank, when Bixbee came along and said he was going to teach them how to swim. He carried Jennie into the river beyond his depth and both sank. It is believed that Bixbee was intoxicated.

ALBANY, N. Y., June 18.—Thomas Ford, who is serving a life sentence in Auburn prison, had his sentence commuted to five years by Gov. Hill. His sentence expires to-morrow.

TWO MILLIONS IN IT

Several Claimants for the Estate of L. A. Robertson.

MATTERS VERY COMPLICATED.

Two Different Persons Are Now Acting as Administrators.

It is a Fight Between New York and Pennsylvania—If the Keystone Relatives Carry Their Point They Will Get a Magnificent Sum—Uncles, Aunts and Cousins Interested.

HUNTINGTON, Pa., June 18.—The estate of Millionaire L. A. Robertson, who died recently in Brooklyn, leaving extensive landed interests in Pennsylvania, New York and West Virginia, is about to be the subject of interesting litigation.

Certain relatives of the deceased, who will profit more liberally if they can show that Mr. Robertson was a resident of this State instead of New York, have had letters of administration issued by the Registrar of Warren County, this State, so that now two different persons are acting as administrators—one under the laws of New York and the other under the laws of Pennsylvania.

Mr. Robertson died intestate, leaving real and personal property worth $2,000,000.

Under the intestate laws of New York, the surviving children of a decedent's dead uncle or aunt do not inherit the share of the father or mother, while in Pennsylvania they do. That is to say, if Mr. Robertson had an uncle or an aunt who died before he did, leaving children, under the laws of New York the children would not share in the estate, while in Pennsylvania they would inherit the interest of the deceased parent. Such a state of facts exists in this case, and the children of Mr. Robertson's deceased uncles and aunts are therefore trying to prove that their cousin was a resident of Pennsylvania at the time of his death and not of New York. If they can succeed in proving this, each will get a magnificent sum; if they fail, they will not receive a cent.

Mr. Robertson's surviving uncles and aunts are anxious that their nephew's estate should be settled under the laws of New York, as the adjudication of the same there would make each of them richer to the extent of several hundred thousand dollars. No nearer relatives survive Mr. Robinson than uncles and aunts.

Another interesting feature of the case is that if Mr. Robertson shall be declared to have been a resident of Pennsylvania, the State will collect a collateral-inheritance tax on the whole of his $2,000,000 estate, no matter where the property is located; whereas if it shall be determined that at the time of his death he was a citizen of New York, this State will collect only its 5 per cent. on the value of what estate there may be in Pennsylvania. The Mapleton tannery here is appraised at $275,000, and the Warren County property is worth $500,000.

FIGHT OVER A HORSE THIEF.

Gov. Thayer Threatens to Call Out the Militia.

LINCOLN, Neb., June 18.—The Governor of Nebraska and the Governor of Wyoming are at loggerheads over a horse thief named Kingen. This fellow slipped into Wyoming and stole a valuable horse. A mob followed him over the line for the purpose of lynching him, but instead took him back to Wyoming, where he was sentenced to the penitentiary.

Gov. Thayer demanded of the Governor of Wyoming that Kingen be immediately returned. Wyoming's Governor sent back a very emphatic reply, in which he flatly refused to give up Kingen. Thayer then declared that he would have Kingen released if he had to march an army of militia into that State. Gov. Thayer is now in Wyoming.

In Memory of Their Dead Comrades.

LEESBURG, Va., June 18.—The survivors of the First Massachusetts Cavalry unveiled a granite monument at Aldie, Va., to the memory of their comrades who fell in 1863 on the battlefield in an engagement with the Confederate cavalry at that place. The ceremonies were entirely informal, and the day after the unveiling was spent in recalling war scenes and strolling over the battlefield.

Two Killed in a Collision.

LEXINGTON, Va., June 18.—A collision between two freight trains on the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad last evening at Snowden, 25 miles east, resulted in the instant death of a fireman and an engineer on one of the trains. A number of the cars were badly wrecked and travel on the road was blockaded for six or eight hours.

SPINNERS WILL FIGHT.

The Fall River Men Will Not Submit to a Reduction in Wages.

FALL RIVER, Mass., June 18.—The mule spinners are excited over the news of a proposed reduction in wages.

Secretary Howard says that any attempt to reduce wages would be resented by the spinners. At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the Weavers' Association the proposed action of the manufacturers was looked upon as a game of bluff.

The Manufacturers' Association have not yet decided on a date for a meeting to put the proposed reduction in force.

Cloudburst and Landslide.

CANANDAIGUA, N. Y., June 18.—Reports from Naples state that the electrical storm of last evening done great damage in that region. A cloudburst about 8 o'clock caused the streams to overflow and the fields are flooded. There was a landslide on the huge hill on the Marsh farm. Many thousands of tons of earth were dislodged, tearing away outbuildings and trees and destroying portions of a vineyard. Hiram Green, employed at Black Point on the lake, was struck by lightning and seriously injured.

An Investment Society in Trouble.

CLEVELAND, O., June 18.—The Fraternity Financial Corporation, a bond investment society, is winding up its affairs. It started out promising large profits on investments. Its headquarters were originally in Philadelphia, but were lately moved to Wheeling. It had 4,000 members in this city, many of whom had invested $50 to $100 in the concern. It promised to double the investments. J. H. Hughes arrived here yesterday from Philadelphia and is trying to wind up its affairs by offering 50 cents on the dollar.

Italians Narrowly Escape Death.

NEW YORK, June 18.—While the storm of rain and wind was at its height last evening a portion of a large ledge of rocks on 105th street, near Fifth avenue, became dislodged and fell upon the roof of a temporary blacksmith's shop where ten Italian laborers had taken shelter. Four of the Italians were seriously injured and taken to the hospital.

The New Chilian Congress Supports Balmaceda.

HE IS GIVEN UNLIMITED POWER.

Secretary Noble Returns to His Desk and Says He Will Not Resign.

President Harrison Takes a Vacation Today—He Will Spend a Few Days at His Cape May Cottage—Secretary Foster Starts for Ohio—The Report of Hippolyte's Assassination Discredited.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—The new Congress of Chili, whose members are supporting President Balmaceda, has passed several important acts since its meeting. Among other things it legalizes all the acts of the Executive or the officers of the government that may by any construction be considered contrary to the constitution.

An act has also been passed investing the President of the Republic with the following extraordinary powers during the progress of the revolution: First, he is authorized to arrest, imprison or punish any person inimical to the government. He may expend the public revenue in his judgment without being subject to estimates, and procure money upon the credit of the State without previous authority of Congress. He may declare any part of the territory of the Republic in a state of siege. He may appoint or dismiss public employes, of whatever rank or degree, without restriction. He may suspend or limit the right of public meeting and public discussion and the liberty of the press.

He may suspend the judicial power, except so far as its jurisdiction relates to civil and ordinary criminal cases. He may exempt from the jurisdiction of the tribunals of justice political cases of all kinds, and crimes growing out of the revolution. He may organize military tribunals and define their jurisdiction and authority as far as may not be contrary to law.

The government of Chili has awarded $150,000 prize money to the commanders of the Almirante Lynch and the Almirante Condell, the two cruisers that blew up the Blanco not long ago.

THE REPORT DISCREDITED.

No News Received About the Assassination of Hippolyte at Washington.

WASHINGTON, June 17.—The Department of State has received no news of any attempt upon the life of President Hippolyte, of Hayti. DISASTROUS WRECK.

One Man Killed and a Number Injured on the St. Paul Road.

CHICAGO, June 18.—Information was received early in the morning of a disastrous wreck on the Wilwaukee & St. Paul Railroad about half a mile east of Coon Rapids, Ia.

A passenger train consisting of an engine, baggage and mail and express cars, several coaches and two sleepers, crashed through the bridge over the Coon River.

Only the rear sleeper remained on the track. The engineer escaped unhurt, but the conductor and one brakeman are reported badly injured.

It was raining at the time of the accident, and darkness and storm increased the confusion.

The locomotive was derailed just as it neared the trestle, ran on to the ties, struck the supports and tumbled over into the stream below, dragging all but the sleeper.

One passenger was killed outright, another will die and nineteen more were badly bruised.

The dead man was Henry Condon of Perry, Ia.

John McCarthy of Dunkirk, N. Y., was fatally hurt.

Express Messenger Aldroyd is missing, and may be buried under the debris.

Reinhardt Kochman of Mount Vernon, N. Y., is among the injured.

A STANDARD SCHEME.

The Great Oil Monopoly After Valuable Land in Ohio.

PITTSBURG, June 18.—St. Mary's reservoir in Mercer county, Ohio, is said to be the largest artificial lake in the world, its diminsions being nine miles by two to four. The reservoir is situated in the heart of the richest oil and natural gas territory on the globe, as in the 25x30 square miles which makes its bed, wells could be bored to produce millions of dollars' worth of gas and oil.

A report from the oil regions intimate that the Standard Oil people are about to grasp this tremendous prize if possible by buying up land on both sides, when they will drain out a portion of the water to admit of boring wells.

The Standard has been leasing land west of Celina and Carthagenia. The Company has already leased all the land on the east side of the reservoir near St. Mary's. It is said they will dig a tunnel and drain a good deal of the water into St. Mary's river.

The Standard people have already drilled wells three hundred feet beyond the high water mark of last April.

The attention of the Ohio canal commissioners will also be called to the situation.

WHO GETS THE MONEY?

A Knotty Legal Contest Over the Will of the Late Susanna Stillman.

The taking of testimony in a knotty will case involving interesting questions at law was begun before Herbert W. Knight, Master in Chancery, at Newark, Tuesday.

Among the best known residents of Plainfield thirty or forty years ago was Thomas B. Stillman. He was a very wealthy man, and at his death left his widow, Susanna Stillman, the bulk of his large estate. In 1889 she died, and among her bequests were three which have brought on the present legal dispute. To the "Seventh-day Baptist church of Plainfield" she left $1,000; to the "Seventh-day Baptist church of New York city" $2,000; and to the "Seventh-day Baptist Home and Foreign Missions Society" $2,000. It transpired soon after her death that there were no churches officially bearing the titles she gave, but it was supposed that she referred to the Seventh-day Baptist Church of Christ and the First Sabbatarian Church of New York, which are, respectively, the legal titles of the Plainfield and New York churches commonly designated by the popular names which she gave. There could be found no "Seventh-day Baptist Home and Foreign Missions Society". There is a Seventh-day Baptist Missionary Society, a regularly incorporated body, in Rhode Island, and there was a society of ladies known as the Ladies' Benevolent Society, in the Plainfield Seventh-day church. This ladies' society was a home and foreign missions society, and in its work Mrs. Stillman was greatly interested. The residuary legatees admit that Mrs. Stillman meant the First Sabbatarian church of New York and the Seventh-day Baptist Church of Christ, in Plainfield, by her two church legacies, and they further contend that by the "home and foreign missions society" she meant the local ladies' benevolent association. But this society, they hold, has no legal claim on the estate, being merely a collection of women legally incapable of taking, as a society, a bequest. Besides, it has since been merged into another organization and no longer exists at all. Consequently they think that that money should go to them, instead of to any society. Friends of the Rhode Island society claim that that society is meant. The executors under the will were the late Carmon Parse, cashier of the First National Bank, and Howard L. Emerson. Representing the executors, Counselor Charles A. Reed applied to the Court of Chancery to have the will interpreted, and he appears for the executors in the present contest. Representing the church organizations and the woman's benevolent society claiming the legacies is Counselor Wm. M. Stillman. Counselor W. K. McClure appears for the residuary legatees, prominent among whom is said to be executor Emerson himself. If the court fail to find just what societies are meant in the will the residuary legatees will share the entire estate.

Hope Chapel's Festival.

The strawberry and ice-cream festival which began in Hope chapel last evening, was very thoroughly enjoyed by those present. The rain kept many at home, so that the chapel with its new additions thrown wide open was not crowded.

Besides the ice-cream and the strawberries, the cake and the lemonade, there was a very pretty flower booth, and a large table full of candies and sweets.

During the evening an enjoyable programme of music and recitations was given.

Miss Canfield and Miss DeCamp played a duet upon the piano. Mr. Mattox's recitation "The Drummer Boy", received an encore, to which he responded with a humorous piece. Mr. Hendry's song was encored. He came back to the stage with a large bouquet of flowers and recited "Betsy the Flower Girl."

Miss Firstbrook's piano solo closed the programme.

The committees on the different tables were as follows: Strawberry table—Mrs. Whitlock and Mrs. Firstbrook. Ice-cream—Mrs. Cox, Mrs. Harris and Mrs. Henry. Candy table—Mrs. Hangliter, and Mrs. Bolston. Cake table—Mrs. Cary, Mrs. Reed, Mrs. Ball, Mrs. Young, and Mrs. Walker. Lemonade—Mrs. Chamberlain. Flower booth — Mrs. Smith, and Mrs. McInis.

The festival will be continued this evening, and a very interesting programme will be given.

Talk of Bonding Their Town.

Cranford people are talking of bonding the town for the purppose of raising money to macadamize the township roads. The county has built a fine road through the town, but the lateral roads are for the most part dirt roads, and not good ones at that. Under the present system of road-making the roads are macadamized only in spots, and then only within a thin layer of stone, necessitating frequent repairs and rebuilding every four or five years. Those who advocate bonding the town think that it will be much cheaper in the long run to build the roads on the county plan and use the money now annually voted for repairs and crushed stone to pay interest on the bonds. Thus, they say, the township will have smooth, solid roads the year around instead of ruts and mudholes as under the present system. The opponents of the bonding scheme say that the Township Committee has no right to bond the town and that the whole matter should lay over until the borough form of government is adopted.

Another Big Building for the Singers.

The Singer Manufacturing Company is about to make extensive additions to its big works at Elizabethport. The present packing-room, 430x160 feet, is to be converted into a boiler shop, and a brick building, 1,000x50 feet, one story in height, is to be built for a packing-house. The hundreds of thousands of feet of lumber stored along the company's water-front is being removed to the ten acres which have been purchased by the company from the Trumbull estate, on the south side of Trumbull street, adjoining the works. The ground occupied by the lumber is to be the site of the new packing department, which will be one of the largest in the country.

[From The Central Times.]

The editor of the Times wishes to correct a statement recently and repeatedly made by the Press that this paper is "subsidized" and not under his free proprietary control. The statement is false in every particular and is absolutely unfounded. The Times is owned and controlled by its editor. His money bought and paid for it. For its editorial opinions he is directly and personally responsible. The criticisms it has seen fit to make on affairs of interest to the Plainfield taxpayers are the criticisms its editor has to offer. They have not been dictated nor suggested by any one.

Father Smyth Succeeds the Archbishop.

The Rev. P. E. Smyth, pastor of St. Mary's church, this city, was elected yesterday a trustee of Seton Hall College, in place of Archbishop Corrigan, who resigned. The Archbishop's resignation was a momentous event in the career of the college, for his Grace had been associated in the college management as one of the faculty, president and trustee for nearly a generation. In bidding it a final farewell he generously subscribed $10,000 for the founding of two scholarships.

Among the recipients of the degree of Bachelor of Arts at yesterday's Commencement of the college was Roger Aloysius McGinley of this city.

The grand stand will be extended and the cattle and other exhibit stalls will be given more room. A Chicago gambling firm offered to give $5,000 for the privilege of operating a pool and wheel game during the fair. The offer was unanimously rejected.

PLAINFIELD ELDERS TALK.

The Combination of Business and Religion Not a Rare Thing, They Say.

Forty elders from various towns in the Presbytery, including Israel C. Pierson of Broadway, and Leander N. Lovell of Crescent avenue, were present at the social-meeting of the Elders' Association of Elizabeth, in the Presbyterian church of Clinton, Hunterdon county, Tuesday night. The Clinton Presbyterians recently renovated, enlarged and thoroughly modernized their church, at a cost of $10,000, and it is now one of the handsomest houses of worship in the State.

The ladies provided bountifully for the visiting elders, in the parlors of the church, and their hospitality, for which Hunterdon county is noted, will long be remembered.

The attendance at the public meeting in the church was very good, considering the weather. Judge Nathaniel W. Voorhees, the well known banker and church man, presided. After the opening selection by the choir, and other devotional exercises, the question "Can a Business Man be a Consistent Christian?" was presented in an able paper by Judge Voorhees. Interesting discussion of the topic followed, those participating being Colonel A. D. Hope and Edgar Quackenbush, of Roselle; L. N. Lovell and I. C Pierson, of Plainfield; and Charles H. Langdon, R. W. Woodward, and W. B. Hamilton, of Elizabeth.

The question was ably handled, and the impression made was that it was by all means possible, pleasurable and profitable for one to combine business and religion; and from many examples cited—most of them local—it was shown to be the rule rather than the exception.

Connection was made by special Lehigh Valley railway train with the Jersey Central at Bound Brook, and the association now look forward with pleasure to the next meeting at the Crescent avenue church, this city.

The Growth of the Y. M. C. A.

The following figures are of interest if only because they show a growth unparalleled by any other organization of Christian work in the World. They afford ample ground for satisfaction and encouragement to those who are engaged in spreading the cause that has given Plainfield in particular an organization of which all the community may well feel proud:

An Important Road that Needs Repair.

The following is a copy of a petition which has been presented to the Township Committee of North Plainfield signed by tax-payers and others making use of the Washington Valley road, and asking for two hundred tons of crushed stone for use on that road. As the Washington Valley road is one of the principal highways of the township it is hoped that the committee will grant the petitioners' request.

To the honorable Township Committee of North Plainfield:

We, the undersigned, tax-payers and others residing along the line and making use of the Washington Valley road in road district No. 3, hereby request your honorable committee to appropriate two hundred tons of crushed stone to be used in repairing and making good the road between French's mill and the end of the district on the said Washington Valley road, and especially that part of the road which has been improved and repaired of late years chiefly by private enterprise and subscription.

A FLEET AND LONG-WINDED DOG.

He Kept the Passengers Excited by Chasing Their Train Five Miles.

Prof. Starr resides at Westfield. He is a ventriloquist and a great joker. While going home on a Jersey Central train from New York yesterday he brought his ventriloquial powers into play. In the seat with him sat a dame who had evidently been marketing in New York, for from her basket came the odor of strawberries and other fruits. The professor peeped like a little chicken, and it seemed as if the sounds came from the woman's basket. The woman looked confused and then alarmed. Had the intense heat caused the eggs in the basket to hatch? She evidently thought so, for she cautiously lifted the cover and glanced in. But there were the eggs just as she had placed them in the basket, and her face wore a puzzled expression. The professor now turned his attention to a young couple in the seat directly in front of him. The young people were astounded to hear a resounding smack which appeared to come from their seat. The passengers sitting in the immediate vicinity looked at the young couple. The young lady blushed deeply and the young man looked annoyed. Then the professor imitated a barking dog, and the barking could be heard above the noise of the moving train. It kept pace with the train, and passengers put their heads out of the car windows to see the dog so fleet of foot as to keep pace with the swiftly moving train. Finally a passenger remarked to his companion: "Isn't it wonderful that that dog should keep up with this train so long! He has followed us fully five miles." That was too much for Prof. Starr, who subsided, and the passengers went home to relate the wonderful sprinting powers of that dog.

Fourth of July Sports.

The Union County Roadsters, of Elizabeth, Linden and Rahway, and the Rahway Athletic Association, are making great preparations for an elaborate set of athletic games to be given on the grounds of the Rahway Club, July 4. They promise to be the largest of the kind ever given in this part of the State. Previous to the games, there will be a tub race on the Rahway river for a gold medal.

The games will consist of bicycle and running races followed by a game of base-ball between the Rahway Athletic Association and the "Stars," of Newark. The bicycle events will consist of the following: One-mile club race, safety, handicap; one-mile club race, ordinary, handicap; one-mile safety, open, handicap; one mile, ordinary, open, handicap; two-mile, open, safety, handicap; two-mile, open, ordinary, handicap. Handsome gold medal to first, and silver to second, in each event.

Three-fifth mile race, open to boys fifteen years and under; three medals, no entrance fee. The running races will consist of 100-yards dash, scratch; 440-yards run, scratch; gold medal to first, and silver to second. Two-mile team cross-country race, open to teams of three men each; prize, a banner. Also a 50-yards wheelbarrow race for a medal.

The management expect between 3,000 and 5,000 people will witness the games. The fine roads leading into Rahway will bring quantities of wheelmen and driving parties. Nearly all the bicycle clubs in the State have arranged club-runs to Rahway, and the place will be alive with athletes. This city will undoubtedly be well represented in the open bicycle races by the Plainfield Bicycle Club.

The Columbian Express, via Pennsylvania Railroad.

The new fast train to Chicago by the Pennsylvania Railroad, which entered the service on June 7 as the Chicago Special, has been rechristened "The Columbian Express" in honor of the great fair. In bestowing this title on the new train, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company has taken the initiative among the railroads in recognizing the merits of the World's Exposition by providing special facilities for the comfortable and speedy movement of visitors. The train is particularly worthy of bearing the honored title. It is the ripest example of train construction, as it contains accommodations for those who desire luxurious apartments as well as for those who seek the comforts of a well-appointed passenger coach. The Pullman drawing-room, sleeping and dining cars, and its cheery passenger coaches, are all vestibuled. The Columbian Express leaves New York 4:00 p. m., Philadelphia 6:25 p. m., Harrisburg 9:30 p. m., every day, arriving at Chicago 5:15 p. m. the next day.

The Central to Suppress the Nude in Bathing.

A naughty boy is bad, but a naked naughty boy is worse, and it is this kind of boy that is disturbing the officials of the Jersey Central railway. Running from Newark Bay into the meadows, several small creeks wend their way, and in these creeks, as Plainfielders have repeatedly been compelled to notice, on their trips to New York, the small boy is just now wont to bathe. Now, "there are a good many of him", and the bathing being done hard by the main line and the Newark branch and in full view of the passengers, a great many complaints have been made by the passengers to the conductors, and the conductors have reported the matter to their superiors. A good deal of the bathing is done on that portion of the meadows recently purchased by the company for its new shops, and it is said that its detectives will put a stop to "the nude" in bathing.

E. R. Cogan, of Newark, Prostrated by the Heat, Dies of Heart Disease.

Benjamin R. Cogan, well known to many of the citizens of Plainfield, died suddenly late Tuesday night the house of William Norris, No. 90 Walnut street, Newark. He had traveled a good deal during the day and the heat affected him. While passing through Walnut street he became faint and staggered against the wall. Mr. Norris took him in and he died before he could be removed home. County Physician Wrighton said that death resulted from heart disease aggravated by the intense heat. Mr. Cogan was 58 years old and was quite a character in his way. He was known as "Doc" Cogan all over the State. He was the maker of an excellent salve for healing wounds and sores. He was a doorkeeper at the legislative chamber last winter and nearly all the legislators knew him for his ready wit and crisp comment on men and things. He was an unswerving Democrat, while his brother, County Register Cogan, stood on the other side among the Republican hosts. Benjamin often said that his brother was one of the finest fellows in the country except for his politics and he could not vote for him.

Mr. Cogan will be buried to-morrow afternoon from the house of his sister on Beach street.

A Lovely Young Woman's Death.

Lena, the second daughter of Theodore and Mary A. Allen, of Peapack, Somerset county, died June 16, of hasty consumption, after an illness of two months. She was in her twenty-first year. Funeral services will be held to-morrow, at 1 o'clock at the residence of her parents, and at 1:30 at the Peapack Reformed church.

Lena had many friends and relatives in this city. She was an active member of the Reformed church, and an earnest worker in the Christian Endeavor Society. She will be sadly missed by a large circle of young friends in her Christian work. The family have the sympathy of a host of friends in this their first bereavement, of a daughter who was loved by all who knew her.

—Woolston & Buckle are decorating the interior of St. Joseph's church, North Plainfield.

Don't Crowd.

No matter what space you have in the local papers, don't fill it so that it looks crowded. A handful of sand thrown at a wall will make no mark; a single small pebble will leave some impression. A lot of small type does not catch the eye nearly so quick as a single word in bold, black caps. Be careful to make that word strong and attractive. Two or three short, sharp, crisp sentences, each embodying some qualities or pointers about your leaders, and you have written quite enough. Don't say your goods are dirt cheap, or that you are selling at a loss, and don't decry the goods of your rivals. Intelligent people won't believe the first statements, and certainly won't approve of the latter.—Printers' Ink.

How to Grow Rich.

"If you want to grow rich," said an aged thinker to a business man who was about to start a factory, "make it a rule to give the largest possible amount of goods of the best possible quality for the least possible sum of money." The business man took the advice, and it worked so well that he soon bought out the factory of a rival whose rule had been to get the largest possible sum of money for the least possible amount of goods of the poorest possible quality.—New York Sun.

Sure to Catch Them.

Before the traveling man has left his hotel the newspaper advertisement has had an interview with the purchaser. The buyer may have been out of town that day, but somebody's newspaper advertisement was in his pocket. The country dealer may be located much "out of the way," but the newspaper gets there, and gets attention. The canvasser may ring in vain, but the housekeeper is always "at home" to her favorite newspaper.—Ayer.

Gives Character and Standing.

Advertising gives character and standing to a firm. Go into any community as an entire stranger, pick up the daily papers published there. Look for their largest advertisers and you can invariably depend upon the fact that you have found the most reliable and desirable firms in that community.—Reading (Pa.) Eagle.

Opportunities Close at Hand.

In what way can a man keep on doubling his business, year after year, except by advertising? The gold mines of California, the silver mines of Honduras, the diamond mines of the Cape, are all far away; advertising and all its possibilities close at hand.—Printers' Ink.

Get Started Right.

Whoever would successfully conduct a line of advertising should devote the greatest care and attention to the preparation of the advertisements to be used. Money expended in getting started right is judiciously expended.

Experience Teaches Wisdom.

There was a man in our town,
And he was none too wise;
He jumped on every man who said,
"You ought to advertise."
But when he saw his trade was gone,
With all his might and main,
He jumped into a column ad.,
And got it back again.

Brains Will Tell.

Almost all advertising pays that associates a man's name with his business in the public mind, but the percentage of profit is notably governed by the expertness exhibited. The more thought bestowed upon this indispensable auxiliary of trade the surer is the success of the thinker. In all human history printers' ink has never been more potently productive of patronage than it is today.—Troy Press.

Father and Son Accused of Burglary.

BALTIMORE, June 18.—Roland A. Lee and Marcus Lee, father and son, are under arrest here, charged with burglary. In their dwelling and in a vacant house adjoining a large store of stolen goods were found. The police think the Lees have been operating in Philadelphia and Camden, and probably elsewhere before coming to this city.

Wayman Sentenced to be Hanged.

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 18.—Samuel E. Wayman, convicted of the murder of Emory Thayer, at Avon, N. Y., on the night of Oct. 27, 1885, was sentenced to be hanged on Aug. 5. Wayman, before sentence was passed, declared that he was innocent of the crime. He will appeal to Gov. Hill.

The Heat Unbalanced His Mind.

NEW YORK, June 18.—Serapio Serpa, a prosperous tobacco merchant, committed suicide last evening in his place of business, 90 Wall street, by shooting himself. His mind had become unbalanced from the effects of the heat.

Jones Still in the Race.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., June 18.—Lieut.-Gov. Jones was questioned this morning regarding his reported withdrawal from the candidacy for the nomination for Governor, and replied: "By no act or word of mine, or within my knowledge, has my position in relation thereto been changed."

Gordon-Cummings Costs.

LONDON, June 18.—The total costs to Sir William Gordon-Cumming of his suit against Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wilson and others amount to $12,500.

A Glaring Fraud.

"What is your specialty?" inquired the visitor at the dime museum. "Are you the living skeleton?"

"No," answered the cadaverous party on the elevated platform. "I'm doing the forty-five-day fasting act."

"How long have you been fasting?"

"This is the thirty-seventh day."

"Have you seen nothing since you began?"

"Nothing—that is to say, nothing you can call eating. They give me perhaps a pint or two of bean soup every morning and evening, but that's all."

"And you call that fasting!" exclaimed the visitor, purple in the face and grasping his cane nervously. "You are an infernal humbug! Why, good heavens, man!" he roared, trembling with rage, "bean soup is—"

But the attendants hastily seized the maddened visitor and hurried him out of the building. He was a gentleman from Boston.—Chicago Tribune.

All the druggists sell the Tudor Whiskey. Some of the other dealers do not. They say it pays too small a profit. PURE whiskey never does yield a large profit. It is the adulterated stuff which makes the money. Do you want to pay your dealer an exorbitant profit on an adulterated article, or do you prefer genuine old Whiskey which is sold at a moderate profit? Decide for yourselves. The TUDOR WHISKEY IS WARRANTED ABSOLUTELY PURE and TEN YEARS OLD.

MARINE MEALS.

Uncle Sam's Sea-Soldier Pattens Himself and Still Has a Surplus.

The meal of the merry marine, much as he would like to have it appear a simple, crude and unsatisfactory affair, is nevertheless, if all accounts are to be believed, the subject of considerable study, amendment and manipulation, all with the purpose of giving to the sea-soldiers the best that can be procured for the money Uncle Sam allows, says the Brooklyn Eagle. In the course of a tour of the Flushing avenue barracks recently a reporter was put in possession of what appear to be the facts in what has been recently a mooted question regarding the marine ration. The quartermaster of the marine corps advertises each year for proposals to furnish rations for the various posts from July 1 to the end of June following. Bids are opened in May and the contracts go to the lowest bidders. The Government specifies the quantity and quality of the rations to be supplied by the contractors and the goods have to pass inspection. Competition in the bidding has lowered the figures, and this year the lucky bidder secured the contract for the supply of the Flushing avenue post at thirteen dollars and thirty-nine cents per one hundred rations, or a little over thirteen and one-half cents a day for a marine's feed. It is only a couple of years ago that a bid of over seventeen cents a ration was accepted by the Government.

One hundred rations must contain the following quantities: Seventy-five pounds salt pork or one hundred and twenty-five pounds fresh beef, about one hundred and twelve pounds of flour, fifteen pounds beans, fifteen pounds sugar, ten pounds coffee or one and one-half pounds of tea, four pounds salt, four pounds soap, four quarts vinegar, four ounces pepper, one and one-half pounds candles. Uncle Sam contracts for these rations and sends them along with machine-like regularity, but he does not have a law that one hundred marines shall use up so much stuff in a day, whether they want it or not, and here is where the cunning and economical sea soldier gets in his most effective work. For, with rare genius for controlling circumstances and A tactical capacity much superior to that required for a dress parade, he manipulates the ration until it becomes a thing of beauty and much to be enjoyed and for a long time. Thus very seldom a man eats all the Government allows him. But what is left is good stuff, provided it isn't cooked, so why not sell it? Now the oversupply for the something like two hundred men at the Flushing Avenue barracks, even if they were all on hand all the time, is worth a good deal; and when to that are added the rations of those who are away for a little while it is worth more. So the needs of the men are calculated with more or less nicety, and what is saved is sold to various dealers with whom arrangement is made. The proceeds create a fund. What does the marine do with it?

Well, an officer of the post is commissioned by the commandant to put out his money to the best advantage in securing additional edibles which shall lend variety, if not luxury, to the repast. The cast-iron Government ration is not burdened with the quality of epicurean variety, as a glance at the above list may reveal. With the something over two hundred dollars a month put into his hands for the purpose the officer who buys the extras gets potatoes (when cheap more, when dear less), vegetables for the soup, more beans, mutton and sausage, and instead of the forequarter of the beef nice stew beef; also oatmeal, milk, prunes, and the like. The officer who buys these things has to show his receipts and have his accounts audited by a board of fellow-officers. Part of the saving from the ration goes to stock the library, buy games and provide gymnastic apparatus, and, in general, to purchase means of amusing and benefiting the men. It is beyond question that the malcontents among the men who grumble about quantity or quality of their food are vastly in the minority.

ABOUT MAHOGANY.

How the Beautiful Wood Was Discovered and Brought into Use.

The discovery of the beautiful and costly timber known as mahogany was purely accidental. The first mention made of it, says the Detroit Free Press, was by Sir Walter Raleigh, who used it in 1597 at Trinidad for repairing his ships. About the beginning of the eighteenth century a small quantity of it was taken to England by a West India captain named Gibbons, who sent a few planks to his brother, a physician residing in London. This gentleman, at the time of the receipt of the wood, was having a house built, and placed the planks in the hands of the carpenters. They attempted to cut it, but because of its hardness very quickly threw it aside. The doctor expostulated, but the workmen remained fixed in their determination to have nothing to do with a lumber which so successfully resisted their attempts to saw it. The planks were then taken to a cabinet-maker named Wollaston, who was directed to make a candle-box with a portion of the wood. The same objection was advanced by this workman, but being a persevering individual, he persisted and finally made the box. When polished it so outshone any thing previously made that it very quickly became an object of curiosity, and the people flocked to see it.

As a consequence the wood became quite popular, especially after a portion of the physician's treasure was employed in the construction of two bureaus, one for himself and the other for the Duchess of Buckingham. These specimens of cabinet work caused the rejected wood to become a prominent factor in the construction of luxurious pieces of furniture. Thus Wollaston was amply rewarded for his perseverance in fashioning it into the candle-box, and his name, together with that of the physician and his nautical brother, became inseparably connected with the history of the introduction of this wood into civilized lands.

Maternal Anxiety.

Young Mother—Doctor, I wish I knew what to make of my boy. If he were handsomer I would like him to be a great actor.

Eminent Divine—Why not make him a great preacher?

Young Mother—Oh, doctor, do you think he will ever be—er—plain enough for that?—Munsey's Weekly.

Bound to Join the Family.

Jack Smallcash (to rich widow's daughter)—Dearest Emily, will you be my wife?

Emily Rockebilt—Oh, Mr. Smallcash! This is so very unexpected! I think—I think—perhaps you had better ask mamma.

Jack Smallcash—I have, already, my love; but she refused me.—Puck.

The Same in the End.

Cora—Although it's a little farther, I deal at the other news stand. I'll always patronize a woman as a matter of principle.

Merritt—It seems a shame, my dear, but I must tell you that the woman is the wife of the man who keeps the stand.—Munsey's Weekly.

COMPETENT BEYOND A DOUBT.

Visitor (to magazine editor)—Do you care for any more war articles, sir?

Editor—No, I think not. The late rebellion has been pretty thoroughly written up.

Visitor—My articles would relate to a more recent conflict.

Editor—Indeed! What?

Visitor—I married a widow a year ago.—West Shore.

It Was a Way He Had.

Hojack (to barber who is shaving him)—I've been here before.

Barber—I beg pardon for not recognizing you, sir.

Hojack—O, that's all right. I supposed you had forgotten me from the fact that you cut me.—Inter Ocean.

Very True.

"Please, sir; I am starving. I've had nothing to eat for four days. Won't you give me a dollar?"

"A dollar? That's a good deal, isn't it?"

"Not to keep a man alive for four days, your honor."—Harper's Bazar.

Overdoing It.

Mrs. Fangle—Henry, I've written to ask mother to come and visit us. You dont mind, do you?

Mr. Fangle—N-no; but isn't it rather too much of a good thing? You know she was here for an entire day only a year ago last June.—West Shore.

An End to Friendship.

Foggs—What do you do with the cigars given you by your friends?

Boggs—I have no friends.

Foggs—Since when?

Boggs—Since I began to work their own cigars off on them.—Munsey's Weekly.

Consolation.

He—Was Raynor converted at the revival?

She—No; he's so hardened. I'm afraid he will lose his soul.

He—Oh, don't bother. He'll never miss it.—Judge.

SWEPT BY A CYCLONE

A New Jersey Village Visited by a Tornado.

MANY BUILDINGS BLOWN DOWN

Scores of Domestic Animals Killed by Tremendous Hailstones.

Terrified People Crouched in Their Houses in Mortal Dread—Almost Every House in the Village Windowless—Peach Orchards and Crops Destroyed—The Path of the Storm Strewn With Trees.

PATERSON, N. J., June 19.—A cyclone swept over Hawthorne, a town a few miles from here, leaving great destruction in its path.

A black, funnel-shaped cloud appeared on the northeastern horizon and rapidly approached the little hamlet. At the same time a heavy black cloud, from which the lightning shot and darted in vivid streaks, approached from the southwest. The two clouds met directly over Hawthorne. For a few moments that ominous silence which precedes the bursting of such a storm prevailed, the darkness grew and soon shut down like night, while the terified people crouched in their houses in mortal dread.

Soon the moaning of the wind denoted that the storm was upon them. As it swept over the place it was accompanied by vivid lightning, heavy thunder and a terrific downpour of rain and hailstones. Every house was violently shaken and almost all of them are windowless to-day.

Trees were uprooted and those which withstood the fury of the storm were stripped of their foliage. Birds and poultry were killed outright. One tree was entirely stripped of bark by the falling pellets of ice. For a time the air was filled with lumber, trees and debris of all descriptions, and every second seemed to bring the destruction of the town nearer and nearer.

When the storm had spent its fury not an outhouse in Hawthorne was left standing. The majority were torn from their fastenings and carried hundreds of feet away. The house owned by Arthur Bevins, and occupied by his family, was unroofed, and the large sheets of tin and heavy joists were deposited in a swamp more than 600 feet away. The inmates were not seriously hurt.

A large barn owned by Bevins was cut in twain and one-half was turned half way around. Henry Outwater's barn was leveled to the ground and several head of cattle killed. A peach orchard covering six acres and owned by Richard Warren, a New York cotton merchant, was entirely destroyed as were all the crops in the path of the cyclone a quarter of a mile in width. Sidetracks belonging to the Susquehanna Railroad were washed out by the heavy rain which followed the hail.

A large number of animals were killed by the lightning. The cyclone seems to have formed directly over the hamlet and to have spent its full force there. Its path is plainly marked by the fallen trees and the uprooted shrubs and crops which strew the ground. No estimate can be made of the damage but it will undoubtedly amount to thousands of dollars.

LABOR AT THE FAIR.

Chicago Trades Unions Appeal to President Harrison.

CHICAGO, June 19.—The joint committee of the trades unions of this city have decided to send a letter to President Harrison asking that in all work done by the Federal government in connection with the World's Fair the eight-hour day be recognized, all disputes settled by arbitration, and not less than the recognized minimum scales of wages for the various trades recognized in this city be paid.

Another letter has been ordered sent to Samuel Gompers, president of the Federation of Labor, asking him not to take any action on a request from the Labor Congress branch of the World's Fair auxiliary for assistance in organizing a World's Fair Labor Congress until the committee can furnish him a report of labor's unsuccessful efforts with the local directory in behalf of a minimum scale of wages.

A circular has been issued to the workingmen of America and Europe, warning them not to come to Chicago in the expectation of getting plenty of work and higher wages in connection with construction of World's Fair buildings. It points out that that the buildings are all to be constructed within 18 months, and that wages are likely to be lower, instead of higher, because of the surplus labor already here.

Another Pauper Immigrant Sent Back.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Assistant Secretary Nettleton has directed the return to Regen, Bavaria, of John Brame, a pauper immigrant, who arrived in this country on the steamer Elder Jan. 15, 1891. It is shown that Brame was not apprehended on his arrival, but made his way to Milwaukee, Wis., where he became a public charge. It is further shown that Brame was a public charge in the city of Regen for five years prior to his departure for this country, and that his passage was paid by the local authorities of Regen.

Special Cabinet Meeting.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—A special meeting of the Cabinet will be held next Friday. Financial matters, it is understood, will engage the attention of the Cabinet meeting; among others the continued coinage of silver bullion, the final disposition of the question of extending the 4 1-2 per cent. bonds and the change in the asset and liability statement issued by the Treasury Department daily and monthly.

George Storms Now in Custody and Will be Tried for Bigamy.

BATAVIA, N. Y., June 19.—The grand jury, which has been in session for three days, brought in an indictment against George R. Storms, who lives near Holley, Orleans County, for bigamy.

He married Bertha Beach at Kendall, Orleans County, in July, 1889, and Ellen Myers at Batavia on Jan. 28, 1891. The former wife, learning of this marriage, came to town yesterday and applied for a warrant for his arrest, and the facts were brought before the grand jury, which was in session.

Evidence was also adduced showing that he was married in Missouri in 1870 and also a fourth time elsewhere and that no one of the wives was dead or divorced. He was arrested at West Kendall, where he was working, and is now in custody.

SEABRIGHT'S SUFFERERS.

The Relief Committee Busy Distributing Food and Clothing.

SEABRIGHT, N. J., June 19.—Eugene Kelly, who was arrested here charged with arson, in having caused the fire which proved so disastrous on Tuesday night last, was taken to Freehold to await the action of the grand jury.

Committees for the purpose of obtaining funds for the relief of the sufferers have been formed a Long Branch, West End and Hollywood. Subscription blanks have been placed in all the banks of Long Branch and Red Bank.

The Minugh Methodist Church is the busiest place in the village. The relief committee has its headquarters there. Wagon loads of food, furniture, bedding and clothing are constantly arriving from all parts of the country. From early morning until late at night people pass in empty handed and come out with food and other necessities. Clothing was in great demand to-day. A film of cold, disagreable mist hung over the ruined village, and the ocean thumped the town with huge waves.

WELCOMED TO CAPE MAY.

The President and Baby McKee Walked Over to the Cottage.

CAPE MAY, N. J., June 19.—The Presidential party arrived at Cape May last evening. In the party were Mr. and Mrs. Harrison, Miss Ella Warfield, Mrs. Gen. George H. Williams, Mr. Dimmick and the President's two McKee grandchildren.

The President and Baby McKee, in his little sailor suit, walked over to the cottage, followed by all the party excepting Mrs. Harrison, George H. Williams and Mary Lodge McKee. They were received at the cottage by a few Cape May friends, who had gathered on noticing the train. Flowers beautified every room in the cottage. On Tuesday the President will return to Washington.

Secretary Blaine Gaining Strength.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—Secretary Blaine is said to be gaining strength daily at Bar Harbor. A New England Senator, whose personal and political relations with Mr. Blaine are most friendly, has arrived here, and in conversation with a reporter said the Secretary of State is greatly improved by his sojourn at Bar Harbor. He goes out driving every day, takes a regular amount of exercise, his appetite is good and he seems to thoroughly enjoy the rest from the cares of state, which he surely needed when he left Washington.

John P. Adriance Dead.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 19.—John P. Adriance, the head of the firm of Adriance, Platt & Co., manufacturers of the Buckeye mowers and reapers, died at his home in this city last night of heart disease. Mr. Adriance was born in 1825 in this city, and has been engaged in the manufacture of mowers and reapers since 1854. He leaves a widow, five sons and a daughter. Mr. Adriance was very wealthy.

Opposed to a Contract Labor System.

NEW YORK, June 19.—The Republican County Committee last night adopted resolutions protesting against the introduction of a contract labor system in the public service by the Secretary of the Treasury. The lengthy preamble of the resolutions recited an alleged change to this effect contemplated by Secretary Foster.

Heavy Coke Shipments.

SCOTTDALE, Pa., June 19.—There was more activity in the coke region this week than there has been for several months. The production and shipments were the heaviest of the year. There were over 121,000 tons of coke sent from the district, or an average of nearly 20,167 tons a day.

Parnell and Mrs. O'Shea.

LONDON, June 19.—In an interview with a correspondent Mr. Parnell denied that he would be married soon to Mrs. O'Shea, and evaded a reply as to the event ever taking place.

Auditor Doyle Resigns.

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 19.—William L. Doyle, auditor of the Western New York & Pennsylvania Railroad, has tendered his resignation.

If He is Caught an Attempt Will be Made to Lynch Him.

Another Family Receive Poisoned Fruit by Mail—It Nearly Killed Six Persons Who Ate It—No Clew as to Who Sent the Package—The Victims Saved by the Timely Arrival of a Physician.

HAGERSTOWN, Md., June 19.—News has just been received here of a mysterious case of poisoning in the village of Locust Grove.

Daniel Shiffler, a farmer, found in the lane near his house a package of flour and another of coffee. He sought for an owner, and not finding one gave the articles to a Mrs. McKurren. She used the flour and her entire family were made very sick. One boy died and another is expected to die. The other members of the family—the husband, John McKurren, the wife and two children are in a critical condition.

A post-mortem showed that poison had been mixed with the flour.

Two years ago an attempt was made to poison Mr. Shiffler's stock, and a year ago his barns were burned down. The authorities, convinced that the poisoned flour and coffee were intended for Mr. Shiffler's family, are searching for the miscreant among those who are known to be at enmity with him.

A posse of citizens are investigating, and threaten to lynch the prisoner if caught.

POISON CAME BY MAIL.

Six Persons Nearly Killed by Eating Crystallized Fruit.

RICHMOND, Va., June 19.—Mrs. E. D. Redd, who resides in the central part of this city, received by mail about 9 a. m. a small packages of crystallized fruit. An hour or two later she ate a portion of it and gave the rest to a Miss Woody, who lives in the house, and to a negro woman and three negro children.

In a short time all six were taken desperately ill with cramps, and a physician said they had been poisoned. Three hours' hard work afforded some relief, but they are by no means out of danger.

No one in the house has any clew or any suspicion as to who sent the package. Had the physician reached them an hour later they would have been past all possibility of recovery. As it is they may get well.

SIXTY WERE KILLED.

Further Details of the Cloudburst on Concepcion Mountain.

CITY OF MEXICO, June 19.—Latest advices about the cloudburst on Concepcion Mountain, near the mining towns of Los Catorce, El Potrero and La Cruces, in the State of San Luis Potosi, Mexico, are to the effect that at least 60 lives were lost. Fifteen bodies have already been recovered.

After the cloudburst an immense stream poured down the mountain side, sweeping away the houses of the miners. The tunnel of Guadaloupe Mine filled with water. Some miners, who were at work within it, were drowned.

Many persons living in the cliff dwellings were buried alive. Hundreds of pack animals were drowned.

The losses of the mining companies are heavy. A great quantity of high grade metal was carried away.

Dunn Calls Slavin a Brute.

NEW YORK, June 19.—Last night in the St. James Hotel Slavin and Mitchell, who seemed to have been drinking, made a good deal of noise, and intimated in a roundabout way to Jere Dunn that he had been afraid to decide that Kilrain was knocked out, because his (Dunn's) friends had bet against that result. Dunn replied that if he only got a bad reputation from such people as the men who were talking, his character would always be of the best. Then he told Slavin that he ought to be ashamed of himself for speaking in that style, and finally called him a brute. Slavin was requested to leave the hotel, and he did.

WHOLESALE SMUGGLING

Carried on by a Pullman Car Conductor for Ten Years.

WASHINGTON, June 19.—For some time past the United States Customs authorities have been aware that considerable smuggling was going on between Montreal and Boston. They quite recently set a watch to discover the smugglers and have been rewarded by making a most important arrest, the culprit being Kilburn J. Brown, sleeping car conductor on the Canadian Pacific Railway between Montreal and Boston.

The customs people say that for the last ten years Brown has defrauded the United States Treasury Department out $100,000 by running in contraband articles of wearing apparel, opium, furs, silks, velvets and fine goods, packages of which were of great value and embargoed up 75 per cent. of their real value.

Brown's modus operandi was to fill the pillow boxes with the contraband goods and drop them at different points of the route or to carry them direct to Boston, where the owners would be waiting to receive them.

The express companies have also suffered loss by packages carried. The United States Deputy Collector at Montreal attaches considerable importance to the arrest. During his stay in Montreal Brown put up at the best hotel and took the greatest possible enjoyments of life.

The News About Hippolyte's Death.

NEW YORK, June 19.—The Haytian Minister, Hannibal Price, declares that there is not the slightest foundation for the statement that President Hippolyte of the Haytian Republic has been shot. He has received mail from Port-au-Prince of a later date than the time of the alleged shooting, and his advices indicate that everything is tranquil there, and government and business affairs are transacted in their normal manner.

The Conservatives Defeated.

LONDON, June 19.—The government met a defeat last night on the question of factory labor. Mr. Sydney Buxton Liberal, of London, had offered a amendment to the Factory bill to prohibit children under 11 years of age from working in factories. The government opposed the amendment, which was carried, however, by a vote of 202 to 186, several Conservatives voting with the majority.

BARDSLEY'S DENIAL

The Ex-Treasurer to Make a Statement in Court.

HOW ALL THE MONEY WAS LOST.

Claims that He Did Not Take One Dollar for His Own Use.

He Throws All the Blame on the Keystone Bank—Resorted to Speculation in Hopes of Being Able to Restore Some of the Missing Money—He Will be Called Up for Sentence on Tuesday.

PHILADELPHIA, June 19. — Ex-City Treasurer Bardsley is preparing a defence which he will present to the court next Tuesday, when he comes up for sentence.

He will stoutly deny any intentional dishonesty. He will admit, as he has admitted in court, that he violated the letter of the law in two particulars; first, by loaning the public money for profit; second, by depositing in the Keystone Bank and elsewhere money beyond the limit fixed by the City Councils. This, he will assert, was the beginning and the end of his offending.

How the Money Was Lost.

As to the way the money was lost, Bardsley will throw the whole responsibility upon the Keystone Bank. He will take the position that the loss to the public funds through his transactions is only $1,045,000, and that part of this is recoverable.

He will say that he became aware a long time ago of the fact that the public money which he had deposited in the Keystone Bank had been lost there. As he had technically violated the law in making the deposit he could not say anything publicly about the matter. He therefore took money from other funds to meet the payments coming due from the funds which he had lost. Each payment thus taken has been added to the original loss until the alleged total of $2,200,000 is reached; but, as a matter of fact, the actual loss is only $945,000 for the original due bills and $100,000 for another matter.

Why He Speculated.

This other matter came about from his efforts to recover himself when he found that the bank had swallowed up the $945,000, and is represented by the $100,000 worth of Chicago street car stock, which was discovered the other day. He bought this stock with the public funds with the expectation that its rise in value would enable him to restore some of the missing money and meet some of the payments as they became due. This expectation was realized in part. He also had some reason to think that part at least of the $945,000 would be made good to him from other sources.

He will admit also other speculations with the public funds for a similar purpose, and will declare from first to last he did not take one dollar for his own use or profit.

WAS IT A FINISH?

Billy Madden Disputes Referee Dunn's Slavin-Kilrain Decision.

NEW YORK, June 19.—Discontent continues to prevail and even grow among the sporting men of this city, over the decision of Referee Jere Dunn in the Slavin-Kilrain contest of Tuesday night.

Billy Madden is so positive that the referee was wrong that he is willing to stake $100 on the issue he presents and leave the question to be decided by a majority vote of three sporting papers which he names, Spirit of the Times, Clipper and Police Gazette.

"A referee cannot reverse his decision as Mr. Dunn did," said Mr. Madden. "When he decided that Slavin won the fight, he practically decided that Kilrain was knocked out.

"The fight was to be one for 10 rounds and only a knock-out could end it before those 10 rounds were ended. Now, if there was no knock-out, those 10 rounds are yet to be finished, and the decision didn't go."

The point that Mr. Madden makes, then, is that Kilrain was knocked out inside the 10 rounds, and his wager of $100 is that all bets made that such would be case were won.

Mr. Madden is one of a large body of sporting men whose views of the case he voices, though he speaks only for himself.

"Kilrain was down 14 seconds," says Mr. Madden. "If he wasn't knocked out the whole fight must be gone over again under the conditions calling for 10 rounds."

The controversy is one of the most interesting which ever arose over a ring contest.

ONYIESA'S BRIDE.

Elaine Goodale, the Poetess, Marries a Full-Blooded Sioux Indian.

NEW YORK, June 19.—There has been no more interesting wedding this season than that of Miss Elaine Goodale, poetess and authoress, to Dr. Charles A. Eastman, medical inspector of Pine Ridge Agency and a full-blooded Sioux Indian.

The ceremony was simple and impressive and was witnessed by a large crowd at the Church of the Ascension.

Dr. Eastman is a man of education and refinement. He is 30 years of age. His Indian origin is shown in his dark complexion, dark straight hair and high cheek bones. He is the Government physician at Pine Ridge Agency. He was educated at Beloit College, Michigan, and at Dartmouth College, from which he was graduated with honors, being class orator in the class of '87. He afterward studied medicine in Boston, and he was this year appointed the physician at Pine Ridge.

Of Miss Goodale much might be said. She is a daughter of Mr. Henry Sterling Goodale, and she was born on her father's estate in Berkshire county, Mass. She is tall, with a face singularly beautiful, denoting great strength of intellect and character. Her mother was Miss Dora Read, after whose family the town of Reading, Conn., was named. Miss Goodale or rather Mrs. Eastman, has dark eyes, regular features, chestnut hair and engaging manner. In such works as "In Berkshire with Wild Flowers," and "The Journal of a Farmer's Daughter" Miss Goodale has made her mark.

Dr. Eastman's Indian name, Ohyiesa, means "The Winner."

The newly-wedded couple left for a tour through the New England States, after which they will take up their residence in Pine Ridge.

Went to the Bar to Post His Letters.

An elderly and dignified man made a mistake yesterday which mortified him exceedingly. In a moment of absent-mindedness he forgot that the post-office had been removed, and went into Schorb's saloon at the old post-office site to mail a bunch of letters. Though his views are pronounced on the subject of total abstinence he had an unpleasant time explaining matters to a party of horrified friends, ladies, who saw him come out. He said it was the greatest embarrassment and disgrace he ever had suffered.

THE FIRE-BUG'S TORCH AGAIN.

Plainfield Not Yet Rid of the Curse of Incendiarism.

The barn on the estate of the late ex-Councilman John Simpson, on Washington street, between Second and Third, was destroyed by the torch of an incendiary last night.

At twenty minutes past 9 Mrs. J. Erwin Waters, of East Third street, saw from a back window that the barn was afire.

She told her husband, who is First Assistant Chief Engineer of the fire department, and he sent in a signal from Box 15.

The building was of frame, very dry, and burned like tinder, causing intense heat for quite a distance, and shedding a brilliant light over the city. Before water could be poured on the flames they had enveloped the entire structure, and it was almost completely burned to ashes, leaving only a few charred timbers upright. The loss is about $500.

When big-hearted "Uncle John" Simpson was alive the barn was quite a headquarters for worthless fellows of the tramp species, who easily got from the easy-going Scotchman permission to sleep in the hay. After his death all these characters were driven away, and some of the more persistent ones were arrested. The old gang still lingered about, however, even after they had been raided by the police, but the warfare against them finally became so hot that they threatened revenge. Suspicion was aroused that the burning of the barn was intended, and a watch was kept over the place four or five weeks. A few nights ago the guard was removed, and what the neighbors expected, a fire, was the result.

The only live stock kept in the barn was one horse. He ran out of the midst of the flames while men were rushing up in response to the alarm. His mane was a trifle scorched, but he was uninjured.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Miss May White, of Rahway, is visiting Miss Lou Snediker, of 110 Grove street.

The Rev. J. Judson Pierson, of Woodbury, is visiting his mother on Duer street.

At the Christian Endeavor convention at Rahway this evening Miss Florence E. Hawkins of this city will read a paper on "Punctuality in the Y. P. S. C. E."

Asa Collier, of this city, has just been elected a Director of the National Retail Jewelers' Association of America, at its annual convention held in Philadelphia.

Lawyer William Archibald Coddington of this city was to-day appointed a Master in Chancery, by the Honorable Alexander T. McGill, Chancellor of New Jersey. Besides being an attorney-at-law, Mr. Coddington is now Master and Solicitor in Chancery, Commissioner of Deeds, and Notary Public.

The little Misses Jessie J. Bushnell, Libbie Joseph and Bessie Field, and Master Charlie C. Meeker, were this year's prize winners among the scholars of the Misses Buttler's school. Miss Bushnell showed the greatest improvement in writing, Miss Joseph in arithmetic, Miss Field in dictation and Master Meeker in attendance. Yesterday was their "commencement day", and the usual social followed in the evening.

Where Has the Watchman Gone?

Frank Moran, night watchman on East Front street, has been missing two or three weeks, and people for whom he has worked wonder what has become of him. Some months ago he had his authority as special policeman wrested from him because he refused to send in reports from the signal box in his neighborhood as was required by the police signal system. Later he was reinstated, but, it is alleged, he began neglecting his duties again, and finally disappeared altogether. He is said to be the watchman who had a mania for hiding in the shadows of trees in lonely spots and jumping out unsuspected on belated foot passengers, flourishing his club and scaring them out of a night's sleep. If he is that man it is perhaps a good thing that he has gone off duty.

Little People Stop School Awhile.

The closing exercises of Miss Fawcett's kindergarten school at 15 Grove street took place in Vincent chapel last evening. The attendance was large. There was an elegant display of blooming plants and stately ferns. Twenty-three children took part in the exercises, which included recitations and calisthenics. The little people acquitted themselves very credibly and were frequently applauded. They gave evidence of very careful training, and their charming appearance and admirable behavior was remarked by all. Miss Fawcett is favored with the patronage of many of Plainfield's aristocratic people, and deserves it all.

THE TIMES' "TAXPAYERS".

That Paper Speaks for Only the Bloated Bondholders and Monopolists.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—Noting the Times' remarks in its issue of June 17, in the "interest of the taxpayers of Plainfield," I would ask, Who are the "taxpayers" of Plainfield? Are they all stockholders in the Gas company, the Electric Light company and the Water-Works company?

From the articles that appear from time to time in that paper, one would think that all taxpayers were directly interested in having the controllers of the above corporations control everything in the future as they have in the past. Gas at $2.50 (and poor at that) and the people pay for laying the mains if they want it; no electric lights without the Company's man wires your house at the highest bid; sixty dollars per hydrant and flush the sewers that they say the city will build with a bonded yoke next year; permit no railroad without you take your power from our plant at our price; and in fact no improvements without the "Times' Taxpayers" have absolute control.

But there are others by a large majority, who pay taxes that desire to enjoy all of these improvements and benefits without being compelled to pay such exorbitant rates. There are others besides the Times watching the work of the "Big 6", and they say, "Let the good work go ahead, for there has been too much of this one man power for the City's good!" If franchise brokerage, as the Times calls it, had been started fifteen years ago in Plainfield, poor gas would now have a slow sale even at 50 cents, Plainfield would have water-works, sewerage and street railroad, and a population of from 25,000 to 30,000 inhabitants, and be one of the most beautiful, healthy and prosperous cities in this section of the country.

REPUBLICAN TAXPAYER.

A Home for the Poor of Other Cities.

An effort is making to establish a Children's Home in Westfield. W. G. Peckham has offered to give the free use of one of his cottages for the home for one year. The house is in a high part of the town, has ample grounds, and is well adapted in many ways for the purpose to which it is proposed to put it. The matter has been taken up by the pastors of the town, headed by the Rev. J. K. Folwell, and will be presented to the people at a union meeting to be held next Sunday evening. In the mean time, many subscriptions are being handed in. The children for the home will be brought out of the poorer parts of New York city, since Westfield has no poor of its own unprovided for.

The Railway People Admit Their Blame.

The railway employes are said to have admitted that they were to blame in starting the train by which John T. Hill, father-in-law of ex-Street Commissioner George M. Angleman, was injured, before he had time to get off. It will be remembered that the cars gave a start while Mr. Hill was descending the steps, threw him to the track, and ran over and crushed a foot. At the Muhlenberg Hospital the foot was amputated. Mr. Hill's endurance in surviving the pain and shock of the accident is remarkable. He is 84 years of age. He is now recovering nicely at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Angleman, on Washington street. Damages will be demanded of the railway company.

Hammill Will Pitch To-Morrow.

The Seton Hall College team, that has beaten Yale and Princeton in past seasons, will play the Crescents here to-morrow. The Plainfield nine will have its hands full again. There will probably never be a more interesting game than this promises to be. The batting order will be as follows:

CRESCENT LEAGUE.	SETON HALL COLLEGE.
Martin, s. s	O'Neill, l. f.
Lufbery, 2b.	Westman, 3b.
McIndoe, 1b.	Hartley, 2b.

Poetry Without Thorns, and Roses With 'Em.

A novelty in the presentation of church statistics is that introduced by Miss Nellie F. Davis of the Congregational Chautauqua Circle. She read her annual report in verse, much to the surprise and delight of the Chautauquans, and very clever and entertaining verse it was. Another interesting feature of the closing exercises of the year was "Roses with Thorns". Among the members of the class were distributed roses, which were found to have slips of paper twisted about the stems, on which were questions to be answered that proved quite thorny in some cases.

Struck Because One Man Asked Them to.

Most of the butchers who struck at W. W. Coriell's meat market a week ago because the proprietor refused to discharge foreman we at their Ro request, have returned to their old places. The trouble is all said to have been caused by one man who was about to accept another job, at Long Branch, and who wanted to give Mr. Coriell annoyance. As is generally the case, there was no real cause for striking.

I SUFFERED from acute inflammation in my nose and head—for a week at a time I could not see. I used Ely's Cream Balm and in a few days I was cured. It is wonder ul how quick it helped me.—Mrs. Georgie S Judson, Hartford, Conn.

FOR THREE weeks I was suffering from a severe cold in my head, accompanied by a pain in the temples. Ely's Cream Balm was recommended to me. After only six applications of the Balm every trace of my cold was removed. —Henry C. Clark, New York Appraiser's Office.

DUNELLEN DOINGS.

Interesting Items from a Thriving Borough, by Our Own Correspondent.

The closing exercises of the public school was held in the Methodist Episcopal church last evening. Long before the hour to begin had arrived, the church was crowded, and people were standing in the aisles and halls; they had to remain standing throughout the exercises. T. H. Roberts, the principal, had perfect order during the evening. He requested the audience to be as quiet as possible, and was very sorry he was not able to seat them all, but he hoped they would make themselves as comfortable as they could under the circumstances. The circumstances showed what the borough needs, and that is a public hall to accommodate the people. When the new schoolhouse was built it was understood that the upper floor was to be used as a hall, but for some reason it has never yet been used for that purpose. It is hoped that before long the people will take this matter up again.

The scholars at last night's exercises did well, and reflected great credit on their teachers. After the entertainment there were addresses by the pastors of the borough, and by the Rev. L. E. Livermore. He stated that last year there were 307 scholars in the district between the age of 5 and 18 years; this year there was an increase, of 30, making it 337. The principal, in closing, spoke of the need of a piano and maps for the schools and said that they were going to try and get them and wanted the parents' help. Prizes were then given. The teachers and scholars are now looking forward to their vacation. The programme for the evening was as follows:

THIS HAS GONE FAR ENOUGH.

There's Too Much Grinding in Our Public Schools Already.

"Close the schools at 90°" is a proposition advanced by the New York Recorder, and which commends itself to the good judgment of all who give the subject any thought. When the heat is so great that the thermometer in a school room marks 90 degrees Fahrenheit, the conditions are not favorable to the mental exertion necessary to a proper observance of school duties.

Yet not only is there no disposition shown in the Plainfield public schools to consider the sufferings of teachers and scholars under such a circumstance as the thermometer at 90°, but THE PRESS hears rumors that the principal is in favor of doing away with half-sessions entirely, and extending the school day to four o'clock. It is to be hoped that the rumors are false, but if true such views and designs must be emphatically sat upon by the Board at once. There is too much grinding in Plainfield's public schools already.

Another mistake in the present system of schooling in this city, is that the younger scholars are not promoted fast enough nor far enough. If a scholar is sufficiently advanced to skip a class, that class should be skipped in justice to, and for the future benefit of the scholar. The keeping of the younger scholars in each class in rotation, a whole school year, is wrong. A father figured the other day that by this rule his boy would be just 21 years old when he was graduated. Consequently the boy will be taken out of school—as are each year so many other boys—and therefore the roll of male graduates will still continue discreditably small.

This is not all THE PRESS has to say on these matters thus casually mentioned.

ECHOES OF SATURDAY'S GAME.

Sharp Shots and Nancy Sayings by a Sarcastic Somervillian.

(From The Unionist-Gazette.)

Here are some figures of interest to the student of superstition. Harkins pitched his thirteenth game against the Crescents on the thirteenth of the month, and won. A mathematician would naturally put "this and that" together, and claim that two negatives, naturally enough, make a positive. The superstitious man would look for the "hoodoo" that thwarted his favorite theory, but the base-ball crank who cranks, the rooter who roots, and the player who plays, would agree, for once, in their respective lives, that there was one thing that couldn't be gotten around, and that was the way John Harkins pitched, and the way that the other eight players disposed themselves on Saturday. No wonder that a 7x10 smile wormed its way around John's face, and gradually ended up in the back of his neck, for had not Plainfield written his obituary notice as a pitcher for four long weary years, but the corpse never failed to come up smiling for the next round.

Plainfield pitchers may come and go,
But John goes on forever.

To pitch thirteen games against one club, and to win eleven of these, is a feat of which any man can be proud. In days to come, when Somerville grows up into an enormous city, having Plainfield as one of its suburbs, our children's children will hand down the record of Saturday's game to their children as a priceless legacy.

To have won the game from the Crescents by a narrow margin, would have satisfied everyone south of the Mason and Dixon, no, the Dunellen and Evona line, but to rub it in with eight coats of gilt-edged, pure and unadulterated whitewash, was enough to make every man forget that he had a best girl, and to hug himself till his sides ached, but that was later on in the evening. The wearers of the apple-green and white are nothing if not considerate, and quietly did they conduct themselves until the 8:05 train had picked up the last Plainfield man, and then imagination is an easier thing to use than words.

The Crescents were barn stormers, judging from the way they handled themselves. To say that they acted as if they were in a trance would but feebly express the manner of their play. They stood around in picturesque attitudes like wooden men in a trance, batted like a lot of school boys, ran bases like overloaded coal cars, and fumbled and muffed whenever given a chance. Diametrically opposite in every way was the work of the West End boys. Snap, vim and dash characterized their every movement. They batted, they ran, they fielded, in a way to set their supporters crazy, and the Plainfield rooters green with chagrin.

Plainfield, as usual, did not have the courage to put in their pitcher who has done all their work this year, but imported a new man from Phillipsburg. Poor fellow! he met with the same reception at the hands of the West Enders that all of Plainfield's imported "phenoms" have had, and retired in favor of Hammill in the sixth inning.

Mr. Murray to Help Prevent Their Ruin.

John W. Murray, of this city, representing the German-American Fire Insurance Company, has been appointed by President Samuel P. Blagden, of the New York Board of Fire Underwriters, a member of a committee of fifteen wise and experienced men to consider ways and means of reviving an insurance tariff association in New York city. This committee is expected to organize a movement to avert impending bankruptcy from some of the oldest companies in New York, by regulating rates and commissions. About a dozen companies have gone to pieces since the 1st of January. That period has been marked by losses aggregating over $6,000,000, and this is higher than the average for the corresponding season in many years past. There are about 130 fire insurance companies in New York, and as a rule their expenses now exceed their income.

Foreman Robison Again Elected.

At the annual meeting of Excelsior Hook and Ladder Company of Scotch Plains, held Monday night, the following officers were elected: Foreman, John Robison, re-elected; First Assistant Foreman, Wm. B. Noble; Second Assistant Foreman, Robert Jahn; President, Lewis W. Miller; Treasurer, Wm. H. Lake, re-elected; Secretary, David A. Sayre, re-elected; Assistant Secretary, L. A. Goodenough. David P. Hall, who had been the President of the company for eight consecutive years, declined a re-election. The company was organized in 1869.

If You Pay It for Taxes, It's Good-bye Forever.

Sarah L. Lupardus, of New Market, has written to a New York paper stating that her people paid large sums of money for tax during the war, and asking if the State is to keep it all, or if each individual who paid war tax is to receive back a share of what he paid. The paper answers: "The money has been paid by the National Government into the State Treasury. None of it will be refunded to individuals. It will be used for general State purposes."

IN DUSKY-DIAMOND LAND.

New Jersey Business Men Take a Pleasant Trip to the Coal Fields.

Charles A. Smith, of Westfield, and Alvan Gray, of Dunellen, report having had a most interesting and enjoyable trip on the recent sixth annual excursion of the New Jersey Coal Exchange to the coal fields of Pennsylvania, under the direction of ex-Councilman Morris of this city. The excursionists, 150 in number, occupied a special train which attracted considerable attention all along the Jersey Central road, spent three days among the beautiful mountains and low lands of the Keystone State, and it seemed a great hardship to have to return from the contemplation of these scenes to the unpoetical reality of selling coal.

At Frackville, the heart of the "black" country, the party made the descent of the famous Mahoney Plane, a distance of 2,000 feet, the cars being lowered by an engine of 2,500 horse-power and a three-inch cable. Here is the first colliery, the Stephen Girard, ever operated in Pennsylvania. At Mt. Penn the excursionists were hoisted up to the mountain top, 1,800 feet above the level of the sea, where for miles and miles the mountains roll away in their changing shades from green to blue and blue to gray, while away off on the horizon the mountains appear like the morning mist. Then the ride of eight miles on the gravity railroad, which winds about the mountain-side, was taken. Ore banks and mines, breakers crushing and separating the coal into sizes, and storage stations, where thousands of tons of coal were heaped up towards the sky, were visited. The men went into the dark depths far beneath the surface of the earth, where the dusky diamonds for the household fire-place are dug, and climbed the towering mountain summits. One especially beautiful view was that obtained at Brookside, at the brink of the Williams Valley, 1,610 feet above tide-water. The journey homeward was through the Schuylkill Valley, where most beautiful farm land was under cultivation.

Catching Trains by Way of the Gas House.

Not all Plainfielders are aware what local Jersey Central commuters mean when they say that they caught their train "by way of the gas house". The express train which leaves here at 7:58 each morning, for Jersey City, has to pick up three or four cars on a siding at the North avenue station. To reach the siding it has to run to the gas house at Washington street and back in at the switch there to the other track. Commuters who live in that section of town—and there is quite a throng of them—find it very convenient to catch the train as it is taking the switch. They save time and distance, and run a better chance of getting their favorite seat than if they went to the regular station. Most of them are on very good terms with the engineer, and when those who are regular patrons of the "gas-house route" are a trifle late and the engineer can possibly spare the time he cheerfully and generously waits a bit and blows his whistle to hurry them up. The "gas-house routers" have more of a chance to catch another moment's sleep and to linger over their breakfast than have those who are compelled to rush every time for the North avenue station.

THE ROAD HOG MUST GO.

Local Wheelmen Score a Victory in the Fight Against Selfish Drivers.

As H. P. Nichols and F. W. Elliott were riding their bicycles on Park avenue, the evening of June 1, they were run into by a horse driven by Frank Hand, their wheels were smashed, and they were thrown to the ground and more or less injured. As was told in THE PRESS at the time, the wheelmen were on the right side of the road, and in running into them Hand violated not only the common rules of courtesy but the Ironclad State law, which gives to bicycles the same rights possessed by other vehicles on the public highway.

Determined to teach all road hogs a lesson, the local wheelmen insisted that suit be brought against the offending driver, who had not only refused to turn out and give the bicyclists a clear track but who had deliberately run them down.

When Hand learned that the matter had been put into the hands of Judge Codington he employed learned counsel and attempted to brazen the matter out, but the law in the matter was presented to him so forcibly that he finally had to succumb, and to-day he paid all damages and costs in full. All bicyclists will be elated at their victory. They feel that the time has come when their rights must be recognized and respectfully conceded by all.

THE OLD RAILWAY WALL.

How wond'rous and varied the pictures of memory!
Some glowing in sunshine, some saddened with tears;
Whilst others have promise of greater distinctness,
And glow all the brighter with increase of years.
Scarce one but possesses some treasure, surpassing
The richness of Cuteen's or Titian's art;
For with it is blended the sweetness of voices,
Those touches the painter can never impart.

It may be the scene of the old fashioned homestead,
The wood frowning near it, with each well known glade;
Again you are hunting for bluebell and primrose,
Or the gay lords and ladies that grew in the shade;
Again come the voices from over the meadow—
The laughter of children—earth's sweetest refrain;
And the eyes swim with tears as you think of the many
Whose voices will never be heard there again.

Or in that close-curtained regions—so sacred—
The trysting place, hallowed by memories dear;
Where vows passed between you, still firm and unbroken,
Made firm by affection that casteth out fear;
The twilight is deep'ning, the last streak of crimson
Is flecking the cloudlets that lie in its train;
You listen once more in that eventide stillness
To accents more tender than Philomel's strain.

No trysting place mine, with its sweet recollections,
The tenderer scenes are but dimly portrayed;
Like a melody borne to our ears from a distance,
That dies while we wonder from whence it has strayed.
The spot I love dearest—an old narrow cutting,
A road running parallel, flanked by a wall;
Where often I lingered with him whom I trusted,
So steadfast in friendship, so noble withal.

Full often we sat there, the pale moon above us,
And talked of a future that knew no alloy;
Of deep cherished schemes that must end in fruition,
Nor dreamed of the forces that blight and destroy;
All heedless of time till the stillness that followed
The city's dull roar settled down like a pall;
Then with hearts knit more firmly by friendly communion,
We said our farewells by the old Railway Wall.

How few of the castles we built are remaining,
How few of the friends whom we valued so dear;
Our noble ideals, how much unaccomplished,
And the glass reveals darkly that once seemed so clear.
Full many a picture since then have I cherished,
But that of all others I love to recall,
Is the one where I sat with the friend of my boyhood,
In life's joyous morn, on the old Railway Wall.

—W. Ollis, in Jury.

A THRILLING RIDE.

An Experience in a Stage-Coach in the Sierra Nevadas.

ONE night I was crossing the Sierra Nevadas in a stage. I was the only passenger aboard, and hence had a lonely and dreary night of it. The long slow pull of the ascent had consumed all of the fore part of the night and much of the early morn. It was about two o'clock when the summit was reached, all unawares to either myself or the driver in front—for in the tediousness of the long climb, and the silence and solitariness of the surroundings, we had fallen fast asleep.

Suddenly there was a sharp rolling of the wheels, a violent jostling of the seats, and we both awoke to the terrible consciousness that we were going down the mountain at a most frightful gait—a runaway team in front.

When the down grade was struck, the driver—usually a careful and vigilant man—was so fast asleep that the brakes were not applied as promptly as was necessary; and the horses, finding that they were not under control, with the heavy stage rushing upon them, became at once frightened and fled in frantic speed down the steep descent.

When the driver first awoke and realised the situation, he was in mid-air, having been violently thrown from his seat. He had had the lines wrapped about his hands and wrists, and, holding fast unconsciously, he was being jerked forward in the furious leaps of the team. Yet it was but a moment or two until he struck the ragged ledge below the roadway, and I discovered my situation as I heard him utter a horrible shriek and then a low moan as of one in the death agony.

By this time the lower wheels of the stage were off the roadway; the stage itself was on the edge of the fearful precipice and the axle of the vehicle being dragged along over the stone wall that supported the lower side of the road bed.

The scream of horror piercing my ears emphasized the frightful situation, for the driver was not only being dashed to his death, as I supposed, in the darkness below, but there was an awful possibility that in the next moment the stage and the horses would go over the brink and land in the dismal unknown abyss of the canyon beneath. The driver was pulling with all his weight in the direction of that abyss.

The half upset stage and the vigorous jerks of the frightened team in front brought additional horrors to me; nevertheless I determined to make an effort to save my life, if possible, in a leap upward. So I sprang out of the stage in a desperate jump from the higher side. I reached the ground in safety, but not a moment too soon.

The stars were bright overhead, and through an opening in the forest trees around ou either hand, I saw the "leaders" of the team making a desperate effort to avoid being pulled over the precipice, the lines still in the grasp of the driver below, the man clinging to the ribbons with the clutch of death; and the rough stone edges of the lower wall of the roadway having broken the speed, since the axle had to be dragged forcibly over the uneven surface. With swift decision of mind I saw what must be done to stay the tragedy, so I jumped to the front, seized the leader by the bridle-rein, and at once pulled his face square to the upper bank. I thus stopped the horses and kept the stage still on the road.

But where was the driver? This was the harrowing thought now in my mind, for the man's cries were hushed. I cried aloud for him, but no answering voice came in reply, no sound was heard save the echo from the opposite wall of the canyon beyond and the frightful panting of the trembling horses now well in my hands. Again and again I cried—louder and wilder and deeper in my distress. But I heard nothing in response save the mocking echos and the heaving sound of the restless horses. It was the most terrible moment of my life—terrible beyond expression! Alone in the dismal Sierras—themselves the picture and inspiration of gloom! alone in the deadness of the night, with a frightened team I knew not how to manage, a broken stage out of its pathway, and a supposed dead companion to find and guard till help, or the morn, or the grizzly bear should come. No pen can ever adequately portray the sensations of a soul in such a crisis.

Again I cried with a wail of misery and despair. I knew not how long, how loud, nor to whom the wailing note went; but my cry was answered by a low moan, the groan of a man seemingly in the agonies of death. My driver was not yet dead! and so thankfulness again sprang into my soul.

It was some consolation even to hear the sound of the man's agony, for with it came the hope that the poor fellow, after all, would survive.

Hope grew stronger, for the next moment came another and still another groan, this time from a man evidently with vital energy and a rallying struggle. Soon the driver crawled, half dead, up the bank, but the only thing he seemed to be thankful for, and the only fact he appeared to appreciate, was his courage in holding on to the lines while he was being dashed and dragged about on the rocks below. In the darkness the first thing he wanted seen was the manner in which he had performed the fearful feat of—holding the reins! I, still trembling, held the frightened horses against the upper bank, doing all I could to quiet the fears of the panting beasts.

By the aid of matches we soon had a good light, and the situation was fully revealed. The poor driver was frightfully mangled and torn, one ear being well nigh severed from the head as he struck the sharp edge of the rocks below.

I tied up the man as best I could, we mended the broken stage and got it back into the road, and then came the slow and cautious and painful descent to the next station at the foot of the range.

But poor Henry was never again able to go upon the road behind his team in the long months during which I remained in correspondence with friends over his fate.—M. V. Moore, in Detroit Free Press.

Strange Effect of Frost.

A remarkable instance of the disastrous effect that the prolonged frost has had upon the fish was to be seen at the Welsh Harp lake, near Hendon, which more than perhaps any other place within easy reach of London has been the rendezvous of thousands of skaters. On one side of that superb sheet of water had been cut a breathing hole about ten yards square for the unhappy little prisoners below, and here had congregated in their thousands a medley shoal of pike, dace, roach and perch. The poor creatures were all more or less frozen, and could easily have been picked out of the water by the hand. Not a few, indeed, had already perished from cold or hunger and were floating together with the living on the surface of the water. The perch had lost all their coy lithsomeness, as shown by the fact that they allowed themselves to be gobbled up by the ravenous jack with utter sang froid. The congested pool was lined all day by an interested ring of spectators.

—Disappointing.—Coughton (to beautiful girl whom he has rescued from drowning)—"I see you are fair and bewitching, but I can not woo and win you. I am married." Beautiful Girl—"But, George, it is I, your own wife." "Pshaw! I never did have a real romance in my life."—Spare Moments.

A FINANCIAL SCARE

The Last Treasury Statement Shows a Deficit.

THE FIRST TIME IN YEARS.

Government Officials Not Disturbed by the Situation.

Uncle Sam is Able to Pay All His Obligations on Demand—A Surplus of $7,000,000 Expected by the End of the Month—What a Leading New York Banker Says.

NEW YORK, June 20.—Financial circles are agitated over the announcement from Washington that the last Treasury statement shows a deficiency of $787,108. This is the first time in many years that the Treasury has had a deficit.

The Treasury officials are not disturbed by the situation and say that Uncle Sam is amply able to pay all his obligations on demand.

It is pointed out that this does not include $28,827,412 of government funds on deposit with national banks and $20,220,000 of fractional silver. It is estimated that the receipts of the Treasury for the balance of the month will largely exceed the expenditures, and there will probably be a surplus of $7,000,000 by July 1.

A leading banker in discussing the financial outlook said: "In case an unusual drain has to be made on the Treasury in order to move the crops, the Secretary, if the 4 1-2 bonds are extended, can purchase considerable 4 per cent. bonds. The outlook is therefore rather more favorable than it first appears."

ANGRY AT ENGLAND.

British Columbians Incensed Over the Seal Agreement.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—An Ottawa special says that the agreement arrived at between the British Government and the authorities at Washington, regarding the killing of seals in Behring Sea, has raised a storm of indignation in British Columbia.

Premier Robinson will petition the Governor-General to protest on behalf of the Pacific Province to the imperial authorities against the agreement.

Over twenty Canadian sealers have been fitted up at a cost of over half a million dollars, and have sailed north from Victoria to engage in fishing for seals during the coming season.

The British Columbians are greatly incensed at the unexpected manner in which the British Government has acted in the matter without considering Canadian interests. The Government at Ottawa is also coming in for a share of abuse from them. They claim that the Minister of Marine deceived them by stating in Parliament that the Imperial Government had been notified of the Canadian interests involved and that no agreement would be sanctioned that was prejudicial to Canadian interests.

Suffering from a Peculiar Disease.

SCOTTDALE, Pa., June 20.—The Hungarians in the coke region are suffering from a peculiar disease, greatly resembling the terrible black leg malady, which some years ago infested Europe. There are twenty patients now in the Westmoreland Home, and 200 cases in the region. Their limbs present a loathsome appearance, and the disease is raging.

Insulted by Stage Gags.

FALL RIVER, Mass., June 20.—Warren Allis, a lawyer, has placed an attachment upon the Academy of Music here. He claims that he was insulted by the "gags" on the stage during a performance of "Starlight" by Verona Jarbeau a year ago last May. The suit is entered in Suffolk County and $10,000 damages are claimed.

Accident to a Valuable Filly.

FRANKLIN, Pa., June 20.—During the heavy storm during the day "Marjoram," a filly valued at $10,000, owned by Miller & Sibley, became frightened and ran into an old building. The floor gave way and she fell and broke her neck. She was entered in the two-year-old stake races all over the country.

To Seek Foreign Exhibits.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—John M. Butler, of Philadelphia, has been appointed a commissioner on behalf of the Treasury Department to go to Europe in the interests of the foreign exhibit to the World's Fair. His colleagues are General Grosvenor and Professor John M. Ellis, of Oberlin College, of Ohio. The salary is $8 per day and expenses.

The Tories Still Oppose It.

LONDON, June 20.—The Free Education bill is making rapid progress in public opinion. Although the measure is a government one it meets with strong opposition from the Tories, who are dismayed at the prospect of the masses receiving free education.

Big Strike Declared Off.

PHILADELPHIA, June 20.—The strike of the rug weavers of John Bromley Sons' carpet mills has been declared off. This decision affects 1,000 hands, who will now be able to resume work after several weeks' idleness.

Damaged by a Cloudburst.

LEECHBURG, Pa., June 20.—Great damage was done here by a cloudburst. Several buildings were washed away and one person was fatally hurt. Traffic on the Pennsylvania Railroad is temporarily suspended at this point.

Will Row This Afternoon.

NEW LONDON, June 20.—The Columbia-Cornel freshman race will be rowed this afternoon. Both crews are evenly matched and a good race is expected.

NONE BUT ROYAL

Baking Powder is absolutely pure. No other equals it, or approaches it in leavening strength, purity, or wholesomeness. (See U. S. Gov't Reports.) No other is made from cream of tartar specially refined for it and chemically pure. No other makes such light, sweet, finely-flavored, and wholesome food. No other will maintain its strength without loss until used, or will make bread or cake that will keep fresh so long, or that can be eaten hot with impunity, even by dyspeptics. No other is so economical.

The official chemists of the United States and Canada, State analysts, municipal boards of health, and physicians indorse the great qualities of the Royal Baking Powder.

THE BIG FLOOD RECALLED.

Johnstown Sufferers Commence Proceedings Against the Fishing Club.

PITTSBURG, June 20.—Two weeks after the sad celebration of the second anniversary of the Johnstown deluge, in which over 2,000 lives were lost, comes the announcement that damage suits are at last to be entered against the South Fork Fishing and Hunting Club, which owned the artificial lake whose waters caused the great destruction of life and property. The club was principally composed of millionaire iron and steel manufacturers of Pittsburg and Allegheny City.

W. D. Moore, the celebrated criminal lawyer of Pittsburg, has been retained by the Johnstown plaintiffs. Litigation has all along been anticipated by the Pittsburg people. An attempt to indict them for criminal negligence was killed in the grand jury room of Cambria County.

THE GOVERNMENT LOST.

A Verdict for the Plaintiffs in the Hat Trimming Case.

PHILADELPHIA, June 20.—Importers are elated over the result of the Meyer & Dickinson test suit against the Government to recover alleged excessive duties paid on importations of hat trimmings. The jury returned a verdict in the United States Circuit Court in favor of the plaintiffs.

The plaintiffs claimed that the goods were liable to only twenty per cent. duty while the custom house officials held that they were dutiable at fifty per cent.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—Acting Secretary Spaulding says that the government will probably appeal the hat trimming case. The amount involved is from $18,000,000 to $20,000.

RIOT AND STRIKE.

White Miners Object to Colored Men Being Employed.

WASHINGTON, Pa., June 20.—A riot and strike is in progress among the miners at Finleyville. So far no serious outbreak has occurred, but is expected every moment.

The cause of the outbreak is that colored men were employed in opening a new mine. The white miners objected and a general fight occurred. Sheriff Lockhart with several deputies have gone to the scene.

Despondency Drove Him to Suicide.

ERIE, Pa., June 20.—George Hamilton, a young man who lived in Edinboro, this committed suicide at Conneaut last evening. He lost his wife a few years ago, afterwards failed in business and since then had been despondent. He was found sitting on the doorstep of an Erie friend yesterday morning, was put into bed, but clandestinely left the house and was not heard of until he was found in Conneaut dying from the effects of morphine.

The Children Want $100,000 Damages.

PITTSBURG, Pa., June 20.—The guardian of the five minor children of the late Charles Achenbell has entered suit in their behalf against the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company for $100,000 damages for the death of their father. Achenbell was killed in a wreck on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad on June 20, 1890, while on his way from Baltimore to Pittsburg.

Journalists Take an Outing.

BEDFORD SPRINGS, Pa., June 20.—A party of journalists, with their wives and daughters, from Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington, numbering about 300 in all, arrived at the Bedford Springs Hotel last evening, and will remain until Monday as the guests of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company.

Ella Nelson Acquitted.

NEW YORK, June 20.—The jury in the case of Ella Nelson, who had been on trial charged with the murder of Samuel L. Post, last night brought in a verdict acquitting her of the charge. The defendant fainted when the verdict was announced, but soon recovered and left the court room surrounded by her friends.

Five Cars Burned in a Wreck.

WATERBURY, Conn., June 20.—An early morning freight train on the New England Railroad was badly wrecked near Brewsters at 8 o'clock. A freight train running in the same direction collided with the rear end of the preceding train. Five cars took fire and were destroyed.

Injured by a Boiler Explosion.

MARTIN'S FERRY, O., June 20.—At 2 a. m. a boiler exploded at the Benwood blast furnace. The building was wrecked. Charles Rouse was fatally hurt, Willie Rouse probably fatally and Robert Glenn seriously injured. The injured men were sleeping in a boat house on the river 300 yards away. The end of the boiler struck a boat and crashed in upon the sleeping men.

JOHN L. WILL FIGHT

But Not Until He Returns from Australia.

SLAVIN ANXIOUS FOR A MATCH.

Sullivan's Backers Make Him a Proposition This Morning.

Ready to Arrange a Ten-Round Contest for $10,000—Slavin Will Have to Decide Quickly, as He is Announced to Sail for England To-day—A New Orleans Club Offers a $25,000 Purse.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 20.—Barnett, Sullivan's trainer, is in 'Frisco. He said, when seen, that there was nothing in the dispatches regarding Sullivan's alleged challenge to Slavin. Barnett added: "Sullivan always consults me before making a match, and it has always been John's custom to refer all people looking for a match to me.

"When Dougherty and Slavin called upon Sullivan and me in St. Louis Sullivan told Slavin whatever I said he would agree to. I accordingly told Slavin John was under 18 months' contract with me, but at the end of that time if he, Slavin, was still in the ring and an undefeated man, Sullivan would give him a match. Slavin said he he was satisfied, and we parted good friends. This is the understanding between Sullivan and Slavin, and all these stories amount to nothing.

"You can, however, say that Sullivan will make a reply to these challenges from the stage at Corbett's benefit next Wednesday night."

The general opinion among sports here is that Sullivan is talking fight with Slavin solely as an advertising dodge to help his Australian tour. Still a majority of sports here would back Sullivan against Slavin at 2 to 1.

What Sullivan Says.

SAN JOSE, June 20.—The only John L. Sullivan was interviewed here regarding the telegram sent to New York. He was asked:

"Did you authorize Wakely, of New York, to make a match?" asked the reporter.

"No," said Sullivan, "I am in the show business now, but on my return from Australia next September I will show in San Francisco, and then my contract is up. I will have three months to arrange matters and will be prepared to talk or fight anybody."

When asked his opinion about Slavin he said:

"I think he is a very good man; his defeat of Kilrain proves it; but you can say for me that if we ever meet in the ring Sullivan thinks he will come out on top."

Slavin's View of the Matter.

NEW YORK, June 20.—Slavin returns to England to-day, and he says arrangements will have to be made quickly, if at all. "Pony" Moore, of the Slavin party, said that it was his opinion that Sullivan's challenge was a bluff, pure and simple.

Slavin made another statement as follows: "Sullivan wants to meet me when he comes back from Australia. I'll tell you what I think would be the best idea. I think Australia can offer a sum as big as any place in the world. I will postpone my trip to England if a match can be made with Sullivan for $10,000 and the biggest purse they can raise. I will meet him with or without gloves to demonstrate who is champion of the world. Sullivan will be received much better in Australia if he can make a match to fight me there."

A Challenge to Slavin.

NEW YORK, June 20.—Sullivan's Backers, Wakeley and Johnson, deposited $1,000 with Arthur Lumley this morning to make a match with Slavin to fight Sullivan for $10,000 a side. Slavin may accept the offer before he sails for England to-day.

$25,000 for Sullivan and Slavin.

NEW ORLEANS, June 20.—The Olympic Club of this city has telegraphed an offer of a purse of $25,000 for a fight in the Olympic club room between Sullivan and Slavin to take place February 27th.

The Exterminator Sentenced.

COLUMBIA, S. C., June 20.—Robert T. Jones, the Edgefield family exterminator, who murdered the three Pressleys six years ago, and who on Saturday in the court of Lexington was convicted of manslaughter, has been sentenced to 20 years in the penitentiary. It is understood that no appeal will be taken.

Seabright's Loss by Fire.

SEABRIGHT, N. J., June 20.—A careful estimate places the loss by the recent fire at $300,000, with insurance at $200,000.

FIVE WERE DROWNED.

Sad Outcome of the Geological Survey's Expedition to Washington.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—The Geological Survey has received information from I. C. Russell of that Bureau, who left here a month ago to explore the glaciers of Mt. St. Elias. The telegram was very brief and to the effect that the party had landed at Icy Bay on June 8, and in landing Mr. O. C. Moore, a lieutenant, and four seamen were drowned.

VANCOUVER, B. C., June 20. — The steamer Queen, at Victoria from Alaska, brings news that Lieutenant Robinson and four of a boat's crew from the United States steamer Bear, and W. C. Moore, of the Mt. St. Elias exploring expedition, were drowned at Icy Bay, Alaska, while a number of the explorers were making a landing. The Bear was bound for Behring Sea, and left Icy Bay June 14.

THEY DIED TOGETHER.

A Mother and Two Children Commit Suicide.

BLENHEIM, Ont., June 20.—The bodies of Mrs. David Clarke and her two children, a boy and girl, both under 4 years of age, were found alongside Rondeau dock last evening. The following words were written on the pier:

Do not blame Gerney, I did it. (Signed) MAGGIE.

Gerney is the name of Mrs. Clarke's oldest son. The woman's husband deserted her and their five children last fall. This is supposed to have caused her to commit double murder and suicide.

Miss Huntley Disappeared.

MALDEN, Mass., June 20.—When the cases of Dr. Nathan French, alleged principal, and Mrs. Mary E. Sutherland, alleged accessory, in malpractice upon Miss Isabella Huntley came up during the morning it was learned that Miss Huntley, who is under bonds, had disappeared. She is believed to have fled to Prince Edward's Island, her native place. The cases were continued to June 26, and meantime an effort will be made to find the missing witness.

HIS WIFE A GYPSY

Farmer Halladay's Bride to Be Tried To-Day.

PLAYING THE INSANITY DODGE.

She Shrieks Continually and Tears the Clothes From Her Body.

Charged With Arson, Horse Stealing and Murder—The Newburg Jail Physician Says He Is Positive She Is Mad—A Roving Band of Gypsies Hire Attorneys to Defend Her.

NEWBURG, N. Y., June 20.—Jail Physician Harmore regards as insane Mrs. Paul Halladay, Farmer Halladay's young gypsy wife, arrested here yesterday for horse stealing and charged with arson, resulting in her stepson's death.

She does not recognize anybody or allude to the charges. One of the stolen horses was recovered from Farmer Jim Scott, in Ulster County, who had Glynn, the woman's companion, with whom he dealt, arrested there. The other horse and surrey were found at the home of a man named Wyatt in Sullivan County.

Halladay insists that his wife is shamming. She is a gypsy, and he is sure she fired the house to cause his son's death. The Recorder refused to give him $31 he said his wife had stolen, as there was no proof of theft. He has returned home to Burlingham, Sullivan County. His wife's examination will take place here this afternoon. A roving band of gypsies have hired an attorney to defend the woman.

After the woman was placed in jail she continued giving apparent evidences of insanity. She yelled loudly in her cell at times and in the night continued tearing up her clothing until hardly a vestige of it remained upon her. Besides this she has done things during her incarceration that probably no human being would do if in their right mind.

HONORS FOR THE KAISER.

England Will Spare No Effort to Make Him a Welcome Guest.

LONDON, June 20.—Enormous preparations are being made in London for the reception of the German Kaiser. The fireworks, it is claimed, will be on the most magnificent scale ever displayed in England's capital.

The Kaiser will arrive in England on the Fourth of July, according to programme, and proceed to Windsor, where he will remain until July 8, meantime being present at several functions, such as the wedding of the Princess Louise, daughter of the Prince and Princess Christian and the silver wedding and garden party at Cumberland lodge.

On July 8 the Kaiser will arrive at Buckingham palace, and attend an opera at the Covent Garden. On the 9th he will attend a garden party at Marlborough House, and Albert Hall in the evening. He will lunch on the 10th and on the 11th he will lunch at the German Embassy, and go to the Crystal Palace. After a visit to the Naval Exhibition, he will leave England on July 12.

The rumors of unpleasant feeling between the Kaiser and any member of the royal family are entirely without foundation, and it is stated, on high authority, that no effort will be spared to show the Kaiser that he is a welcome guest to England.

A Waterloo Veteran Opened the Dancing.

RESCUED IN MID-OCEAN.

Lucky Escape of the Crew of the Bark Exile.

NEW YORK, June 20.—The steamship Sophie, just arrived here from Cardiff, Wales, brought fourteen men, the crew of the dark Exile of St. John, N. B.

The Exile was sighted at 7 a. m., June 10, during a terrific storm with a signal of distress flying. The Exile's mainmast was over the side, and foretop gallant mast, mizzen topmast, and mizzen mastheard were gone; bulwarks, rails and stanchions all gone, and the ship level with the water.

The sea swept entirely over her. Her port quarter was also smashed in and all her boats gone.

The crew were on the poop deck, lashed to the rails.

The port side of the deck was carried away and all clean swept, the gale being heavy and a tremendous sea.

All of the Sophie's crew were called together and volunteers asked for to try to rescue the wrecked ship's crew.

The officers, who were Germans, instantly volunteered to go, but the crew, which were Italians, would not go.

It not being deemed prudent to let all the officers go, for fear of losing them all, the Sophie steamed down to the bark, and her captain told the bark's officers that he would try to get them off as soon as the weather was a little more moderate.

The next morning it was resolved to try to rescue the crew at once.

The Italians still refused to go and the officers manned the starboard lifeboat and succeeded with the greatest difficulty in rescuing the whole crew in two trips.

They saved nothing but what they stood in.

HE MAY BE PUNISHED.

The Delaware Laws Provide Fine and Imprisonment for Reed.

NEW CASTLE, Del., June 20.—Nothing is known of the whereabouts of John H. Reed, the 32-year-old grocer, who eloped from here with Anna Bartlett, his clerk, not yet 13 years old.

Joseph Bartlett, the girl's father, yesterday went to Havre de Grace, Md., in search of the couple, but was unsuccessful. He learned that Reed met the girl at that place at 4 p. m. on Monday, and then went south. The irate father will instruct the Baltimore and Philadelphia police to search for the couple.

A vigilance committee of 28 has been organized at this place, and should Reed return he will be given a coat of tar and feathers.

Under the law he may be punished for marrying a girl under 18 years, the age of consent in Delaware, and subjected to $1,000 fine and seven years' imprisonment. Reed leaves a wife and a 9-year-old girl.

—A devotional meeting will be held in the W. C. T. U. rooms, this evening at 7:45 o'clock.

—The Dunellen Electric Light Company is extending its line into New Market by way of Prospect avenue.

—The sessions of the Methodist Episcopal Sunday-school have been changed from 2:30 p. m., to 10 a. m., for the summer.

—At the next regular meeting of the United Order of Independent Odd Ladies, to be held Monday evening, there will be an election of officers for the ensuing term.

—The residents on Sycamore avenue over in the Park are rejoicing in the glory of a new and navigable sidewalk which has just been laid along the west side of the street at Mercer avenue.

—Shareholders in the Plainfield Building and Loan Association will meet for the payment of monthly dues, in Mr. Leifke's rear room, 27 West Front street, Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

—The street committee of North Plainfield asked for a special session of the Borough Council for last night, but when the meeting was called to order a motion to adjourn sine die was promptly carried.

—The gas in the Borough Council chamber last night was of poorer quality and burned more flickeringly and sputteringly and unsatisfactorily that ever. Electric light is to be substituted within a few days.

—Concerning Job Male's will, the Newark Advertiser says: "The facts, so far as the making of the nuncupative will are concerned, seem to be very clear, and it is not unlikely that after the subscribing witnesses have given their evidence the contest may cease."

—Doane & VanArsdale say they will let their neighbors fight it out over their 99 cent ties, as it gives their customers too much trouble to wait for the 1 cent change. This house has the reputation of keeping the best variety of footwear in the country, and of being strictly reliable.

—The Plainfield High School ranks as one of the best educational institutions in New Jersey, and it is therefore with commendable pride that THE CHRONICLE congratulates Alfred G. Kilmer, of this place, upon receiving the honor of valedictorian of his class.—Bound Brook Chronicle.

—Asa Merrill, of Dunellen, while driving along the road between Netherwood and Fanwood, a few nights ago, collided with a bicycle. His horse became unmanageable, and overturned the buggy and dragged Mr. Merrill through the dirt for a considerable distance, ruining his clothes.

—Samuel B. Wheeler, who resides on the Johnston estate, Mountain avenue, North Plainfield, this morning shot in the rear of his residence, a magnificent specimen of the American eagle which measured six feet six inches from tip to tip of wings and weighed eight and a quarter pounds. Harry McIntosh, the taxidermist, has the bird in his hands for mounting.

—A new offence is laid at the door of that most unmitigated nuisance, the tramp. I am reliably told that in some parts of this vicinity they have found sustenance this spring by digging up and eating the seed potatoes planted by the farmers. It may truly be said of the tramp, as it has been said of the Indian, that the only good one is a dead one.—Dover Iron Era.

—The Republican papers in New York have been sporting a job lot of fake "American" tin in their front windows lately and calling it "first fruits of the McKinley bill." The New York Press possessed a very large and select display of this hardware, of which it was justly proud, but the other day a great slab of fake tin, tired of living the life that earned its salary, fell over and put a hole in a $300 pane of glass. A big crowd gathered and prayed the protectionists unmercifully. All the sympathy was with the luckless "American" tin.

—One of the best objects a society could have is that of the Plainfield Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children. Of late the society has been somewhat inactive, but it is now purposed to revive interest in the organization. To that end it is hoped that all the old members and all people interested will attend the meeting of next week Thursday night, in the hall on the second story at 12 East Front street, over the City National Bank. Officers are to be elected, and plans of work are to be discussed. The society is always ready to hear complaints concerning the abuse and cruelty of children.

Red-Hot.

June has already given us ninety-eight in the shade. This is pretty hot, but it is nothing to the "red-hot" display of jewelry, diamonds, etc., at Collier's, 3 Park avenue. That throws everything into the shade.

—You will find him at the "Elkwood", to-night.

JOB MALE'S MANY HEIRS

Only a Handful for Each, If They Win Their Contest of His Will.

Just what each heir would get if the nuncupative will of the late Job Male were pronounced worthless by the court and the property should be divided among the numerous heirs at law, may be judged on reading the following list of claimants. The list is taken from the evidence of the nephew of the deceased, the junior Job Male, who, when questioned concerning the genealogy of the family, said:

Job Male, the deceased, was a widower, his wife having died seven or eight years before his death, and he had never had any children. Neither had Mr. Male any brothers or sisters living at the time of his death, but a half-sister, Mary Ann Gleason, of Pennsylvania. Mr. Male, the deceased, had two brothers, of the full blood, Simon and Ambrose, and two sisters, Mrs. Lindsley and Mrs. John Gabbits. The latter died before Mr. Male, leaving no issue. Simon Male had three children, Robert Male, Mrs. Fennell and Charlotte Strathdee. The latter resides in Albany. Ambrose Male died also before the deceased, leaving five children, Ambrose Male, Jr., Job Male (the witness), Charles H. Male, Mary Brown and Rachael Tarbuck. Mrs. Elizabeth Battee, another daughter of Ambrose Male, Sr., died before the testator, leaving three children, George W. Battee, Lafayette Battee, and Annie Latta. Mrs. Elizabeth Lindsley, the testator's sister of the whole blood, died before him, leaving two daughters, Sarah Delaney and another, whose name the witness did not know, but who died several years ago. The latter left one child, John, sometimes called Ezed, Delaney. The testator's half-brothers were John Male and William Male, both deceased. John Male's children are George Male, William Male, Fred Male, Frank Male and Fannie Bailey. William Male's children (the half brother) are Charles Male, Susanna Stephenson, James Male, all living, and Minerva Ferguson. The latter died in Howard City, Mich., and left three children, whose names witness did not know. Her mother, the wife of William Male, deceased, is yet living. James Male, a half brother of the testator, also dead, left surviving him six children, William Male, Simon Male, Charlotte Male (now married), George A. Male, Lucy A. Richardson and Thomas H. Male. Many of the descendants of the whole blood reside in Plainfield, N. J., Albany, N. Y., and Elizabethtown, Pa.; and most of the others in Canada.

BY THE WAY.

—John J. Kenney is selling ladies' Oxford ties at 75 cents and $1. He advertises to-day a special sale for 10 days.

—One of the busiest places in Plainfield is the store of VanEmburgh & White. That popular firm has something new to offer every few days, that will interest the ladies, and at such low prices that you can't help buying.

—Senator McPherson has to take an occasional run from his New York or Washington houses to New Jersey to see that no one has knocked down the fences in his absence. It is said that the Senator's reason for leaving Belle Mead was that his game preserves were continually poached upon by unscrupulous neighbors.

—An eleven-inning game was played on the Plainfield Bicycle Club grounds this morning, between H. Martin's nine and the "Resolutes". Martin's nine was defeated by a score of 17 to 16. Battery for the "Resolutes", Kline, pitcher, Giles, catcher. Battery for H. Martin's nine, Sebring, pitcher, and Sutphen, catcher. Umpire—W. Cornwell.

Shiloh's Cough Cure.

This is beyon question the most successful Cough Medicine we have ever sold; a few doses invariably cure the worst cases of Cough, Croup and Bronchitis, while its wonderful success in the cure of Consumption is without a parallel in the history of medicine. Since its first discovery it has been sold on a guarantee, a test which no other medicine can stand. If you have a cough we earnestly ask you to try it. Price 10c, 50c. and $1. If your lungs are sore, chest, or back lame, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by J. G. Miller, No. 10 East Front street, Plainfield N. J.

OUTSIDE CORPORATIONS WANTED

To Save Us From the Inside Corporations We are Already the Prey Of!

That scolding old woman, the Central Times, says:

At no time in the history of the city has there been such need of watchfulness on the part of the Plainfield taxpayer, lest the healthfulness, the good repute and the solvency of the city become the prey of outside corporations, as at the present.

Was there ever uttered by even a scolding old woman, such thorough bosh?

One of the "outside corporations" that the city may become the "prey" of—and which the Times has misrepresented, and started in to abuse, browbeat and make a monkey of until THE PRESS shut her up—is a company that will give the people better gas for almost half the money that they are now forced to pay for a dim and dirty light.

Verily the city is much in need of these "outside corporations" to rescue the people from the inside corporations they have so long been the prey of.

Were the Badge of Her Cherished Life-work to the Grave.

Funeral services over the remains of the late Lena Allen were held at Peapack yesterday afternoon. A number of relatives and friends were present from Plainfield. Her pastor, the Rev. George Davis, preached the sermon, from Jeremiah xv: 9—"Her sun is gone down while it was yet day." There was much sobbing and evidence of grief during its delivery. He gave a brief history and eulogy of her Christian service and worth in the community and church. She will be sadly missed—he said—as a loving daughter and a substantial Christian worker who was happiest when doing work for the Master in his vineyard.

Besides quantities of flowers given by friends, there was given by the local Union of the Christian Endeavor societies of Somerset county, of which she was vice president, a large floral piece representing the gates ajar. The Christian Endeavor society of her own church gave another large piece with the monogram C. E., and the King's Daughters, of which also she was a member, gave a large cross bearing the letters I. H. N. It was one of the largest funerals in the history of the village. There were 78 carriages in the line. The body lay in a white casket which was open full length, and the silent features bore the same sweet smile and lovely tenderness that had been so familiar to fond friends in life. On the breast was a Christian Endeavor badge. The body was laid to rest on a beautiful green hillside in the union cemetery.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Seymour L. Smith of Grandview avenue is at home for the summer months.

The Rev. Asa Reed Dilts preached at the Seventh-day Baptist church this morning.

Councilman Spangenberg climbed to the top of the Plainfield Water Supply Company's stand-pipe, this morning.

Major Ackerman and Freeholder Bradford Jones, of New Providence, were in Plainfield to-day looking for a Fourth of July orator.

Bishop Vincent is still confined to his home with a bronchial cough, and has been compelled to cancel all his June engagements. Consequently he can not preach here to-morrow, as announced.

Frank E. Newman, son of H. Otis Newman of West Fifth street, is home for the summer vacation of the Boston School of Technology. He was awarded the first prize this year in the competition of original architectural designs and drawings. His design was an art gallery.

The Rev. Charles B. Mitchell preaches to-morrow evening a special sermon in a course of sermons being preached to the young people of Simpson M. E. church, Jersey City. The Rev. William Eakens, pastor of Simpson church, preaches in this city for Mr. Mitchell to-morrow evening.

Elizabeth H. Opdyke, relict of the late ex-Mayor George Opdyke of New York, died at the age of 86 years, in this city, this morning, at the home of her son, Henry B. Opdyke. Two other sons, Charles W. and George F., are also residents of Plainfield. The funeral will take place on Tuesday at 11:15 a. m., at the home where she died, Farragut road near East Front street.

Master Stewart Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Taylor, and Master Percy Brown, entertained the guests at The Albion, last evening, with an "Art Gallery" expoeition that was most amusing and evidenced the possession by the young men of remarkable intelligence and humor. The proceeds of the affair amounted to five dollars which will be donated to the Tribune Fresh Air Fund.

The Rev. T. H. Stockton, D.D., who went to Buenos Ares, South America, at the conclusion of his pastorate of the Methodist Episcopal church in this city, eight years ago, is visiting his friends in Plainfield. He will occupy his old pulpit in the Methodist church, to-morrow morning, and preach in Monroe Avenue chapel at night. Dr. Stockton has charge of the English speaking branch of the Methodist Episcopal church in Buenos Ares. He is in this country only for a few weeks on business connected with the mission of which he has charge.

The market is flooded with decoctions under the name of Root Beer. Why should you experiment on such goods when the genuine Hires's Root Beer can be had? It is known to be safe, delicious, and healthful temperance drink.

The President Receives Few Callers.

CAPE MAY, N. J., June 20.—President Harrison remained in the seclusion of his seaside home all day. There were few callers. The Boy's Fault, Not the Dog's.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—It is not my habit to waste vitality or ink in straightening newspaper reports, but as the dog story published in your paper a day or two ago reflects on the good sense of some one in my employ, I deem it my duty to notice it.

According to the article in question, "The servant girl set the dog on the boy". As a matter of fact neither the boy nor the dog were within sight or hearing of any domestic in my employ. It has been the habit of the boy, after leaving the paper at my house and the other houses along this street, to pass through my grounds to serve his customers on the next street, and my family has not interfered with him as it saved the little fellow many steps. After leaving my paper the other night, he was going to the rear of the premises when he met and attempted to play with the dog. The familiarity was resented and the dog nipped the boy very slightly, not drawing any blood, I was at home and examined the boy's leg, and found that he was more frightened than hurt. On questioning the boy last night, he denied having made the statement contained in THE PRESS article, and was indignant because I would not allow him to continue his journey through my grounds where the dog was running loose.

If the boy will stay where he belongs become familiar with, and profit by, the story of our Washington and his little hatchet, he will avoid excitement, and some day may become our President.

C. A. HUNTER.

Believes He Can Clear Himself.

There was something of a sensation along the Jersey shore when it was learned that H. H. Yard, of Belmar, had been arrested in Trenton for alleged complicity with John Bardsley, ex-City Treasurer, in the misuse of city and State funds deposited in the defunct Keystone Bank of Philadelphia. Mr. Yard gave bail in $10,000 to await requisition from the Governor of Pennsylvania. Later he went to Philadelphia and surrendered himself to the authorities. Bail was furnished in the same amount as at Trenton, by Simon Muhr and J. T. Jackson, a relative. This action of Mr. Yard's surprised people more than ever, and leads to the belief that he has a clear case and is not afraid of the outcome. Mr. Yard has large property interests at Belmar, Como, Spring Lake, and extensive iron mines in Virginia, besides being a large stockholder in Monmouth county banks. He was really the founder of Belmar (old Ocean Beach), and was known to many Plainfield people. Some of the most successful New York business men residing in this city were given their start in life by him. He is fine looking, generous hearted, and a thorough gentleman.

Being a "Journalist".

The story of the legal contest over the will of the late Susanna Stillman was first told in these columns Thursday—and exclusively, as is usual in most important matters of local news. Again as usual the New York World reproduced it word for word in its issue of Friday morning; and the fellow who swore at Somerville that he was a "journalist", and who boasted under oath that he never published ancient history in his paper, reprinted it in his sheet, once more as usual, twenty-four hours after it appeared in THE PRESS, in his issue of last night. In each case the republication of the story without crediting it to THE PRESS was a barefaced theft. The World and the "journalist" were both reaping benefit from traffic in stolen goods. The public is learning from these pirates more and more every day just what being a "journalist" means. For the reputation of the profession it is a good thing that the fellow did n't claim to be a newspaper man.

Ten Years Apiece for Beckman and Jennie.

Samuel Beckman and Jennie Wiley, convicted of the manslaughter of Beckman's little child Pearl, were sentenced at Elizabeth this morning, each got 10 years in State Prison at hard labor.

Jennie Wiley when sentenced fell over in Amos Moffett's arms, and screamed and cried all the way to her cell.

Simmonds, the Elizabeth wife beater, got one year in State Prison.

Charlie Donaldson, the 9-year-old Westfield lad who attempted to kill his mother, was sent to the Reform school.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 20, 1890.

Having been a sufferer for sometime past with Biliousness, etc., I was recommended to use Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills, I did so, and am pleased to find that they are as recommended, a cure for those ailments. I therefore subscribe myself cheerfully in recommending them to any who may suffer with those complaints. E. B. NAAR,
News Editor True American.

I SUFFERED from acute inflammation in my nose and head—for a week at a time I could not see. I used Ely's Cream Balm and in a few days I was cured. It is wonderful how quick it helped me.—Mrs. Georgie S. Judson, Hartford, Conn.

FOR THREE weeks I was suffering from a severe cold in my head, accompanied by a pain in the temples. Ely's Cream Balm was recommended to me. After only six applications of the balm every trace of my cold was removed.—Henry C. Clark, New York Appraiser's Office.

Rattan Chairs and Iced Air for the Broadway's Plainfield Patrons.

Shortly after last Saturday evening's performance of DeWolf and Della, and the rest of the clever company that play "Wang" at the Broadway Theatre, New York, a crew of workman began removing the rich upholstered chairs from the main floor and the balcony, and by Monday evening the entire seating capacity had been changed, and in place of the heat generating velvet chairs, handsome ones containing woven rattan seats with an average width of 22 inches had been substituted. New and handsome draperies and portierres of India and Japanese silks of unique patterns and delicate tints have been placed in the eight private boxes, and each box has been supplied with new furniture, consisting of corner and oval chairs, handsome gilt chairs with woven rattan seats, also easy rattan chairs of the latest pattern.

The system of ventilation in use at the Broadway is acknowledged by architects and engineers to be the best known in science. During the heated term—in order to produce the desired effect—pure air is drawn down through a large shaft, commencing ten feet above the roof by means of an immense rotary fan, situated under the auditorium, and after passing through an ice house, in which tons of ice are stored daily, the cooled air is forced into an air chamber, the walls, floor and ceiling of which are built of brick and heavily coated with cement to prevent dampness. The pure, cool air from this chamber passes into the main auditorium at the rate of 15,000 cubic feet each minute through hundreds of small ventilators in the flooring of the parquette and parquette circle. These apertures are ingeniously concealed, and so protected as to diffuse the air at a uniform temperature. The foul and vitiated air is drawn off by means of ducts in the walls, and also by large ventilators located at intervals in the main ceiling for that purpose.

The Big Show That Will Open Music Hall's Next Season Under New Management.

A gentleman, well informed in theatrical affairs, remarked to a PRESS reporter the other day: "As a manager, W. S. Cleveland ranks with the best. He possesses every great qualification necessary to the position. In resoluteness, ardor of spirit, and indomitable energy he has few, if any, superiors. I have observed his advancement for a number of years, and one splendid managerial achievement has followed the other, until the whole series savor of romance. Starting without money, he stands to-day in the commanding position of the sole owner and manager of four great Minstrel Companies, aggregating 280 people, representing an investment of $150,000. One of these superb organizations, Cleveland's Consolidated Minstrels, the Big City Show, will appear at Music Hall, Plainfield, Monday evening, August 3. Having recently witnessed an exhibition by this company, I will say to you that it is 'away up.' Those who really love a good entertainment will find this company one that will fill every requirement. I can recommend it as being decidedly the best that I have ever seen."

The above opinion carries additional weight from the fact that the speaker was a gentleman of a wide range of experience and observation, which renders him, beyond question, a competent critic.

Manager Cleveland has always, without any deviation, given the public nothing but elegant and first-class minstrel performances. Next season he pulls ahead, and makes a marked improvement on anything he has ever produced heretofore.

A Snake Charmer's Narrow Escape.

CHICAGO, June 20.—Uno, the snake charmer, or Mrs. Goshen, as she is known in private life, who is one of the side show attractions at the Forepaugh circus, had a miraculous escape from a horrible death during the afternoon performance here while handling an immense boa-constrictor. In fact, but for the quick impulsive nature of Miss Jennie Yeamans, of the Blue Jeans Company, who jumped to the rescue and assisted the snake charmer in unfastening the coils of the monster serpent slowly tightening around her, the woman would, in all probability, been crushed to death.

Does It Pay?

You are often asking whether it pays to sell a genuine article when an imitation will go just as well and yield a much larger profit. The experience of the A. R. They are selling Tudor's Rye Whiskey which is guaranteed absolutely pure and ten years old, at a small profit and its sale is reported to be threefold greater than that of any other brand on the market.

KILRAIN AT BELFAST.

He Returns to Muldoon's Place With a Pair of Discolored Eyes.

BELFAST, N. Y., June 20.—Jake Kilrain arrived here this morning from New York, and is stopping at Muldoon's place. He bears evidence of the punishment he received in his recent mill with Slavin in the form of a very much discolored pair of eyes.

In conversation he spoke freely of his recent defeat. He said Slavin had a long arm and was altogether out of his reach, though he did not consider him a very hard hitter. Slavin, he said, was one of the most gentlemanly fellows he had ever met in the prize ring.

Peter Johnson's Alleged Murderer.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., June 20.—The alleged murderer of Peter E. Johnson of this city proves to be Charles R. SING!

Sing! as the birds shall teach thee
A song of love and trust;
Sing! till the world shall listen,
Till shine own eyes shall glisten
As joy or grief shall reach thee,
As a tuneful singer must;
May the brave music swelling,
From thy good heart upwelling,
Its message still be telling
Long after thou art dust.

Sing! for the world is weary
With burden of its care;
And men are heavy-hearted,
Perplexed, misjudged and thwarted,
And sin has made life dreary,
Temptation everywhere;
Sing! as true singer may,
Driving these clouds away
With promises of day
Whose coming shall be fair.

Sing! as thy heart shall bid thee,
Nor let the music die,
Its tenderest word unspoken;
Give generously love's token;
Heed none that would forbid thee
As days and years go by.
Think not of what it cost thee,
Gold, friendships, pleasures lost thee,
Of praises seldom tossed thee,
Of blame few would deny.

Sing! and thy heart's best feeling
Shall not in vain be spent.
Some soul, sin-sick, life-weary,
Shall at thy song grow cheery,
As thou in it revealing
New hope for discontent
And put away the badness
Of sin and strife and sadness,
Of misspent days, with gladness
In holy purpose meant.

Sing! and thy song shall sweeter
Grow with the coming years,
And some day men shall heed thee,
Finding how much they need thee
To make their lives complete,
Where faith shall still their fears.
Sing! with thy soul's pure fire,
Thy passionate desire,
That Godward doth aspire
And heavenly music hears.
—Charles Edward Prest, in Boston Globe.

MR. BOWSER.

Mrs. B. Tells the Story of His Sad and Sudden Relapse.

AM deeply pained to be obliged to inform the public that Mr. Bowser has had a relapse. It wasn't entirely unexpected, but was something of a shock. Mr. Bowser's "good streak" lasted eleven days. During that time he took me to the theater twice, paid a millinery bill of twelve dollars without a word, raised the cook's wages fifty cents per week, acknowledged that I could buy groceries cheaper than he could, insisted on allowing me five dollars pin-money per week, and was so different from his usual self in other ways that I was quite bewildered. He went away from the house Saturday noon fairly beaming with goodness and as he reached the bottom step he turned and said:

"Tra-la, chickey! We'll run down town this evening and see about getting some new silverware."

When he returned I was at the door to meet him and to greet him, but he waved me aside and growled:

"Come, now, don't be playing the baby at your age!"

"Are you sick, Mr. Bowser?"

"No!"

"Has anything happened?"

"No! What's the matter that supper isn't ready? If that good-for-nothing, lazy cook doesn't get up and stir he stumps more lively I'll fire her on a minute's notice. Mrs. Bowser, you never have any first-class help in the house!"

"Why, Mr. Bowser! You told me only yesterday that Anna was the smartest cook you ever saw in a kitchen!"

"Never did. Never said a word which could be twisted around to mean such a thing!"

"And you raised her wages?"

"I did that to smarten her up, but it is no use. Discharge her to-morrow."

At the table Mr. Bowser found fault with the biscuit, the tea, the cold meat, and everything else, and finally called out:

"Mrs. Bowser, are you stone blind?"

"Of course not."

"Then how came you to buy such honey as this? Anyone but a blind woman could see that it is buckwheat and not clover. Why, a dog wouldn't touch it!"

"WHY, A DOG WOULDN'T TOUCH IT!"

"But you ordered it yourself."

"What?"

"You ordered it of Green through the telephone Thursday. Don't you remember you had to spell out the word honey before he could understand?"

"Never! Never telephoned! Never spelled out the word! Better take it out and bury it!"

After supper I began to get ready to go down town, when he suddenly looked up from his paper and asked:

"What's up now?"

"Why, you said we were to go down town this evening."

"You must be crazy! Don't you suppose I ever want a night to sit down and rest myself? It's a wonder there's a woman left alive on earth! It's nothing but gad, gad, gad, from morning till night. What do you want down town?"

"You said we'd see about some silverware."

"Silverware! Silverware! Great Scots! but is the woman a lunatic! We've got bushels of it now in the house! We've got it in the closet, down cellar, upstairs and in the garret! It'll be the insane asylum next!"

"Mr. Bowser, didn't you call me chickey when you went away at noon?"

"Chickey! Never!"

"But you certainly did."

"I certainly didn't! Chickey? Well, when I get as soft as that I want some ice wagon to run over me!"

About eight o'clock that evening he removed his shoes to put on his slippers, but suddenly paused and inquired:

"Is there a darning needle in this house, Mrs. Bowser?"

"Why, certainly."

"And a piece of sheep twine?"

"What on earth do you want of sheep twine?"

"I want to darn this hole in my sock. Some men's wives can see such things in half an hour, but this one has been here three weeks. I've got to darn it, the same as I have to sew on my own buttons. I suppose I'll have to make the bed and sweep the floor in another week."

HE ATTEMPTED TO LOOK LIKE A MARTYR.

"Those socks were all right when you changed Sunday. I'll darn 'em the first thing in the morning."

"Not much! The limit has been reached!"

He wouldn't even let me get a darning needle for him, but he hunted one out of the basket, and then, instead of taking yarn, he got a piece of twine which had come around a package and began to sew back and forth across the hole. He also made a determined attempt to look like a martyr, and he succeeded so well that the cook, who had looked in for a moment, beckoned me out into the kitchen and whispered:

"I knew it wouldn't last, ma'am—knew it all the time! He's got his high jinks on again, and now nothing will go right for the next month!"

When Mr. Bowser had finished the sock he put it on, and then went for his overcoat, saying:

"I might as well do this job, too. There's been a button loose for over two years, but of course you wouldn't see it!"

"But you only got this overcoat last fall," I protested, "and if there was a loose button you should have called my attention to it."

He felt of all the buttons twice over before he could find a loose one, and then he made a great ado about cutting it off and sewing it on again. I was rather glad to see that he made a mistake of two inches in putting it back. When he had finished I mildly inquired whether he would have beefsteak or mackerel for breakfast.

"There's another thing I want to speak about right now!" he sharply replied. "You are using as much money to run this house as if it was an ordinary hotel. I can't see what you do with the provisions, unless you sell them second-hand or give them away."

"A week ago to-day you gave me fifteen dollars, didn't you?"

"Yes, and you have spent every red of it, and are now in debt for ten dollars more!"

"Mr. Bowser, here is my account. It starts off with three bars of soap."

"Three bars! It's no wonder I can't lay up a cent!"

"Hold on. You have praised the table all the week, and yet my bill foots up—"

"Haven't praised a thing—not a thing!"

"Well, how much does it foot up? See for yourself. I've run our table on about eight dollars, while I have used another dollar for extra things for kitchen and laundry."

"Nine dollars! Nine dollars! Great Scott! But is it any wonder men seem to pity me as I walk out! You have wasted nine dollars in a week!"

"But you have said that it often cost you sixteen dollars to run the house for a week!"

"Never! I've always run it for five or six, and been reckless at that! That's it, let a woman have the swing and she'll bankrupt the world in a year!"

"But, Mr. B——"

"No use—no use! I'm going to bed. I'll probably have to get up at six to defend the house against your mob of creditors clamoring for their pay. Such a house! Such a wife!"—Detroit Free Press.

M'DONALD IS DEAD

Indiana's Ex-Senator Passed Away at Midnight.

HE WAS CONSCIOUS TO THE LAST.

Tender Farwell to Relatives When Informed that All Hope Was Gone.

Brief Sketch of His Career—He Was an Eminent Lawyer and Served One Term in the United States Senate—He Was Several Times Mentioned as a Candidate for the Presidency.

INDIANAPOLIS, June 22.—Ex-Senator McDonald died at midnight. Early in the morning the unfavorable symptoms of several days ago appeared and during the day the patient's condition continued to grow more serious. He could retain no nourishment whatever and the little remaining of his former strength slowly ebbed away. But consciousness never departed.

During the afternoon the Rev. Mr. Milburn was sent for and administered the sacrament. Then Mr. McDonald called his family and intimate friends about him and calmly, as if the occasion were were one of the most ordinary kind, gave directions for his funeral arrangements and the disposition of some of his personal affairs.

In the presence of all he said he wished to give testimony to his faith in God's saving grace. Then he grasped each by the hand and bade them good bye, saying that he could see no more callers.

His auditors thus dismissed, the dying man surrendered himself to the care of his physician to await the coming of the inevitable.

Sketch of His Career.

With Joseph Ewing McDonald there passes away one of the most notable figures in national politics. McDonald was born in Butler County, Ohio, August 29, 1819, and his father died when he was an infant. When he was only 11 years old McDonald was apprenticed to a saddler. To this fact is due his sobriquet, "Old Saddlebags."

In the "thirties" McDonald determined to secure a collegiate education and become a lawyer. He was graduated in 1842 from the Asbury University, and four years later was admitted to the bar. After serving three years as Attorney General he was sent to Congress. He served only one term in the House, being beaten for a return by Oliver P. Morton. He then became ambitious to go the Senate, and undertook the reorganization of the Democratic party in his State, which had been sadly demoralized during the war. He was made chairman of the Democratic State central committee, and in 1874 the Democrats captured the Legislature by a fair majority. In return for his services McDonald was elected to the United States Senate and took his seat March 4, 1875. He held it for six years. During his term he made himself very popular socially.

His home at the national capital was a resort for Senators and Congressmen. Mrs. McDonald had been a wife before becoming the Senator's bride. The Senator acted as her counsel in proceedings which resulted in an absolute separation from her former husband, and the Hoosier Democrat soon afterward married her.

Few men of more intense partisanship than McDonald ever entered the Senate. His platform then, as repeatedly expressed by him, was: "Jacksonian Democracy, Home Rule and Free Trade." Recently, however, when his party shouted the shibboleth of free silver, McDonald embraced every possible opportunity to denounce the scheme to degrade the American dollar by making 80 cents worth 100 cents. McDonald had a strong following in the 1884 and 1888 Democratic Presidential conventions. Many Indianians favored his nomination for the Presidency in 1884. The national leaders of the party wouldn't listen to it, but put up Cleveland, with Hendricks for second place. Four years later he was pressed for the Vice-Presidency, but Indiana was ignored. Since that disappointment the ex-Senator has devoted himself to his profession.

McDonald's face and form were known from one end of the country to the other. He was tall, of powerful, chunky build and weighed at least 250 pounds. His cheeks were chubby and his head was bald, except for a fringe of snowy spit curls that decorated it just above the ears. A line of white, extending from ear to ear, around under the chin, was all that remained of a once luxuriant beard.

Searching for Annie Fredericks.

WILKESBARRE, June 22.—Eight Hundred men and boys, armed with provisions for two days, left here to search the mountains for little Annie Fredericks, who disappeared from her home last Tuesday. It is supposed that she was lost in the woods.

Shot His Defamer and Himself.

ROANOKE, Va., June 22.—Houston O'Beachain fatally shot H. N. Trout at Troutville and then committed suicide. The murderer accused his victim of spreading reports derogatory to his reputation.

BAR HARBOR, June 22.—Secretary of State Blaine is reported by his physicians to be steadily improving. His health is better than at any time since his illness in New York.

HUNTING FOR MARSH.

Officers Scouring the Country for the Fugitive Bank President.

ASBURY PARK, June 22.—Detective Freeman, of Philadelphia, it is thought, will not survive the injuries he received Friday night at Spring Lake while trying to arrest a man there who was believed to be Gideon W. Marsh, president of the Keystone Bank of Philadelphia, who is a fugitive from justice. The cottage in which it was supposed Marsh was hiding is owned by his intimate friend, Harry H. Yard.

District Attorney Graham, of Philadelphia, had an interview with Freeman last night, during which the latter said he was sure Marsh had been at the cottage and that he saw him himself last Wednesday on the beach near Como. He said he did not arrest him then because he was sure of his game, and thought that it would be better to take him in the cottage.

It is believed that Marsh escaped from the cottage by going through the woods. Officers are scouring the surrounding country, and it is hoped that the fugitive will be arrested before long.

MAY TIE UP THE ROADS.

A General Strike Threatened in Albany This Week.

ALBANY, N. Y., June 22.—A general tie-up is threatened by the employes of the Albany Electric Company operating all but one of the surface roads in the city.

The trouble is due to several of the inspectors, who have made themselves obnoxious to the conductors by entering complaints against them by the wholesale with the result that several have been discharged.

The car houses of the company are guarded by police and detectives have been on duty in that vicinity for two days.

It is thought that unless certain unpopular inspectors, who are ex-conductors, are discharged a tie-up of all the employes will be ordered this week.

SEVEN WERE DROWNED.

Bohemian Berry Pickers Capsize a Boat in Maryland.

BALTIMORE, Md., June 22.—A number of Bohemians employed as berry pickers on truck farms in Anne Arundel County clambered into a row-boat and pulled out into the stream at Curtis Bay.

The women became badly frightened and during the excitement the boat was capsized and seven persons were drowned.

The names of the drowned are: Georgiana Titus, Al Reasser, Lula Marsh, John Houston, Walter Caston, a man known as "Gidsay" and an unknown man. None of the bodies had been recovered up to a late hour.

College Oarsmen at New London.

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 22.—Oarsmen the country over are now waiting impatiently for the big inter-collegiate rowing championships to be decided. Of course most of the interest centres in the outcome of the race between Yale and Harvard, and the practice work of these two crews on the Thames is watched very closely. While the New Haven boys are slight favorites for the race, one thing that is certain is that they will not have the "soft snap" they have enjoyed for four or five years past. Harvard is rowing in very good form just now, and with Captain Perkins back in the boat they will keep the Yale men "guessing" every length of the course.

Stole the Superintendent's Valise.

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 22.—Ex-Superintendent of Insurance Maxwell while waiting for a New York Central New York express at Batavia set his valise, containing a quantity of money, in one corner of the waiting room. John Graw, who lives between Alexander and Attica, rushed into the depot, picked up the valise and jumped upon a train pulling out for Attica. The property was recovered as Graw alighted from the train. No arrests.

A New Charge to Answer For.

READING, Pa., June 23.—H. M. Hudson, who was arrested in Harrisburg at the request of Inspector Byrnes, of New York, where he is wanted for grand larceny, is supposed to be an accomplice of a pretty young woman who calls herself Mrs. Beatrice Collins. She is in jail here on a charge of passing counterfeit silver dollars. Hudson is also known as Napoleon Collins.

A Lawer Tired of Life.

LOCKPORT, June 22.—James A. Long, a Tonawanda attorney, who went to Tonawanda from Utica several months ago, is missing. On Saturday Long's room mate received a letter from him, stating that he was tired of life and that his body would be found in the Niagara River. He was absolutely penniless and had grown despondent.

Winding Up an Insurance Company.

STOCKTON, Cal., June 22.—The Alta Insurance Company will shortly go out of business after a life of three years. The directors yesterday accepted an offer of the Connecticut to reinsure the Alta's risks, and as soon as its affairs are satisfactorily arranged the company will be dissolved.

THE ACTRESS ALIVE

Dolly Davis Surprised Her Friends This Morning.

THEY WERE SURE SHE WAS DEAD

And a Coroner's Jury Decided That She Committed Suicide.

One of the Most Remarkable Cases of Mistaken Identity That Can Be Recalled—The Young Lady Not Pleased With the Turn of Affairs—Mystery Surrounds the Body That Was Found.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., June 23.—Dolly Davis, the well known variety actress, is not dead.

Under ordinary circumstances this announcement would not create the least surprise, but it was yesterday afternoon that a jury, impanelled by Coroner Sutton, of Peekskill, held an inquest over the body of an unfortunate and beautiful young woman, whose corpse was found floating off a brick-yard at Croton Saturday morning, and came to the verdict that the dead girl was none other than Dolly Davis.

Witnesses who had known the variety performer for years—since childhood, in fact—went before Coroner Sutton and swore that they believed the girl to be Miss Davis. The affair is one of the most remarkable cases of mistaken identity that can be brought to mind.

But Dolly Davis came here this morning and astonished the authorities by announcing herself. Much surprise was created at her appearance when the morning papers had published columns about her death, but the little woman only laughed a gurgling laugh and assured all present that the whole affair was nothing more than a most remarkable mistake.

She was not, however, altogether pleased at the turn affairs had taken, and displayed much annoyance when she dwelt on what she termed the stupidity of the people who, on hearing of the finding of the body, had spread the report that it was hers. She had been greatly annoyed, for her mother is still living in Australia, and she feared the effect of such news upon her.

Who Is the Unknown Girl?

Now comes the question. As the coroner's jury has made a mistake, and Dolly Davis is alive, who is the unknown girl? Who is the mysterious "M. E. J.?" Why did the young girl end her life?

If the young girl was not a resident of the vicinity of Tarrytown why did she ask to be buried in that particular cemetery? It is certainly strange that no one has missed her, that no word has come from any quarter about her.

On the wrist of the dead girl was a cheap silver bracelet and a ring of very tawdy beads was on one of the fingers of the left hand.

The Coroner's Inquest.

SING SING, N. Y., June 22.—The inquest on the body of Dolly Davis, the actress, who committed suicide by jumping off a dock at Croton Landing, was held here. The Coroner's Jury rendered a verdict of suicide by drowning. The body was taken to Tarrytown. A number of persons who knew her raised sufficient money to bury her beside her mother in Sleepy Hollow Cemetery, Tarrytown, which was the unfortunate young woman's last request.

A WARSHIP TO BE SENT.

The United States Consul Expects Trouble at Samoa.

WASHINGTON, June 22.—Advices received at the State Department from the United States Consul at Samoa substantially confirm the reports received in London of the threatened trouble between King Malietoa and Chief Mataafa, owing to the aspirations of the latter to become king de jure as well as de facto.

The prospects for a conflict are sufficiently serious, in Consul Sewell's opinion, to warrant the suggestion that the United States send a warship to those waters to look after American interests with as little delay as possible.

Upon the return of the Charleston to San Francisco with the Itata it is understood she will receive orders to proceed to Honolulu, while the Iroquois, now there, takes a run down to Samoa. It is not regarded as safe to allow the Iroquois to depart from Honolulu until after the arrival of another vessel. But for the necessity of sending all the available vessels at San Francisco to Behring Sea one of them would have been dispatched to Honolulu before this.

The Mayer-Mahan Fight Declared Off.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 22.—The California Athletic Club declared the fight between Mayer and Mahan off on account of Mayer's illness, and awarded Mahan $300 forfeit. The fight was to come off July 20th.

Naval Workshop Burned.

VIENNA, June 22.—The Austrian naval workshop at Pola, on the Adriatic, has been destroyed by fire.

SENSATIONAL TRAGEDY.

A Married Man Kills Himself After Wounding Another Man's Wife.

MCKEESPORT, Pa., June 22.—A sensational shooting affair occurred here at 10:30 p. m., resulting in the death of William Myers and the serious injury of Mrs. William Harding. Both parties are married.

Myers had been making love to Mrs. Harding for several months. Yesterday the Myers and Harding families attended a picnic. Myers began his renewal of love to Mrs. Harding, to which she paid but little attention.

Myers wanted to sell his property and elope to Germany with Mrs. Harding, but she did not think he was in earnest, and gave it but little attention.

After the picnic the Myers and Harding families went home together, with the exception of Mrs. Myers, who had gone on ahead. As the party reached Myers' home, Harding invited Myers to his house. Myers accompanied the Hardings to their home. On their arrival Harding went out in the yard to lock up his chicken coop. Just as Harding went out in the yard, Myers said to Mrs. Harding: "Will you like me?"

"Mrs. Harding replied "No," whereupon Myers shot her twice in the breast. He then put a bullet into his own brain, dying immediately. Mrs. Harding will likely recover. Myers and Harding were mill workers and had homes close together.

RIDICULING THE FAIR.

The Italian Press Opposed to Italy Sending Exhibits to Chicago.

ROME, June 23.—During the past week there have been a great many strong articles in the Italian press, incited, perhaps, by those which have appeared in the Paris papers, and all directed against the Chicago Fair, which they treat with ridicule.

These newspapers are discouraging the idea of any Italian exhibits on the occasion, and it appears to an impartial observer that unless something is done to cause a complete change in public feeling Italy will be almost if not entirely unrepresented at the World's Fair.

There is a general impression throughout the country that, in spite of the semi-official denials which have been published, Minister Porter will never return to Rome, or, at all events, until Baron di Fava is sent back again to Washington.

THE CENSUS BUREAU WORK.

Superintendent Porter Denies that He Intends to Resign.

WASHINGTON, June 22.—Superintendent Porter denies emphatically the truth of the report that the Census Bureau work is blockaded and swamped and its appropriations exhausted, and that, therefore, he is tired and discouraged and intends to resign.

He has, he says, no intention of resigning until the work of the eleventh census is completed. As to the work of the bureau being blockaded, there is no truth whatever, he says, in the statement; but, on the other hand, it is well advanced, with ample appropriations yet unexpended to carry on the work for another 12 months, or as far as Congress expected it would be carried with the appropriations already made.

Superintendent Porter says he is more than pleased with the progress made thus far. Two volumes will be ready for the printer next month. The volume embodying the aggregate population of minor cities will be ready for the printer by August 1st, and the first 500 pages of the population compendium will go to the printer about the middle of August. By July 31 the tabulating cards will be ready, and then it will be necessary to dispense with the services of about 1,000 clerks now employed in the population division.

The system adopted for collecting population statistics has given satisfactory results, and only a few days ago, after a careful examination by Canadian officials was adopted by their government for use in the taking of the next census of Canada.

Died on Her Way Home.

WASHINGTON, June 22.—Miss S. S. Packard, well known as one of the founders of the Spellman Seminary at Atlanta, Ga., died here yesterday. Miss Packard was on her way from Atlanta to her home in Massachusetts and arrived here last Thursday. She was taken suddenly ill after leaving Atlanta, and when she reached Washington was unable to proceed further. Her remains were sent on to Massachusetts last night.

They Cheered for Parnell.

CHICAGO, June 22.—James J. O'Kelly, William Redmond and Henry Harrison, the Parnell envoys, addressed a large and enthusiastic meeting of Irish-Americans at Central Music Hall. Every reference to Parnell was loudly cheered. Thunderous shouts greeted a message read to the meeting, which had been received by Mr. O'Kelly. It read: "Parnell will visit Chicago in the autumn."

Two Thousand Molders Strike.

CHICAGO, June 22.—Molders Union No. 209 decided that they would aid the architectural iron workers in their strike by refusing to do any molding in the architectural line in the foundries. This went into effect to-day and practically orders a strike of 2,000 members in the city who are engaged in that class of work.

A Banquet for Homœopaths.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 22.—This evening the physicians attending the International Convention of Homœopaths will be tendered a banquet by Mrs. Neal P. Hamilton. It is expected that President Harrison will be present and preside.

No Agreement in a Malpractice Suit.

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 22.—The jury in the case of Mary Ann Noonan against Dr. Scott Skinner, of Leroy, and Dr. Geo. Herrmann, of Avon, to recover $5,000 for alleged malpractice, reported that they were unable to agree.

PREPARING FOR WAR

France Seeking Definite Information from Russia.

THE CZAR'S HELP IS WANTED.

An Alliance Against the Dreibund Necessary at This Time.

Consul Corte is Stirring Up Trouble in Rome—He Tells a New Story About the New Orleans Lynching—The Queen May Attend a Wedding To-day—George Francis Train in Cairo.

PARIS, June 22.—The Comte de Montebello, who replaces M. de Laboulaye as French Ambassador at St. Petersburg, will be specially charged to obtain definite information from the Czar as to the action of Russia in the event of war between France and Germany.

M. Ribot, Minister of Foreign affairs, has learned that M. de Laboulaye's failure to get the proposals for an alliance discussed arose from the Czar's anger at the fact that the overtures were first submitted to M. de Giers, Russian Minister of Foreign Affairs, instead of to himself.

Not the Thing but the Form Objected To.

The Czar ordered M. de Giers to ignore the proposals for negotiations, and took the first occasion to snub M. de Laboulaye, who felt compelled to ask M. Ribot to relieve him from his duties. The withdrawal of Baron Mohrenheim, Russian Ambassador at Paris, is imminent, as M. de Laboulaye acted on his advice.

During the visit of the French squadron to Cronsadt the Czar will be personally approached on the subject of united action against the Dreibund, which is rendered all the more necessary through the menacing of the commercial coalition of the two countries.

CORTE PLAYING A PART.

He Is Airing His Views in Rome on the New Orleans Lynching.

ROME, June 22.—Sig. Corte continues to air his views on the subject of the New Orleans lynching on every possible occasion.

He is particularly flattered by his importance, and it is evident that his utterances are framed to stir up and inflame popular opinion.

He also seems to be making a side show of the little boy Grimaudo, who survived the New Orleans massacre, but his main object evidently appears to be to establish himself as a hero in the eyes of the people of Italy.

In an interview which is published in the Corriere di Napoli with him, and which is evidently designed to increase popular feeling, he says:

"On the day of the massacre of the Italians the crowd, drunk with fury, rushed into the street in which the Italian Consulate is situated.

"I was abandoned by my servants and alone, with the aid of my secretary, I barricaded the door and awaited my assailers, revolver in hand. They were finally counselled by influential persons, and although the lynchers hooted and hissed insults at Italy, they did not attack the Consulate."

French Threats Resented.

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 22.—The Porte refuses to be intimidated by the threats of the French Embassy into hasty action in the matter of the recent riots as Jerusalem between the Greeks and the Roman Catholics, in which the Turkish soldiers rather took the side of the Greeks. The French Ambassador sent a peremptory message for redress in behalf of the Catholics, whose protector France claims to be. The Porte, however, ignores the French interference and is going about the investigation in a deliberate way.

Broke Out of Jail to Commit Murder.

HAMBURG, June 22.—A shoemaker named Loseries, of this city, was recently put in jail for cruelty to his wife. He escaped last night and went home, locked his wife in, and began to abuse her. After torturing her in various ways, he finally murdered her by breaking her skull with a hammer. He pounded the dead woman's head almost to a jelly and then committed suicide by cutting his throat.

Is Bismarck the Ungrateful Vassal?

BERLIN, June 22.—Count Schulenburg, of the Tenth Hussar Reserves and a member of the Upper House, has been brevetted lieutenant colonel by special order of the Emperor for "the gallant defense of his highness against an ungrateful vassal." The fact of the case is that Schulenburg seconded Chancellor Caprivi in his recent onslaught against Prince Bismarck in the Upper House.

The Queen Will Attend This Wedding.

LONDON, June 22.—It is expected that the Queen will be present to-day at the marriage of Miss Alberta Ponsonby, daughter of Her Majesty's private secretary, Sir Henry Frederick Ponsonby, to Col. Montgomery of the Scots Guards. The wedding will take place at the Wellington Barracks Chapel, and 700 notables will be the invited guests.

Narrow Escape from Death.

LONDON, June 22.—A train carrying militiamen on a single track railway, about two miles from Londonderry, Ireland, collided with an empty train. The driver of the militia train was killed and the fireman fatally injured. The driver had promptly reversed his engine, otherwise many lives would have been lost.

Trying to Revive the Baccarat Scandal.

LONDON, June 22.—The Liberal party in Parliament is unfavorable to the proposed revival of the baccarat scandal by the questions which Mr. Henry Cobb, Liberal M. P. for Rugby, proposes to ask in Parliament this evening.

THE TRAIN DITCHED.

A Large Party of Excursionists in a Railroad Accident.

CLEVELAND, O., June 22.—An excursion train of 15 coaches left this city for Oak Point, a pleasure resort on the New York, Chicago & St. Louis Railroad, about 20 miles west of here, early yesterday afternoon.

The engine was running with the tender in front, and when about two miles west of Dover jumped the track, causing the rails to spread and ditching the train.

The engine went down the embankment, pulling one car with it. The next two cars were telescoped and reduced to kindling wood.

The farmers living near the railroad hastened to the scene and with the aid of the passengers unhurt began the removal of the dead and injured.

The air was filled with the screams of the injured and the frightened women in the shattered coaches. Only one person, Henry Rogers, was killed outright. At least 15 and possibly more were injured.

Six coaches in all left the track. The fact that the coaches broke loose from the trucks is undoubtedly all that saved the lives of the passengers.

The engine was turned completely around and lies dismantled in the ditch. The embankment over which the cars plunged is about six feet high. Many of the passengers jumped through the windows in their efforts to escape and fled in all directions.

THROWN INTO THE SEA.

An Insane Father Startles the Passengers of the Steamer La Bretagne.

NEW YORK, June 22.—Among the passengers on the steamer La Bretagne, which arrived here yesterday, was the Feys family, consisting of the father, Joseph, the mother and a son and daughter, the latter two aged respectively 18 and 14 years. There were, when the family left Nancy, France, five in the family, but the fifth member, Pierre, aged 5, the victim of his father's insane act, now lies at the bottom of the Atlantic.

The tragedy occurred on the morning of June 15. Feys and his boys were standing at the stern of the steamer, while numerous passengers were lounging or walking about close by.

Suddenly a cry of horror arose. The father seized the little fellow from the deck and threw him far out into the sea.

The vessel was quickly stopped and a boat lowered, but no trace of the unfortunate boy could be found. The father was seized by several of the crew, when it was found that he had gone stark mad.

He was placed in a strait jacket, and on the arrival of the vessel here was turned over to the police. The other members of the family are deeply grieved at the double affliction.

MAY MAKE THE MATCH.

Slavin's Representative May Cover Sullivan's Forfeit To-day.

NEW YORK, June 22.—Sports whose inclinations lie toward the ring side are speculating to-day as to whether or not a representative of Slavin will call upon Arthur Lumley and cover the $1,000 which Wakely and Johnson, acting for Sullivan, have deposited with him to bind a match.

With Sullivan across the continent and Slavin figuratively "half seas over" between the time of his fight with Kilrain and his departure on the Auranis Saturday, it was impossible to get down to business. Now, however, that a representative may meet Sullivan's friends terms mutually satisfactory may be agreed upon.

So much has been said by both parties that it does not seem possible for either to escape a battle without the odium of a backdown. It may hardly be expected, however, before November, and when it does take place it will be fought in America. Slavin's talk about having it in Australia is all moonshine. If Sullivan elects to stay in the ring he is the champion still and has the right to name the country, at least, in which the championship battle shall be fought. There is not much doubt about the country John L. prefers.

The sensational Charlie Mitchell has managed to make himself mysterious. He was not in the stateroom in which Slavin and Moore said he was lying sick Saturday on board the steamer, nor was he yesterday about the haunts usually visited when he is in town. At O'Brien's Hotel at Coney Island it was said that he was not there, though there was an air of mystery about the young man who was in charge. It would be very little surprise if Charlie turned up to-day as Slavin's representative.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Sweeping official changes in the New York Custom House are again predicted.

Ex-Empress Eugenie and Princess Laetitia will start for Farnsborough to-day.

Joseph Barton, a farmer, was drowned while bathing in the Hackensack River at New Bridge, N. J.

European Cabinets are now discussing the expediency of taking united action with a view to restoring order in Hayti.

Lyman G. Clark, who was on trial at Woodstock, Vt., charged with the murder of his mother-in-law, was found not guilty.

Thomas Nilford, a Roxbury, Mass., youth whose parents are poor, has fallen heir to $45,000 by the will of his millionaire second cousin, Henri E. Pomes of Paris.

A dispatch has been received in Ottawa that the Queen has offered to make Lady Macdonald a Peeress, as a recognition of her husband's distinguished services to the Empire.

Two True Bills Against Yard.

PHILADELPHIA, June 22.—The Grand Jury found two true bills against Henry H. Yard, charging him with conspiracy with ex-City Treasurer Bardsley to unlawfully use the public funds.

—Now that the "sitting on the stoop" season has set in, the colored minstrel has begun his rounds. Sometimes he comes along and simply sings, sometimes he has a banjo or accordion with which to accompany himself, and sometimes he has a couple of brothers along to play the accompaniments for him. Rarest of all, four of him will make up a quartette and do some really effective singing. These wandering songsters usually make a good bit of money on an evening's journey, for the stoop dwellers can overlook little defects in quality in music brought to their doors, and they pay liberally for the entertainment.

Why the Pastor Clings to His Belief.

The interesting and comprehensive article, "Why I Am a Seventh-day Baptist", of which liberal extracts were published in these columns when it first came from the pen of the Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, has been made a part of "Why I Am What I Am", a volume issued by J. S. Ogilvie of New York, containing a collection of papers written by clergymen of different denominations to explain their respective beliefs. The Rev. R. S. MacArthur speaks for the Baptists, the Rev. Charles S. Robinson for the Presbyterians, the Rev. G. H. McGrew for the Methodists, the Rev. William R. Huntington for the Episcopalians, the Rev. Walter Elliott for the Catholics, the Rev. Lyman Abbott for the Congregationalists, the Rev. Charles H. Eaton for the Universalists, the Rev. S. S. Seward for the Swedenborgians, the Rev. J. W. Chadwick for the Unitarians, the Rev. Gustav Gotthell for the Jews, the Rev. G. J. Krotel for the Lutherans, John J. Cornell for the Friends, and the Rev. B. B. Tyler for the Disciples, while Col. Robert G. Ingersoll concludes the list with an article on "Crumbling Creeds".

BONNER'S FINE CATCHING.

The Seton Hall College Team Defeated by the Crescent League.

Had the Seton Hall College team a better catcher behind the bat on Saturday, the Crescents might never have won. As it was, the score for the first half of the game was 4 to 1 in favor of the visitors, and that one run of the Crescents had been made by Taylor, who came home all the way from first base on a wild pitched ball that was lost under the bleachers.

In the fifth inning with the Crescents at the bat, the Seton Hall battery bunched their errors, and the Crescents made four runs, but still without a hit. In the sixth and seventh innings Bryan was compelled to let up on his speed, and Jones, Gregg, McIndoe, Bonner and Taylor made hits that netted two earned runs. Those two were the only innings in which the Crescents placed the ball safely, but that they were hitting it is evidenced by the record of 15 flies caught by the Seton Halls.

In the field the Crescents played a pretty clean game, the only glaring error being by Simmen, who was out of his place as short stop. Lufbery's game, as usual, was perfect. He had five put-outs and three assists without an error, and made two beautiful double-plays, on the same men, in the same way, in the third and sixth innings.

Bonner's exhibition of back-stop work equalled anything of the kind ever witnessed in Plainfield. In the second inning Jones was retired to centre field with a split finger, and Bonner took his place. The latter caught without a breast pad and close up behind the bat most of the time. Nothing got by him, and he accepted every chance. His throwing to second base was quick and fast. In the fifth inning he assisted in putting the whole side out, and in the eighth inning, with the bases full, he got a foul fly and a strike-out that stopped right there the onward career of the visitors. The Crescents can boast of the possession of the finest two catchers in the State. The score:

The Unions of Grant avenue defeated the Merits of the Pond Machine Tool Works Saturday afternoon by the score of 16 to 8. The battery for the Merits was Guinee and Scott, for the Unions Firstbrook and Shattle, Turner and Littell. The feature of the game was the heavy batting done by the Unions, and the pitching of Turner, the Union's new man. The following players composed the two teams: Merits—Scott, c.; Guinee, p.; Penny, 1b.; McCarthy, 2b.; McComas, 3b.; Reed, s. s.; Doty, c. f.; Gray, l. f.; Clifton, r. f.

The Unions will play the Arlingtons next Saturday morning at 9 o'clock, and the Boys' Club in the afternoon at 3:30, at the corner of Grant avenue and South Second street.

Funeral of Marion Russell Phillips.

The funeral of Marion Russell, youngest daughter of Henry R. and H. Helen Phillips, whose death occurred last Thursday, took place from the residence of her parents, 6 Plainfield avenue, yesterday afternoon, the Rev. Dr. J. P. Taylor, rector of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, Evona, officiating. The choir of the Holy Cross church in their robes sang beautifully the burial chant and hymns, and four choir boys, Masters Waring, Perry, Jeffrey and Dencklau were the pall-bearers. A very large number of friends of the family were present. The interment was at Hillside cemetery.

He Denies What People are Saying About Him.

Frank Moran, the missing watchman of East Front street, has turned up again. He says he gave up his official position because the pay was too small, and only left town to visit his sister, whom he has seen but twice since he was three years old. He denies the reports which accuse him of deserting his wife, and says the gossips are "Trying to make another Gable of me".

Grace L. Bonny,	Harry L. McGee,
Raymond V. Carpenter,	Frank Reynolds,
Edna V. Hazeltine,	Margaret Swain,
Elizabeth C. Hull,	Edgar Felton Sheppard,
Alice E. Loomis,	Nellie Lorine Winckler,

The commencement exercises will be held at the Warren Mission chapel, beginning at 8 o'clock.

The class motto is: "The word still is 'Forward!' along the whole line."

The diplomas will be presented to the graduates by Trustee James McGee.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

The Rev. P. Le Bas Cross of St. John's church, Elizabeth, conducted the services at Holy Cross church yesterday morning.

The Rev. Dr. K. P. Ketcham and the Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes exchanged pulpits yesterday. Both preached their usual enjoyable and profitable sermons.

Charles B. Brown has been honored with an appointment by the First Baptist church as a city missionary and assistant of the Rev. Dr. Yerkes in such work.

John Ulrich, of this city, Grand Chancellor of the Knights of Pythias, was in Seabright Saturday, arranging to relieve the members of Seaside lodge of that order, who had suffered by the recent fire there.

E. E. Anthony of this city was elected a vice-president of the Union county Christian Endeavor union at the annual session at Rahway Friday night. George W. Cross of Westfield was chosen president.

The Rev. J. W. Mitchell of the Emanuel Baptist church of Plainfield preached in Harlem yesterday, and his pulpit here was occupied by the Rev. Mr. Jefferson of Long Branch, who delivered a most eloquent sermon.

The Rev. Asa Reed Dilts exchanged pulpits yesterday morning with the Rev. Cornelius Schenck, and those who were so fortunate as to listen to Mr. Dilts were delighted with the able sermon he delivered. His text was Deuteronomy xxxii:11.

Although the honor of appointment as valedictorian of the Class of '91, P. H. S., fell to Alfred G. Kilmer, Miss Edith Gilbert was fully his equal in scholarship and, besides, has been longer a scholar of the school. In choosing between the two, however, the burden of a valedictorian address was placed upon the man.

Witnesses in the Male Will Case.

The Male will case was again before Herbert W. Knight at Newark, Saturday morning. Dr. T. S. Davis, the attending physician, was the first witness. He corroborated, in the main, the testimony of the witnesses at the former hearing, as published in THE PRESS, as to Job Male's "dictating" to Lawyer Marsh the disposition to be made of his large estate. In one item he added to the testimony of those who preceded him. He said that when Mr. Marsh asked, "What about Mrs. Fenno?" that lady, who stood near by, shook her head, indicating that she wanted nothing. Dr. Davis was one of the subscribing witnesses.

Another of the witnesses to the alleged will was A. C. Baldwin. He was next put upon the stand, and remembered the occurrences of the sick-room substantially the same as the others.

Twenty-five New Converts.

At the Warren Union Mission meeting last night, there was a good attendance. The service opened with the usual song service, followed by a devotional service conducted by Mr. Abos, assisted by Mr. Nugent, both from the Florence Mission of New York. The experience of Mr. Abos as given by him of his life was listened to with marked interest, as well as were the words of cheer from Mr. Nugent. A deep spiritual interest was manifested at the close of the meeting, when by invitation over twenty-five persons manifested a desire to lead a Christian life.

Mr. Hand Was Not on the Wrong Side of the Road.

The "other side of the story" in the case of bicyclers Nichols and Elliott, who got mixed up with a horse and vehicle driven by Frank Hand, shows that all parties were riding in the same direction, so it was no question of who was on the "wrong side" of the road. Mr. Hand says they unexpectedly turned in in front of him, and he could not check his horse in time to prevent the accident. He paid the damages because his lawyer showed him that it would cost less than to fight a suit through two or three courts.

The Dog No Respecter of the Cloth.

The Rev. Chas. B. Mitchell was just beginning a fine coast down a hill near Fanwood, Saturday afternoon, when a dog rushed out from one of the door-yards and ran, barking and snapping, directly in front of the clergyman's bicycle. As the result of the collision the clergyman was thrown headlong to the ground, his hands were severely cut, his clothing was badly damaged, and his wheel was well nigh ruined. A fellow bicyclist lent him a wheel to ride home, and the damaged cycle was sent by train to the repair shop.

I SUFFERED from acute inflammation in my nose and head—for a week at a time I could not see. I used Ely's Cream Balm and in a few days I was cured. It is wonderful how quick it helped me.—Mrs. Georgie S. Judson, Hartford, Conn.

WHAT IS KILLING JERSEY FISH?

They Are Dying in Numbers—Is It the Result of the Late Hot Spell?

All over New Jersey the fish have been dying in lakes, reservoirs, and ponds, and their death has been attributed to low water and excessive heat. Hundreds of dead eels were taken from the Newark supply reservoir at Belleville last week, and Drake's Pond at Irvington, which is on the stream supplying Elizabeth with water, is offensive to the nostrils from putrid carp, catfish, sunfish and suckers which have floated up on the banks.

At Greenwood Lake only the catfish have been affected, but thousands of carcasses of fish, many of them a foot or more in length, are floating on the surface or lying where they have washed up on the shores. They are chiefly found in the shallow water at the lower end of the lake. It is thought strange that while the usually hardy catfish have suffered the perch, bass and pickerel have escaped.

The Plainfield Minstrel Company on the Road.

Lew Dockstader has been making a stir on the Pacific Slope. He is with Thatcher's Minstrels, and has introduced a travesty on President Harrison. The Portland Oregonian recently said that his make-up was capital, and "for nearly an hour the audience would not permit him to leave the stage". Mr. Dockstader's engagement with Thatcher was for eight weeks only. On July 23 he will begin the campaign with his own strong company, which was incorporated in Plainfield a year ago.—New York Recorder.

—Special preparations are bring made at Belmar to entertain the large number of Plainfielders who will go to this new excursion resort, July 2, with the First Baptist Sunday-school. An unusually good time may therefore be expected.

They Work Wonders.

For over 6 years I have been afflicted with Dyspepsia; could not eat meat without distress and sickness of the stomach afterwards. Have used Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills for 2 weeks, and now eat all kinds of food without return of old trouble. They certainly work wonders in curing Dyspepsia or Stomach Troubles.

Witnesses in the Male Will Case.

The Male will case was again before Herbert W. Knight at Newark, Saturday morning. Dr. T. S. Davis, the attending physician, was the first witness. He corroborated, in the main, the testimony of the witnesses at the former hearing, as published in THE PRESS, as to Job Male's "dictating" to Lawyer Marsh the disposition to be made of his large estate. In one item he added to the testimony of those who preceded him. He said that when Mr. Marsh asked, "What about Mrs. Fenno?" that lady, who stood near by, shook her head, indicating that she wanted nothing. Dr. Davis was one of the subscribing witnesses.

Another of the witnesses to the alleged will was A. C. Baldwin. He was next put upon the stand, and remembered the occurrences of the sick-room substantially the same as the others.

Her Gold Eagles Stolen.

EVERSON, Pa., June 22.—Mrs. Margaret Kehoe has saved her money for years, and her affections ran to $20 gold pieces. Her hoard footed up to $3,000. She had no faith in banks and kept the money in a satchel. It proved convenient for some thief, and in the morning she had not a dollar. A Polish domestic named Tepper, found secreted in a barn and arrested, denies all knowledge of the money.

The Engineer Burned to Death.

MASSILLON, O., June 22.—The boiler at the Drake Company's mines, two miles from this city, exploded at an early hour, setting fire to the buildings and burning Henry Vogt, the engineer, to ashes. Low water was the cause.

Result of the German Derby.

HAMBURG, June 22.—The Germany Derby was favored with exceptional fine weather, and Peter of the Royal Stud won the grand prize of 50,000 marks. Gigeri, owned by Mr. A. Drehr, took the second prize.

NORTH PLAINFIELD AND SOMERVILLE UNITE.

Philanthropic Men and Good Women of the Two Places Join Hands to Form a County Charities Aid Association.

Two meetings have been held this month in North Plainfield for the formation of the Somerset County Branch of the State Charities Aid Association—the first at the home of H. P. Reynolds, the second in the Sunday-school room of Holy Cross church. On both occasions Mrs. B. Williamson, Jr., General Secretary of the State Association, has been present, and has given most interesting accounts of the work of the association in various parts of the State. These accounts exemplify the truth of the saying that one half the world does not know how the other half lives. The average citizen concerns himself but little about the inmates of jails, asylums and almshouses. Occasionally a tale of abuse or neglect gets abroad, but it is soon forgotten, for what is everybody's business is nobody's business.

Just here steps in the Charities Aid, with quiet investigation and discreet warning; or, if these are not enough, it invokes the power of the State, or that greater power, public opinion. The reforms already accomplished, without noise or fuss, among State and county institutions, so far as the association has carried its work, might perhaps surprise most people.

It would appear that many of the faults of our public institutions may be attributed to ignorance and carelessness, or to routine. Seldom is there intentional cruelty, and the officials in charge will generally respond to reasonable suggestions as to improvements in methods.

The work accomplished in Union, in Hudson and in six or eight other counties, justifies the effort to establish a County Branch in Somerset. The following philanthropic men and good women have been named a committee on organization, to report at a meeting to be held in October: E. St. John, H. B Wells, Frank Curtis and H. P. Reynolds, of North Plainfield; the Rev. Addison Parker, Mrs. J. D. Bartine and the Hon. J. J. Bergen, of Somerville.

Not the Fault of Plainfield's Service.

Already complaints are coming in to the effect that papers sent to Ocean Grove, the Catskills, and other places of summer resort, are not received. This is the regular complaint every summer, and will probably be the regular complaint for many years to come. The post-office department has been and is yet trying in every way to arrange mail facilities so that routes and offices that are tenth class for eight months in the year may promptly and accurately do the work of first-class routes and offices from the time the summer season opens till it closes. As yet they have'n't fully succeeded, though they have made much progress in that direction. With respect to the complaints concerning newspapers, it need only be said that the DAILY PRESSES are not kept back in the printing office. It would be much more difficult to keep them back and send them in bunches than to send them regularly each day. And, so far as can be ascertained, they are not kept in the post-office in this city a moment longer than they can be hustled off. It is at some intermediate station—probably New York—that the delays are occasioned, and there seems to be no remedy for it.

A New Train to New York in the Morning.

The change in the schedule of trains between this city and New York, that goes into effect this morning, shows an additional train from here at 8:27 a. m., and on Sundays also another train to New York, at 3:45 p. m.

There is a through coach to Long Branch, Ocean Grove, Belmar, etc., on the train leaving Plainfield at 2:07 in the afternoon; and an additional train for those places (excepting Ocean Grove) on Sundays at 11:16 a. m.

There are three new trains for Lake Hopatcong—daily at 7:10 a. m., and 1:59 p. m.; and on Sundays at 8:13 a. m.

A $60,000 Company to Improve Washington Park.

Articles of incorporation of "The Washington Park Improvement Company", with a capital of $60,000, were filed to-day with the Secretary of State.

The incorporators are the following well-known residents of North Plainfield: Charles W. McCutchen, Charles A. Reed, William W. Howland, William J. Roome and Foster Milliken. The purposes for which the company is formed, are to buy, improve, and sell real estate.

—Strawberries and cherries are very nearly gone. Raspberries and blackberries are coming along handsomely, but the peach crop gives biggest promise of all. Six million baskets are promised by Maryland and Delaware alone, and all the New Jersey crop is to come on top of that. There were no peaches at all last year, but this year is making up for the deficiency.

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease, Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. MORRIS COUNTY HUMORISTS.

Red, White and Blue Paint for Their Persecuted Pastor's Horse.

Because of indiscretions which did not look well in the conduct of a minister of the gospel, the Rev. J. Arthur Dill of the Presbyterian church at Stirling, six miles northwest of Plainfield, was ordered, some weeks ago, to vacate his pulpit July 1. Now that the time for the pastor's departure is near, the villagers are having as much sport with the clergyman and his possessions as their ingenuity can devise. Yesterday while the pastor was in his pulpit the mischief-makers got his favorite horse out of its stable, daubed it plentifully with stripes of red, white and blue paint, and tied it along the main highway as a laughing-stock for the community. The people jeered the clergyman after service as he led his nag home. He threatened his persecutors with arrest, but could find no officials to sympathize with him or to take legal action.

What Neighboring Women Have Done.

A hundred women of the neighboring town of Summit have been quietly accomplishing some good results the past few years. During that time they have banded together as a Village Improvement Association and by vigorous, well-directed work have brought about a remarkable change in the appearance of the place.

Beginning at the station as a sort of focus, they graded and macadamized the grounds, laid crosswalks and gutters, and started grass plots and planted flower beds, making the first impressions of the visitor most favorable. Few shade trees existed in the town along the streets, and the association appointed an arbor day, planting and looking after trees to the number of over a hundred. The poor sidewalks were taken in hand, and with some aid from property owners 5,000 feet of stone flagging has been laid. They bought two sprinkling carts, the service of which is paid for by a small private tax. Realizing the importance of not only getting tidy but keeping tidy, the association hires a man whose duty it is to walk the streets daily, picking up paper and other litter that may get about from careless hands. It is said that the principles of the association are now so well grounded among the citizens and the results are so gratifying to all who see them and are benefited by them, that this man is to be or has been dispensed with.

During the eight or nine years of its existence an average of about a thousand dollars a years has been paid out by the association, but the heavy expenses are practically over and it will now be possible to continue the work for less money. The dues are $1 a year for membership, or $25 secure life membership. Extra money is raised by subscription and entertainments. One more deed which deserves mention was the eradication of the elm-tree bug from the trees. For four seasons the women treated nearly a thousand trees under directions from the Agricultural Department at Washington, succeeding at last in banishing the pest.

An Incident of the Hot-weather Week.

A man who made up in girth what he lacked in height excited the amusement of passengers on one of the Jersey City ferryboats one of the recent hot mornings by the way the weather affected him. When he came on board he removed his hat, and leaning his head forward, the perspiration streamed from him as if he were an eaves trough during a sharp shower. In about two minutes he took his hat off again, and spouted quite as copiously as before. His fellow-passengers, who had watched his salutatory operation with something akin to sympathy, smiled as he favored them with an encore. Presently he exuded another torrent, and as the passengers began laughing, one of them remarked:

"There won't be anything left of you by night except a grease spot if you keep on this way, my friend."

"That's what my wife said before I left home"—replied the sufferer, good humoredly—"and I said I'd be sure to find some friends to send my gravy home. So I put myself in your hands."

The laugh was on the would-be-wag, who found another part of the boat more to his comfort, while the human lavatory was allowed to continue his anti-fat ablutions undisturbed.

Plainfield Wheelmen Parade in Brooklyn.

Grand Marshal James R. Dunn gave the order to "ride" at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon, and a few minutes later Brooklyn's great bicycle parade was under way. The start was made from Eastern Parkway and Bedford avenue, and over sixteen hundred wheels were ridden through the west drive of Prospect Park, down the Boulevard and return. Crowds of people gathered all along the line of march, and the wheelmen and wheelwomen were loudly applauded. The value of the wheels in line was estimated at close to $200,000. It was the first bicycle parade that had been held in Brooklyn in five years, and a great deal of interest was taken in its success by the general public. It was a success in every way.

The parade was divided into three divisions. The first division, Miss L. E. Paige, marshal, was composed of feminine riders from Brooklyn, New York, Long Island and New Jersey. The second division was of men, and included representatives of the Plainfield club.

Reputable dealers throughout the length, breadth and depth of our glorious land fortunately keep the genuine Hires's Root Beer in stock. Did you ever try it? It is easy to make, and ever so delicious, and it is such a safe drink.

A Shop Girl Brought on the Scene.

There was a commotion in a local dry goods store Saturday morning. It was caused by six or eight hysterical shop girls, and was observed by two customers who happened to be near. The commotion was started by the discovery of a croton bug on the counter. The girl who discovered it quietly brushed it off on the floor, whereat another girl started to step on it.

"Oh, don't!"—screamed the first girl frantically.—"You must never kill a croton bug that way."

"No! no! no! never step on a croton bug"—exclaimed three or four voices in unison, and several hands were stretched out to pull back the daring girl. She paused and impatiently asked: "For goodness sake, why not?"

"Because if you step on a croton bug it will rain all the week"—said one of the girls in an impressive tone of voice.

"Oh, pshaw!"—said the would-be executioner of the bug, which meanwhile had nestled in a crack in the floor.

"That's so! Yes, indeed. I never knew the sign to fail"—insisted three of the girls excitedly, as they gently endeavored to draw the skeptical girl back to her post of duty behind the counter. But she was unconvinced, and her hatred of croton bugs was so much stronger than her superstitious tendencies that she brought her foot down with deadly effect, and met the indignant ejaculations of her mates with a defiant "Well, let it rain". And now the other girls triumphantly prove the verity of their superstition by pointing to the fact that it did rain—and rain a great deal—yesterday.

Let's Have a Grand Meet of Local Bicyclers.

A discussion over the number of bicycle riders in this city and North Plainfield has suggested the scheme of a grand meet and parade of everybody who rides a wheel—men, women, boys, girls and babies. Some say there are 800 of them.

The liverymen and carriage makers are suffering from the growth of bicycling. One carriage dealer in this city has not sold a buggy in months, while F. L. C. Martin of Park avenue, the agent for the "Columbia", is said to have sold $10,000 worth of bicycles during last season and probably as much as that already this year.

Let the Bicycle Club fix upon some Saturday afternoon—or Saturday morning of next week, the 4th of July—for a general meet and parade, and it will prove to be the most interesting event in Plainfield in years.

SATURDAY HALF-HOLIDAYS.

Are Petitioned for by Reading Railroad Employes.

READING, Pa., June 22.—A petition containing the signatures of over 900 employes of the Philadelphia & Reading Railroad Company in this city, representing machinists, blacksmiths, carbuilders, etc., asking for Saturday half-holidays, was returned from Philadelphia with the request that a larger number of names be secured.

One of the shop hands obtained over 100 additional names. It is now believed that the holidays will be allowed during the summer months. About 3,000 men are employed in the company's shops when all the departments are in full operation.

Spoiled an Undertaker's Job.

LANCASTER, Pa., June 22.—Miss Louisa Hallstock, a pretty 18-year-old daughter of Levi Hallstock, was supposed to have died from the effects of asthma. The attending physician had pronounced her dead, and the family had sent for an undertaker to prepare the body for burial and arrange the other details of the funeral. When the undertaker arrived the family were electrified on seeing the young woman suddenly move and then sit up in bed, rubbing her eyes as though she had been sleeping. She constantly improved, and now she is on a fair road to recovery.

An Anti-Eight-Hour Combine.

PITTSBURG, Pa., June 22.—All efforts to have the Carpenters and Builders' Association meet to compromise on the strike have failed and affairs are far worse than before. The carpenters say a mammoth combination of corporations and individuals has been formed against them in order to smother the eight-hour move at its birthplace, so that it cannot spread over the country with any assurance of success.

Why She Kept Still.

"That woman at the corner of the table is very silent, isn't she?"

"She has good reason to be. Any woman under her circumstances would do the same."

"Oh, what is it, James; what's the reason?" pleaded Mrs. Botticus, who dearly loved a scandal.

"Why, she's deaf and dumb."—Philadelphia Times.

"OLD CUPOLA."

A Terrible Struggle for Life with a Desperate Madman.

NEVER see a heading in a daily paper concerning a prize-fight or wrestling match, or look upon the cupola of a blast furnace, without experiencing the most intense nervous excitement.

And I will tell you why. The early years of my manhood were spent in Pittsburgh as a molder in one of her oldest stove foundries.

And happy days they were—full of hard work and honest pride in my young wife, my strong arm and my skill in throwing a pattern.

But that's neither here or there.

What you wish to know is the story of the struggle that well-nigh ended in my being thrown alive into the blast. I was on the night forces then and was just approaching the foundry one evening in early fall as "Old Cupola," as we called the tall, red-headed Scotchman who tended the blast cupola, was starting up the incline plane, that in those days led to the cupola room, with his wheelbarrow loaded with pig iron.

Close behind him was a stretch of new wall that the masons had just put up, and left without "tying." Just then a strong breeze sprung up, and I saw that the wall was beginning to topple.

I yelled to the man to get out of the way, but he did not hear me, on account of the wind, and the next breeze tumbled the upper part of the wall pell-mell upon him, as I supposed, but on reaching the spot I found that, as he had been close to the wall, most of the bricks had been blown over him.

His head seemed badly crushed, and as soon as I could give the alarm I cut the tie-strap of a horse that was hitched in front of a saloon opposite the foundry, and in five minutes returned with a doctor.

They had carried "Old Cupola" into a railroad boarding house near by.

The doctor directed me to sponge the blood from Cupola's head.

I suppose the water revived him; at least he "came to," and I was the first man he set eyes on.

Whether or not that had anything to do with the nub of my story, I don't know. You must be the judge of that.

When the doctor had finished "patching" him up, he said that the only serious wound was across the top of the man's head, where the edge of a brick had left a long dent or crease; but that the brain did not seem to be in the least affected, and, unless something like brain fever set in, he couldn't see why "Cupola" wouldn't pick right up again. And he did.

I used to drop in and see him occasionally and take some little dish or dainty that Martha, my wife, would fix up.

His head seemed as clear as a bell, and he mended a sight faster than even the doctor had any notion of, on the start.

He was always very thankful for all the little things that my wife sent, and more than that, he seemed to take a great liking to me. He was very religious and read his Bible almost constantly.

In six weeks from the time of his hurt he was out again, and in two weeks more began work at his old job.

Meantime I had been promoted to the position of foreman of the casting room.

This job always took me up into the cupola room a few minutes before time to draw off, to see that the blast was all right.

"Old Cupola" had been back at his work a long time—several months—doing it just as quietly and faithfully as ever, when, one day, I came up to the cupola room, to take a last peep at the blast.

He had wheeled his last barrow of "pigs" up before the furnace door.

I threw open the door and looked into the blast. It needed a few more "pigs" of iron, before it would be ready to draw off.

I YELLED TO THE MAN.

As I turned around from the furnace toward "Old Cupola," it struck me that his eyes had a queer look. But my next thought was that it was only the effect of the white light from the open door of the blast, shining squarely into his face.

"Throw a few more 'pigs' in," said I, "and then you may knock off."

He started to reach down to his wheelbarrow, to pick up a "pig," but suddenly drew up and clapped his hands to his head.

By this time I had stepped to the opposite side of the barrow, and just had it on my tongue's end to ask him what was the matter. But I never got the words out—for the next second he gave such a yell as I never expect to hear again. Then he held up both hands, like a preacher saying the benediction, and shouted: "Then the fifth angel sounded—" Here he seemed to forget something, and flourished his right hand in a circle, as though finishing the sentence with the gesture instead of words. Then his eyes seemed to shoot fire like the flames and sparks that leap out of the cupola, when the blast door is opened.

"Ah! Devils! Dogs!" he screamed, "D'ye think t' scape the fifth angel who a hou'ds the key t' the bottomless pit? T' Hell! Ah! It smokes like a furnace!"

As he said those last words he made a grand flourish and pointed to the open door of the blast. I caught the idea that was in his crazy brain. He thought the blast was hell and he was going to put me into it.

All this happened in about three seconds.

I looked about for something with which to defend myself. There was nothing.

It must be a single-handed struggle between man and man.

He was naturally of a wiry, powerful build, and the handling of the heavy iron "pigs" and wheeling them up the inclined plane for so long had developed the muscles of his arms and legs, until their cords were like cables. Luckily I had left my coat below and only had on a molder's flannel shirt and belted pants. With the wickedest laugh that ever broke from human throat, he jumped clean over the barrow to grapple me. I ducked my legs for an under-hold.

This sent him sprawling over my head, and for a minute he was floored. But it was only for a moment, as my impetus had carried me against the wheelbarrow and I stumbled.

He was up again and at me before I had hardly regained my feet.

"Dog! Sorcerer! Murderer!" he cried. "There's nae 'scapin' me. It's my ain bluid is on your han's an' my ain on saw't!" This time I braced for a blow at his head, but he deftly knocked it off and grappled me around the waist.

I had read when a boy an account by an African hunter, of his falling into the grip of an ourang-outang.

The story impressed me deeply, but I never expected to experience the awful sensations which he described.

As the long arms of the maniac gripped about me, binding my left arm down against my side, crushing my breast and face against his own, that incident flashed across my mind.

But as the demoniac held me, eye to eye with himself—his frothing lips pressing my own and the lurid light of the seething, molten mass, into which he was strugging to pitch me, falling full upon his face, showed me all the devils of consuming madness that glared in his frenzied eye. I would gladly have exchanged places with the hunter in the clutches of the infuriated man-beast, for the beast lacked the dreadful idea of hell that burned in the brain of the lunatic who would, in a moment, plunge me into as awful a hell as imagination can picture!

I reached my right arm over his left shoulder and about his neck and gripped his throat, but it did not hinder him.

Nor could I trip him or impede his movements by twisting my legs about his own. His strength seemed infinite. There was but one chance left me—that of swinging the furnace door shut with my free hand, as he would drag me close to it and thrust me in.

With his second stride his foot struck a "pig" that had spilled from the barrow and we fell together to the floor, writhing, pitching and plunging like reptiles. He could have crushed me in his grasp, strangled me, beat my brains out or killed me in a dozen ways, but he was bent on throwing me alive into the molten metal.

Just as he had freed himself from the grasp that I had secured by reaching my free arm about his neck and clutched into his mouth I gave a wild cry.

A rush of footsteps up the inclined plane told me that help was at hand.

The seconds between the time when that sound reached my ears and that of the appearance of the men in the doorway seemed endless.

One of the lads had a lantern.

"Shut the furnace door quick!" I cried, as they rushed forward to where we were.

As they did so "Old Cupola" sprang to seize them.

But "click" went the furnace door, and strong hands, fresh for the struggle, pinioned him from behind and dragged the "Fifth Angel"—as he was ever after called—from his station at the mouth of the bottomless pit.

The shock resulted in brain fever, and for weeks I was unconscious or distracted.

I have never fully recovered, and from that day to this I have not looked into a furnace door.

Do you wonder that I cannot endure the sight of a blast-furnace cupola or bear to read of trials of strength between man and man?—Forrest Crissey, in Chicago Graphic.

—Daughter (weeping bitterly)—"O, do have pity, papa, and let me and Edward be happy." Papa (a naturalist, replies furiously)—"What! You thinking of matrimony when you don't even know how many vertebræ there are in the spinal column of a lizard!"—Fliegende Blatter.

WORK OF A MANIAC

He Shoots His Child and Two Other People.

THEIR RECOVERY IS DOUBTFUL

The Murderer Attempts to Escape, but is Closely Pursued.

To Avoid Capture He Put an End to His Miserable Life—His Daughter Was Shockingly Wounded—Three Bullets Plowed Their Way Across Her Scalp and Another Entered Her Body.

BOSTON, June 23.—Walter G. Shaw, a shoemaker, living at 31 Home street, Beverly, where his wife keeps a boarding house, has had trouble with her because she had not frowned upon an intimacy between their 14-year-old daughter Sarah Lizzie and one of the boarders.

Shaw finally left the house last week, his wife declaring she had trouble enough with him.

Last night, having filled up with liquor he returned. Finding his wife and daughter in the sitting room with some of the boarders, he whipped out a .38-calibre revolver and began to fire.

Henry L. Roberts, one of the boarders, fell from his chair with a bullet in his back, and V. E. Morgan, another boarder, was hit by three bullets, one in the breast and one in the back, and a third grazed his skull. The daughter was shockingly wounded. Three bullets ploughed across her scalp, and another, entering her body just above the right hip, passed downward and emerged at the knee, being found in the stocking. The surgeon afterward removed it.

The maniac, for such he was by this time, leaped upon the prostrate body of his daughter and was beating her face with the clubbed pistol, when the crowd that had been attracted by the shooting broke into the house and dragged him off. The girl's recovery, like that of Morgan and Roberts, is doubtful.

Shaw attempted to escape, running from the house and leaping into the deep railroad cut near by. His pursuers were close upon him, and, in order to escape them, he placed the pistol behind his right ear and put an end to his miserable life, dying just as the pursuing party came up. Mrs. Shaw ran from the room when the shooting began and thus escaped his wrath. The daughter is popular with schoolmates in the community.

BLOODHOUNDS FOR MARSH.

Great Efforts Being Made to Capture the Fugitive Bank President.

SPRING LAKE, N. J., June 23.—Several detectives arrived here last night with bloodhounds, which are to be used in the capture of the fugitive bank president, Gideon W. Marsh.

Marshal Leeds, District-Attorney Graham and the detectives had a consultation as to the best means to pursue to capture Marsh.

The hounds will be let loose if it is possible to track the fugitive in that way.

Prof. Garside as a Detective.

PHILDELPHIA, June 23.—The identity of the injured detective, "Max Freeman," has been disclosed. He is one of the brightest and ablest of Philadelphia newspaper men. His right name is Thomas Garside, and previous to his coming to this city and entering upon newspaper work he was known as Prof. Garside, and had a reputation extending over two continents as a labor agitator.

The Alleged Smuggler Held.

BOSTON, June 23.—U. S. Commissioner Hall heard the case of Conductor Brown, of Malden, Mass., charged with smuggling goods into the United States from Canada. Several witnesses were examined, who testified to receiving goods from Brown, which had been brought over the border, addressed to parties in the States. Among them was a package addressed to "C. H. Herbert, Lynn, Mass." On this testimony the Commissioner decided to hold Brown in the sum of $5,000 for trial on June 26.

Denial from Gov. Hill.

ALBANY, N. Y., June 23.—The statement which has been recently going the rounds of the press to the effect that Gov. Hill is interested in a projected railroad in Ohio with Eastern capitalists and Postmaster-General Wanamaker is untrue. Gov. Hill says he has not now and never had a dollar's interest in any railroad, nor is he connected with one in any capacity whatever.

Second Suit Against the Government.

PHILADELPHIA, June 23.—The trial of Mayer & Dickinson's second suit against the government for the recovery of duties on articles used as hat trimmings has been resumed in the United States Circuit Court. John M. Dickinson, of the complainant firm, was the principal witness during the day.

THREE BOYS DROWNED.

They Were Thrown Into the Water While Playing on a Raft.

WASHINGTON, Pa., June 23.—John McKeown, aged 10; Harry Shoullis, aged 10, and Walter Jones, aged 14, were drowned in the Doaks Park pond here last evening.

Harry and John Shoullis and John McKeown were playing on a raft in the pond when the rope which held the raft to the shore broke. Walter Jones, who was bathing near-by, attempted to get the raft back to shore. The raft overturned and the four boys were thrown into the water.

Jones swam ashore with the younger Shoullis and returned for the other boys. He was swimming to shore with one of them, when the other dragged him under the water and all three were drowned.

John McKeown was a son of the late millionaire oil king McKeown and the Shoullis boys were his grandsons. Jones was a son of Presiding Elder Jones of the M. E. Church. The bodies were recovered.

DENOUNCED MASONRY.

A Row Over the Subject at a Meeting of Boston Baptist Ministers.

BOSTON, June 23.—At the weekly meeting of the Baptist ministers held in Chapel Hall, during the morning, Rev. J. Stoddard addressed the conference upon the influence of secret societies upon the Church. In the course of his remarks he strongly denounced Masonry and declared that when a man swears allegiance he swears allegiance to a code antagonistic to God.

Rev. Mr. Cleaveland of Melrose arose to a point of order at the conclusion of the address, and, saying he was a Mason, declared that he could not listen to the uncalled for abuse.

The chairman put the question to the meeting on sustaining the point of order and it was defeated, 50 to 7. Mr. Cleaveland then arose, and requesting that his name be dropped from the roll of membership, left the hall.

ITALIANS ATTACKED

American Laborers Drive Them from a Camp.

CLUBS AND KNIVES USED FREELY

The Fight Did Not Last Long and the Foreigners Fled in Terror.

Their Departure Followed by a Scene of Pillage—Several of the Rioters Arrested—The Italian Consul Indignant Over the Attack on His Countrymen and Demands an Immediate Official Investigation.

ST. LOUIS, June 23.—There is great indignation among the Italians over the race riot which occurred between the laborers employed by Contractor Workley at the chain of rocks where the new water works are being constructed.

One Italian was dangerously stabbed, over 20 of his fellow-countrymen driven from the camp and their valuables and money confiscated by the gang of American and other laborers making the attack.

The riot was primarily caused by the admittance into camp of a lot of Italian laborers, and the report that Contractor Workley had gone Chicago for more created a feeling of revolt against the employment of Italian labor.

The laborers were paid off and congregated in a saloon just outside the city limits, where they remained gambling and drinking bad whiskey until the entire party were crazy drunk.

The Attack on the Italians.

About 1 a. m. the party broke up and started for their sleeping quarters. On the way over some one suggested that they "drive out the d——d Dagos." The idea took like wild fire, and the drunken crowd rushed into the tents of the foreigners, armed with sticks, clubs, knives and whatever else they could lay their hands on.

The fight did not last long. The Italians were at too great a disadvantage, and after a brief resistance they fled in terror, leaving behind all their belongings.

A Scene of Pillage.

They carried away Catalia Francisco, one of their comrades, fatally wounded by a stab in the breast. The Italians made their way to this city, where they reported the matter to the police, and Francisco was taken to the City Hospital, where his wounds were dressed. At the camp their departure was followed by a scene of pillage. Their valises, bundles and packages were broken open and stolen.

Several Arrests Made.

A rigid investigation was immediately begun by the police, and the following arrests were made: Edward Manley, J. H. Jones, Michael Cahill, Wm. Blair, Wm. Brooks, Fred Leader and John Shiller. These men profess ignorance of the attack on the Italians and say they were awakened by a commotion and merely aided in driving from the camp the disturbers of their slumbers.

Italy to be Informed.

Italian Consul Domisico Ginnochio is indignant over the attack on his countrymen and will doubtless begin a correspondence with his government on the subject. He has demanded of the chief of police protection for the Italians, and also an immediate investigation of the riot.

BARDSLEY TO THE BAR.

It is Not Believed that Sentence Will be Passed To-day.

PHILADELPHIA, June 23.—Bardsley will probably not be sentenced this afternoon. At least that is the intimation this forenoon in official circles. The court will probably be asked to postpone action for a time.

The explanation is that Bardsley is wanted as a witness against Yard and others. Under the law his testimony cannot be used after sentence is imposed. Consequently the authorities do not want him disqualified just yet, not until the cases of Yard and others whom they expect to capture in the drag net are disposed of.

Among lawyers the prevailing opinion is that to permit the sentence to be imposed without request for delay from the district-attorney would be to expose the authorities to criticism for blocking the prosecution of others, especially at this time, when the disappearance of the money is as much a mystery as ever, and when the investigation in progress is likely to bring further disclosures of importance.

She went before Recorder Stewart and swore to the necessary papers, giving her deceased uncle's lawyer power of attorney.

SULLIVAN AND SLAVIN.

The Champion's Backers Will Not Withdraw Their Deposit.

NEW YORK, June 23.—Charles Johnson and James Wakely, according to their announcement, called at the office of the Illustrated News to meet the backers of Frank P. Slavin and endeavor to arrange a fight between Slavin and Sullivan.

Slavin's friends did not put in an appearance, and Johnson and Wakely decided to allow the $1,000 to remain with the News so that Slavin's backers could cover it whenever they are ready.

NEW YORK, June 23.—Richard K. Fox has received a dispatch from Pittsburg, Kas., giving the guarantee of the Commercial Club of that city for $30,000, if Slavin and Sullivan will fight there. The club also offers protection from the police. Pittsburg has 20,000 people and is a smelting center. It is a good place for the fight.

The Celebrated Andover Case.

In any event, no decision will be reached for at least a year.

No Epidemic at Seabright.

SEABRIGHT, N. J., June 23.—There is one calamity which this unfortunate place has been spared, that is an epidemic. A REIGN OF TERROR

Startling Facts About the Revolution in Chili.

BALMACEDA CALLED A TYRANT.

Horrible Punishment Inflicted on Men Who Sympathize With the Rebels.

Tacks and Pins Driven Into a Man's Fingers—A Soldier Pounds a Poor Fellow's Hands to a Jelly—No Two Persons Can Stand and Converse on the Streets—Laborers Forced to Wear Tags.

NEW YORK, June 23.—Many startling facts in connection with the revolution now raging in Chili, which throw light upon the ferocity and despotism of Balmaceda, are now given to the public for the first time.

The three gentlemen—two of whom are prominent Chilians—from whom these facts are obtained have just arrived in New York. They have witnessed the revolution from its inception, and speak from actual knowledge.

Balmaceda Termed "The Tyrant."

The combined stories of the three men show that Balmaceda is well termed "The Tyrant." In Santiago, where his headquarters are, no one dares to utter a word against him. He has caused a cross of red to be painted on all the houses of people whom he suspects are not wholly in sympathy with him, and into these marked residences his police and soldiers go at any hour of the day or night. They ransack the rooms on the ground that they are looking for revolutionists who are supposed to be hidden there. The people in these houses are forbidden to lock their doors.

No one is allowed to ride on horseback through the streets after 5 o'clock in the afternoon; no three persons are allowed to walk the streets in company at any time of the day, and no two persons can stand and converse on the streets. It is a veritable reign of terror for all who, either through fear or interest, have failed to cast their fortunes with Balmaceda.

The storekeepers and all who employ laborers have to furnish each with a tag showing that they are regularly employed by such a merchant at such a place. If the laborer is caught on the street going to or from his work without this tag he is gobbled up by the soldiers of Balmaceda and impressed into his service. This system exists in Valparaiso also.

Tacks Driven Into a Man's Hands.

One of the gentlemen referred to was walking along the street past a jail yard. He heard some terrible shrieks from some one on the other side of the wall. He inquired of a soldier the cause and was told that some of Balmaceda's soldiers were punishing a man who had refused to work for him by driving tacks and pins into his hands and fingers. The next day he saw a horrible punishment meted out to a Chilian who had been heard to say that he was willing to work his hands off for the revolutionists. The poor fellow's hands were placed on a block and his fingers pounded to a jelly by a big mallet in the hands of a soldier. He was then told that he could go and work his hands any way he wanted to and for any one.

A BALLOON EXPLODES.

Four Men Who Fell from It Mangled Beyond Recognition.

ST. PETERSBURGH, June 23.—While a large balloon belonging to Count Apraxine was being inflated with gas yesterday it escaped from the attendants who were holding it to the ground and carried upward four workmen who were in the car when the balloon broke away. After it had ascended to a great height, the onlookers were horrified to see the balloon burst, and the bodies of the unfortunate workmen dashed to the earth, where they were smashed almost beyond recognition.

Parnell and Mrs. O'Shea Summoned.

CORK, June 23.—The action for libel brought by Mr. Henry Campbell, member of Parliament for South Fermanagh and private secretary to Mr. Parnell, against the Cork Herald for stating that while the other members of Parliament were attending to their duties he was hiring houses for Mr. Parnell, has commenced. I regret that I am not able to unite with other home friends in the last office of respect and honor."

PFEFFER IN NEW YORK.

The Kansas Senator Spoke at a Mass Meeting Last Night.

NEW YORK, June 23.—Senator Pfeffer of Kansas spoke at a meeting held at Cooper Union last night under the auspices of the Citizens' Alliance Association. About 500 persons were present. The Senator was cordially received.

He said among other things that affairs had come to such a state in this country that whenever the men of Wall street dictated a policy of government, that policy was adopted. Whenever Wall street men needed money all they had to do was to ask their partners in Washington for it.

He contrasted the treatment of these men with that received by the farmers and the workmen. He predicted that the Alliance would conquer with their vote, and that a change would surely come.

A Worthy Work Among Young Women.

[CONTRIBUTED.]

A very interesting paper relating to Kitchen-Garden work was read by Miss Alice Smith at the rooms of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, last Thursday evening.

To the faithful exertions and ability of this young lady, of whom the Union is justly proud, many families in this and other cities are gratefully indebted for well trained and useful household assistants.

After a brief resume of the systematic workings of her department, Miss Smith gave a description of the Wide-Awake Circle, a new departure, whose organization and existence were felt to be a necessity in establishing temperance principles in the hearts of older girls whose influence would be of great value not only in their own homes, but in the lives of their boy and girl friends. So a corps of Plainfield's noble young ladies are striving to make the lives of these younger sisters pure and sweet and lovely and useful.

John Kleine, assistant chef at The Albion, met with an accident this morning that will cause him to keep quiet for a few days or locked-jaw may be the result. Kleine thrust his left hand into the ice-box and onto a broken bottle with such force that the forefinger was torn open from top to bottom and the hand was gashed between the thumb and forefinger so deep that four arteries were severed. Dr. G. W. Endicott attended the unfortunate man and pronounced the case a serious one.

The Seabright Fire All a Huge Sad Joke.

Seabright is the victim of a practical joke. Last Tuesday night a joker threw a bucket of water on a tramp, the tramp in revenge threw a lighted match among some hay, and Seabright went up in the resultant blaze. If the man had not thrown the water the tramp would not have thrown the match; hence it is argued that the man is primarily and the tramp secondarily responsible for the fire.—New Brunswick Home News.

COL. MOORE HAS A WORD TO SAY.

He Rebukes "a Times Taxpayer" for Accusing Ex-Councilmen Newhall, Erickson, Dunham and Marsh, Corporation Counsel Marsh and Messrs. E. R. Pope and John W. Murray, of Being "Franchise Brokers".

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—You will confer a favor and do an act of justice by permitting this communication space in the columns of your valuable paper, as a brief reply to the party signing himself "A Taxpayer" to an article headed "Franchise Brokerage" in the issue of the Times of the 17th inst.

No contract or franchise was given by the Common Council of this city for a water supply to "one Moore & Co."

A contract was entered into between the city and "The Water-Works Company of Plainfield", after over twenty meetings between the city represented by Councilman Henry B Newhall, and Eric Erickson, Craig A. Marsh and Councilmen Dunham and Marsh. The company gave bonds for a faithful performance of its contract, with the Hon. John Kean, Jr., as a surety in the penal sum of $50,000. I was never a member of said company, merely having a contract with it to construct the works. After the expenditure of over $35,000—$6,000 of which was paid to the city—a suit was commenced wherein it was alleged the law under which the company was organized was unconstitutional.

This action affected the securities of the company to an extent that it was found impolitic to proceed further, as the cost of construction by reason of the shrinkage in value of the same, would entail an enormous expense to the city in the event of it purchasing the works.

The company then decided to dispose of its rights and property to the Plainfield Water Supply Co., at a loss of over $6,000. There was no profitable "Franchise Brokerage" in that. As I am informed, the Water Supply Co. is now constructing water works in this city with Hon. John Kean, Jr., Frank Bergen, Elias R. Pope, and Messrs. Hubbard, Erickson and Runkle interested.

At the time of the purchase by the Water Supply Company, I called upon John W. Murray, one of its directors, with Mr. Erickson, and was informed by Mr. Murray that he would not permit his company to take any steps to the disadvantage of the city.

The attack of "A Taxpayer" upon the intentions and purposes of the gentlemen above mentioned, seems to me entirely unwarranted and ridiculous.

Permit me to add that in all negotiations between the Water Works Co., of Plainfield and the city's representatives, the latter insisted upon, and were granted, every concession in the interest of the city. For a confirmation of which I refer you to the contract.

The city now has a balance in the treasury from the $6,000 above mentioned, so it strikes me that the insinuations of "A Taxpayer" that the Water-Works Co., of Plainfield has saddled a mortgage upon the city, and that the above named gentlemen are "Franchise Brokers", are the imaginations of a person who for some reason is ashamed to attach his signature to his letter.

CHARLES K. MOORE.

Will Give Plainfielders a Royal Welcome.

The following letter from John A. Buhler, who has entire charge of the reception of excursions at Belmar, will be of interest to all who contemplate going on the First Baptist excursion, which is sure to be a delightful event, next week:

BELMAR, N. J., June 22, 1891.

To Charles B. Brown, 19 Craig place Plainfield, N. J.

DEAR SIR:—Your favor of 19th inst, received, and in reply would say, I am glad to hear you have decided to come to Belmar. I will now go ahead and make all the preparations that I think are necessary. I will have plenty of tables, and seats arranged through out my grove, also swings. I will have my whole fleet of sail and row boats ready with sufficient help to meet the occasion. There are two bathing pavilions here. I will see the stage men and have all the stages ready. I will also make extra preparations in the restaurant for that day. Of course we know it is customary for picnic parties to bring their lunches along. We want, however, to be fully prepared to meet all requirements in the lunch line. I have a splendid croquet ground, and also a place to pitch quoits. I also have a first-class wall tent, with looking glasses, wash stands, towels, soap, etc., etc., which I will put up for you, of course free of charge.

I will do all I can to make your Sunday-school excursion trip here very pleasant, and hope that the weather will be favorable.

Yours respectfully,

JOHN A. BUHLER.

Miss Bulkley Doules Some Wide-Spread Criticisms of the Public School System.

Principal Bulkley of the Plainfield schools, assures THE PRESS that the hope expressed in these columns last Friday is well founded. THE PRESS said it "hears rumors that the principal is in favor of doing away with half-sessions entirely and extending the school day to four o'clock. It is hoped that the rumors are false."

Miss Bulkley says the rumors are false, and states that it is not a fact that young scholars who are worthy of more rapid advancement, are kept a full school year in each class in rotation. She says they are promoted whenever worthy as far as they are eligible to go.

They Work Wonders.

For over 6 years I have been afflicted with Dyspepsia; could not eat meat without distress and sickness of the stomach afterwards. Have used Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills for 2 weeks, and now eat all kinds of food without return of old trouble. They certainly work wonders in curing Dyspepsia or Stomach Troubles.

STIRRING UP THE BI. BOYS.

Their Captain Urges Them to Take More Interest in Runs and Other Pleasure Trips.

The members of the Plainfield Bicycle Club have been invited by the Hudson County Wheelmen to participate in a lantern parade and grand house warming at their new club-house, No. 111 Belmont avenue, Jersey City, this week Thursday. The regular scheduled run for that date will therefore be withdrawn.

In urging his fellow-members to attend, Captain Frank L. C. Martin writes to each:

"Will you not for once, at least, lend your assistance and co-operation in making this a large turn-out, even if it should be at some small inconvenience to yourself. I am sure you will never regret it. The fact that we are to be the guests of the Hudson County Wheelmen is sufficient guarantee that we will have a big time.

"Your road officers have been, and are doing, their utmost in planning pleasurable runs, etc., for you, and they would feel doubly repaid if you would endeavor to help them carry their plans to a successful issue. This can only be done by your presence.

"The comparatively small number of participants on our runs has been a source of much mortification and discouragement to the friends and officers of the club.

"It has been especially disheartening to the officers, who have expended much time in planning and getting up enjoyable runs, and having only half a dozen or so take part in them. We have, or rather had, the reputation of being an exceedingly live club, but that reputation is fast being lost, and will soon be ancient history if we continue in the present course.

"Directions for reaching the Hudson County Wheelmen's Club-house:—Take 7:55 p. m. train from Plainfield to Jersey City ferry, thence by 8:30 train via Newark and New York branch to West Side avenue station, thence to club-house, 111 Belmont avenue.

"A special car for your accommodation has been secured. Be sure to carry your lamp. If you are unable to take your wheel, join in the 'smoker'."

THE RAILROAD COMPANY CHARGEABLE.

Strong Verdict of the Jury in the Case of James B. Green.

James B. Green, an uncle of Charles and Pliny Fisk of this city, was struck by a Philadelphia express train a few days ago and hurled 90 feet through the air. He was crossing the Delaware and Bound Brook branch of the Philadelphia and Reading railroad at Ewing station near Trenton, when the accident occurred. Death was almost instantaneous. He was 74 years old, a prosperous farmer of that vicinity and widely known and esteemed. His sister, the mother of the Messrs Fisk of Plainfield, is at present in London.

An inquest was held at Ewing, Friday. Nineteen witnesses were sworn. The people connected with the railroad all swore that the whistle of the engine which struck Mr. Green was blown in time to give him warning. The neighbors of the vicinity testified that proper precaution was not taken by the railroad company to have prevented the accident. The spot is a most dangerous one. It is absolutely impossible for anyone driving across the track to see a train approaching from either way.

The coroner's jury found that "James B. Green came to his death by accidental means, but that the company are particularly censurable for not providing sufficient protection to public travel at this very dangerous crossing, and further, we, the jury, believe the company are chargeable for negligence in not having the proper signals given at this particular crossing."

It is understood that the family of the deceased will bring suit against the railroad for damages.

Three More Fine Concerts Offered for Next Season.

Plainfield already assured of enjoying next season again the perfection of choral music by the choruses under Conductor Fitzhugh and Conductor Chapman, is to have also a series of subscription concerts of instrumental music beyond compare. The project is in the hands of H. Otis Newman of this city, than whom no one has purer taste, better judgment or greater experience in musical matters.

Mr. Newman offers three concerts to be given in The Casino during the coming winter by the New York Philharmonic club: Eugene Weiner, Flute; John Marquadt, First Violin; Sebastian Laender, Second Violin; Friedhold Hemman, Viola; Ernst Mahr, Violincello; August Kalkhof, Contrabasso; assisted during the series by the following distinguished artistes: Mlle. Clementine DeVere, Soprano; Miss Marion S. Weed, Contralto; Signor Italo Campanini, Tenor; Mr. Richard Hoffman, Solo Pianiste; Miss May Lyle Smith, Flutist. The latter is a pupil of Eugene Weiner and is considered the finest lady flutist now living.

It is needless to say that the programmes selected will be without a blemish or a want unfilled, and as rendered by such an array of instrumental and vocal talent they will be concerts unexcelled if not unequalled in this city. The subscription price for the series will be three dollars. There will be no subscriptions accepted after the seating capacity of the audience room is taken, and there will be no tickets sold for any one concert.

MOSQUITO AND POULTRY NETTING.

How Competition Among the Wire-Cloth Manufacturers Has Benefited the Public.

The DeWitt Wire Cloth Company brought suit some time ago against the New Jersey Wire Cloth Company to recover $633 for goods sold and delivered. The latter company set up a counter claim for $518, alleging that it, the plaintiff, and three other firms engaged in the manufacture of wire cloth entered into an agreement nearly six years ago to regulate the prices, terms of sale, and delivery of painted wire window screen cloth. In pursuance of the contract, the New Jersey company deposited $2,000 in a trust company as a forfeit in case it violated any of the provisions of the contract. The combination, soon after it was formed, decided that the New Jersey concern had violated the agreement, and the $2,000 deposited by it was declared forfeited, and was therefore divided equally among the other companies. It was for this amount, alleged to be so forfeited, that the New Jersey company set up its counter claim. Judge Pryor, before whom the recent case was heard, gave judgment in favor of the plaintiff, and refused to consider the legality of the counter claim. The New Jersey company thereupon carried the case to the General Term, which a few days ago sustained Judge Pryor.

The conclusions of the General Term have been received with mixed feelings by the manufacturers of wire cloth, as, it is reported, one or two of the leading houses have recently shown a willingness to consider proposals for an agreement as to prices, but, in view of the recent decision, and having regard to experience, are now fighting shy of any positive arrangement in respect to the prices of their products. Meanwhile the public is getting the benefit of low rates by free and unrestricted competition. Wire cloth was never before so cheap as it is now. Mosquito wire is within the reach of all. Between seventy-five and eighty million feet of mosquito-netting alone, it is estimated, will be consumed this season. Twenty-five years ago netting was sold for 15 and 20 cents a square foot. To-day a better quality of wire sells for 1 4-10 cents a foot wholesale, and 1 3-10 cents in carload lots, and is sold for from 1½ cents to 2 cents per foot. Poultry netting is almost given away, and its cheapness has so enlarged its field of usefulness that many New York and New Jersey farmers are now using it for light fencing. The increase of amateur and professional poultry raisers has also helped to swell the consumption of this material. Ten years ago poultry netting sold at 4 to 5 cents a square foot, while anyone can now buy it at retail for ½ cent, the manufacturers billing it to the trade at ¼ cent, with discount. Those in the trade declare that within the next two yeas the prices quoted will be reduced by 50 per cent.

The Defeat of the Crescents' Crack Whist Team.

Messrs. Stevens & Kempshall of the Fanwood club, defeated the redoubtable Kieb & Bates, the Crescent League's gilt-edged whist team, last Thursday.

The contest was at "reversible" or "duplicate" whist—each side after playing the cards of each fresh deal, changing hands with their opponents and playing the same cards over again. Forty hands were played, and the totals showed that Messrs. Stevens & Kempshall had made 24 more points than Kieb & Bates did with the same cards.

The Fourth at Washington's Old Camp Ground.

Whiting will preside, national airs will be played by a brass band, "America" will be sung by the audience, the Rev. T. E. Davis will read the Declaration of Independence, and an oration will be delivered by the Rev. Albert Mann of St. Luke's M. E. church, Newark. I HAVE had catarrh for twenty years, and used all kinds of remedies without relief. Mr. Smith, druggist, of Little Falls, recommended Ely's Cream Balm. It is soothing and pleasant, and I strongly urge its use by all sufferers.—Geo. Terry, Little Falls, N. Y.

INDEPENDENCE DAY.

[For July 4, 1891.]

Once more behold the memorable day
That marks our forefather's strong resistance
To foreign tyranny's oppressive sway—
A milestone in our national existence.

Peace o'er our country spreads her golden wing;
War's tocsin sounds no longer through her borders;
Prosperity and wealth united offerings bring,
Undimmed by fierce political disorders.

Let continental nations fight and quarrel;
What care we though they paint all Europe red?
We'll only use their strife to point a moral,
And send them all they want of beef and bread.

Hang out the Stars and Stripes from housetop, pole and steeple;
Let boom the cannon; raise your voices high;
Proclaim yourselves a strong united people;
And send the rocket upward to the sky.

Hail, blest Columbia! honored at home, abroad—
A great republic binds each sister State;
Millions of freemen sing in one accord,
"God bless the glorious day we celebrate!"

The Tales of Three Mothers.

The following very pretty baby stories, which every Plainfield mother will appreciate, are told by the Woman About Town in the New York Evening Sun:

The youngest woman began it. She was tall and slender, with soft brown hair and thoughtful gray eyes. She was young and very pretty, in spite of the fact that A. M. and M. D. were both to be written after her name.

"My little girl"—she said, in a low voice—"was only 15 months old when her papa died. She was talking quite plainly then, and was exceedingly fond of her papa. In a few weeks after his death she appeared to have forgotten all about him, and when his photograph was shown to her, although she called it 'papa's picture', it had quite lost its significance for her. I was sure of that.

"Ten months after his death I was in a store-room putting away some of his clothes. A straw hat that he had worn the summer before lay on the floor. My little girl toddled into the room and took it into her hands. Suddenly she looked puzzled and queer. She bent over the hat and put her little face down close to it. Then she looked up and said quickly: 'I want my papa; dat's may papa's hat.'

"'How do you know it is your papa's hat, Baby?'—I asked her. She looked at it again and shook her head, puzzled. 'Smell it!' she cried, thrusting it out at me. I knew then that my baby's memory had come. Like memory in us all, it had answered more quickly to the sense of smell than to anything else. It made me sad, for I knew all that was implied in the awakening of the child's memory, that she must know the bitterness of remembering sin and wrong, and the sorrow of remembering loss, and, perhaps, the sorrow's crown of sorrows, the remembering happier things."

The cheery little woman spoke next. "The first time that I came to a realizing sense of the fact that I was the mother of an immortal soul, sure to be smitten with the joys and woes of the rest of mankind, was when my 2½-year-old boy fell in love. I can't say, before this time, that it had occurred to me that my boy was entitled to a certain amount of respect as an individual. But one day I had taken him out into the Park for a walk. We were sauntering along when we came upon a pretty nursemaid seated upon a bench with a beautiful 2-year-old girl in her arms. My little Harold gave one look at her and then stopped short. 'Come, Harold'—I said, but he stood still.

"'Come, Harold'—but he never moved.

"'See, mamma,'—he said—'the little girl.'

"'Yes, dear;'—I said—'she is a pretty little girl, isn't she?'

"Harold took a step or two nearer. She fixed her blue eyes calmly upon him, whereupon he looked very silly and put his finger in his mouth. But he kept on moving closer to her. I stood still and watched him.

"Suddenly he looked about him and saw a buttercup out in the grass. He ran as fast as his fat legs would carry him toward the flower, and darted back with it clasped tight in his hand.

"He held it shyly out toward her. She made no movement to take it, but only looked stolidly at him as before. Then he drew close to her, still holding out the flower. She put up her chubby hand and brushed it aside without a word. Harold was puzzled for a minute; he looked at her in disappointment and perplexity. Then he laid the wee flower bravely on her lap and walked away. From that time I realized that my boy was a man in miniature. He may grow to be six feet tall. I hope he will; and he may be in love with every inch of his big frame, but he'll never be any deeper in love than he was that half hour in the Park with the blue-eyed little girl that he never saw again.

The last mother among the little group spoke:

"It was the dawning of memory and the dawning of love that taught you mothers that your children had got away from your power to hold and to shield. My warning came in a little different way. My little girl was 3 years old. She came flying in suddenly one day and found me in tears. She stopped and looked at me, for she had never seen tears on my face before, and then she came and climbed up into my lap and, with soft little caresses and kisses, began to console me and soothe me.

"It was the first touch of sympathy I had ever seen the child manifest. I clasped the little maid close, close in my arms. 'Poor little woman!'—I said in my heart.—'It is the lot of the woman to bear the woes of the world. The shades of the prison-house are on you from this time forth.'"

An Enemy of Suburban Homes.

A cry is going up, especially from the Jersey suburbs, for protection against or means to fight an enemy worse than the mosquito—the buffalo or carpet moth. Many cottages are permeated with strange smells—peppermint, turpentine, camphor, naphthaline, et al. It may be a blow to those who are leaning upon these odorous compounds—says the New York Times—to learn that their strength is only in their aroma. Such, however, is the fact. They do not kill the moths nor prevent their thriving. They may render them a little uncomfortable, but even of that one is not sure. At this stage of the onslaught there is no value in any precaution, except that of watching and murder. Eternal vigilance is alone the price of present safety.

Back in April, though, when the female moth is fruitfully multiplying her kind, it is possible to make some headway by going carefully over the carpet edges with a stiff hand broom, loosening the tiny eggs, which are burned with the dust. Then, if great care is used, benzine squirted through a five-cent oil can will perhaps finish the few embryo insects that have escaped the destroying broom. This process must be repeated at short intervals, and afterwards "watch".

It is discouraging, but it is true, and the most discouraging part of it is that the next year those remarkable creatures will seem to remember the exact corner of the same square or medallion in your carpet to return to. Continued effort will finally reduce them to a condition of subjugation, though absolute banishment, where they are once established, is not reported. The caution concerning benzine must be emphasized. No light must be brought where it is used, and after leaving the room closed for twenty-four hours, it should be aired thoroughly and all trace of the fumes disappear before matches and flame are allowed.

Where New Jersey Wisdom Shows.

New Jersey makes a nice little sum yearly by having liberal corporation laws, under which anybody can get a charter to do anything, anywhere, provided fees and taxes are paid in New Jersey. The foreign corporations have paid the State over $400,000 a year for taxes, and, when all have been compelled to pay, the yearly revenue from this source will probably reach $600,000. The last Legislature passed a law to bring them all to terms, the Governor being authorized to declare void the charters of companies that have not paid a tax for two years. New Jersey has the good luck to get some of the biggest corporations formed in New York and Philadelphia, with capital accounts running as high as $25,000,000 to $30,000,000. There are twenty companies chartered in New Jersey with more than $1,000,000 and eighteen whose capital is a round $1,000,000.—Philadelphia Ledger.

A Plenty of Work for Men Who Want It.

Massachusetts cannot get farm hands enough to handle the crops. Neither can New Jersey. The farm hand question is about as difficult to solve as the servant girl question. Day wages average about $1 50 with board, and regular work is paid for at from $18 to $30 a month, with board and lodging. This is much more than men get who work on the railroads and much less desirable occupations, but still there is a lack of help on farms. If the tramps could only be utilized they could help a good deal, but they are worse than no help at all. They will not work and they will steal.—Elizabeth Journal.

A Remedy for Peach Yellows.

Prof. J. B. Smith, entomologist at the New Jersey Experiment Station of Rutgers College, says: "The peach louse, which infests the roots of peach trees, is responsible for much of the so-called 'yellows' that exist in this State. Potash, in the form of kainite, sunk in the ground about the roots will be found a remedy and at the same time a fertilizer. Tobacco used in the same way will have a similar effect."

A Bigger Bridge on the Jersey Central.

R. T. Swackhammer, of Dunellen, overseer of bridges for the Jersey Central railway, began yesterday morning with a large force of men to build an additional arch over the Cranford river on the east end, near the tank house. The pile driver is on the ground, and ready for work. This arch will be twenty feet in width, and will be built of stone.

Can This be True?

THE PRESS is informed that Messrs. Kleb & Bates after challenging Messrs. R. P. and C. K. Moore, of Fanwood, to a contest at straight whist for 500 points at $100 a side, withdrew the challenge after it was accepted.

Oh, What a Cough

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease, Consumption. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves croup and whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. The Proper Costume for the Wheel.

A bicycling young lady advises her fellow wheelwomen in Plainfield:

"It is thought that the skirt for the bicycle should not expose the feet any more than in walking, but to my notion the skirt should be about three inches shorter than for walking. I have ridden a tricycle and a bicycle, and worn a long dress and a short one, and can say from experience a long skirt cannot be worn on a bicycle."

Ties on the Tracks.

Some miscreant threw a lot of loose railroad ties across both the main tracks of the Central railroad in the Fanwood cut, this side of Graceland station, Sunday. The engineer of a passenger train saw the obstruction in time to stop before reaching it. The ties were removed. The villain who put them there is supposed to be some tramp just released from a term in jail for stealing coal-train transportation.

His suggestions will doubtless be carried out.

Not Ready Money.

When Johnny's mother sent him to the grocery she put the money for the purchase in a safe place, and told him not to touch it.

"Well, my little man," said the grocer, "what do you want?"

"Fifteen cents' worth of molasses in this pitcher," answered Johnny.

The grocer measured out the molasses, and handed it to the boy, saying: "Where's the money?"

"It's in the pitcher," said the obedient little customer.—Youth's Companion.

THE HORSE.

Why That Animal Was Driven Before It Was Ridden.

Canon Taylor, in that most interesting book, "The Origin of the Aryans," has raised once more a question which has often attracted the attention of scholars, especially those interested in the Homeric poems, says the Academy. Why is it that in the earliest records of the Greeks, Egyptians, Assyrians, Indians, and Celts we find the horse used for drawing chariots, but not yet for riding?

Canon Taylor remarks: "It is curious to notice at how late a period men first ventured to mount 'the swift one;'" and he goes on to say that there is nothing in the "Rig Veda" to show that the art of riding was practiced, and that our first notice of it is in the "Zend Avesta." The Homeric Greeks employed the horse almost exclusively for the chariot, riding being only alluded to in some two or three isolated passages, as when Odysseus and Diomedes rode to the ships the horses of Rhesus which they had captured. This, however, shows that it was hardly from fear that the Greeks did not habitually ride instead of drive their steeds. The same remark applies to the ancient Britons, who, according to the ancient accounts, performed wonderful feats of agility in running out and standing upon the pole of the chariot.

The true solution may probably be this: The primitive horse that ranged over the plains of Europe and Asia was too small when he was first domesticated to carry a man for any great time or distance on his back. This, of course, would render him practically useless for warfare. There is ample evidence to prove that the primitive wild horse was of very diminutive size. Probably of all his descendants the Shetland pony is his best representative. Canon Taylor says (speaking of the enormous deposit of their bones found at Solutre, near Macon, which contains from twenty thousand to forty thousand skeletons):

"This primitive horse was a diminutive animal, not much larger than an ass, standing about thirteen hands high, the largest specimens not exceeding fourteen hands. But the head was of disproportionate size, and the teeth were very powerful. He resembled the tarpan or wild horse of the Caspian steppes."

Even long after he had been domesticated he remained very small, as is proved by the bits made of bronze and staghorn which have been found at Moringen and Auvernier, which belong to the latest bronze age. "These bits are only three and one half inches wide, and could now be hardly used for a child's pony."

Let us now turn to Herodotus, where, speaking of the unknown regions to the north of the Danube, he says that the only people he can learn of as inhabiting the region are called Sigyannae, who wear the costume of the Medes, and whose horses are shaggy all over the body, being covered with hair to a depth of five fingers, and are small and flat nosed and incapable of carrying men, but when yoked under chariots they are very swift, and that the natives accordingly drive chariots. This description of the external appearance of the little horses of the Sigyannae of central Europe agrees very well with that of the sketches found near Macon. The simous shape of the head tallies well with the ugly shaped skull and powerful jaws of the bone deposits.

We can hardly doubt that we have here primitive horses such as those whose diminutive bits have been found in the later lake dwellings of Switzerland. It seems to me then that the reason Herodotus here assigns for the fact that this tribe of central Europe drove their horses instead of riding them is the true explanation why all early peoples alike employed the horse for driving long before they ever habitually practiced riding. It was only after generations of domestication that, under careful feeding and breeding, the horse became of sufficient size to carry a man on his back with ease. That size was held to be of great importance by the Homeric Greeks is proved by Iliad x, 436.

Not a Powerful Pleader.

An Ottawa correspondent tells the story of a queer incident in the supreme court. Counsel for the appellant in a case from the west had been for a good half-hour stating his case to the court. Mr. Justice Strong had been talking freely with the counsel, as is his wont, and was apparently helping the timid pleader out, when he started at something the lawyer said and asked: "Are you for the appellant?" "Yes, my lord." "Oh!" said the judge, bluntly, "I thought you were on the other side."—Chicago News.

WELL-KNOWN SAYINGS.

The Origin of Some Phrases That Have Become Proverbial.

It will be found on examination that most sayings may be traced back to a literary origin, says the New York Sun. What more common, popular maxim is there than that "Procrastination is the thief of time?" Yet it is the first line of that most deadly dull of books, Young's "Night Thoughts." Crowds of people have been befooled in imagining that "The Lord tempers the wind to the shorn lamb" is a biblical saying, yet it is only as old as Sterne's "Sentimental Journey." Everybody knows about the man who read "Hamlet" at an advanced age, and said he would have liked it if it had not been so full of "chestnuts." The fact is that a great part of it has become proverbial, and so common property. We no longer have to read the play to imbibe a lot of its philosophy, for it is floating in the air about us.

On the other hand, some sayings undoubtedly have a popular origin. A splendid example of the evolution of one occurs in the old testament, in the history of Saul. When the future first king of Israel appeared among the prophets the people were astonished. He had been of a rather frivolous disposition. Some man in the crowd exclaimed: "Is Saul also among the prophets?" The expression caught on, and it has been a familiar saying ever since.

We have among ourselves a very good example of the same sort in the expression: "A good enough Morgan till after election."

A difficulty here meets us. How is it that among eastern illiterate nations proverbs of the most perfect form and literary finish are found? The same state of affairs occurs in Spain.

The explanation lies in the fact that in both cases the people are able to get at literature vicariously. In Persia and the east generally the professional story-teller comes to a village. In the evening the inhabitants sit around the tent and he tells them tales, many of them thousands of years old and full of the condensed wisdom of ages. In Spain the muleteer who wanders about the country fills exactly the same position and to the literature popularized by him must be largely attributed the richness of Spanish in proverbs.

Tony Weller was the proverb-spinner of the Pickwick crowd. He got his faculty in the very same way that the Spanish muleteer and the Persian story-teller got theirs. He met a great many people in his trips on the coach and his sayings got sharpness and clearness of outline with every fresh repetition. No doubt many of them were retailed by countless appreciative hearers.

In the same way, the Jarvey in the south of Ireland is by nature a manufacturer of proverbs. He is a part of all that he has met, and as 'action and reaction are equal and opposite, all that he has met become a part of him.

When a proverb has gained a sure place in one language, and strikes some observer of a different race and civilization, there is a difficulty about transporting it bodily. If it be eastern it will have a reference that will not, for instance, appeal to westerns. What then happens is that it is localized. It is treated in the very way that names are altered in a good story to give it local color. In this way an eastern proverb about a camel becomes a western one about a horse, and so on.

TRICKS OF TRADES.

Natural Explanation of an Unusual Way of Treating a Ladylike Shopper.

"Here, you get out of this! Don't let me catch you in this store again!" A little feminine shriek followed this rough salutation. I turned, relates a New York Herald personal pronoun, and beheld a beautiful and fashionably dressed young lady in the clutches of a tailor made man. He had torn open a little bundle which he had just received from the package desk, and forced back her money into her hand, and with considerable roughness was hurrying her to the door. The face of the young woman was a picture. She looked like an angry queen. Her eyes were half aflame and half drowned in tears. Her magnificent teeth showed through the reddest kind of lips, and her clear complexion was like marble touched with the fine scarlet of flowers.

I was tempted to interfere, but having heard tales of kleptomania and other strange things in these great bazaars, and knowing the man besides to be a gentlemanly floor walker—for this drama was taking place in one of the most fashionable stores in the city—I withheld my hand.

"Do I know that lady?" said the floor walker, with a laugh. "I should say I do! She is a very grand lady, indeed. My dear sir, she is one of the tricks of the trade. That bewitching lady in Paris made gown and imported bonnet is a saleagirl in the store of our enterprising neighbor on the next block. She gets eleven dollars a week. She came down here disguised as a customer, bought a dozen handkerchiefs as a blind, and proceeded to price a number of our goods in which our enterprising neighbor suspects we are underselling him. This is so as to give him a tip how to mark his goods. In short, she is a spy, and as we are not permitted to hang spies in this warfare of trade all we can do is to escort them to the picket lines and let them go. Now that this young lady has been discovered her occupation in this particular line of usefulness is gone; but our neighbor will have another rigged up in less than no time. Eternal vigilance is the price of underselling."

"But do all the big stores keep these spies, as you call them?" I asked.

"Well," said the ungallant floor walker, with a sly wink and smile, "they all of them do but ourselves."

A Chance for Thought.

Europe has eleven million soldiers, hundreds of forts and warships, and the people are taxed hundreds of millions of dollars for armament. And yet no question of right or justice has arisen in Europe during the last fifty years which a Michigan justice of the peace could not have settled in ten minutes at a cost of three dollars.

A BATTLE.

I saw a battle yesterday.
And would you have me tell
The story of this fearful fray,
And how it all befell?

Against the mists the sun made way;
The foggy mists, you know,
That in the morn by sea and shore
Their ghostly forces show.

The sun shot down his shafts of light
And pierced their ranks, and made
Them scatter into shreds of white
And flying bits of shade.

It was an utter rout, I ween;
The mists were vanquished foes;
No bugle called, no blood was seen,
I heard no clash of blows.

Yet in an hour the day was clear,
The sky triumphant shone;
While, from a bush that budded near,
The wind a flower had blown.

Till at my very feet it lay,
All white within the sun;
It was a flag of truce, to say
The fight was fought and won.
—Richard E. Burton, in St. Nicholas

Wouldn't Come of His Own Accord.

Jim Webster, a colored transgressor, was arraigned before a magistrate, who said to him: "I'll let you go this time, as the evidence against you is not very conclusive to my mind." "Thank you, sah; thank you kindly. I wishes all de odder magistrates would treat me like you does. Ye'r' a gemmerman, sah." "But don't come here again, or I'll have to be severe with you." "You may be sure I gwinter to come heah no moah. I didn't come dis time. Hit's de perliceman what fetches me ebery time. Ef you waits till I comes here all by myself, you will be a heap older dan Methusalum."—N. Y. World.

Miraculous.

"Bre'er Johnsing, does yo' b'lieve in miracles?"

"Does I b'lieve in miracles? Suttenly I does. Didn't I jest have one of 'em down at my house?"

"You? A miracle down at your house?"

"Yes, sah; dat's what I said. Dey was jes' fouh chickens in my coop when I went to bed las' night, an' when I woked up dis mornin'"—

"Dey was eight?"

"Eight? No, yo' fool man! Dey wasn't none. Done stole."

"Humph! Wha's de miracle?"

"De coop was lef'."—Judge.

Curtailing Expenses.

Wife—I am going to economize in our household expenses, Charlie.

Charlie (kissing her fondly)—What a dear little wifey you are.

Wife (continuing)—Yes, I've discharged the servant girl and hired a Chinaman.

Husband—But where does the economy come in?

Wife—Why, the kisses you were obliged to pay her for you can get from me for nothing.—West Shore.

A Small Scene.

"The play that Mr. Dawson wrote for the Home Histrionics was spoilt, I hear, because a distinguished patroness ostentatiously left the house during the performance."

CHRISTIANS KILLED

Mobs of Infuriated Mongolians Invade Their Homes.

SEVERAL RIOTERS BEHEADED.

A General Uprising of the Chinese is Looked For.

Narrow Escape of an English Consul and Wife from Death—The French Residents of Shanghai Warned that Their Turn Will Soon Come—Two Missionary Steamers Seized Near Nankin.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 24.—Details of the Chinese riots and recent attacks on missionaries and other Christians have just arrived by the steamship Gaelic from Hong Kong. Rioters from Shanghai burned a mission on the banks of one of the rivers of the province and put to death all those connected with it. Just before the Gaelic left four of these murderers were put to death. The French man-of-war Inconstant had to go to the assistance of those at Nankin.

Two missionary steamers were seized just above Nankin, and the missionaries were compelled to escape in their boats. One steamer was burned to the water's edge and the other was set afire, but the Chinese gunboats arrived on the scene and put the fire out and rescued the missionaries. An outbreak against the French is expected daily in Shanghai. Inflammatory placards have been posted up all over the town.

Instances of this bitter feeling against the French have already been given in Woo-Hoo and other river ports, and the placards warn the French in Shanghai that their turn will soon come. The placards revile the French Mixed Court Magistrate, who, the writer says, was once a house-boy to a foreigner, and he is not capable of looking after Chinese interests.

The placard concludes that a general attack will be made on the 27th of the Chinese moon. The Chinese authorities at Shanghai are looking for the authors of the placards. If they are caught they will be beheaded.

At Wuhn the rioters proceeded to the English Consulate and threw stones through the windows and destroyed flowers. Only the timely arrival of officers and the coolness of the Consul saved this fine building from the torch. Hundreds of savage natives were yelling and howling about the place, and the Consul and his wife had to disguise themselves in Chinese clothes in order to escape.

Some of the best informed officials in Nankin express the opinion that these outbreaks are only the prelude to a general uprising, and that no security should be felt because the present riots are quelled. It that case the duty of foreign powers to keep a strong fleet on the Yang-Tse-Kiang is quite evident.

A Woo-Hoo correspondent says the mob there numbered 10,000. The mob went systematically to work and pulled down buildings as if they were paid for it. They carefully took the hinges off the doors and windows, using screw drivers, so that they might be sold or used again, and carried away in boats all the plunder they could secure. A man dressed in silk, with a fan in one hand and a red flag in the other, directed the men where they were to work.

BALMACEDA GAINING.

According to a Government Report the Chilian Rebels Have No Chance.

LONDON, June 24.—A dispatch from the Chilian government at Santiago states that President Balmaceda is increasing the strength of the army and that his war vessels are attacking rebel ports while the rebel squadron avoids fighting. The insurgents have lost all their moral force, and that resistance on their part in the South has come to an end. The rebels, it is claimed, are prolonging the struggle only to enrich themselves with the Tarapaca nitrate deposits.

The President freely walks the streets of Santiago, which city is entirely on his side.

Nineteen provinces are stated to be under the control of the Balmacedists, these provinces being inhabited by 3,000,000 people, while the rebellious provinces have a population of but 150,000, half of whom are represented to be foreigners.

It is also asserted that the "Constitutional Congress" sits regularly and furnishes Balmaceda with ample resources.

"Phat Boy Babbage" Dead.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., June 24.—E. F. Babbage, of this city, died suddenly last night at Alexandria Bay. The deceased was well known all over the United States as "Phat Boy Babbage." For several years he traveled as theatrical and minstrel agent for different companies and put in his time during the summer as a pilot and guide on the St. Lawrence River. He was also the author of a book entitled "Eighteen Years on the St. Lawrence River." Mr. Babbage was 51 years old.

Labor Riot in Bordeaux.

BORDEAUX, June 24.—During the conflicts between the police and the mob over the horse car strike a number of the police were injured. Owing to this the public thoroughfares are being patrolled by troops, and military pickets are posted in different parts of the city. There is, however, hope that the intervention of the municipal authorities in the interest of an agreement between the companies and the strikers may result as successfully as did similar action in Paris.

The Para Rubber Company to Start Work.

SOUTH FRAMINGHAM, Mass., June 24.—It is stated here to-day that the works of the Para Rubber Shoe Company will start up on July 6.

Since its introduction into my kitchen I have used no other."

BOSTON'S BIG FAILURE.

Surprise Over the Assignment of the Leather Firm of Alley Bros. & Place.

BOSTON, June 24.—The news of the failure of Alley Bros. & Place, leather dealers, 54 South street, created much surprise among leather merchants here.

The liabilities are placed at $400,000, assets, $600,000. William A. Knowlton is joined with Mr. Rust in the assignee ship. This house is the successor to John B. Alley & Co.

Mr. Place of the embarrassed firm of Alley Bros. & Place, says the creditors will receive 100 cents on the dollar with interest.

Mr. Alley, of the firm, says: "Our inability to get ready money is the cause of the failure, but the creditors are mostly banks in New Haven and we owe but little for merchandise. Our factories are located in Ayer, this State, Bethel, Vt., and two in Pennsylvania. This has come upon us very suddenly and we have arranged everything we have and whatever the creditors want done we shall do."

The business of the firm has latterly been managed almost entirely by Mr. Place. He resides in Woburn. The firm has done a business of $1,000,000 a year and has enjoyed good credit.

RHETT ACQUITTED.

The Young Southerner Escapes on the Charge of Assault.

NEW YORK, June 24.—The jury in the case of William B. Rhett, who for the past ten days has been on trial for alleged assault on two young girls, last night brought in a verdict of acquittal.

Rhett, who is a member of the distinguished South Carolina family of that name, was remanded to Ludlow street jail to answer to two indictments charging him with abduction.

As these indictments are part of the general accusation against the prisoner, it is not likely that they will ever be tried, and Rhett will probably be released on bail to-morrow.

MURDER ON THE CAMPUS.

An Instructor in Trinity College Gymnasium Kills a Young Man.

HARTFORD, Conn., June 24.—Stephen Daly, instructor in the gymnasium at Trinity College, shot and killed John McCarthy, 17 years old, about 11 o'clock last night. McCarthy was not a student at the college. He went up on the campus with several companions during the class day reception and raised a disturbance.

Daly ordered the crowd to leave. They refused to go, and he tried to drive them away. The crowd attacked him and he drew his pistol and fired.

Daly went to the police station and gave himself up. McCarthy's body was taken to the morgue.

An Incendiary Caught by an Editor.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., June 24.—A Swede, named Charles Peterson, has been arrested for setting a dozen fires at Cobalt. He was held for trial. R. C. Wooster of the New Britain Herald secured the evidence against Peterson, and will receive the rewards outstanding for the arrest of the incendiary, who has kept the citizens of Cobalt in terror for several months past. The amount of the rewards aggregate $1,300.

The "Messiah" Arrested.

NEW YORK, June 24.—Samuel Hatch, the man who has been going around the city proclaiming himself to be the Messiah, was arrested at the St. Denis Hotel and sent to the insane pavilion at Bellevue Hospital for examination. Hatch was reported to be worth $40,000 some time ago, and first showed symptoms of insanity by throwing his money away in the street and proclaiming himself a millionaire.

Montgomery Guards Visit Montreal.

MONTREAL, June 24.—The Montgomery Guards of Boston, nearly 400 strong, accompanied by Company E of the Montgomery Guards of Portland, and Adjt.-Gen. H. M. Sprague of Maine arrived here during the morning in a special train of palace cars. They were extended a cordial welcome by the mayor, the City Council and the commanding officers of the various city regiments.

Bridgeport's Police Trouble Settled.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., June 24.—The mayor has won a victory over the city attorney and old board of police commissioners. Judge Thayer dissolved the injunction restraining Chief of Police Rylance from exercising the duties of that office. Upon the decision being announced the chief immediately took possession of his office.

A FRUITLESS HUNT

No Trace of the Lost Babe of the Mountains.

A BEAR MAY HAVE EATEN HER.

Startling Story that May Solve the Wilkesbarre Mystery.

Little Anna Fredericks Was Probably Killed and Devoured by Wild Animals. One More Search to be Made To-day. Parties of Armed Men With Hounds to Explore the Whole Mountain Territory.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., June 24.—Barney Searfoss, who has a farm and hotel at the foot of Five-Mile-Mountain, five or six miles back in the wilderness from Laurel Run, relates a startling tale that may lead to the solution of the mystery surrounding the disappearance of little Anna Fredericks.

Mr. Searfoss says that about three weeks ago a black bear of unusual size, weighing, he judges, 500 pounds, appeared on the mountain near his house. A brown bear is no uncommon object back there, but a black one is very rare.

A week ago last Tuesday, or just one week before the little girl was lost, this bear killed and carried off from Mr. Searfoss' farm a full grown calf. He and another man started out to hunt the bear. They found the remains of the calf, but the bear escaped them.

Three days later the bear was seen at a point between Five-Mile Mountain and Laurel Run, or within three miles of the spot where the little girl was lost. It is therefore possible, and it is believed by many, that the little girl, wandering about on the mountain-side, encountered the fierce animal and was killed and devoured.

Several parties of armed men with hounds will start out in different directions this afternoon and thoroughly explore the whole mountain territory.

MARSH NOT FOUND.

Garside's Physician Says the Professor is Shamming.

SPRING LAKE, N. J., June 24.—There was another sensational development in the case of the alleged assault on Detective Garside, alias Freeman, while hunting for ex-Bank President Marsh. Dr. Trout, who was called to attend Garside, announced that he would have nothing more to do with Garside, as he was shamming and had imposed upon him. Dr. Trout said that he had notified District Attorney Graham of this fact.

Garside still claims that he was assaulted while trying to capture Marsh. He had ordered a pair of crutches and says he will go to Philadelphia as soon as he is able. He says that he believes that Marsh is hiding in the vicinity of Spring Lake and that Detectives Miller and Tate are in league with him. Detectives Miller and Tate have abandoned further work at Spring Lake and have gone back to Philadelphia.

Wesleyan University Retains Its Name.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., June 24.—The alumni association of the Wesleyan University elected the following officers: President, W. T. Elmer of Middletown; vice-presidents, F. S. Hoyt, W. P. Hubbard, F. K. Hallock; recording secretary, Prof. W. N. Rice; corresponding secretary Prof. M. B. Crawford; treasurer, G. W. Burke. Two alumni trustees were elected. It was voted that it was inexpedient to change the name of the University, and a resolution was passed that a gymnasium should be built for the college as soon as possible.

Arrested for Larceny and Embezzlement.

BOSTON, June 24.—J. W. Grummon, who for some months past has been employed by the Hartford Life Insurance Company here, was arrested charged with the larceny and embezzlement of bides and leather valued at $798, and $720 in money from George M. & John D. Harrison, of Newark, N. J., while acting as their sales agent last fall.

A Notable Wedding.

BANGOR, Me., June 24.—The beautiful Episcopal Church of the Redeemer at Sorrento will be the scene of a quiet but notable wedding to-morrow morning, about which there is considerable comment here. Failure of the Trenton China Company.

THE ST. LOUIS RIOT.

Italy's Consul Will Not Make a Great Hubbub Over the Affair.

ST. LOUIS, June 24.—Dominio Gianochio, Italian Consul here, after investigating the chain of rocks riot, is of the opinion that the attack upon the Italian laborers was with the object of robbery more than anything else.

Many of his countrymen who were run out of the camp have informed him that laborers of other nationalities assisted the Americans in making the assault.

Mr. Gianochio said there was no need of making a great hubbub over the matter. The laws would protect the Italians and punish their persecutors. He had instituted an active police investigation and so far was well satisfied with the result.

Pugilists Dipped in the Canal.

LOCKPORT, N. Y., June 24.—Joe Donner and Connie Daley fought three rounds with bare knuckles two miles east of this city early in the morning. Donner, who is a lightweight, knocked out his opponent easily. The fight was over a girl with whom the young men were enamored. Both of the principals were taken after the fight by referee and seconds and given a dip in the Erie Canal.

The Comptroller referred him to Corporation Counsel Clark and told him to file his demand there.

INDIANS MAY FIGHT

An Outbreak Feared in Northeastern Arizona.

A BATTLE BARELY AVERTED.

War Department Officials Disturbed Over the Reports.

Gen. McCook to Take Vigorous Steps to Prevent an Uprising—A Rumor in Washington that Mrs. Logan Will Soon Marry—An Increase in the Surplus—Important Treasury Decisions.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—Interior and War Department officials are not a little disturbed over the reports telegraphed by Gen. McCook of the threatened Indian troubles in Northeastern Arizona.

It has been known for some time that many of the old men of the Moquis tribe were protesting bitterly against the government school system in operation on the Moqui reservation, but until the receipt of the dispatch from Lieut. Brett giving the particulars of a narrow escape from fifty armed warriors near Kearns Canyon there had been no fear of hostilities.

There are at least 30,000 men on this and the Navajo reservation adjoining, and as the majority of them are young bucks an outbreak among them would be a serious affair. The Navajos are a peaceful and progressive tribe and have hitherto given the government but little trouble, but private advices received here show that there are some malcontents among them as well as the Moquis over the school question.

Realizing the seriousness of the situation the War Department telegraphed General McCook to take prompt and vigorous steps to prevent an uprising and to afford all necessary protection to the government schools. It is presumed that he will draw on the troops at Fort Wingate, N. M., and Whipple Barracks, A. T., though no explicit instructions were given as to which troops should be used.

Lieutenant Brett's dispatch was as follows: "Came to Areiba to arrest several Areibas, who have destroyed the surveyors' marks and threatened to destroy the schools. When we entered the village we were confronted by about fifty hostiles, armed and stationed behind a barricade. They openly declared hostility to the Government and a fight was barely averted. A strong force should be sent here with Hotchkiss guns, as I anticipate serious trouble if the hostiles are not summarily dealt with."

IS MRS. LOGAN TO MARRY?

Claim Agent Lemon's Departure for Europe Revives the Report.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—"Is Mrs. John A. Logan about to marry?" This question is upon the tongues of the gossipers to-day.

The inquiry is aroused by the departure for Europe of George E. Lemon, the claim agent and attorney. He follows close upon the footsteps of the widow of the late Senator Logan, of Illinois, and since the names of the couple were linked matrimonially some months ago the idle tongues now see only a marriage in their trip across the Atlantic.

At the time of the report that Mrs. Logan and Capt. Lemon were going abroad to marry some months ago, both entered a strong denial; nevertheless, there is talk of it here now.

Over a Million Surplus.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—The Treasury has recovered from the heavy drain on account of pension payments, and Treasurer Nebeker's daily statement shows a net surplus of $1,257,439. This net surplus will probably daily increase from now until the end of the month, when it is expected to reach its normal condition of about $10,000,000.

The Late Mrs. Barnaby's Will.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 24.—The proponents of the second will of the late Mrs. Barnaby have secured from Judge Spink a continuation of the probation of the will until Sept. 29. Before that time the result of the trial of Dr. Graves is expected to be known and may remove some serious obstacles to the probation of the document.

London After Slavin and Sullivan.

NEW YORK, June 24.—A cable dispatch from London says the Ormonde Club offers a purse of $15,000 for a match between Slavin and Sullivan, provided they come to terms. $10,000 to go to the winner, $2,500 to the loser, and $1,250 to each man for expenses.

BARDSLEY'S STATEMENT.

It is Presented to the Court and His Sentence Suspended.

PHILADELPHIA, June 24.—Ex-Treasurer Bardsley, when called for sentence, read his long-promised statement. To those who expected sensational disclosures the statement was partially disappointing. The explanation went over much familiar ground. He held the Keystone Bank officers responsible for the city's loss, while confessing that he loaned to the bank the money of the city and of the State to help them out of difficulty. Allowing his explanation and reasoning to be correct, the balance for which he is personally responsible is very small. He answers the question as to the whereabouts of the missing million of money by reiterating the story of depositing it in the Keystone Bank and taking due bills for the same, and he offered proof of this.

In the course of his remarks Bardsley made reference to Bank Examiner Drew and H. H. Yard, saying he had loaned money to banks through the latter. He says the former is responsible in a measure for the city's loss, because he misrepresented the bank's condition. He also accuses him of having had financial dealings with Lucas and Marsh.

He devotes a chapter to John Wanamaker, in which he says he has no reason to think he knew anything of the bank's affairs. He states also that between himself and Marsh there was no understanding of any kind.

When he had done District Attorney Graham said he desired time to examine further into the case, and sentence was, therefore, suspended.

PARNELL'S LICENSE.

He Will Probably Marry Mrs. O'Shea To-Morrow.

LONDON, June 24.—It has just been learned that Mr. Parnell has obtained a special license to marry Mrs. O'Shea.

He has been compelled to do this, it is said, owing to the delays interposed by his local clergyman in Brighton.

He can now be married to-morrow. He has intimated that no one is to be present at the ceremony, which is to be conducted with the strictest privacy.

Fast Run Across the Pacific.

VANCOUVER, B. C., June 24.—The Canadian Pacific steamer "Empress of Japan," which arrived during the morning, ten days, twenty-one hours out from Yokohama, made the fastest run ever made across the Pacific, beating by eighteen hours that of her sister ship "Empress of India," which had previously broken the record.

—The regular meeting of the Reform Club will be postponed on account of the Commencement exercises which take place to-morrow evening.

—The Salvation Army meetings at Reform Hall will be discontinued for the remainder of the week in consequence of the painting and repairs of the Hall.

—A young man in a West Front street flat threw a lighted match from a back window last night and burned up a dress of his mother's which was hanging on a clothes line.

—Reform Hall is being painted, inside and outside, by Alonzo T. Ayres. Because of this work, there will be no temperance meeting Thursday evening, nor any Salvation Army meetings this week till next Sunday.

—A meeting will be held in the rooms of the Woman's Christian Temperance union at 3:30 o'clock to-morrow afternoon. Mrs. Fernald will conduct her monthly programme of interesting temperance readings.

—The regular business meeting of the Woman's Temperance Aid Society will be held at Reform Hall, to-morrow afternoon at three o'clock. A full attendance is solicited as it is the last business session for the season.

—Those who would like to save 10 per cent. on their fireworks—and who does not?—have but to follow the advice of A. W. Rand, the Plainfield agent for the Excelsior Fireworks company, in the new advertisement in THE PRESS to-day.

—Don't neglect to take a look at the handsome posters, with the heading "New Departure". The first excursion to lovely Belmar (old Ocean Beach) is that of the First Baptist Sunday-school on July 2. Remember the date.

—Adjutant and Captain Leyh, who have had charge of the local meetings of the Salvation Army, but who left town to recuperate at the seashore, are still in ill health, and will probably be absent several weeks. Meanwhile Lieutenants Watkins and Robertson will conduct the meetings.

—A number of citizens and merchants of Plainfield, together with their families, visited The Elkwood yesterday upon the invitation of the proprietor, J. B. Miller, to view Plainfield's new hotel. It was the unanimous verdict of all present, including the PRESS representative, that The Elkwood is a model in every respect.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

The family of C. D. Wadsworth are at Washington, Conn., for the summer.

Miss Augustine Lissignolo, of East Front street, is visiting friends in Bethlehem, Pa.

The family of Samuel P. Dunn of East Seventh street, will spend the summer at Newfoundland.

Judge Codington is at The Albion, while his family are rusticating among the hills of Somerset.

James R. Joy, of Orchard place, North Plainfield, attended the reunion of his class, '85, at Yale University, yesterday.

Miss Mabel Potter, Mrs. D. E. Titsworth and son, Miss Anna Titsworth, and Miss Ethel Titsworth, will spend the month of July in Illinois and Wisconsin.

The following Plainfielders among others have decided to go to the college students' conference at Northfield, Mass.: W. D. Murray, Tiemann N. Horn, T. E. Hazell, O. B. Brown, Phillip Zimmer, and C. H. Lee.

The Hon. John H. Sawyer, of Brooklyn, who was a guest at The Albion when it first opened, left for Europe about six weeks ago for a health trip. He has just returned to Plainfield again, because he can find no prettier place to dwell, nor better accommodations in the wide, wide World than are furnished at The Albion.

To This Complexion Has It Come.

That the judgment of THE PRESS in relation to the course of The Times regarding the action of the majority of the Council in municipal affairs, is entirely well-founded and perfectly just, every person in this community would agree did they know that the "news" comes out in its gleeful, ungrammatical way, and praises The Times, quotes its scoldings and calls it "our"—yes, "our respectable neighbor."

It is only a few months since The Times passed out of the hands of W. J. Leonard, yet already its ways are ways that suit the news.

I HAVE had catarrh for twenty years, and used all kinds of remedies without relief. Mr. Smith, druggist, of Little Falls, recommended Ely's Cream Balm. The effect of the first application was magical, it allayed the inflammation and the next morning my head was as clear as a bell. I am convinced its use will effect a permanent cure. It is soothing and pleasant, and I strongly urge its use by all sufferers.—Geo. Terry, Little Falls, N. Y.

ARRESTED AND REPUDIATED.

Morrison Again Held to Await the Action of the Grand Jury on Two More Complaints, and Scorned by Even Those Whom he Praised.

T. W. Morrison, "the journalist", is having his hands full finding bondsmen to bail him out. He was arrested twice yesterday, for criminal libel again. Once on a complaint of President Smith of the Common Council, and once on complaint of Councilman Spangenberg. There was no political sentiment in the affair, as Mr. Smith is a Republican and Mr. Spangenberg is a Democrat. Councilman Johnston of Netherwood permitted himself to be used by Morrison as a bondsman.

The reason of it all is this. Some days ago Thomas Dowd caused the arrest of policeman Kelley and Giese on a charge of assault. He said they pushed him about, hit him with a club, and after walking him a few blocks under arrest let him go. There were so many different versions of the story in circulation, Messrs. Smith and Spangenberg went to the scene of the fray Saturday evening to investigate it.

They stopped a few minutes at the saloon in front of which the trouble began, and then inquired about it all of a number of people in the neighborhood. While at ex-policeman Kelly's house listening to his story, Dowd came into the room. The Councilmen had never seen him before and did not notice him then. The Councilmen spent the rest of the evening in the company of the police officers, Kelley and Giese, going from place to place and listening to testimony in praise of the officers.

But Morrison in the next issue of his paper published an article stating that Councilmen Smith and Spangenberg spent the evening in Goff's saloon with this Dowd who had "been arrested and convicted several times for disorderly conduct"; and the article intimated that these Councilmen were fixing things with Dowd to injure the police for doing their duty. For such vicious slander, "the journalist" was arrested and held again to await the action of the grand jury, and the police officers whose names he made use of as an opportunity to villify Messrs. Smith and Spangenberg, come out like decent men, scorn all praise from him and repudiate his statements to his face in these words:

To the editor of the news:

We wish to say that the police do not look upon the visit of Councilmen Smith and Spangenberg to the boulevard as intending to try to injure us. It is not so, but to the contrary. You also state that they visited the saloon of John Goff and the house of ex-policeman Nicholas Kelly to procure evidence against us, but you have neglected to state that they also visited the stores of Edward J. Harding and Herman Weber, and other places and heard evidence enough to convince them that we only did our duty. They did not remain in the saloon over two minutes and Dowd was not in their company at all. PATRICK KELLEY,
CHARLES GIESE.

MR. GABLE IN TOWN AGAIN.

He Says He Will Provide for the Keeping of His Family if the Police Let Him Alone.

John Gable, who is accused of eloping with Mrs. Avery, arrived in Plainfield again to-day on the one o'clock train from New York. He says he has come to arrange to support his children, but he will not live with his wife.

He does n't expect to be arrested but if he is he threatens that he will do nothing for his family and leave them paupers on the town. He says the mortgage he gave on his furniture was made as much for his wife's interest as his own, and that it has since been paid off. The money was used in his family, he says, and his wife can so testify. "There is two sides to the story about my running away with another woman", he told THE PRESS reporter. "Who can prove it?" he defiantly questions, forgetting how many can testify that he boasted of the elopement to them, and forgetting the letters he has written and the picture he sent on from New York showing himself and the woman in a group together.

"If they arrest me and throw me in jail," he reasserted, "they'll get nothing. If they will leave me alone I will provide for the keeping of my wife and children. My story has never been told, and when it is things will have a different appearance."

He further said: "Some people will turn red in the face if I'm arrested and this thing all comes out."

LATER.

Gable was arrested at 2:30 by Constable Mattox on a warrant issued some time ago on complaint of his wife charging him with desertion. He was arraigned before the City Judge and given permission to go out and find counsel. Officer Kelley went with him. He could not find a lawyer, however, and he was held in $300 bail for trial to-morrow afternoon at three o'clock. He said he would like to have his trial right away "and settle the matter one way or the other." Up to the hour of going to press, he has not been able to get a bondsman.

They Work Wonders.

For over 6 years I have been afflicted with Dyspepsia; could not eat meat without distress and sickness of the stomach afterwards. Have used Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills for 2 weeks, and now eat all kinds of food without return of old trouble. They certainly work wonders in curing Dyspepsia or Stomach Troubles.

A BAD TRAMP'S EXPERIENCE.

He Finds the Hoboken Women More Muscular than Those of Plainfield.

John Ellis is one of the most desperate tramps ever ordered out of Plainfield by Police Captain Grant. During his recent visit to this city he insulted many a woman who refused him aid, and terrified the servants at every house he visited. The police, however, got after him and threatened to put ball and chain on his leg and put him to work on the streets. He then very promptly left town. Hereafter John will be very careful to treat women with proper courtesy and to display becoming humility and respect when he asks for "cold grub". John had an experience yesterday. That he is to-day loitering through New Jersey byways instead of lingering in a hospital is something of a miracle. With easy nonchalance and a hungry look Ellis pulled the bell at the house of Captain Schauer of the Hoboken Scheutzen Corps, at No. 93 Jefferson street, yesterday.

A large woman with a kindly smile opened the door. She heard John's story, but politely declined, to pass out cold feed. Then John made a bad break. He grabbed at a diamond necklace the woman wore. He missed. The woman's arm came up to a "guard" with the quickness of a professional pugilist, and John, in some mysterious way, found himself flying through the air. He alighted on his back in the street. He was shocked, both by the fall and the cause of it. But he was not one to give up at the first fall. Assuring himself by a steady look that the person in the door was really a woman, he returned to the charge. Then the woman seized his hands, and forcing him to the ground, hammered him until he begged for mercy. When she let him go he limped away, casting furtive glances back as if he feared pursuit.

John had made a sad mistake. Captain Schauer's daughter, Miss Minerva, is one of the strongest women in America. She weighs 220 pounds, and has traveled all over the country giving exhibitions at museums of her wonderful strength. She has been home on a brief vacation for the past week. It was she who opened the door for John. She remarked afterwards that she needed the exercise and enjoyed it, but she was sorry for the tramp.

A GOOD GAME SATURDAY.

Probably "Phenomenal Taylor" Will Pitch, and Bonner Will Catch.

One of the most prosperous and successful athletic associations in the country, is the "North Side" that has just completed extensive and costly grounds in the upper part of New York city.

It is the strong ball team of that association that is coming to this city Saturday to play the Crescent Leagues. Special care has been taken in selecting the nine as the secretary of the association writes they intend to win.

It is rumored that "phenomenal Taylor" will be given another trial in the box for the Crescents, with Bonner behind the bat. This alone will be an interesting feature. The two teams will be: North Side Athletic—Montgomery, 3b; Quinn, s. s.; Lamer, c.; Blackmore, 2b; Gooch, l. f.; Tynan, p.; White, 1b; Green, c. f.; Farrell, r. f.

Crescent League—Jones, s. s.; Lufbery, 2b; McIndoe, 1b; Hammill, l. f.; Gregg, r. f.; Bonner, c.; Lee, 3b; Simmen, c. f.; Taylor, p.

They'd Better Move to Plainfield.

Many of the brokers are living at Orange for the summer. They do not give the boarding houses there a very good reputation, whether deserved or not.

"Where are you living this summer?"—one asked another on Exchange place yesterday afternoon.

"I am starving out at Orange"—was the lugubrious response.—New York Recorder.

THE WORK OF GOOD WOMEN.

Delightful Meetings of the Home Protection Reading Course.

[CONTRIBUTED.]

Sister members of the Woman's Christian Temperance union, women of Plainfield, mothers, you are urged to make an effort to attend the meetings of the Home Protective Reading Course, held the fourth Thursday of each month, at 3:30 p. m., in the rooms, 73 West Front street. Highly educational in their character, and entertaining as well, one noticeable result of these readings is an increased thoughtfulness on the part of many, which will doubtless be followed by more consistent action.

Come, dear women of Plainfield, and enjoy selections from the pen of the gifted Miss Willard, from "Glimpses of Fifty Years", "The Temperance Movement", and leaflets prepared as suggested helps for mothers and temperance workers by some of the best writers of the day.

Mrs. Fernald, our bright, cheerful leader at these meetings, and who arranges the programme which is printed in The Union Signal each month, has a cordial greeting for every one, and words of wisdom and encouragement for all.

The last meeting was of unusual interest. Mrs. Tomlinson read "A Letter to Home Makers", written by Mrs. Fernald. Miss Yates read that wonderful chapter in "Glimpses of Fifty Years" entitled "The New Chivalry", and which is so full of oriental beauty, of sad, touching pathos and lofty aspiration. "The Home of Frances E. Willard" in The Chautauquan for May, was read by Miss Anna Boice; and Mrs. Edward Taylor read a National leaflet, "Busy Women and The W. C. T. U.."

The next afternoon of the reading course will be Thursday, June 25 An excellent programme is promised, and a large attendance is expected.

Every body will be welcome.

The Girls Had No Show When Linn Was There.

The Arlington Tennis Club held a reception at the residence of the President, H. C. Runyon, last evening. One of the features of the evening was the cake walk participated in by the whole club. Among the amusing characters impersonated were: Geo. Fuller, country bridegroom; Linn Edsall, country bride; Geo. Rockfellow, city swell; H. C. Runyon, Uncle Josh; Joe Fuller, Indian; Edward Randolph, Japanese; Charles Moffett, tramp. Messrs. Edsall, Runyon and Moffett kept up a continuous roar of laughter by their antics. The cake was awarded to the young country bridal couple. It was to be given to the young lady and gentleman between whom there was the most contrast, but after Linn Edsall appeared on the floor with his tall husband the girls had no show at all.

Now is the time the festive coon
Observes the fervid heat,
And blandly takes unto himself
The shady-sided beat.

And now the dear, precocious boy,
In singleness of soul,
Contrives to sneak away from home,
And sound the swimming-hole.

To whom we cringe and bow,
Light-hearted, skies around the block,
To obviate the cow.

Willie's Woe: A True Tale.

A West Front street small boy a week or two ago attained that dignity of years which parents are wont to emphasize in their boys by the substitution of knee-breeches for skirts, and by conferring upon the youthful heir the sobriquet of "little man". The West Front street small boy rejoiced greatly in his abbreviated trowsers, and set out to splurge and swagger before the dazzled eyes of the neighborhood. His starring tour brought him at last to the home of two other small boys over in the Park, and there he stopped and played till the dusk was fallen and the evening shadows told him it was time to hie him home. So he and his trowsers sallied forth on their return. About thirty minutes later his fond parents rushed up to the house in the Park, breathless and excited.

"Did our Willie leave his pants here?" they gasped.

The boroughites reported that Willie had left their house a half hour previous, and, so far as they knew, had taken his entire wardrobe with him.

"Then"—exclaimed the anxious mother—"he must have lost them on the way, for I missed them the minute he got home. We'll have to look for them."

And the boroughites could do no less than offer their aid, and the whole party turned out and beat the woods and roadside for the missing trowsers, but the fruitless search was finally given up, and the discouraged parents returned to comfort their heart-broken child. Willie has a new pair of knee-breeches now, and he has a cold, too.

Dear Teachers and Schoolmates: Standing to-day on the threshold of the new life into which we are about to come through the dear old gates of the Plainfield High School, it behooves us to look forward and backward, and in the joyous thought of the bright future so near before us, not to forget the past, which has prepared us for what is to come. For four long years, not all of happiness, for lessons have been hard, and teachers, bless them all, have been strict, but only for our own good, we have been waiting and working for this day, so fraught with anticipations for the future and with regrets for the past, soon to be lost to us forever. To-day we are schoolgirls "standing with reluctant feet, where the brooks and rivers meet". To-morrow we will be women, going out into the great world of which we know so little, and—— —Let all Plainfield bicyclists turn out to parade the morning of the Fourth.

Oh, What a Cough

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease, Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves croup and whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Sold by J. G. Miller, No. 10 East Front street, Plainfield, N. J.

A Children's Party Incident.

A wide and deep philosophy lies in this true little story. A few days ago some children were eating dinner at the house of a Seventh street friend, who gave them rice pudding for dessert—rice pudding with raisins in it. Now one of these little boys didn't love rice, but did love raisins, and being a conscientious and well trained youngster, with a prudence that he had no business with considering his years, he first ate carefully all the pudding, saving all the plums and making of them a circle around the rim of his plate. When he had paid penance for the pudding, he meant to reward himself by eating all the raisins. Opposite to him sat another little boy who had the same decided preference for raisins over rice. But this little boy wasn't prudent, he was only a boy, the promptings of whose stomach were better than those of his brain. And the first thing he did was to eat up all his plums. That being done, it suddenly occurred to him that there was nothing left for him to live for. So he lifted up his voice and wept aloud. And when the kindhearted hostess said: "Why, Davy, what are you crying for?" he howled. "I ain't got any more raisins." Then the good lady glanced down at the plate of the other little boy who sat at her side and said: "Well, here is a little boy who doesn't like raisins and who has put every one of his aside, and if you won't cry you shall have every one of his raisins."

And the other little boy, being cowardly, as prudent people often are—for cowardice is what makes people prudent—said nothing, while the hostess filliped off every one of his cherished plums to the other plate. And there he had to sit, full of pudding and prudence, and see the other boy fill himself with the plums himself had meant to eat.

Suppose these two little boys to be grown up men, and the plums to be the desirable things of this earth and the pudding to be the undesirable things that come along with the desirable. Here you have an epitome of life. You also have some suggestions if you are wise enough to dig them out, as to the propriety of eating your plums as you come along to them. The plums are not yours till you've eaten them.

Benefits of the Heavy Rainfall.

The New Jersey Weather Service gives the following summary of its reports for the week ending June 19:

"During the first five days of the week the temperature was decidedly above (from 10 to 12 degrees) and during the last two, decidedly below the weekly average in all portions of the State. Very severe and destructive thunder-storms occurred on Tuesday and Wednesday in the eastern counties, doing considerable damage, especially in Bayonne, Hudson county; Asbury Park, Monmouth county; Plainfield and Elizabeth, Union county.

The rainfall for the week has been up to and in some localities above the weekly average and was most beneficial to all crops, besides putting the soil in good condition for cultivation, but was too late to benefit the hay crop, which has fallen off several points during the week, owing to previous drought and the extreme heat of the first of the week.

Prof. Smith reports that fruit trees and especially apples, are injured by plant lice. Where the insects attack fruit as well as leaves, or where they are very numerous, he advises spraying with either the whale oil soap, one pound to eight gallons, or with the kerosene emulsion.

What He Gets from the State.

Fortunately for their peace of mind,—says the New York World—none of the candidates for the office of Commissioner of Banks and Insurance is an exchange editor in a newspaper office. If any of them was and he read the local papers one after the other and believed what he read he would soon be convinced that the salary of the office fluctuates too astonishingly to make the position a desirable one. The Newark Evening News has insisted for three months that the pay is $3,500 per year. The Neward Daily Advertiser allowed the incumbent $3,000 per annum at first and then increased it voluntarily to $5,000. The New Brunswick Times a short time ago jumped the compensation up to $10,000 a year, and now the Mount Holly Mirror gravely asserts that $2,000 is all the hard-working Commissioner who will succeed the late incumbent will get for twelve months' services. Other periodicals place the salary somewhere between $2,500 and $7,500. Strangely enough, the New Brunswick Home News is the only local paper that has struck the right figure—$4,000 per annum—and stuck to it.

Heavy Cannon Stop Jersey Central Trains.

For the past two days the new heavy guns at Sandy Hook have been tested by the inspectors. Some of the cannon could be heard for a long distance. All the trains on the Southern Division of the Jersey Central railway, which has its terminus at Sandy Hook, had to stop running between 9 o'clock and noon and from 1:30 to 3 in the afternoon. Many of the discharges Monday were felt for a long distance along the shore, especially at Atlantic Highlands. One of the explosions shook the steamer Monmouth as she neared her landing at the Hook and startled the passengers. Next week, it is understood, the 55-ton cannon, which takes 440 pounds of powder at a discharge, will be tested.

It's so easy to make it, there's really no excuse for not using Knapp's Root Beer in five minutes.

The Jersey Central Makes a Strike.

A line of railroad has been projected from Newark to the Poughkeepsie bridge. The new route begins at a point on the Central of New Jersey in Newark and extends to Lodi Junction on the New Jersey and New York roads.

From Lodi Junction the new route follows the line of the New Jersey and New York road to Hillsdale, about eight miles north of Hackensack.

Those interested in the contemplated bridge across the Hudson at Storm King Mountain, just south of Cornwall, have tried to sound the purposes of the men who are working on the new line, so far without success.

Surveyors recently run out a line from Hillsdale, in Bergen county, on the New Jersey and New York road, to Tappan, in Rockland county, on the West Shore road.

Those in position to know say it is a plan of the Central of New Jersey to get direct outlet for coal and passenger traffic to the New England States.

Orange Has No "Big 6" to Save Her.

Tuesday night the Orange common council voted to put in a system of sewerage at an expense to the city to $239,174 That is the bid, but before the work is completed another $100,000 will probably be added.

This is the aim of the Plainfield Water Supply Co., its paper, the Times, and its councilmen already in office or to be elected. The City should build the sewerage system, they say. That means bonds for hundreds of thousands of dollars loaded upon the people.

But the "Big 6" will save the City. They will award a franchise for building a sewerage system to an outside corporation. It won't cost the people a cent.

A Good Word for College Fraternities.

Chauncey B. Ripley, of Westfield, delivered the annual oration before the Alumni Association of Bucknell University at Lewisburg, Pa., last evening. He advocated the full recognition by American college trustees and faculties of the Greek Letter fraternities. "They are"—he said—"becoming more and more general and influential in American colleges. They have taken deep root in most of them, including the best, and their growth is on the increase. The alumni of these societies keep alive the fraternal relations after graduation, and their clubs and club-houses are to be found in cities and large towns all over the country."

Convert (who has but recently espoused the faith and has just "busted" his suspenders)—Dang the dinged luck! Minister (who happens to hear the remark)—Tut, tut, man, you mustn't swear. I thought you had mended your ways.

Convert (confusedly)—So I have, parson, so I have; and now I've got to mend these dinged suspenders.—West Shore.

Decidedly Entertaining.

The Unadorned Facts.

"Now tell us the naked truth," said Mr. Fosdick to his young son who was under examination for a boyish escapade.

"Yes," added Mrs. Fosdick, who was a graduate of Vassar; "we want only the unclothed veracity."—Judge.

All the druggists sell the Tudor Whiskey. Some of the other dealers do not. They say it pays too small a profit. Pure whiskey never does yield a large profit. It is the adulterated stuff which makes the money. Do you want to pay your dealer an exorbitant profit on an adulterated article, or do you prefer genuine old Whiskey which is sold at a moderate profit? Decide for yourselves. The TUDOR WHISKEY is WARRANTED ABSOLUTELY PURE and TEN YEARS OLD.

STREET CARS IN EUROPE.

Fares Are Generally Lower Than in the United States.

"I have just had a long trip through Europe looking at their street cars, or 'tram cars,' as they are called there," said a correspondent of the New York Telegram.

"In Dublin I found the street railways under one management, called the United Dublin Tramway Company. The cars carry twenty-six passengers inside and twenty on top, and by a law of the Kingdom all public conveyances are limited to their capacity. When the seats are full no more passengers are taken on, and there is none of the crowding and overloading we have in this country. The rails of the Dublin tramways are grooved and weigh ninety pounds to the yard. They are not laid on ties and sleepers, but in cement on a concrete foundation and are connected with coupling rods. The pavement, both inside and outside the track, is of granite blocks on a concrete foundation, and the beams between the blocks are filled with tar and cement, making the pavement totally impervious to water. The rails are flush with the pavement and are kept in perfect repair, so that one might drive over them with a buggy and not know that he was crossing a railway track. The fare is one penny, or two cents, for any distance inside of a mile. It is a horse system, and the speed is between eight and nine miles an hour. The horses are of a very high grade, as the Government offers a gratuity on every horse coming up to requirements that makes up the difference in the prices of a good and a poor animal. In consideration of this gratuity the Government reserves the right to take the horses owned by the tramway company for cavalry service in case of war.

"In Belfast and Glasgow the systems are similar, while Edinburgh and Birmingham have very good cable roads. In London there is the Highgate Hill cable road, and all the other roads are worked by horse power. In November last a new electric road was opened in London. The road is what is known as three or center-rail system, with the cars drawn by an engine which receives its power from the central rail, and electricity is generated from stations at the end of the road. On this line there are seventeen trains of three cars each, which leave the stopping-places at intervals of three minutes. The fare is five cents in United States money, and is paid at a turnstile. The speed is about twelve to fifteen miles an hour.

"Paris has electric cars run by the storage system, and it seems to work very well. One feature of the Italian roads worthy of attention is that there are two fares—a first-class fare, where the passengers sit inside, and a second-class, where the passengers stand outside. The difference in fare is two cents."

WHAT WE POSSESS AND LACK.

An English Writer "Sizes Up" Americans and Their Peculiarities.

The nervous effects of the rapidity with which men and women live in the new world are accentuated by influences of climate. A certain delicacy of feature, grace of movement, neatness of pose, distinguish both the mental and the physical products of the country. Its literature, like its beauty, belongs to nervous, highly-strung, keenly-susceptible organizations. American artists are dexterous in management of lights and shades; they dispose sketches upon the canvas with the cleverness of French masters. American poets call up graceful images in graceful words, and invest common life with an air of refinement. American thought is apt to be superficial, says a writer in the Edinburgh Review. Their thinkers rarely think a thing out; they are suggestive rather than forcible; they play with their difficulties as cats play with mice; they really grapple with problems and squeeze from them their life. Their theologians expatiate on creeds which are networks of dogmatic mysticism, or compounds of Puritanism with transcendental sentiment.

American humor is rarely of a rollicking kind; it is dry, not rich; fine rather than deep; subtle, not broad. It depends upon quick perceptions of analogies or upon the exaggeration of facts rather than upon a broadly comic sensibility. Americans have produced no plays which deserve the name, and in power of dramatic invention they are deficient. Their voices, like their laughter, are seldom rich or rounded, as though they proceeded from hidden recesses of being. Their variety of the English language is modified so as to gain time. Their utterance is rapid; they drop their voices at the end of the sentence in their hurry to reach the next; their idioms are compressed; even their spelling is clipped.

Cold, self-possessed, precocious, alert, keen-witted, Americans, seem wanting in fervor, passion, repose and expansiveness. Their versatility is phenomenal, but the gift is dangerous if it dissipates powers or squanders talents. Few writers devote themselves to letters as their sole vocation with the self-devotion by which alone the highest literary work is produced. Novel writing is not undertaken by persons who have any special aptitude for the work. It forms an interlude in the literary life of writers who are also versifiers, critics, essayists, biographers and journalists.

The Word "Jew."

"We are Jews," said the rabbi, to a New York Sun man, "and it is right to call us Jews, but some of us do not like the word, because it has been used in Europe for ages as a term of contempt or derision. People often seem to be hissing when they say of a man, 'he is a Jew.' In English books, as well as in German books, the word is often used scornfully. In most European cities the Jews were compelled to live by themselves in the meanest quarters, and this also caused them to be spoken of sneeringly. We are called Jews because our ancient country was Judea, but we are of the Hebrew race, and some of us would rather be called Hebrews than Jews. But we will yet make the word Jew shine in the United States."

TWO STORES.

A handsome place, and in a busy street;
A store filled up with well selected stock;
A dozen clerks all looking trim and neat,
And only one store like it on the block.
A rush of people, but all passing by;
A well dressed window, fixed in latest style;
Gold painted signs, made to attract the eye,
But silence deep is reigning all the while.

Why is it that the sound of busy trade
Is heard not in a store so great in size?
Because, my friend, a great mistake was made
The merchant thought he need not advertise.

A store just opposite, not half so fine,
Not near as big as others, too, quite near it;
No dearth of clerks, but each one has no time
To fool around; he quick discharge would fear it.
A rush of customers, the store well filled;
Men flying here and there with busy feet;
Outside a placard that attracts the eye
By stating plainly what inside you'll meet.

Why is it that in here a rush you see,
That each clerk to outdo his neighbor tries?
Because, my friend, the fact you'll plainly see:
This merchant knew enough to advertise!

MORAL:

If you would sell your goods, and do it quick,
Don't think fine stores and many clerks will do it,
But advertise, that always does the trick;
The man who don't will have a chance to rue it.

—E. D. Gibbs in Printers' Ink.

It Spells Success.

The distinguishing feature of the present age in a business sense is the close and inseparable connection between printer's ink and success. Dr. Faustus is the patron saint of every Nineteenth century enterprise. Advertising is the business motto of the times, publicity its foundation principle. The advertising columns of a great newspaper form a mirror of the period, in which are faithfully reflected all its characteristics, its tendencies, its ambitions, its aspirations, its needs and its achievements. The press has thus become not only the herald of all undertakings, great and little, but the oracle to which the world looks for authoritative information on all the business questions in which it is interested. All the civilized countries of the earth are converted by it into one vast exchange, in which all their millions of readers are brought together. Advertising has therefore become a necessity.—Baltimore Sun.

How Men Make Millions.

The man who observed that "the large rivers generally happened to run close to large cities" has now discovered that men who do the largest amount of business generally happen to have the largest advertisements in the paper. Some merchants try circulars, signs, etc., etc., but the best advertisement in the world is the newspaper; this has been conceded by the most successful business men of the age. We could cite examples of successful advertisers—Wanamaker, Stewart, Mabley and others, men who have spent thousands of dollars with the daily newspapers, and who have consequently made millions of dollars.—Rome (N. Y.) Tribune.

It May Make You Rich.

Say in your newspaper announcement just what you would say if you were to go personally to talk up your goods, and our word for it you will make of the newspaper a thousand fold better salesman, because it can present your announcements every day to 10,000 possible purchasers. The newspaper can do the work in a day that a hundred most efficient and active salesmen cannot accomplish. And the newspaper can save clerk hire and the soiling and spoiling of goods in the showing of them by telling customers beforehand just what you have. The newspaper will make you rich if properly utilized.—Nashville Banner.

Attract and Convince.

There are two things a successful advertisement must do—attract and convince. In other words, it must be read and leave a good impression. In order to attract attention it must not be simply noticeable, for that might be on account of its shocking and ridiculous appearance. It should look new to the reader—like something he has not read before.

Tricks of the Trade.

When everybody is rushed it is no trick to secure custom; it is when his neighbors are idle that the man who has kept his name and goods before the public finds himself so well known that he gets his full share of what patronage is to be had.—Cloak and Suit Review.

It Booms Your Town.

The most successful and progressive towns are those which most liberally support their home papers. A newspaper well filled with home advertisements is one of the best advertisements in the world of the place where the paper is published.—Wyandotte Union.

The Backbone of the Community.

The local newspaper is the backbone of the community, and generous as is the public appreciation of its offices, it merits much more sympathy and support than it generally receives.—Philadelphia Times.

The Seven Lamps of Publicity.

The seven canons of the fine art of advertising, "the seven lamps of publicity," are seen to be simplicity, news quality, originality, individuality, iteration, sincerity and naturalness.—Philadelphia Ledger.

Toot Your Horn Judiciously.

The secret of how to advertise judiciously is the key to success. The man who toots his horn the earliest, loudest and in the most attractive manner gets the crowd's money.—Chicago Herald.

The Criterion of Value.

Good advertising is the kind that makes its influence felt upon the advertiser's pocketbook.—Printers' Ink.

A Profitable Accomplishment.

Aptitude in advertising is an accomplishment that yields remarkable returns.—Troy Press.

A Mathematical Fact.

The man who takes the ad. out of the newspaper takes the add out of his cash box.—Exchange.

THE NATION'S CASH

To-Morrow's Cabinet Meeting to Discuss the Subject.

TREASURY OFFICIALS ARE BUSY

A Decrease of $13,000,000 in Custom Revenues So Far This Year.

Experimenting With Balloons to Cause Rain—They Are Inflated With Gas and Exploded at High Altitudes—An Outbreak by the Apaches Expected—A Pardon Asked for an Ex-Bank President.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Great interest is felt in official circles here over the Cabinet meeting called for to-morrow to consider the financial condition of the Treasury.

It is on the eve of a new fiscal year and the Treasury officials are busy preparing data upon which the President and Cabinet may come to some conclusion as to mapping out a line of policy to be pursued during the fiscal year.

From books of the Treasury it is ascertained that the total receipts for the 11 months of the present fiscal year have been $369,808,967, and for the 24 days of the present month $23,497,000, making actual receipts so far $393,305,967. With the six remaining days to hear from the total receipts will foot up, in round numbers, $400,000,000.

The total appropriations for the fiscal year commencing July 1 are $407,266,851. Unless the revenues for the next fiscal year increase considerably over the revenues of the present fiscal year all these appropriations could not be paid.

The present indications are that the custom revenues will be from $30,000,000 to $35,000,000 less than the present fiscal year, the receipts for the first five months of the present calendar year showing a decrease of $18,000,000.

RAIN TO ORDER.

Balloons Inflated With Hydrogen Gas Exploded at High Altitudes.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Some interesting experiments were made near this city during the day in the way of carrying out the provisions of the Agricultural Appropriation bill to ascertain the possibility of producing rain in the arid regions.

Professor Dyhrenfurth, as special agent of the Agricultural Department, exploded at a high altitude several balloons inflated with hydrogen gas. The concussions were of great force, the first balloon being exploded at a height of 800 feet.

The balloons were held by wires and when they reached a certain height a battery was applied, which fired fuses in the neck of the balloon and exploded the gas. It is the first time that hydrogen gas has ever been manufactured in any quantity.

The object of the experiments to-day was to determine the availability of the apparatus, both for manufacturing gas and exploding it. The machinery is still crude and imperfect, but its success is assured. Whether the purpose for which it was designed—that of causing [illegible] remains to be demonstrated.

WATCHING THE APACHES.

Troops in New Mexico Expect an Indian Uprising.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Dispatches just received at the War Department say that roving bands of Apaches have been seen in several localities along the New Mexico-Arizona border and on the Black Range in Southwestern New Mexico. A general uprising is feared.

Troops are out in different directions, and are constantly kept advised of their movements. Captain A. S. B. Keyes and Lieutenant L. J. Fleming, of Company D., Tenth Cavalry, are in command of the forces in the field, but as yet they have been unable to locate the Apaches' stronghold.

A dispatch from Santa Fe says that numerous signs have been seen this week, and the Black Hawk militiamen, who are keeping a sharp lookout, saw signal fires Wednesday night which they supposed to be in the Cuchillo Mountains, near Edward's camp. A small detachment of soldiers, went to Edward's camp but failed to find any Indians. A Mexican just in from Monticello reports that twenty-five Indians have been seen in the San Mateo Mountains.

A Pardon Asked for Harper.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Another application has been made to the President for the pardon of ex-President Harper, the wrecker of the Cincinnati Fidelity Bank. The last one is in the shape of a letter from his wife, inclosing a petition signed by nearly every prominent man in Ohio. But in view of the late affairs in Philadelphia it is hardly likely any bank presidents now in prison will be pardoned.

Twenty Years at Hard Labor.

NEW BRUNSWICK, June 25.—Frank Cook and John Walker, the men who assaulted, robbed and attempted to kill old John Toms, of this city, last winter, and finally tied him up in a room in the country residence of Mrs. Kilpatrick on Hamilton street, just over the line in Somerset County, were disposed of by Judge Bartine at Somerville. He sentenced each of them to 20 years at hard labor in the State prison.

Columbia's Victory.

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 25.—Columbia won the triangular freshmen race in the record-breaking time of 9m. 41s. Across the finish line, under the old railroad bridge spanning the blue Thames, dashed the blue and white colors of the New York College, two lengths and a half ahead of the sapphire of Yale, and three and a half lengths in front of Harvard's crimson.

KNIGHTS IN POLITICS.

The General Executive Board Deliberates About Antagonizing Major McKinley.

COLUMBUS, O., June 25.—The General Executive Board of the Knights of Labor is in session here to-day. There are in attendance General Master Workman Powderly, John Devlin of Detroit, Mich.; A. W. Wright of Niagara, Ont., and J. W. Hayes of Philadelphia. The meeting will continue for several days, and will be an important one in many respects.

It will be decided whether Major McKinley shall be denounced or antagonized because President Harrison refused to allow the reinstatement of the discharged plate-printers at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing at Washington.

Mr. Devlin said "that no fault could be found with McKinley personally, as he had expressed sympathy with the men, but if antagonized at all, it would be as a leader of the Republican party, whose head, President Harrison, had refused the demand of organized labor."

RAILROAD DIRECTORS FREE.

Acquittal of the Officials of the New Haven Road.

NEW YORK, June 25.—None of the 12 directors of the New Haven Railroad indicted for a violation of the statutes in having the company's cars heated by stoves will spend his summer vacation in the penitentiary.

Judge Van Brunt in the Court of Oyer and Terminer, after two days spent in hearing the testimony of witnesses, decided that there was no case against 11 of them, and that they should not have been indicted. Whatever evidence might be presented against President Clark he thought it fit that the jury should pass upon. He ordered a verdict of acquittal in the case of the other defendants.

After four hours of deliberation the jury decided that Mr. Clark was no more guilty than the other defendants.

TERRIBLE STORM.

Forty Buildings in One Town Demolished by the Wind.

WATERLOO, Ia., June 25.—Reports have been received by Illinois Central officials in this city of a terrible wind and rain storm which prevailed last night along that company's lines from Storm Lake to Lamars, a distance of 56 miles. All the towns in that locality are considerably damaged. Four persons were drowned at Cherokee and four at Correctionville. The railroad depot at Calumet was blown down, and much damage to town property is reported.

Sutherland, O'Brien County, a small station on the Chicago & Northwestern railroad five miles from Calumet is reported to have been wiped out, over 40 buildings being blown down. The wires are all down, and it is impossible to obtain accurate information except the reports transmitted through the railroad officials.

EXCURSIONISTS SHOT.

Negroes Use Pistols, Razors and Stones in a General Fight.

WILMINGTON, Del., June 25.—A serious row took place at Brandywine Springs, near this city, last evening.

There was a combined excursion there of negroes from Baltimore, Washington, Wilmington and other places. Joseph Morris and his wife, Mary, of this city, were shot, the former in the side and the latter in the face. A Baltimore woman was shot in the side. A dozen other negroes were cut with razors and hurt with stones.

Garside Deceived His Friends.

EARL, Pa., June 25.—Upon the recommendation of President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor the directors of a new labor paper here engaged T. H. Garside to take editorial charge about eight months ago. They sent Garside a railroad ticket and some money, at his request, but did not hear of him again until he turned up a few days ago as "Detective Freeman," in the Banker Marsh case at Philadelphia.

Sullivan Will Fight.

NEW YORK, June 25.—A despatch to Richard K. Fox from San Francisco says: "John L. Sullivan said to-day that he will fight Frank P. Slavin for $10,000 a side and a purse of $25,000, either in the Olympic Club of New Orleans or the Granite Club of Hoboken, the fight to be decided any time between September and February, and Richard K. Fox, Al. Criddge or Dick Roche can hold the stakes."

FREEHOLD, N. J., June 25.—Mayor Wainwright caused the arrest of United States Senator Blodgett, superintendent of the New York and Long Branch Road, on the charge of violating an ordinance which compels his road to erect gates at street crossings. The hearing was adjourned one week. The authorities will also proceed against the directors of the company.

BOTH DRANK POISON

A Young Woman and Her Lover Decide to Die Together.

WAITED ALL NIGHT FOR DEATH.

They Couple Found Early in the Morning Groaning in Intense Agony.

They Were Clasped in Each Other's Arms—The Young Man Is Dead, but the Girl May Recover—An Extraordinary Tragedy in a City Park Told by One of the Victims.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., June 25.—An extraordinary tragedy in which love, jealousy and suicide figured culminated at an early hour.

Herman Heinleiss, formerly a bartender at the Russell House, and Josie Gibbons, a waitress in the same hotel, had a lovers' quarrel, Heinleiss being jealous on account of attentions paid to a brother bartender. Yesterday Heinleiss returned from Honesdale, Pa.

She Proved Her Love.

About 10 p. m. Heinleiss came to the hotel door and asked for her. After a few moments' conversation she put on her bonnet and shawl and went out with him, saying she would soon return. After leaving the hotel the young man stopped at a saloon and got a bottle of soda water, and then the pair walked to Webb's Park—a picnic resort in the southern suburbs of the city. The story of what occurred after they reached the place is told by Josie as follows: Heinleiss said to her that he was fully satisfied that she loved his rival best and as he couldn't bear the thought of living without her he had determined to kill himself. He produced a package of rat poison, which he proceeded to pour into the sodawater bottle.

Both Drank the Poison.

She remonstrated with him and implored him to desist, assuring him that the conduct of which he complained was nothing more than an innocent flirtation, and that she was true to him. He persisted in his fatal purpose and challenged her to prove her constancy by sharing the poison and dying with him. She consented, and at about midnight they drank the contents of the soda water bottle in alternate draughts. Then they lay down upon the grass in each other's arms to die.

Charles Easterly, a colored man, is the custodian of the park and lives in a little house there. When he got up at 4 a. m. he discovered the young man and woman writhing in intense agony on the ground near the dancing pavilion. He assisted them into his house and sent for help. Heinleiss died before a doctor came. When the suffering girl found that he was dead she bitterly reproached herself.

"My God!" she exclaimed, "I have killed him! What shall I do."

Then she prayed that she, too, might die. She was removed to the home of her brother, where she will probably recover.

WANAMAKER'S DENIAL.

The Postmaster-General Talks Again About the Keystone Bank Stock.

WASHINGTON, June 25.—Postmaster-General Wanamaker, when asked to-day if there was any truth in the finding of the Councils Committee of Philadelphia that 2,265 shares of Keystone National Bank stock issued in the name of John Wanamaker, in addition to 2,515 shares which he admitted he had turned into the Lucas estate, or being told it was an overissue, and that he signed some of the transfers of this stock, said that such finding was ridiculous; that he never owned a share of Keystone stock by purchase or gift, nor did he ever find a share of it; and the books of the bank will prove that he was never recorded as a stockholder, if they were properly kept.

He also said that on one occasion he obtained a loan for Lucas on his stock from a trust company of which he was a director, which loan was paid off by the Lucas estate after his death. These certificates were in his name, but he did not own them, nor have a cent of interest in the loan, which was purely an act of friendship. In his testimony before the committee he confined himself to the stock held by him in the Reading operation which was the only stock he had interest in.

GOV. CAMPBELL'S VICTORY.

He Scores a Point Against His Enemies in Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, June 25.—The Democratic State convention will be held in Cleveland, July 14 and 15.

The State Central Committee has decided that the ratio of delegates apportioned to each county must be made on the vote of 1890, and not that of 1889, which was the Campbell vote.

This knocks out the primaries of the Hamilton County Democrats, which were held last Saturday, and makes legal the primaries of several other counties which have already endorsed Gov. Campbell.

The committee also decides that no mass delegation will be recognized. Allen W. Thurman will be temporary chairman of the convention.

This is a great victory for Gov. Campbell.

Fred Brokaw Drowned While Trying to Rescue a Girl.

AWFUL STRUGGLE IN THE SURF.

Three Young Women in the Grasp of Sea "Puss."

Princeton's Famous Catcher Attempts to Aid Them—He Battles Bravely With Waves to Bring One of the Victims Ashore—His Effort Was in Vain and Both Perished.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., June 25.—Fred Brokaw, son of the millionaire clothier, J. V. Brokaw of New York, was drowned last evening in front of his father's cottage on Ocean avenue while trying to save from drowning two servant girls employed by Charles Hess, who occupied the adjoining cottage.

Miss Annie Donohue, Miss Maggie Birsch and Miss Julia Torpis, all of whom were employed by Mrs. Hess as maids, had gone bathing. They were caught in the "sea puss" and carried out beyond their depth. Their cries were heard by Brokaw, who, with Dr. Ferris of Philadelphia, was sitting on the lawn of the Brokaw cottage reading.

The two gentlemen immediately threw off their outer garments and, without a moment's hesitation, leaped into the sea.

Brokaw seized Miss Donohue and Dr. Ferris caught hold of Miss Birsch. The gentlemen tried to swim in with their burdens, but were prevented from doing so by the "sea puss." Meantime Fisherman James Bradly had launched a boat and rowed to Ferris' side. He drew the latter and Miss Birsch into the boat and turned to assist young Brokaw, when a huge wave struck the craft, capsizing it and throwing the occupants into the sea. They all succeeded, however, in getting hold of the bottom of the boat, to which they clung until rescued by another boat, which had been launched by Mr. Dunn from the life-saving station.

Dunn then turned his attention toward saving Brokaw and his companion, but they had disappeared. The young man had made a gallant struggle to reach the shore with his burden, but failed. The girl, whose life he was trying to save, completely lost her head, several times breaking from his grasp. He would not desert her, however, and struggled manfully to bring her to the shore.

Several times he almost succeeded, but the strong undertow always carried them far out to sea again. Finally his efforts to reach the shore and his struggles to retain his hold on the girl exhausted him and he sank from view with the girl whom he clung to to the end.

His Parents Frantic With Grief.

Mr. and Mrs. Brokaw witnessed the sad accident from the beach, and are almost frantic with grief. A reward of $1,000 has been offered for the recovery of young Brokaw's body, but neither his remains nor those of the girl have yet been found.

Brokaw was 21 years old. He was catcher of the Princeton College team and a graduate of that college in the class of '91.

Miss Torpis was rescued by an unknown man. Dr. Ferris was completely exhausted when rescued and was taken to the Brokaw cottage, where he lies in a critical condition.

Hundreds of wealthy New Yorkers, who have cottages in the vicinity, witnessed the sad accident. Fishermen are dragging the ocean for the bodies.

ENGLAND MUST SIGN.

Germany and Italy Want a Binding Agreement in Case of War.

BERLIN, June 25.—The visit of the Kaiser to England will be made the occasion for a definite understanding as to the relations between Great Britain and the Triple Alliance.

The Kaiser has had several personal interviews with Sir Edward Malet, and is said to be anxious to bind England to an agreement that would have the force, if not the form, of treaty obligation.

Italy is also discontented with the qualified promises of support by the British fleet in the event of a naval demonstration by France against Italy.

It is not doubted in circles usually well informed that Lord Salisbury has substantially promised to side with the Triple Alliance in the event of a united attack upon the members of the Alliance by Russia or France. But the German and Italian governments are not at all satisfied as to how long Lord Salisbury will be in position to carry out his informal engagements which might be repudiated by a succeeding administration. Hence the desire for a binding arrangement.

FOUND A DYNAMITE BOMB.

It Exploded While Being Handled by an Anarchist's Child.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., June 25.—On Memorial Day Anarchists in this city held a jollification at a farm of a Bohemian named Mastalla, who lives at the extreme north end of the city, on which occasion John Most, now serving a sentance in New York State, was present.

Yesterday when the family of Mastalla proceeded to clean the rooms which had been occupied by the visitors, an 8-year-old son found in the match safe an article which afterward proved to be a dynamite bomb. It was shown to his 15-year-old sister by the lad, and while she was examining its structure it exploded, tearing the flesh of the girl's left hand so badly that it will be necessary to amputate the ends of all the four fingers and the thumb.

The boy was knocked senseless, and another daughter who was standing close by had the flesh of one hand badly lacerated.

ESSE, QUAM VIDERI.

Twenty-four Graduates to Go Out With This Motto To-night.

"To be, rather than to seem" is the motto of the Class of '91 which is to be graduated from High School life to-night. The members have of course scorned the English language in putting their life resolution into words, and have adopted the more condensed Latin rendering of the same expression: Esse, quam videri.

The graduates number twenty-four. The complete list, with the subjects of the graduation essays written, is as follows:

Alice J. Carroll, "Autographs"; Margaret R. Cory, "My Favorite Author"; Martha A. Covert, "Apple Blossoms"; Fred. A. Daboll, "A Cemetery of Nations"; Lucy V. Dunham, "Elizabeth Barrett Browning"; Frank H. Flannery, "Athletics"; Arthur F. Freeman, "Queens of Song"; Edith L. Gilbert, "Disciplina Latina"; Eudora O. Grant, "The Seasons"; Harriette R. Halloway, "Famous Streets"; Amy S. Hyer, "Pictures from American History"; Alfred G. Killmer, "Public Benefactors"; Hannah L. Larkin, "The Children's Crusade"; Anna B. Murphy, "Monuments"; Louis G. Newman, "The Organ"; Marian B. Nevius, "Historic Houses in America"; Mary S. Patten, "Criticism"; Auguste L. Saltzman, "The Yankee"; Frederick G. Smith, "Henry M. Stanley"; Mary F. Thompson, "Song in History"; Margaret S. Thompson, "Musicians and Their Masterpieces"; Lucy M. Titsworth, "Two Views from Washington Rock"; Evielena J. Van-Court, "The Tariff"; Howard S. Wilson, "The Lowest Ebb".

If all of the essays were read, the graduating exercises would be drawn out to an almost interminable length, hence, as in former years, only a few of the essays are selected to be read before the public, and as usual the endeavor has been to make the selections with the utmost fairness and impartiality. All of the essays are good, and each will be highly appreciated in the large circle of friends each scholar has, but it is an utter impossibility to make room on the programme for even a majority of them.

Besides the diplomas to the twenty-four young people who have just completed the High School course of study, President Kirkner of the Board of Education will present three others, these to Flora R. Petrie, Louise B. Runyon, and Leora D. Wessel, who constitute the Training Class of '91. This is the third successive training class that has finished the curriculum. Selections for a new class are made every two years. The membership is necessarily limited, and as the list of applicants is large great care has to be exercised in making the biennial choice. To be eligible to membership one has to be a graduate of the local High School, and has to show a special aptitude for teaching. The accepted trio put in a long and studious two-years term under a most excellent and thorough system of training prepared and administered by Miss Julia E. Bulkley, the High School principal. The result is the best possible preparation for the practical duties of teaching. When the training class experience is ended, positions at teaching are provided, so that home talent is constantly being made available for local public school instruction. Even while studying, calls for service are frequent, and the present training class graduates put in nearly 300 days at active work, supplying vacancies during illnessess and other temporary absences, during the past two years. "We would not know how to get along"—says Miss Bulkley—"were it not for our training class. The class and the schools are invaluable and indispensable to each other."

The address of Dr. Carroll to-night is not to be made until after the awards of prizes are announced, but it is nevertheless hoped that the audience will have the good-breeding and courtesy to remain seated until after its delivery, and not, as in former years, rush from the building as soon as the speaker of the evening is announced. The address cannot but be a most excellent one, since it comes from Dr. Carroll.

Some misapprehension exists concerning the matter of reserved seats. Only a few reserved-seat tickets are issued. These are distributed only among those strictly entitled to them—graduates and a limited circle of friends, the President and members of the Board of Education, and press representatives. The balance of the seats are free to the general public, and all have an equal chance in securing them after the doors are opened.

The members of the Board of Education under whose management the graduating exercises are to be held, are: Jacob Kirkner, president; Edward L. Finch, secretary; George H. Babcock, the Rev. J. L. Huribut, D. D., and John B. Probasco, M. D.

This year's Commencement numbers the twenty-first. The hour of beginning the exercises is 7:45.

City Paupers Become County Charges.

Kate d'Shea and Catherine Baird, two ancient dames who have for some time been subsisting on the charity of the city, got intoxicated in their room in "Battle Row", the local poor-house, on West Fourth street, a day or two ago, and became so brutal and indecent in their conduct that yesterday afternoon Judge Coddington sent them to the county jail for 40 days.

—The Young Arlingtons will play the Resolutes at base-ball to-morrow morning at 9:30. A good game is promised.

DOUGLASS GREEN AND MRS. M'CREA.

They Were Married in a Bona Fide Manner Three Weeks Ago.

It is announced that Mrs. Alice Snell McCrea and Douglass Green, formerly of this city, were married in Milwaukee, June 4. The mother of the bride, Mrs. A. J. Snell, was present at the ceremony, and Mrs. Green is now stopping with her in Chicago, awaiting the return of Mr. Green from New York, whither he went to settle some business affairs.

Douglass Green and Mrs. McCrea have been married before. More than a year ago they created a tremendous deal of social excitement by going to a small Virginia town from Old Point Comfort, one Sunday afternoon, and hiring a negro preacher to make them man and wife.

Green already had a wife and two beautiful children who possess many sincere friends in Plainfield, where they formerly lived on East Fifth street. Mrs. Snell-McCrea, who is the daughter of murdered millionaire Snell, of Chicago, also had a living husband, but she had been divorced. Green was a member of the New York Stock Exchange, and the firm of Green & Bateman occupied a leading position in Wall street.

Green took Mrs. Snell-McCrea to Europe. His partners, Commodore A. E. Bateman and C. E. Coon, at once expelled him from the firm, and he quickly dropped out of sight. His wife recently divorced him, and his seats in the Stock and Cotton Exchanges were sold to pay claims against him.

JOHN IS FORGIVEN.

But the Woman Who Sinned With Him Is An Outcast on the Streets.

The arrest of John B. Gable, which was chronicled exclusively in yesterday's PRESS, was followed by his release, last evening, on $300 bail furnished by Michael Ettinger, a neighbor.

When Gable returned to his wife's home the woman went into spasms, but finally recovered and said:

"Oh, John, give up that woman and I'll forgive you and take you back."

A hearing of Gable's case has been set for this afternoon at 3 o'clock, but as Gable has promised to reform and to care for his wife and family hereafter Mrs. Gable will not testify against him, and the case will probably be dismissed and Gable discharged.

Meanwhile, it is stated that Mrs. Avery's money has given out and that a life of open shame is all that is left to her. Mr. Avery remains stoutly determined to have nothing more to do with her.

Dunellen Doings.

[From our own correspondent.]

B. Drake and family, of Baltimore, are spending a few weeks with Mr. Drake's mother in the borough.

C. Apgar, organist of the Presbyterian church, spent Sunday out of town, and L. Newman of Plainfield presided at the organ.

Mr. Roberts, principal of the public school, gave an illustrated lecture on the "Life of Christ" in the Presbyterian church Sunday evening. Special music was given by the choir.

There has been another change at the railway station: A new ticket-agent this time.

A petition signed by the commuters of the borough has been sent to the railway officials asking that the 4:30 express from New York stop at Dunellen.

Miss Peck's kindergarten school will hold its closing exercises in the Presbyterian church to-morrow evening.

A Children's Home in Westfield.

A meeting of the citizens of Westfield was held Tuesday evening to take definite action for the establishment of a children's home. A. E. Pearsall acted as chairman and the Rev. J. K. Folwell as secretary. Wm. G. Peckham offered the Fairbairn farm for the use of the home free for one year, $50 for the second year, and $100 for the third year. It was decided to accept Mr. Peckham's offer. The management of the home will be vested in a board of managers composed of two ladies from each church in the village, with two more ladies from the town at large, and an advisory committee of one gentleman from each church and one from the town at large. It is intended to keep the home open the entire year. It will be started on a sound financial basis.

They Work Wonders.

For over 6 years I have been afflicted with Dyspepsia; could not eat meat without distress and sickness of the stomach afterwards. Have used Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills for 2 weeks, and now eat all kinds of food without return of old trouble. They certainly work wonders in curing Dyspepsia or Stomach Troubles.

THE SWEET GIRL GRADUATE.

(Written for THE PRESS.)

Pretty, dainty, as an angel,
In her fleecy dress of white,
And her hair like Heaven's sunshine
Shedding its celestial light;
Eyes as deep as limpid rivers;
Lips that frame a set of pearls;
Form that makes her seem a Venus
By the side of other girls.
How we envy all the teachers,
And the scholars and the rest,
Who in her gracious company
Have had their studies blest.
But we 're away in the back seat,
And her smile of glad surprise
Is not because her winsome glance
Has met our staring eyes,
Ah, well; it has not been our lot
To be so fair as she,
Or know as much, or talk as well,
Or look so prettily;
And so we bow and worship her,
And moan the wretched fate,
That says, though wise, we cannot be
A sweet girl graduate.

PAUL LOIZEAUX HELD SERVICES

Over the Body of Mrs. Freeman Whose Death Was Due to Criminal Blundering.

On the fourth floor of 334 East Seventy-seventh street, New York city, Thursday of last week, there were sad funeral rites at which Paul Loizeaux of this city officiated, and the little baby recently born to the unfortunate woman then lying dead cried in its cot alongside the coffin. This is the story of the life thus ended:

John Freeman came to this country from England two and a half years ago and went to work at his trade of paper hanging. In a year and a half he saved several hundred dollars, and sent for his Mary to come over from her home in the north of Ireland, and they were married. Three weeks ago a daughter was born. On the Sunday morning following, a slight fever set in, and Dr. William W. Strew was called in. When he called again the next morning he found the patient delirious, and he advised that she be sent to the German Hospital, where she could have better attention. He gave the husband a note which read:

"This is a case of puerperal fever, and requires care and attention such as she cannot get home. Dr. S."

An ambulance took the patient to the hospital, where Freeman went the next evening and met Dr. Strew coming out. The doctor told him that his wife was still delirious, but that there was no great danger for the moment. The next morning Mr. Freeman went to work and at noon he ran up to the hospital to see how his wife was getting along. The superintendent met him at the door and told him that she had been sent to Bellevue because she was too violent to be kept there.

Mr. Freeman hurried to Bellevue and asked to see his wife. A clerk glanced through the book. "Mrs. Freeman—puerperal fever. I guess that's it. Here, Jim," (turning to an attendant) "take this man up to the female ward."

The attendant left him at the door leading into the ward and told him to walk right in. Mr. Freeman entered and saw before him two long rows of snow-white cots, in some of which women lay. He turned to a nurse and asked:

"Where is Mrs. Freeman?"

"I don't know them by name"—was the answer.—"You can look around for yourself."

Mr. Freeman walked the entire length of the room and back again, but his wife was not there. The nurse conducted him to another attendant.

"That's the woman who was brought from the German Hospital with fever; was n't it?"—she asked.

The husband nodded eagerly.

"She died last night. You will find the body out in the Morgue."

Out in the dead house Freeman found the body of his wife in a pine box. It was sent to his home, and the funeral was held on Thursday. They have no ministers or clergymen among The Brethren, of which sect Freeman and his wife were members, but Paul Loizeaux of this city made a few remarks.

Taylor and Bonner Will Be the Battery.

Next Saturday's ball game on the Crescent League's grounds promises to be more than usually interesting for many reasons. Taylor, the Crescent's new pitcher, will be in the box, with Bonner to catch him.

The North Side Athletic club's nine is the strongest team in the northern section of New York city, and leads in the series of championship games. Of a total of seven games played they have won every game, and hope to prevail against the Plainfield team, by their superior batting, which is a feature of their playing. The first six named below are particularly strong with the stick, and catcher Lamer has not been struck out this season. The team will be: Montgomery, third base; Quinn, short stop; Lamer, catcher; Blackmore, second base; Gooch, left field; Tynan, pitcher: White, first base; Green, centre field; Farrell, right field.

—Stop her! Don't let her waste money! That woman can buy what she wants at Peck's.

Oh, What a Cough

Will you heed the warning. The signal perhaps of the sure approach of that more terrible disease, Consumption. Ask yourselves if you can afford for the sake of saving 50c., to run the risk and do nothing for it. We know from experience that Shiloh's Cure will cure your cough. It never fails. This explains why more than a Million Bottles were sold the past year. It relieves croup and whooping cough at once. Mothers, do not be without it. THE NEW CHURCH RECOGNIZED.

Immanuel Baptists, Led by Pastor Mitchell, Received Into the Council.

A council convened at the call of the Immanuel Baptist church, in their place of worship on West Front street, Plainfield, N. J., June 24, 1891, to inquire into the organization and examine the articles of faith of that church.

The Rev. J. W. Hill of Newark was elected moderator, and the Rev. F. G. Warnick of Plainfield clerk.

Hymn 518 was sung, and the thirty-fifth chapter of Isaiah was read by the moderator. The Rev. E. Bird offered prayer.

The call was presented by the Rev. J. W. Mitchell. At the calling of the roll the following delegates responded:

The Rev. F. G. Warnick, of Mt. Olive, Plainfield.

The Rev. W. D. Johnson, Major Gaines, and G. W. Johnson, Westfield.

The Rev. W. H. Wallace, W. M. Witfield, and E. L. Clarke, Cranford First.

The Rev. D. E. Robinson, B. Bates, and J. Fields, Shiloh, Elizabeth.

The Rev. William Hill, B. F. World, and James Burton, Mt. Zion, Newark.

The Rev. Wm. Perry and Boyce L. Price, Montclair Union Baptist.

The Rev. G. M. Crawley, Mt. Olive, Newark.

The Rev. E. Bird and L. B. Brown, Day Star church, New York.

The minutes of the church, articles of faith, and the organization, were examined.

Pastor Mitchell then stated to the council that the church was composed, in its organization, of only those whom he had baptized; that the membership is now 29; and that they have accepted the N. H. confession of faith.

After a careful examination, a motion was made by the Rev. E. Bird, of New York, and seconded by the Rev. Wm. Wallace of Cranford, that the council recognize the Immanuel Baptist church, which was unanimously carried.

A committee was then appointed to prepare a programme for the recognition services. The committee were: The Revs. J. W. Mitchell, W. H. Wallace, D. E. Robinson and E. Bird. They reported the following programme:

Reassemble at 8 o'clock.
Opening Hymn, the Rev. F. G. Warnick.
Sermon by the Rev. E. Bird.
Reading of Scripture, the Rev. G. M. Crawley.
Prayer by the Rev. W. D. Johnson.
Hand of fellowship and charge to the church, the Rev. Wm. Hill.
Charge to the pastor, the Rev. D. E. Robinson.
Benediction by the pastor.

The report was adopted. It was then unanimously voted that the minutes be published by THE PRESS.

The minutes were read, and the Council adjourned with prayer by the Rev. D. E. Robinson, to meet at 8 o'clock.

REV. WM. HILL, Moderator,
REV. F. G. WARNICK, Clerk.

8 o'clock p. m. (Text—Mark XVI: 15.)—The evening exercises were well attended, and the programme was faithfully carried out.

F. G. WARNICK, Clerk.

Plainfield, N. J., June 24, 1891.

Blinded for Life by a Playmate.

Wallace Ryno, son of Andrew Ryno of Willow Grove, near Westfield, was blinded for life by Richard Kissam, a playmate, a few days ago. The two lads had been romping about the fields when Kissam in play began switching with a stick of wood the branches of a tree near which Ryno was standing. Suddenly the stick broke, and a part of it flew and struck Ryno in the eye. Although the lads were several feet apart the stick tore the eye almost completely out of Ryno's head, and subsequently it had to be removed altogether. The sight of the other eye also is affected, and will probably be lost altogether.

The Tax on Drawing-Room Cars.

This State might have lost an annual income of about $700 if the Supreme Court had decided differently a few days ago. The court, however, decided that the drawing-room cars could be taxed by the State through which these cars are run, and the 2 per cent. which New Jersey has collected on the gross receipts in this State of the Pullman and Woodruff Companies will continue to be paid. The gross receipts in New Jersey of the Pullman Company were last year $8,664,05, while the Woodruff Company received $25,911.50. The exact tax paid was $691.51.

Next Time Paint the Preacher, Not the Horse.

The Newark Evening News thinks that the young men of Stirling who painted a Presbyterian preacher's horse red, white and blue because the pastor was considered too attentive to the young women who preferred the clergyman's society to that of the young men, should be prosecuted by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. If any one had to be painted—it asks—why should it have been the innocent horse? What was the matter with the preacher?

Lively Times Over the New High School.

The Westfield people had another stormy meeting Monday night, but finally agreed to appropriate $4,000 to grade and ornament the grounds and furnish the interior of the new High School building the erection of which, including $4,000 for the building lot, cost them $25,000. What has made the citizens' meetings lively has been the opposition of people who thought a new school unnecessary.

I HAVE had catarrh for twenty years, and used all kinds of remedies without relief. Mr. Smith, druggist, of Little Falls, recommended Ely's Cream Balm. The effect of the first application was magical, it allayed the inflammation and the next morning my head was as clear as a bell. I am convinced its use will effect a permanent cure. It is soothing and pleasant, and I strongly urge its use by all sufferers.—Geo. Terry, Little Falls, N. Y.

RUNNING ON SNOW SHOES.

What Can Be Done on These Clumsy-Looking Foot-Sleds.

HOSE who look for the first time on the wide, clumsy snow-shoes that hang crossed upon the wall of a young bachelor's apartment, or are exhibited in some museum among other curious things from the north, would regard them as an awkward sort of shoe, and a difficult if not dangerous thing to use. The beginner is as ill at ease as a cat with paper shoes on, and more certain to come to grief. With the abject humility that follows the first trial comes a respect for the snow-shoer of only average ability, awe and admiration for the expert who shuffles along unconscious of the great flat surfaces tied to his feet.

In the northern part of the United States, and in Canada, where it is said the year consists of "eight months winter and four months poor sledding," the snow-shoe is a necessity for hunters, trappers and those who must travel the unbroken snow. These men begin as boys tramping about with long narrow clapboards fastened to their feet, setting wire nooses for the little white rabbits that track the snow with their own broad feet. As they grow older they get their first pair of rawhide snow-shoes, and with these they go beating about the country on longer excursions with gun on shoulder scaring away every thing but the noisy squirrels and impudent chickadees.

I have heard from those who knew him of a certain lumberman in Canada who was so good a snow-shoer that there was not a man in the whole country who, running on a hard-beaten roadway with moccasins, could beat him as he ran on his snow-shoes in the deep snow alongside.

Karoniare, an Iroquois, once won the first race of two miles in 11 minutes 7 seconds, wearing a pair of 8-ounce racing snow-shoes. This same fellow ran ten miles easily in less than an hour. "Big John," a chief whose real name is Sewatis Aientonni, is one of the best known of his tribe. He is a celebrated snow-shoer, and is credited with a mile run in 4 minutes and 37 seconds. Another, also an Iroquois, is White Eagle, who is said to have run a hundred yards in less than 12 seconds.

A YOUNG PEOPLE'S SNOW-SHOE CLUB.

There are hurdle-races also. It seems to us impossible to jump a hurdle with snow-shoes such as are worn at Montreal. These shoes are the kind we see most commonly in the United States, and are noticeable for their long "heels," which would be in the way when jumping.

Nor are the white men who enter in anywise inferior to their red competitors in running or jumping.

For a hundred yards on a track the amateur record is less than 10 seconds; with racing snow-shoes, 11¼ seconds. One thousand yards on track, about 2 minutes 13 seconds; with ordinary snow-shows, 3 minutes 15 seconds. One mile, track, 4 minutes 18 2-5 seconds; with ordinary snow-shoes, 5 minutes 42¾ seconds. Two miles, track, 9 minutes 17 2-5 seconds; with racing shoe, 11 minutes 52¾ seconds. Five miles, track, 25 minutes 7 4-5 seconds; with ordinary snow-shoe, 32 minutes 18 seconds. In the hurdle races the long snow-shoe would naturally be at a disadvantage. As the hurdles used differ as to number and height, the real difference in time can not be so readily seen. The 8-ounce skeleton shoe is used. One hundred yards, track, 8 hurdles 3½ feet high, 14¾ seconds; with snow-shoes, 4 hurdles 3¼ feet high, 13¾ seconds. One hundred and twenty yards, track, 10 hurdles 3½ feet high, 16 seconds; with snow-shoes, 4 hurdles 3¼ feet high, 15 seconds. Four hundred and forty yards, track, 10 hurdles 3½ feet high, 1 minute 1¾ seconds; with snow-shoes, 6 hurdles 3½ feet high, 1 minute 26¼ seconds.

In the winter of 1875 one of the longest tramps on record was made. A party of surveyors who were seeking a route for the Canadian Pacific railway traveled from British Columbia across the Rocky Mountains, a distance of 900 miles.

Nothing is more awkward for a beginner than learning to keep right side up on snow-shoes. It is not necessary to walk with legs stretched wide apart, for one shoe is lifted over instead of around the other. The tracks lie one in front of the other almost as in ordinary walking. By taking long steps one need never flounder in the snow as a beginner does who lets the toe of one shoe get caught under the heel of the other. — Tappan Adney, in Harper's Young People.

The Original "Sucker."

"The word 'sucker' originated at the Galena mines in Illinois in the fall of 1822, at a time when there was a great exodus. A large returning party, while boarding a steamer at the Galena wharf, was asked: 'Wher' ye go-n?' 'To hum,' was the reply. 'Well,' was the rejoinder of an old miner, 'ye put me in mind of suckers, they do go up the river in the spring, spawn, and all return down ag'in in the fall.'"

The most beautiful woman in New York said that she "ascribed her good health and rosy cheeks to the occasional use of a tablespoonful of pure whiskey before meals. It increased the circulation, sent a warm glow through the system, and gave her a hearty appetite." That is the experience of all who drink pure whiskey moderately. A. R. TUDOR'S Rye Whiskey is warranted absolutely pure and ten years old.

THE FUN OF CATCHING EELS.

The Squirmers Are Sometimes Caught in Peculiar Ways.

Parties travel along our shore, says the Lewiston Journal, setting traps for eels at the mouths of brooks above salt water. These consist of a roomy box of slats, with an inconspicuous entrance. The squirmers go in and stay in till they are taken out. Other parties set pots near the head of the tide. These are like lobster traps in some respects. In the end is a tunnel-shaped entrance very easy to get into. This entrance is rendered still more effective sometimes by a continuation in the shape of a stocking leg, and I have seen sharp brads driven in so as to impale the victim should he poke his head out the door. These traps are sunk to the bottom with a line and a buoy attached. Horseshoe crabs are considered the best bait for eels. In the fall they pass up into rivers and ponds, sometimes in great numbers, and always in the darkest nights; then the boys are on deck with gaffs.

Their winter home is in the slimiest mud. Some bed in salt mud, others in the rivers. At Goose river is a spot where eels are always found just as soon as ice forms. Strangely enough, it is said to be a ledge. By quick work a bushel are sometimes speared out in a few minutes. Spearing is to me the most satisfactory method of fishing for them. An eel spear is built like Neptune's trident, with a wooden handle twelve to twenty feet long. With it the fisherman repairs to the river, if in tide water, at low water. In the fall a boat is used. In the winter the ice is cut in a semicircle, then with one clip the projecting tongue is cut off and pushed under. Now the podging begins. The spear is jabbed in the mud gently; if it meets resistance when pulled out, the fisherman yanks it like lightning and shakes the wiggler off on the ice.

Very often in this vicinity, near the wharf and shipyard, an iron bolt, a tree nail, hoop skirt, stove funnel, bag of kittens, piece of rigging, gold watch or some other trifle is hauled out, and by Christmas time the ice is covered with trash. Eels move about some in the mud, for sometimes they are caught where none was to be found the day before.

CASH CUSTOMERS.

One Grocerywan Says He Prefers Those Who Trade on Credit.

It seems very strange, but it is true, nevertheless, that customers who pay cash for their purchases are not considered very desirable by butchers or grocers, and especially those who do not send children or messengers after the goods, but go themselves and have the articles selected and weighed or measured under their personal supervision. A groceryman whom I questioned on the subject endeavored to deny that such was the fact, says a writer in the New York Telegram, but when I mentioned several instances to show that it was true, he said: "Well, we don't like them because they are too particular. They want the biggest and best of everything and then they beat down your prices as low as they can. Of course it is pleasant to get the ready money, but it comes in such small amounts that the full benefit of it is not appreciated. Besides you are never sure of a cash customer. They are not in your debt and can quit you when they feel they have a grievance. You are sure of the customers who run an account with you, though occasionally they fail to pay. But we have a way of protecting ourselves against loss," said the groceryman, with a sly smile.

"No wonder the butchers and grocers prefer customers who run a book to those who pay cash," said a boarding house keeper of my acquaintance; "a cent or two more on a pound for everything is charged to the book customer, who is usually careless in noting the increase, but this difference alone makes a handsome profit for the grocer. In addition to this the poorest quality of goods is foisted on the customer who runs an account, as the privilege of running a book is supposed to be a favor for which the customer cannot be too grateful. Where the latter is inclined to be careless it often happens that certain items find their way on the book, so that when the account is footed up at the end of the week or month the total is found to be much larger than was anticipated. It is not at all strange, to one who knows, why grocers and butchers are willing to take chances with book customers."

HELIOGRAPH LANGUAGE.

Signaling by This Method Is a Comparatively Recent Invention.

In the dispatches from the northwest describing the movements of the troops assembled there mention was now and then made of the operations of the heliograph corps, and also of the signaling by the Indians among themselves with pieces of looking-glass. The first use of the modern system of military signaling, which was invented by Gen. A. J. Myer, of the United States army, was in the campaign against the Navajo Indians in northwestern New Mexico in 1860, says the New York Sun. Flags and torches were the means chiefly used. Signaling by reflected light has been common in many countries for a long period; the American Indian has for years used bits of looking-glass for this purpose. The perfected heliograph is comparatively a recent invention. It is a small, adjustable mirror mounted on a tripod and easily portable. When the mirror has been adjusted to reflect the light upon the station to be communicated with a movable screen is set up in front of it, and the signaling is done by revealing or obscuring the flash for shorter or longer periods, corresponding with the dots and dashes of the Morse telegraph alphabet. Signaling with the heliograph has been done successfully over a distance of one hundred and twenty-five miles, and it is not uncommon to cover distances of eighty to one hundred miles. Fifty-five miles is about the ordinary average. The signal corps used the heliograph very effectively in the campaign against the Apache Indians in Arizona in 1886, and the corps has also attained remarkable results with the heliograph in other more peaceful signaling operations.

An Effective Advertisement.

The effect an advertisement has upon the reader is very well illustrated by the following, as related in the Mechanical News: A wealthy man who owns a country residence recently became dissatisfied with it, and determined to have another. So he instructed a real estate agent famous for his descriptive powers to advertise it in the papers for private sale, but to conceal the location, telling purchasers to apply at his office. In a few days the gentleman happened to see the advertisement, was pleased with the account of the place, showed it to his wife, and the two concluded it was just the place they wanted, and that they would secure it at once. So he went to the office of the agent, and told him that the place he had advertised was such a one as he desired, and he would purchase it. The agent burst into a laugh, and told him that it was a description of his own house where he was then living. He read the advertisement again, cogitated over the "grassy slopes," "beautiful vistas," "smooth lawns," etc., and broke out: "Is it possible? Well, make out my bill for advertising and expenses, for, by George! I wouldn't sell the place now for three times what it cost me."

The Merit of Persistence.

One of the secrets of successful advertising consists in keeping your establishment and the wares you have to sell before the eyes of the public continually. The great advertisers of the country never cease reminding you of their existence. Their names, the location and nature of their establishments are thrust before you continually in the great daily, weekly and monthly publications, and at the moment you are ready to buy anything they have to sell, at that same moment the names of these advertisers flash before your mind's eye, and, unconscious of the influence their advertisements have worked upon you, you find yourself going to their places for what you require.—Reading (Pa.) Eagle.

Look for an Invitation.

Keep your eye on the newspaper, and see which of the merchants want your custom and are sufficiently courteous to invite you to call. There is much more in advertising than you may think. It is not only to tell of his goods that a man advertises, but is to invite the people who read—the thinking, the intelligent—to pay him a visit, and judge for themselves as to the quality and price of what he offers for sale. People read the advertisements. Don't make any mistake about that. They are just as much interested in knowing where to buy to an advantage as the advertiser is in selling his goods.

Qualifications for a Salesman.

John Wanamaker addressed the Travelers' club in Philadelphia recently. "You want to be successful and you can. I don't believe that God ever ordained that one man should be successful and another not, but it lies with the man himself. One comes stumbling into your store, does not shut the door, and his breath smells of whisky. You want nothing to do with him. Right after him comes another bright, smart fellow. He walks briskly, shuts the door behind him and is cleanly attired; a dirty man can't be a salesman. The fellow makes an impression and sells his goods."

The People You Don't Know.

There is a great deal in writing an attractive advertisement. Do you give your advertisements your best attention? If you expect to do a large business on the fact that you know so many people you will get left. The ones you don't know are greatly in the majority. How are you to reach them in the most favorable manner at the least expense? By placing an attractive advertisement in the newspaper.—Lincoln (Neb.) Courier.

Advertising as an Investment.

Advertising is a tax on him who so regards it. Only when he has learned to look upon it as an investment, and treat it as such, giving it his time and thought, will it develop into a thing that pays. Newspaper advertising space, like most other kinds of property, has two values; to wit, what it costs the advertiser and what it is worth to him. Therefore, in buying it, he should consider its character as well as its price.—The Roller Mill.

A Boon to Man.

The newspaper advertising columns are a boon to man. They help him out of his troubles and into the smiles of prosperity. If Truth is contemplating the erection of a new arch, she cannot do a more consistent thing than to choose for its keystone:

He who in this world would rise
Must read the papers and advertise.

—Chicago Herald.

A Striking Advertisement.

A certain advertisement, printed fully ten years ago, is still recalled as having been to this effect: "Two-thirds of your life is spent in your clothes. Why not have comfortable clothes?" It was a truism of course, but put in that form and with the "two-thirds" printed boldly as a fraction it was peculiarly striking. —Philadelphia Ledger.

Cannot Afford to Stop.

There is a reason why a business that has been built up by advertising cannot afford to stop or change its tactics. The class of trade that has been secured is the kind that is influenced by advertising, and he who would hold it must continue using the same means.—Printers' Ink.

The Keystone of Success.

Because a man is doing a big business and making money is no reason why he should not make more, and many a millionaire has found that letting people know what he had to sell was the keystone of success.—Rome (N. Y.) Tribune.

Don't Encourage Peddlers.

Give peddlers the "go by" and deal with your home merchants, who show they desire your patronage by advertising in your home paper.—Exchange.

MANY LIVES LOST

Two Thousand People Made Homeless by Floods.

NORTHWEST IOWA INUNDATED.

Great Injury to Railroad Property and Crops Generally Destroyed.

Every Bridge Across the Sioux River Gone—Houses, Barns and Outhouses Floating All Day—Distressed People Sheltered in Halls—All Stock Pastured Along the River Carried Away.

SIOUX CITY, June 26.—Reports from all quarters concerning the unprecedented high water resulting from the cloud-burst in the Sioux Valley, Ia., show that there has been great damage to railroad property, and that the crops generally in that region are destroyed. The Floyd River is out of its banks, and people have been compelled to make hasty departures to higher ground.

Four persons were drowned at Cherokee. It is impossible to learn their names or how the unfortunates met their death.

Everything is in the wildest confusion at Cherokee and Correctionville. It is now known that six persons met their death in the country round about the latter place, and the number is reported increased to eight.

Houses, barns and outhouses were floating in the Little Sioux past Cherokee all day. No one knows where they come from.

The following additional particulars of the flood at Cherokee have been received: The wagon bridge over the Sioux, south of the town, went out at ten o'clock at night. This was followed by all the houses on the flat in that part of the town, more than 100. The number of people driven from their homes was between 1,500 and 2,000. The river rose until 8 o'clock, at that time being ten feet higher than was ever known. Every bridge across the Sioux river, both wagon and railroad, is gone between here and Onawa, and probably every bridge in Cherokee County, on the Sioux river.

Last night most of the distressed people found shelter in the Grand Army of the Republic and Odd Fellows' Halls. This morning the town presents a sorrowful appearance. Those houses that remain on the flat are almost buried in the mud. The destruction to property alone is over $200,000. Besides almost all of the stock pastured along the Sioux was carried away by the flood, only a few animals being saved as they came down the river. Yesterday all passenger trains were stopped at Storm Lake.

THE EXPERTS' REPORT.

Ex-City Treasurer Bardsley's Statement to be Torn to Shreds.

PHILADELPHIA, June 26.—The mayor's experts, Taylor Faunce, Lawrence Brown and Thomas W. Barlow, are now preparing a report which is likely to tear ex-City Treasurer Bardsley's statement to shreds. To-day Mr. Barlow is busy writing the report, which will be finished and presented to Mayor Stuart on Saturday or Monday next.

Mr. Brown was disposed to be reticent about the nature of the report to be presented, but it was learned that the experts have not enough information to totally disprove Bardsley's statement. It is said that in direct contradiction of Bardsley's statement it will be shown that $400,000 of the money went into the Bradford mills, and that since Bardsley became city treasurer fully $3,000,000 have passed through the Keystone Bank in a fund from which Bardsley drew various amounts to pay the expenses of the Bradford mills.

Mr. Graham was asked when Bardsley would be brought up for sentence. He said he did not know, as Bardsley's statement is being investigated to ascertain whether or not it is true. "If it is true," said Mr. Graham, "why, of course, he is entitled to any benefit which may result from his telling the truth. If it is not true, why it is information for the court to act upon."

Similar to the Cronin Murder.

CINCINNATI, O., June 26.—A paper of this city advances the theory that William Kendall, whose body was found in the Ohio river, and whose home was in Newport, Ky., was killed in a manner similar to that of Dr. Cronin. The only difference was that Kendall was killed in mistake for a man named Green, who was connected with the Fenian movement of 1867.

The Priest Fined.

TOLEDO, O., June 26.—Rev. Father Quigley, the Catholic priest who was convicted of violating the Ohio compulsory education law, in refusing to make returns under its provisions, has been fined $25 and costs by Judge Pugsley in the Common Pleas Court. This is believed to be the first case of the kind decided in the State.

NEW YORK, June 26.—The Monmouth Park Racing Association have filed articles of incorporation in the county clerk's office, stating their capital is $100,000. The directors are D. D. Withers, Alexander J. Cassatt, William L. Scott, John A. Morris and James Galway.

PROSTRATED BY GRIEF.

Young Brokaw's Parents Completely Overcome by His Death.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., June 26.—Messages of sympathy and condolence are pouring into the Brokaw cottage at Elberon from all sources, but this had little effect to console Mr. and Mrs. Brokaw, who are prostrated with grief over the death of their son, Frederick Brokaw, who was drowned while trying to save Annie Doyle.

The bright young athlete and student of Princeton College is spoken of on all sides as a hero in so bravely sacrificing his own life.

Mr. Brokaw's grief is heartrending, and it is feared that his mind will be affected. He is utterly prostrated and under the care of his physician.

Capt. Wordell, of the live-saving station, who recovered the body, says that young Brokaw was not drowned by the girl, but was seized with cramps in the stomach. His hands were folded across his chest, as if he made an attempt to float when the cramps seized him. He had been playing tennis and was overheated when he plunged into the water.

The funeral services will be held at the Brokaw cottage Sunday afternoon. The interment will be in the family vault, Mt. Pleasant, N. Y., Cemetery.

ANOTHER ENOCH ARDEN.

A Husband Returns After 31 Years to Claim His Twice Wed Wife.

LOCKPORT, N. Y., June 26.—In 1860, on the shores of Georgian Bay, resided Thomas Tisdale, with his wife and four children. One day Tisdale went fishing and his boat was found capsized. His body never turned up, and Mrs. Tisdale and her children mourned the husband and father as dead.

Mrs. Tisdale subsequently married William Davis. Mr. Davis died, and, after a season of mourning, the widow became Mrs. John Copeland, settling in her old age at Tonawanda.

A few days ago a man with the snows of 70 winters resting on his brow called at the house of William Tisdale at Sanborn and announced himself as his father, longed supposed to be dead. Mrs. Copeland was sent for. She knew the old lover and fell swooning into his arms. Mrs. Tisdale refuses to return to her third husband.

ARMED MINERS DRILLING.

They Will Resist Any Attempt to Fill Their Places With Colored Men.

TACOMA, Wash., June 26.—It was rumored here last night the miners displaced by the colored men, imported from the South to take the places of striking miners at the Gilliman, Newcastle and Franklin mines, are drilling in the woods daily. From authentic sources they are said to be armed with rifles, and a combination has been effected between men thrown out of work from the different mines, so that any attempt to resume work at any one of the mines will result in gathering the entire force of armed miners for resistance. Residents here are awaiting the results with anxiety.

Now an American Citizen.

ST. LOUIS, June 26.—A San Antonio special says: "J. J. Coppinger, son-in-law of Secretary Blaine has become an American citizen by making his final statement before the District Court renouncing his allegiance to Great Britain. Col. Coppinger took out his first 'papers' some years ago, but neglected to complete the necessary steps to become a full-fledged citizen until his attention was called to the matter a few days since."

A Well Known Journalist Dead.

BOSTON, June 26.—Albert Gallatin Browne, jr., formerly connected with the New York Herald and Evening Telegram, died here last evening. He was born in Salem, Mass., 58 years ago. He was a lawyer by profession. Mr. Browne married Miss Mattie Griffiths, a Kentucky lady, who emancipated her slaves before the war and cut loose from Southern society and institutions by coming North, where she has published several works.

McMillan Convicted of Murder.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., June 26.—Edwin McMillan was convicted of murder in the first degree for the murder of his wife. The crime was a most brutal one, it being charged that McMillan murdered the woman by burning her about certain parts with red hot irons and afterward pouring live coals into the wounds thus made.

Race Horses Released by the Sheriff.

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 26.—The sheriff has released the race horses Lijero and Costa Rica, their owners, Stebbins and Rogers, having filed a $5,000 bond with Judge Roche. The horses were attached on suit of "Lucky Baldwin," who claimed to have a claim of $2,500 on them for their purchase price. The horses are now on their way to Saratoga.

SAILORS IN REVOLT

Montreal Police Have a Battle With Drunken Tars.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM DEATH.

A Rope Ladder Cut to Drop the Officers in the River.

Hand-to-Hand Fight on the Deck of the Vessel—The Men Arrested After a Desperate Struggle—One of the Policemen Attacked With an Iron Bar—Flesh Torn from His Face.

MONTREAL, June 26.—There was a mutiny at noon on board the steamer Batavia, which is manned with Dutch sailors. five of the crew had deserted from the ship, and word was sent to the police station asking the police to capture them.

While the police were looking for the sailors the latter returned to the steamer of their own accord, but under the influence of liquor. They would not obey orders, and, the steamer being in the harbor, the captain again telephoned for the police, and ten men were sent down.

When the five men saw the policemen running toward the boat they stood by the rope ladder, and when the officers were ascending it the fellows began to cut the rope, so that they could drop the police into the river. All the police got on board before the rope was cut except one, but he landed on the wharf when he fell.

The five sailors then fought furiously with the police on the deck of the vessel until four of them were captured. The fifth escaped into the hold and hid.

Detectives McMahon and Lafontaine were notified and went to the hold to secure the man, who was armed with a heavy iron bar and was in a corner. Crouching at his feet was a huge mastiff, which sprang at Lafontaine as soon as it saw him, while the Dutchman attacked McMahon with the iron bar.

McMahon knocked the iron bar from his hand, when the fellow sprang at his throat, but only succeeded in catching hold of the chin, out of which he tore a big piece of flesh with his nails. McMahon then clinched with the sailor, and the two rolled on the floor, McMahon at last getting the best of the fight, but not before he was covered with blood. The five sailors were then locked up.

PARNELL FINALLY MARRIED.

His Wedding With Mrs. O'Shea Occurred at an Early Hour.

LONDON, June 26.—There was very little excitement over the marriage of Mr. Parnell and Mrs. Shea.

Shortly after 8 o'clock a closed carriage left Parnell's home at Brighton and was driven by a coachman who displayed a white favor, to Steyning, a small town in Sussex, where the wedding ceremony was performed by the Registrar. There were no witnesses but the two clerks.

Mrs. O'Shea wore dark attire and a pink trimmed hat and looked very happy. Parnell was in a neat dark suit and cheerful in manner, but glanced nervously around during the ceremony.

Immediately after the knot had been tied, bride and groom left the town for a destination not known, but conjectured to be Paris, where it is believed the honeymoon will be spent.

The parish registrar, together with his books of record, vanished after the wedding ceremony had been performed, and it is believed that his disappearance was the result of a bribe, judiciously administered by the wily Irish leader.

When the news of the marriage was brought to Miss Parnell's brother, Gen. Sir Evelyn Wood, he expressed his emphatic pleasure at the termination of the scandal, having keenly felt the injury done to the family by his sister's peculiar relations with Parnell.

In order to satisfy Catholic sentiment there will be a second marriage, this time by a clergyman in London, as soon as possible, if not immediately.

The Parnellites say that the marriage will restore their leader to his old position.

Gladstone's Friends Alarmed.

LONDON, June 26.—The St. James' Gazette says that Mr. Gladstone's friends are seriously alarmed at the state of his health. The influenza seems to have left him with all his powers enfeebled. He has yielded to the advice of his physicians, and will go without delay to the sea coast in search of health and absolute rest. His visit is to be strictly private, and he will be accompanied only by his wife. Sir Andrew Clarke insists that he shall see nobody, speak with no one, and transact no public business during his seclusion.

Rushing the Exiled Jews Through.

BERLIN, June 26.—The German authorities are taking extraordinary precautions to prevent the spread of infectious diseases from the Russian Jews, who are flocking through the country. Visitors are no longer permitted to enter the vaults at Charlottenburg, where the exiles rest, while the fugitives are hurried forward as rapidly as possible to their ports of departure for New York.

CORNELL'S VICTORY.

Ithaca's 'Varsity Crew Wins the Triangular Race in Fast Time.

NEW LONDON, Conn., June 26.—The Cornell University crew covered themselves with glory by winning from the University of Pennsylvania and Columbia crews in the fast time of 14 minutes, 27 1-2 seconds; thereby chopping off 15 1-2 seconds of the best previous time made on the Thames river course by any of the college crews. The conditions, however, were favorable for fast time, the water being smooth, a strong current running and the wind blowing so as to be of the most assistance to the racers.

The race was probably the most exciting ever rowed here, the Pennsylvania crew developing unexpected strength and rowing bow for bow with the crack Cornell crew for two miles. Nearing the finish, however, Cornell spurted in magnificent form and drawing away from their opponents easily won by four open lengths. Columbia was a bad third, finishing five lengths behind Pennsylvania. The poor showing of Columbia was a surprise as they have shown much better form in their practice.

A Girl's Remarkable Fast.

BOSTON, June 26.—A dispatch from Readfield, Me., says that Julia Adams, aged 15 years, has been ill with inflammation of the bowels for twenty days. During the time she has taken no food, and only one swallow of water, and has slept less than two hours in twenty-four. She says she does not feel the need of food or sleep. The physicians are deeply interested in the case.

The Fuerst Bismarck Lowers the Record.

SOUTHAMPTON, June 26.—The Hamburg American Packet Company's steamship Fuerst Bismarck, from New York, arrived here at 11:10 o'clock a. m. Time of passage, 6 days, 13 hours, 10 minutes. Deducting 16 hours for time between Queenstown and Southampton, makes it 5 days, 21 hours, 10 minutes, which is the fastest eastward passage ever made by any steamer.

Failure of a Wall Street Firm.

NEW YORK, June 26.—G. W. Stetson & Co., of 69 Wall street, have made an assignment. The firm was organized in 1880 and is engaged in the iron and railway supply business. The liabilities of the firm are about $100,000. The failure is assigned to the tightness of the money market. Mr. Stetson is a brother of Grover Cleveland's law partner.

The Sensational Diamond Robbery.

NEW YORK, June 26.—An arrest has been made in connection with the recent sensational robbery of diamonds from the establishment of E. J. Denning & Co., during a fire at that place. William H. Conklin, age 19, a clerk in the employ of the firm, was taken into custody charged with the crime.

Ball Players Heavily Fined.

ROCHESTER, June 26.—The board of directors of the Rochester Baseball Association last night held the players responsible for the loss of yesterday's game and fined them $100 each.

HIS LONG-LOST WIFE

The Woman Drowned at Croton Landing Identified.

SHE WAS MRS. FRANK ATWOOD.

Her Husband Visited Tarrytown and Recognized the Body.

She Ran Away from Him in Philadelphia Two Years Ago—There is Strong Suspicion that She May Have Been Murdered—The Note Found in Her Pocket Not in Her Handwriting.

YONKERS, N. Y., June 26.—The Croton suicide was identified last night at Tarrytown by Frank Atwood of Philadelphia as his wife. Mr. Atwood came to Tarrytown last night with his little girl Louise on the 7 o'clock train.

He said that his wife ran away from him about two years and five months ago, and he has been trying to find her ever since. The chief of police wanted him to remain in Tarrytown all night, but he decided not to do this and said he would return this afternoon. Mr. Atwood said that he had a brother-in-law in Yonkers named Herbling, who was a candy manufacturer.

Still a Mystery.

Mr. Atwood does not believe that his wife took her own life, and he says that it is not her handwriting that was found in the bottle in her pocket. She was well educated and would not make the mistakes in spelling common words as appear in the note. Chief of Police Nolsitter and Coroner Sutton also believe that there is good ground for the belief that she was thrown into the water at Snell's wharf and did not jump.

The chief says that no person bent upon suicide would be so careful as to put 65 cents under her hat on the wharf and carefully pin in her pocket the note telling of her suicide. He thinks if she had killed herself she would have put the bottle on the wharf and not have bothered about the money.

The initials in the note are not those of the dead woman and the police believe that the note was written by someone else and placed in her pocket to make it appear as a suicide in case the body should be found. The chief doubts the suicide theory more than ever after a long interview with Mr. Atwood.

It Looks Like Murder.

"I am convinced now that there has been foul play," said Chief of Police Nolsitter. "In my opinion the identification has only half begun the solution of the mystery. After Mrs. Atwood left her husband where did she go to? How is it that she came to this town? and what are the circumstances surrounding the case? Within 150 yards of where the dead woman was found is the scene of two mysterious murders, neither of which has been solved. Is this the third one on the list?"

WHIPPED BY A WOMAN.

A Witness in the Camp Divorce Case Severely Punished.

WATERBURY, Conn., June 26.—The horsewhipping administered to James Finnerty yesterday by Mrs. Laura E. Pearsall created a sensation here.

Finnerty was driving a yoke of oxen by the house of Mrs. Pearsall, the pretty widow who figured as the co-respondent in the divorce suit brought by Mrs. E. A. Camp against her husband, who is now to be sued by Mrs. Camp for alienating her husband's affections.

At the trial of the Camp divorce case Finnerty was a witness for Mrs. Camp, and testified that it was not an uncommon sight to see Mr. Camp and Mrs. Pearsall embrace and kiss each other. He seemed to have been dragged into the case largely to make a sensation.

When Mrs. Pearsall saw Finnerty coming she rushed out into the street with a horsewhip in her hand and belabored him with it. Being a woman of large proportions and great strength every blow told. She is wealthy, and, as is her custom, was handsomely dressed. Finnerty tried in vain to remonstrate and then turned and ran. He went to the office of Lawyer John O'Neill, who, by the way, happens to be Mrs. Camp's attorney, and there took steps to bring a suit against the widow. He showed to witnesses many ugly looking welts on his arms and shoulders.

Mrs. Pearsall says that the man ran before she could inflict any heavy punishment.

Uncle Sam Will Pay $5,000,000.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—It is said here to-day that the hat trimming suits against the government to recover excessive duties would be compromised. The suits number 1,400 and to settle them all in court would require many years and great expense, and it has therefore been deemed wise by the importers to compromise the matter. Five million dollars is the amount said to have been agreed upon in the settlement.

Navajo Hostiles on the Warpath.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—War Department dispatches just received from Las Vegas, N. M., are that the Navajo reservation trouble is increasing. A courier has been sent to the Commander of "D" Troop on the reservation calling for aid by Lieut. Brett, who was sent to Keene Canon near Fort Defiance, to suppress the depredations of the hostiles. "H" Troop has left for the scene.

LONDON, June 26.—Spurgeon, the great Nonconformist preacher, has had a serious relapse.

ALCOHOL EXPLOSION.

Three Men Badly Burned by an Accident in Columbia College.

NEW YORK, June 26.—By the explosion of a barrel of alcohol in the basement of Columbia College, Dr. John B. Northrop, an instructor in zoology, and two assistants, William Simpson and Thomas Tighe, were seriously burned. Dr. Northrop's injuries are so serious that there is danger of death resulting.

Having reason to transfer the alcohol from the barrel to small jars, Dr. Northrop called in the aid of William Simpson, the college janitor, and Thomas Tighe, and, taking a light, the three went into the basement. As soon as the barrel was opened the alcohol became ignited and an explosion followed.

Dr. Northrop rushed from the basement with his clothing all ablaze. Some workmen nearby extinguished the flames by tearing off the doctor's clothing, and with buckets of water, but not before he had been frightfully burned about the face, arms and legs. He was taken to the Presbyterian Hospital, where his injuries were pronounced exceedingly dangerous. Janitor Simpson was burned about the head and went home after his injuries were dressed. Tighe's burns were serious, but not necessarily fatal. The fire did slight damage.

THE DRUMMER IS IN JAIL.

His Marriage to a Young Girl Prevented by Her Brother.

SARATOGA, N. Y., June 26.—Frank Andrews, a commercial traveler, having a wife and children in Albany, has been paying attention to the 17-year-old daughter of Reuben Barnett, a prominent liveryman here, for a year or more, representing himself to be a widower. The girl wanted to marry him and her parents gave a very reluctant consent. The father, on going to Albany yesterday to satisfy himself that all was right, met Andrews' wife, learned the truth and hurried back to Saratoga.

In the meantime Andrews and the girl had boarded a train and started north. They were traced by telegraph and followed by the girl's 23-year-old brother. He overtook the pair at Whitehall and compelled Andrews to return with him at the point of a revolver. The father of the girl was at the depot on the arrival of the train last night and was barely prevented from shooting Andrews. Andrews is in jail.

THE DAILY PRESS.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Baptist excursion, Belmar, July 2.

—Almost every day new goods are received at Peck's.

—Charles B. Brown slipped while playing tennis, Wednesday evening, and badly sprained his right wrist.

—It is the Rev. Goyn Talmage that is dead—not George Talmage;—the crazy sheet to the contrary notwithstanding.

—Ladies' kid button shoes, patent leather tips, at 99 cents, is only one of many bargains offered by Rogers Bros., of 12 West Front street, who do as they advertise.

—Some contemptible thief stole flowers by the wholesale from the yards of Mrs. Isaac Brokaw and Mrs. P. Drake, Duer street, at daybreak this morning. He cut the blossoming plants off close to the roots.

—There was a wealthy New Yorker in Plainfield, yesterday, looking for a permanent home. When he heard that this city's only "modern improvement" was a cess-pool, he left to look elsewhere to invest and locate.

—The local police are on the lookout for a burglar from Phillipsburg. This morning constable Mattox saw a questionable character jump from a coal train and chased him down Park avenue, only to find that he could not catch him.

—The Unions of Grant avenue, will play the Boys' Club a game of base-ball, tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, at the corner of South Second street and Grant avenue. Adams and Bosterle will be the battery for the Boys' Club, and Turner and Littell for the Unions.

—The Postal Telegraph Company, already noted locally for its prompt and trustworthy service, to-day extended the sphere of its usefulness by opening a branch office at 49 North avenue, directly opposite the railway station, where all despatches will receive immediate and faithful attention.

—A little son of Robert K. Kenny, of 224 West Third street, tried to follow his mother down town yesterday afternoon and got lost. When policeman Lynch found him he was too tired even to munch candy. While the little fellow took a nap at the police station, sergeant Lynch found his father.

—The music at the High School Commencement last night was very refreshing. Suppe's "Poet and Peasant", Bizet's "Carmen", Rubenstein's "Melodie in F", Verdi's "Ernani", Strauss's "Artist Life", a "Serenade" by Moszkowski, and Capps's "March, Class '91", were the various selections rendered, and they were every one enjoyed.

—The Young Arlingtons of this city defeated the Resolutes at base-ball this morning by the score of 14 to 12. The batteries were: Kline and Giles for the Resolutes, and Mattis, Thorn and Littell for the Young Arlingtons. The features of the game were the catching of Giles and Littell and the playing of Sutphen, Carpenter and Perrin. Umpire—E. Neighbor.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. J. S. Garretson, of Central avenue, is lying dangerously ill with inflammation of the lungs.

Mrs. Isaac Scofield, of Parsippany, Morris county, is visiting her sister, Mrs. George L. VanEmburgh, of 85 East Second street.

Mrs. Louise Nichols, a daughter of the late Wm. H. Westervelt, died at the home of her husband, Isaac W. Nichols, 20 Putnam avenue, Wednesday. Funeral services will be held at 2:15 Saturday afternoon.

President Kirkner truly said last night; "Ours are the best schools in the State, and our teachers are so valued that other places that have more money than we have, keep enticing them away. That's both the why and the result of our excellent Training Class."

Twice within two years Dr. H. K. Carroll has had the pleasure of addressing a graduating class of which his daughter was a member—two years ago when she completed the North Plainfield school course, and last night when she finished that of the Plainfield High School.

The proudest person on the Music Hall stage last night—prouder even than the graduates themselves—was Miss Julia E. Bulkley, Principal of the Plainfield public schools. The graduates were her jewels, and with the work of the public schools so dear to her heart she could not but be deeply grateful at the compliment their success paid to her excellent supervision and management.

Robert Gaston Smith, of 111 Broadway, was chosen by the Graduates' Association of the New Brunswick public schools, at the annual session yesterday afternoon, to deliver the oration at the graduates' reception next year. He is a brother of Franklin S. Smith, of the Plainfield public schools, and is studying at Worcester, Mass., for the Episcopalian ministry. He has lectured, at various times, on mechanical engineering and other topics, in the Y. M. C. A. course in this city.

I HAVE had catarrh for twenty years, and used all kinds of remedies without relief. Mr. Smith, druggist, of Little Falls, recommended Ely's Cream Balm. The effect of the first application was magical, it allayed the inflammation and the next morning my head was as clear as a bell. I am convinced its use will effect a permanent cure. It is soothing and pleasant, and I strongly urge its use by all sufferers.—Geo. Terry, Little Falls, N. Y.

THE BUSY WORLD BEFORE THEM

TWENTY-FOUR GRADUATES FINISH THE HIGH SCHOOL COURSE.

Charming Commencement Exercises Witnessed by a Throng of People—Honors for Studious Youth, and Credit to the Plainfield Schools—Essays, Prizes, Diplomas—Music, Flowers, and Testimonials of Esteem—A Happy Reception to '91 Extended by the Alumni.

GLOW OF HONEST triumph and a smile of happiness on their faces, twenty-four graduates from the Plainfield public schools last night received the diplomas which they long have strived for, testifying that they have completed with honor to the institution and with credit to themselves the entire course of study mapped out by the city educators.

As usual, the Commencement exercises were attended by an audience which filled Music Hall considerably beyond its seating capacity. Before the graduates on the stage was one vast sea of people. Men in evening dress, women in summer costumes of dainty fabrics, school girls in white, all eager to witness the bestowal of honors on their friends and schoolmates, were mingled together in one dense throng, presenting a most animated scene. The most charming picture, however, was that of the graduating class itself. The young men, clad in conventional black, were manly, self-reliant fellows, and in the fire and sparkle of their eye one might have read pride of the present moment and lofty ambition and sincere purpose for the future. The young women, in their rich white costumes, and with all their loveliness of manner, and manifest grace and purity of character, and their charm of budding womanhood, captivated all hearts. For each of the twenty-four members of the class there were smiles of congratulation and words of applause. A bright heaven over their lives, and success commensurate with their present brilliant prospects!—was the heart's wish of everyone.

A floral shower rained all the evening. Otherwise the sky was of the bluest. When the close of the exercises was reached the stage was a veritable bower; bouquets and baskets of cut flowers covered everything. Besides these tokens there were in the side rooms more substantial evidences of esteem, in numerous gifts to each graduate from his friends. Of nothing, however, amid all these pleasant honors, were the scholars more proud than the rolls of parchment proclaiming them graduates. The twenty-four to whom these cherished diplomas were presented were:

Alice J. Carroll,	Hannah L. Larkin,
Margaret R. Cory,	Anna B. Murphy,
Martha A. Covert,	Louis G. Newman,
Fred A. Daboll,	Marian B. Nevius,
Lucy V. Dunham,	Mary S. Patten,
Frank H. Flannery,	Auguste L. Saltzman,
Arthur F. Freeman,	Frederick G. Smith,
Edith L. Gilbert,	Mary F. Thompson,
Eudora O. Grant,	Margaret S. Thompson,
Harriette R. Halloway,	Lucy M. Titsworth,
Amy S. Hyer,	Ericlena J. VanCourt,
Alfred G. Killmer,	Howard S. Wilson.

Next in value to the diplomas were held the prizes of the year, which were awarded as follows:

For Spelling, offered by Edward L. Finch, Prose Works of Oliver Wendell Holmes, in four volumes—Clyde B. Burnet. Honorable mention, H. Lizzie Allis, M. Augusta Morris.

For Languages, offered by Ernest R. Ackerman: Greek, Homer's Iliad and Odyssey, and Symond's Greek Poets—Alfred G. Killmer. Honorable mention, Grace H. Petrie. Latin, Virgil, Ward's English Poets—Hannah L. Larkin. Honorable mention in Virgil, Grace H. Petrie. Honorable mention in Cæsar, Helen T. French.

For Penmanship, offered by Jacob Kirkner: for excellence, Bryant's Library of Poetry and Song—Hattie I. King; for greatest improvement, Whittier's Poems, Carol Kampman.

For Mathematics, offered by Mrs. C. H. Stillman: first prize, $15 in gold—Margaret Ray Cory; second prize, $10 in gold—Alfred G. Killmer.

For English Composition, offered by George H. Babcock, Hudson's Handy-Volume Shakespeare—Ariadne Gilbert. Honorable mention, Edith L. Gilbert.

For United States History, offered by Dr. John B. Probasco, Knight's History of England, eight volumes—Walter B. Rittenhouse. Honorable mention, Valentine L. Chandor, Edgar I. Scovell, W. Francis Hyde, Clarence M. Smith, Jeanne H. Derby.

The essays of the graduates were all cleverly written and entertainingly read. That of Lucy M. Titsworth, "Two Views from Washington Rock", drew a contrast between the condition of the broad expanse of country seen from that famous height back of Dunellen as it was in 1777 and as it is to-day. A fine picture was drawn of the landscape spread out at the feet of an observer standing on that commanding eminence. One saw, through the glass of a century ago, little hamlets where now are thriving cities, the plains of Monmouth, the heights of the Navesink, the Raritan river, Amboy bay, New York harbor, and other landmarks which never change. All of these things were viewed by Washington as from that lookout he scanned the movements of the distant British foe. Through the glass of to-day one saw that many changes had come to the plain. Peace had succeeded war; prosperity abounded. The evidences of man's thrift were on every hand. Railway trains sped across the fields. The towers of the East River bridge, the Statue of Liberty, might be seen on the horizon. Signs of a higher civilization and progress abounded. The change from 1777 was a great one. Yet perchance the changes of the century to come would be far greater.

In "Apple Blossoms", by Martha A. Covert, one had a charming glimpse of springtime. A bright world was that seen by the blossoms on the trees, and a sweet song was that they sung, soothing weary mortals, and spreading sunshine in all hearts. Having blessed the earth with their music, they left the grand old apple trees on the wings of the wind, and were borne aloft, a beautiful mass of snow-white flakes, till lost to sight in the heavens. Their life here had not been idly spent, for each blossom had left behind one juicy, big, round apple.

Auguste L. Saltzman gave a semi-humorous, semi-serious and highly interesting description of "The Yankee", paying tribute to his sterling worth while caricaturing his oddities. The Yankee was as true as steel, an honest, hard worker, keen, enterprising, plucky. He furnished, in America's history, a noble example of citizenship and patriotism.

In "The Children's Crusade", by Hannah L. Larkin, the audience had a glimpse at the inspiring part played by young people in the attempt of Christian powers, in centuries past, to wrest the Holy Land from the Mohammedans. The subject was a fine one, and was ably treated.

"My Favorite Author" was a familiar topic, but in its treatment by Margaret R. Cory the unexpected name of "Mother Goose" was the one brought, with much quiet humor, which was greatly relished, to the front. The economy of the Spratt family, who, eating fat and lean respectively, licked clean the platter, was held up for modern example. The matter of the making of tarts by the queen of hearts, their theft by the knave, and their subsequent recovery by the king, was but an old rendering of present-day experience. When we have made our tarts—said the fair authoress—some knave is sure to try to pilfer them. Retribution, however, for the knave, and reward for the worker, were sure to come, for the king, catching the thief, "beat the knave full sore", and while the knave "vowed he'd steal no more" the king and the queen shared together the recovered tarts.

The especial "Cemetery of Nations" to which Fred A. Daboll directed attention was the wide semicircular plain lying between Palestine and the Euphrates. Here eight of the greatest nations of antiquity had lived and died and now lay buried. Their history, reconstructed from the mute lips of stone and clay, was a most absorbing one, and its treatment by the young orator was very interesting.

Among the "Historic Houses in America" told of by Marian B. Nevius were such historic literary landmarks as Hawthorne's "House of Seven Gables" in Salem, where some of the old witches were tried in witchcraft days, the "Old Manse" at Concord, and the home of the hero Paul Revere, at Boston; but the Carlyle house at Alexandria, Va., was the one to which more particular attention was drawn. This was in olden times a home of much social gaiety. Here Washington and Lafayette and other famous patriots were wont to meet their friends, with the Carlyles as host and hostess. Here Sallie Fairfax, one of the belles of the old Virginia First Families day, made her debut, at which the bright young girl and the stately officer Washington danced together in the graceful minuet. The picture of the scene drawn by the essayist was a very pleasant and realistic one. To-day—she said—the house was a dismantled old ruin, with broken windows and unhinged doors. She thought America ought still to cherish these historic places for the memories of the men who made this the happiest country under the sun.

"The Study of Latin"—said Edith L. Gilbert, in her essay on that subject—was one continuous matter of war, war, war, and in her bold attack on the study she made sarcastic fun, which highly amused her hearers, of Cæsar's story of his own valorous deeds, and of that noble Roman's admiration for himself. "The High School Record", by the same young lady, was a review of the notable happenings of the past ten years in connection with the school's history. The High School had just cause to plume itself on its graduates. Its standard of excellence was high. It thought pretty well of itself, and it had good reason to. Its graduates were doing nobly in the world, and the school was fast assuming a national importance. Indeed, it had even ventured to tell the United States to adopt the golden-rod as a national flower. The school was grateful for the honors that had been showered upon it by its sons and daughters, for the personal gifts that had been made to it, and for the scholarly attainments of all connected with it.

Washington, who made the country, and Lincoln, who preserved it, were cited by valedictorian Alfred G. Killmer as sterling examples of "Public Benefactors". But one of the greatest of our philanthropies—he said—was the country's educational system, which was founded on the principles of those who came over on the Mayflower, "that knowledge and wisdom might not to be buried in the graves of our forefathers". As the exponents of that educational system, the local Board of Education had the hearty and sincere thanks of the graduating class for which he spoke. The young students would appreciate in after years even more than now the fact that the best teachers had been provided for them. To those teachers also the graduates were deeply grateful, and especially so to the principal, whose many kindnesses they would ever cherish in kindliest recollection. Addressing his fellow-students, he mentioned the near kinship of their aims, plans, hopes and ambitions. He drew happy pictures of the closing year, and dwelt pleasantly on notable little instances of Senior Class life, remembering the class paper, written and circulated every two weeks, the poet who immortalized every noteworthy action of the class members, and the artist whose pencil had ever been ready to make famous the doings and caricature the misdoings of his fellows. Memory would ever cherish these things fondly—yet the last word of the present relations of the classmates was inevitable: it must be spoken. And so, with a tinge of regret, and with immeasurable buoyant hope, he said that word—farewell.

After the presentation of awards, by Dr. J. B. Probasco, and the presentation of diplomas, by Jacob Kirkner, President of the Board of Education, the address to the graduates was delivered, by Dr. H. K. Carroll. His address was brief, and brimful of sound advice. To the parents he said: "When you gave these graduates into the charge of our schools they were little children; we have developed with much care and patience their mental growth; and now we give them back to you, ready-equipped for life's battle. And a noble young band they are."

Just previous to the playing of the last orchestral selection on the programme President Kirkner presented to the Training Class graduates their diplomas. These graduates were:

Flora R. Petrie, Louise B. Runyon,
Leora D. Wenzel.

At the conclusion of the evening's exercises, which were brought to a close by the shouting of the class cheer by the young men on the stage, the usual reception in Assembly Hall, High School building, was given. The event was a very pretty social one. Dancing was prohibited because it was deemed a bad thing for the building, but there was fine music by an orchestra from Cappa's Seventh Regiment, and promenading and conversation galore. Such cool and refreshing substances as ice-cream and lemonade were served.

GABLE GONE AGAIN.

He Persuades His Wife to Withdraw Her Charge, and He is Thus at Liberty to Desert Her Forever.

John Gable seems to have basely deserted his wife again after persuading her to withdraw her charge against him and release him from the clutches of the law. Yesterday just before the hour of his trial, he was full of contrition. To-day he is believed to be on his way to Chicago where maybe he will join Mrs. Avery again.

Mrs. Gable was not present in court yesterday and the case was dismissed. She was ill in bed suffering from one after another of the terrible spasms that have seized her so frequently since the nervous shock brought about by her husband's treatment. But while she lay there in such condition yesterday, Gable, she says, was ransacking every drawer and shelf in the house, and even the pockets of her clothes.

He collected together a lot of papers, including the receipt Mrs. Gable had received upon her settlement of the mortgage he had placed on her furniture. With these he left the house and has not returned since. Mrs. Gable told a PRESS reporter she knew that now he had gone forever. It is said he had a ticket for Chicago in his pocket, a $100 bill and probably more.

The City Judge dismissed the case against Gable yesterday because his wife did not appear. That released Gable and relieved his bondsman.

NORTH PLAINFIELD GRADUATES

INTERESTING COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES BY BOROUGH STUDENTS.

Trustee McGee Presents Diplomas to Fourteen Scholars, and Counsels Them Concerning the Greater School of Life They Are to Enter—"Forward!" Their Watchword, and Constant Progress Their Purpose.

LEAGUED TOGETHER in the pursuit of knowledge, eight young women and six young men held a monopoly of public attention in the borough last evening. They were the graduates of the North Plainfield public school for 1891.

The school had closed another of its successful years of growth and prosperity in the morning, by exercises in the school building. These exercises, by the way, were simple, and consisted principally of singing by the school, and an address by Principal Boss. Last evening the eighth annual commencement took place in Warren Mission chapel, and it is needless to say that the building was filled to overflowing.

The stage settings were the same as in former years. Miss C. E. Randolph was the accompanist on the piano. Principal C. E. Boss presided, and beside him on the platform were James McGee and E. L. Bonney, of the School Trustees, together with the graduates, numbering fourteen, as follows:

Grace L. Bonny,	Harry L. McGee,
Raymond V. Carpenter,	Frank Reynolds,
Edna V. Hazeltine,	Margaret Swain,
Elizabeth C. Hull,	Edgar Felton Sheppard,
Alice E. Loomis,	Nellie Lorine Winckler,
Edith C. Miles,	Edward H. Waring,
Margaret R. Miles.	Ralph D. Whiting.

The exercises were begun with music, "Soldier's chorus", by the school, followed by a declamation, "Opinions Stronger Than Armies", by Ralph D. Whiting. Miss Nellie Lorine Winckler recited "King Redwald's Altars", admirably, and Margaret R. Miles read an essay on "Modern Martyrs", in which she said: "Most people believe that martyrs belong to the past; but the present has its martyrs too, just as many as the past, though the causes for which they suffer may be less noble". Fashion, evil habits, and similar things she considered to be constantly adding to the list of modern martyrs.

Following this splendidly rendered essay was a declamation by Frank Reynolds, entitled "Kearney at Seven Pines". After the school sang "Out on the Deep", Edward H. Waring declaimed on "What is a Minority?", and Margaret Swain recited "Driving Home the Cows".

"Tom", was the topic of Miss Alice E. Loomis's recitation, and, like the others, she was accorded hearty applause for its admirable rendition.

Especially commendable was the manner in which Edgar F. Sheppard delivered his declamation, "The Inchcape Rock". His voice was clear and distinct, and he could be distinctly heard in all parts of the building.

"Oh, Hail Us, Ye Free!" was sung by the school, and Raymond V. Carpenter read the concluding essay for the evening on "The Pocket-book"—a well-written argument. The pocket-book—he said—is a necessity. In this country, where the accumulation of money is the chief aim of so many persons, it is but natural that there should be an immense number of pocket-books in use; the pocket-book has been an important factor in the hands of the city, the county, and the State legislators; its darker side of life has been its going home empty to scenes where figure the inhuman husband, the sad-eyed wife, and the ragged children. For the sake of the pocket-book—says the writer of the essay—men have not only sacrificed time, strength and talent, which might have been the means of accomplishing great things, but have ruined their characters by cheating and robbery.

Two recitations followed: one by Elizabeth C. Hull, entitled "The World's Way", which was most acceptably rendered and brought forth loud applause; and the other by Grace L. Bonny, "Aunt Sylvia's First Lesson in Geography". The latter was comical in the extreme, and kept the audience convulsed with laughter.

The remainder of the programme was as follows: music, "The Palms", by the school, with cornet accompaniment by Ralph D. Whiting; a recitation, "The Tapestry Weavers", by Edith C. Miles; a declamation by Harry L. McGee, entitled "A Fragment from a Battle", and a recitation by Edna V. Hazeltine "A Legend". All received their share of encouragement by applause and flowers.

School Trustee James McGee in an extemporaneous speech stated that Dr. H. K. Carroll, the chairman of the Board, was usually present to distribute the parchments, or diplomas, to the graduates, but from the fact that "they were a little weak handed in Plainfield", Dr. Carroll had been "loaned" to make an address at the High School Commencement at Music Hall. He considered that the clerk of the weather had failed in contract by not sending a cool evening. "But"—said he—"if it were cool there would be nothing with which to test your allegience to the school."

Mr. McGee alluded particularly to No. 9 on the programme, the essay on "The Pocket-book". The purse—he held—was not a receptacle to hoard away money in, but its contents should be ready for school interests; these interests are maintained only by the liberality of the tax-payers. He compared the school interests, in a certain degree, with an outgoing train or steamer, where persons gathered around to wish their relatives and friends god-speed on their journey. To-night—he said—the graduates are like barks launched upon the sea whose future will depend on the lessons taught them here; they are to govern and direct the affairs of the town and State,—said he—so take them back and cherish them.

In conclusion he said: Graduates, the lessons taught you in the school days now ending are to serve you all through life. They who serve God and do right have angels to attend them. Keep your motto—"The word still is 'Forward!' along the whole line"—and you can never fail.

The graduates then formed a semi-circle on the stage, and as their names were called they advanced and graciously acknowledged the diplomas awarded them.

Thus ended the graduating exercises. Besides Principal C. E. Boss, those who aided him in making the affair the success that it was were the following corps of able assistants: Miss M. J. Purdue, Miss L. R. Harvey, Miss E. J. Bainbridge, Miss K. G. Mair, Miss E. A. McCoy, Miss C. E. Randolph, Miss E. L. Claypoole, Miss E. O. Katline, Miss L. Kiernan, Miss E. Strummell, Miss M. Hudson, Miss E. R. Ginn, and Miss M. P. Kellogg.

Hurrah for the Crescents.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—Will you allow me a short space in your paper to call the League boys attention to a matter of vital importance. There seems to be a good deal of talk going on (I hope it will end in talk) of members going to the Westfield-West End game, to-morrow, instead of our own Crescent game. It seems hardly credible that prominent members of our own club should desert her.

We may not all think or do just as the present management do, but don't go back on them. It is early in the season yet. They are getting more experience every day and I predict that if we all stand by them we will all say at the end of the season, "They are good ones."

Let the Westfield people take care of the West Ends this time, and let us get our boys in shape to take care of both teams when we meet them.

Hurrah for the only Crescents—first, last and all the time.

CRESCENT LEAGUER.

Secretary Manning Will Take His New Bicycle.

This city will be well represented this year at the World Conference of Bible Students at Dwight L. Moody's beautiful home at Northfield. Most of the delegates will leave to-day. The delegation includes some of the most prominent and active young men in church work in Plainfield.

Among those who expect to start to-day are: Wm. D. Murray, President of the Young Men's Christian Association, and its General Secretary, John H. Manning, also Charles B. Brown, of the First Baptist church, and Chas. A. Lee, T. N. Horn, T. E. Hazell, Phillip Zimmer, Willard Case, John B. Johnson, Norman Probasco, Robert Love, Merten Holmes, and others, in all numbering twenty. An unusually good time is expected by all. Five tents have been ordered. Last year only two were used. The Conference will last nearly two weeks.

Captain Flannery and His Men, Highly Complimented.

Crescent Division, Uniform Rank, Knights of Pythias, of this city, had a drill in Saengerbund Hall, last night, and were inspected by Colonel Rhodes and Adjutant Davis, of Elizabeth. The latter were present as officers of the 1 New Jersey Regt., K. of P., upon invitation of Captain Flannery of the Crescent Division. They were entertained later with a collation.

Colonel Rhodes expressed himself as highly pleased with the Crescent's drill. All of the Division were present except three, and presented a fine appearance. The Colonel complimented the men for their good work, and praised Captain Flannery for his efficient training.

—After the graduating exercises last night crowds of people stopped at Randolph's soda-water fountain to be refreshed by the ice cold, delicious beverages there dispensed. Mr. Randolph was as usual prepared for the occasion, and his efficient clerks were prompt in serving all customers with drinks excellently drawn.

A VERY FRESH POSTMASTER.

But He Meets a Plainfield Young Lady of Character and Decision who Brings Him to Justice.

Christian H. Zeltinger, Postmaster at Delia, Frederick county, Md., has got into trouble from his desire to make the acquaintance of Miss Florence Keith of West Seventh street, this city.

On Dec 22 of last year Miss Keith wrote a letter to her mother, Mrs. Alice B. Keith, at Delphi, Carroll county, Ind. The letter was sent to Delia, but reached its proper destination finally. A few days afterwards Miss Keith was astonished to receive a letter from Delia containing a request for her photograph. It was dated Greenfield Mills, Md.; was addressed to Miss Flossie Keith, and was to the effect that the writer was a long forgotten friend, or a friend of such an one, and desired to open a correspondence and exchange photographs.

Desiring more evidence against the impertinent correspondent, she wrote and asked to be informed who the writer was and who had given him her address. The reply was to the effect that if she would send her photograph he would "disclose all."

The handwriting of these letters was exactly like the handwriting of the word "missent" on the envelope of Miss Keith's letter to her mother that had gone astray and showed signs of having been opened. This evidence she referred to the Post Office Department, through her uncle, Frank Knight of 35 West Seventh street, saying that she knew no one at Delia, and her name and address could only have been ascertained from the letter to her mother which had been missent. Zeltinger was summoned to appear before Commissioner Rogers at Baltimore to-day on the charge of opening the letter in question, and Miss Keith was brought from Plainfield as a witness against him. She said she signed her name "Floss" in the letter to her mother, which accounted for her being addressed Flossie. The accused postmaster said in his own behalf:

"The letter came to my post-office, and I immediately noticed it was out of its course. I saw it was open, and I wanted to know where it was from. I abstracted the letter to find out where it belonged, and then resealed it and sent it to its destination.

"I wrote Indiana plain on the envelope and also wrote 'missent to Delia.' The letter showed that it was written by a young lady of great intelligence, and a young man named Gibson, who was from Indiana told me he knew a very nice lady by the name of Keith. I then wrote the letter to Miss Flossie Keith."

In answer to questions Zeltinger said he did not know Gibson's first name or his whereabouts. He said he had been postmaster at Delia for nearly a year, but had acted for eight or ten years as assistant postmaster to his father in Missouri, of which State he is a native. Mr. Zeltinger is about 35 years of age, and single.

Miss Keith said she knew nobody of the name of Gibson. The Commissioner lectured the accused severely, and fixed his bail at $1,000. Miss Keith returned to her home in Plainfield to-day.

Taylor Preparing to Face the "North Side's" Heavy Batters.

Pitcher Taylor is in Plainfield to-day and is having a little practice with catcher Bonner in preparation for to-morrow's game on the Crescent League's grounds when the heavy batters of the North Side Athletic association of New York city, will stand at the plate. Those useless and unfortunate preliminary motions that Taylor indulges in before delivering the ball, are going to be omitted it is understood. He thinks he can pitch just as well without first raising his hands on high and giving the runner a chance to steal second or third base with ease. To-morrow's game promises for many reasons to be one of the most interesting of the season.

An Old Man Thrown by a Train.

Stephen Fasch, a German, age 75, who lives a mile beyond Dunellen, ran to catch a train that was moving out of the Dunellen station this morning and was thrown by the train violently to the ground. When he was picked up his head was a mass of cuts and bruises. Dr. Brakeley, who attended him, said that the injuries would not necessarily have been fatal in the case of a younger man, but that in Fasch's feeble condition the result might be serious.

Stole His Thunder.

A western justice of the peace, who was more noted for severity than knowledge of law, was very much annoyed one day by an attorney who was in the habit of parading his legal lore and making the justice appear at a disadvantage. At last the justice was enraged, and he shouted: "Be quiet, sir, or I will commit you." The lawyer seized the book of printed forms, which was the sole reliance of the justice in making out his committals, and as he walked out of court he shouted derisively to the justice: "Now I defy you to commit me."

If Women, who complain of languor, sleeplessness, loss of appetite, and a weak, weary feeling, would throw "tonics," "bitters" and other patent medicines to the dogs and try before each meal a tablespoonful of TUDOR'S Rye Whiskey, they would find no need for patent trash. A. R. TUDOR'S Rye Whiskey is warranted absolutely pure and ten years old. Sold everywhere.

WHEN THE TEA-KETTLE HUMS.

Hey! for the days of the silver and azure,
Gold in the tree tops and flame in the hedges,
Each thistle and milkweed uncurtains a treasure
Of tiny white planets with silken-soft edges;
They flit and they flutter, now here, and now yonder;
They catch in the gold-threaded locks of the corn;
On wings of the zephyr they waver and wander,
As light as the vapor that floats in the morn.

Hey! for the days when the odor of apples
Blows up and down the great orchard's expanse,
And the feathery amber of golden-rod dapples
The tangled green waves where the tassel-weeds dance.

The sweep of the west wind is fresher and wider;
With deepest of crimson the leafage is laced;
Belated and lonely, the frail harvest-spider
Sends off through the corn-field with timorous haste.

Hey! for the days of the frosty-white mornings—
The blaze on the hearthstone that gladdens our eyes,
When we hear in the chimney the Autumn wind's warnings
Of rain-muffled landscape and fog-hidden skies.

When the cold, stinging moisture the window is blurring,
The picture inside is by contrast more fair;
The tea-kettle hums and the kitten is purring,
Coiled cozily down in the old rocking chair.

Hey! for the days of the wintry-crisp edges,
And noontides as sultry as June in her splendor,
Bronze in the tree-tops and gray in the hedges,
And the nights that are wind-lulled and starry and tender.

—Hattie Whitney, in Good Housekeeping.

JESSE BELL'S NERVE.

A Hard Fight and Long Journey to a Doctor.

IF IT IS true as I read it in the newspapers that Jesse Bell of Wind river is dead," said C. P. Lorimer, of the Helen No. 2 Mining Company, "then the nerviest man that ever prospected, killed bears and hunted Indians in the wilds of Wyoming or any other wilds is dead. The first time I ever saw Jesse Bell he had just completed a journey of one hundred and twenty miles with his upper jaw and part of his nose and cheek gone, half of his scalp torn off, one foot crushed and mangled, his right arm badly lacerated and three ribs broken. The journey had taken two days and a half and two nights and a half. It began at the mouth of Horse creek, on the Green river, and ended at Fort Bridger. I was at the fort when Jesse was brought in by his partner, Arkansas Bill, and another man, a stranger. I never saw such a sight as he was. No explanations were asked for or given until Jesse was placed safely in the hospital. Then the commandant said to Arkansas Bill:

"'Indians?'

"'No,' replied Bill; 'bears.'

"And then Bill told the story of one of the most terrific bear fights that any man in that region of big and fierce bears and intrepid bear hunters had ever heard of. Jesse and Bill had been prospecting, hunting and trapping about the headwaters of Snake, Wind and Green rivers for some time. They found no ore or sign of any, and the hunting and trapping were none of the best. They worked their way down through McDougall's Gap, struck the headwaters of Horse creek, which they followed to its mouth. There they struck great signs of otter, beaver and other fur animals, put up a cabin, and settled down for a few weeks' trapping. One day they saw a herd of antelope and started out to bag one or two of the shy little deer. The antelope led them toward a high bluff, and they followed the game for eight miles without being able to get a shot. The antelope finally passed around one edge of the bluff, and the two hunters began crawling along the bluff, out of sight of the antelope, with the hope of getting within range. Jesse Bell was in the lead, and as he turned a sharp corner of rock he came face to face with the big she silver-tip bear, a yearling cub and two spring cubs. They were not ten feet away, and they saw Jesse as soon as he saw them. They were in a little hollow, and the position and place Jesse was in made it a dangerous spot either for an attack on the bears or for defense against them. Arkansas Bill had crept to Jesse's side before the latter could tell him what was ahead. He took in the situation at once and jumped back. Before Jesse could follow him the old bear, her blood being up, made a rush for him. Jesse fired and broke the bear's shoulder. Then he jumped aside, but the bear was too close to him, and she caught him in the side. Both went down in a heap, the bear falling on top, at Arkansas Bill's feet. The bear closed her great jaws on Jesse's side. Her upper teeth were buried in the flesh, cracking three ribs like pipe-stems. Fortunately her under teeth struck a heavy leather bullet pouch that Jesse carried slung over his shoulder by a strap. That prevented the enormous jaws from closing together in Jesse's side, and tearing a large portion of it away. All that Jesse could do was to give the bear a tremendous kick in the stomach. At the same instant Arkansas Bill fired at the bear. The ball entered back of her shoulder.

"The bear evidently thought the pain from the bullet was the result of Jesse's kick, for she turned and caught his foot just below the ankle and crushed it with one savage bite. Not satisfied with that she bit and chewed at the foot and leg and tore away the flesh at every bite, while Jesse was struggling to get his revolver out of his belt. All this time Arkansas Bill was loading his rifle, breech-loaders not yet having come in use out in that country. Jesse's struggles to turn and get his revolver caused the bear to wheel about again. She made a grab for Jesse's head. Bill had his gun loaded by this time, and sent another bullet in the tough old bear. This top pled her over, and Jesse raised partially to his feet and got his revolver in his left hand. The bear recovered herself and struck Jesse a blow with her paw on the head and face that knocked him down again. He held on to his revolver, and put a ball into the bear's body. Before he could shoot again the bear seized his arm between her teeth and crunched it clear through the bone. Jesse now lay so that Bill could not fire without endangering his life. Bill shouted to him to move his head. Jesse did so, but the instant he moved it the bear snapped at it quickly, as Jesse lay half face upward, and closed down on his head clear to the upper jaw. Jesse, in describing this situation afterward, said that he could look right down the bear's throat. But Arkansas Bill was equal to the occasion, and placing the muzzle of his rifle at the bear's ear, fired. The bear sprang back. She did not take the trouble, though, to loosen her hold on Jesse's head and face, and tore away the upper jaw, part of the nose, one cheek, and a piece of the scalp nine inches long and five wide. The bear fell over against Arkansas Bill dead. Her great body carried him down with her and pinned him fast by both legs. He extricated himself with difficulty and limped to the aid of his companion. Jesse was sitting up, a ghastly spectacle. His jaw was hanging by a strip of flesh to his cheek. Bill cut it loose. While he was dressing Jesse's torn scalp the yearling bear, which, with the two cubs, had been silent spectators of the fight, concluded to take it up where the old bear had been forced to leave it off, and made a savage rush upon the two hunters. Arkansas Bill had a lively tussle with the young silver-tip before he managed to kill it with his six-shooter, every chamber being emptied before the bear gave up.

"Jesse waited without a groan or a word until Bill had finished the young bear and returned to the dressing of his wounds. Having fixed them up the best he could with the means at hand, Bill took Jesse on his back and started for camp. It was late in the afternoon, and it was important that camp should be reached before dark, for black wolves were numerous in the hills, and both Jesse and Bill knew that they would follow their trail if darkness overtook them. Some idea of Arkansas Bill's capacity may be had when it is known that Jesse Bell was a man six feet four in his stocking feet, and made in proportion. The camp was eight miles away, and the way was extremely rough. Bill reached the camp with his burden a short time after dark, and was not any too soon, for behind them, and not far away, they began to hear the cries of pursuing wolves.

"When they reached camp Bill found their cabin occupied by a prospector who had stumbled in the shelter and entered. He was a timely visitor. Together Bill and the stranger fixed up a bed of buckskin and fur on two tepee poles, which they fastened to a pony, Indian fashion, and, placing Jesse on the drag, started at once for the nearest place where medical and surgical aid could be had, Fort Bridger, one hundred and twenty miles away, through a rough and unbroken wilderness. They traveled day and night, stopping only to bathe Jesse's wounds at the rivers and creeks they had to cross. They ate as they traveled, and on the afternoon of the third day they came into Fort Bridger with their terribly wounded charge. On all that memorable journey Jesse Bell never once complained of suffering either from pain or hardship. He was placed in the hospital, and the surgeon told Arkansas Bill that he could never survive his injuries. But he did and was out in a month, sadly and permanently disfigured, but the same tough and intrepid mountaineer that he was before his great bear fight."

—"I say, Tom, I wish I was a caterpillar." "What good would that do you?" "Why, then it would be so easy to make both ends meet!"

ATWOOD LOCKED UP

He Is Not the Husband of the Dead Woman at Tarrytown.

HIS STRANGE STORY WAS FALSE.

He Deepens the Mystery by Describing Marks on the Body.

His Real Name Is George Victor Herdling—He Must Have Known the Dead Woman Intimately—When Questioned by the Coroner He Refused to Answer Questions—The Inquest Now Going On.

NEW YORK, June 27.—The mystery surrounding the beautiful dead woman at Tarrytown deepens. Dolly Davis' double, the woman who was found in the river at Croton Landing one week ago this morning, has been identified twice, and in both instances the identification was proved erroneous.

"Frank Atwood," who claimed the body at Tarrytown as that of his wife proves to be a suspicious character with a bogus name. He is under arrest. His relatives say that for the past ten days he has been "out of his head."

His true name is Victor George Herdling, and he is the son of George Herdling, proprietor of the United States Hotel at Fulton and Water streets. He is 24 years old.

His wife spent yesterday looking frantically everywhere in this city for their little daughter, Louise, whom Herdling took from their home in 35th street on Thursday afternoon to Tarrytown. He told his wife he was going to Coney Island.

The Child Spoke the Truth.

"That isn't my mamma," lisped the pretty, chubby faced and curly haired little one when her father held her up so that she could look into the casket.

The child spoke the truth. Yet Herdling may have known the dead woman. He accurately described blemishes on her dead body that the doctors had not discovered at the autopsy, particularly a scar from either a burn or a scald on her left knee. Herdling had only looked at the face of the corpse when he located the blemishes, and a further examination of the body by the physicians proved his statement to be correct.

The rest of his story about his married life with the woman was a string of lies.

His Story Was False.

"Atwood" appeared before the coroner's jury yesterday and when asked if there were any marks on the dead woman by which he could surely identify her, he said: "She has a mole on her left leg near the kneecap, a scar made by a scald on the same leg, but below the knee, a mole on the back of her neck, and she has one tooth that is slightly twisted." An examination of the body proved his statement correct.

He then claimed that his parents were dead, but said there was a little mystery about his family he didn't care to explain.

When the inquest was resumed last night George P. Herdling testified that Atwood was his son, but that he had not been on good terms with him for the past five years. "Atwood" was called again to testify. He admitted that Herdling was his father, but refused to answer any more questions. He was then arrested and locked up.

"The supposition is that we have in custody the man who can tell the missing links in the chain that surrounds the mystery of the dead woman," said the coroner, before the jury adjourned this afternoon.

THE CABINET MEETING.

A Decision Reached About the Coinage of Silver Dollars.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—Secretary Foster makes the following statement as the result of the Cabinet meeting affecting the coinage of silver:

"After a full and careful consideration of the law relating to the coinage of silver, Secretary Foster finds that the act of March 3, 1891, requires that the Secretary of the Treasury shall, as soon as practicable, coin the trade dollar bars into silver dollars. He also finds that $150,000 has been appropriated for the recoinage of the subsidiary silver coin into such denominations as will best serve to give it circulation. There is constant demand for small coins, principally dimes, which the mints have not been able to supply.

"The Secretary of the Treasury has decided that his first duty in this matter is to obey the direction of Congress. Congress has ordered the coinage of the trade dollar bars into standard silver dollars. The coinage of the trade dollar bars in this manner will transform what cost $5,087,795 into 5,148,281 standard dollars. The Secretary finds that it will require perhaps four months to perform the work of coining trade dollar bars into standard dollars and recoining subsidiary silver. Therefore the question of the continued coinage of silver dollars as heretofore is not a practical one at present."

The Cabinet also decided to change the form of the asset and liability statements issued from the Treasurer's office daily and at the beginning of each month. In the new form of statements the net surplus will disappear and only an available cash balance will be carried. Other changes of a minor character will be made, but what they will be has not yet been decided by Secretary Foster.

Painters and Plasterers May Strike.

PITTSBURG, June 26.—The boss painters and plasterers of this city have rejected the scale signed some time ago, and are preparing new rules for their men that will likely cause a strike in these trades.

To Entertain Prince George.

NEW YORK, June 27.—Prince George, the heir apparent to the throne of Greece, is expected to arrive in this city some time next week, and the Mayor and other city officials are arranging to entertain him.

Established Facts:

That the ROYAL BAKING POWDER is the oldest and purest baking powder, and the greatest in leavening strength; That it is free from every injurious substance; That it makes lighter, sweeter, more nutritious and healthful food than any other.

The Royal Baking Powder Company makes its own cream of tartar in its own mammoth refinery, and thus insures its unvarying quality. It uses in the manufacture of the Royal Baking Powder more than half of all the cream of tartar consumed in the United States for all purposes. This is required and must be chemically pure, and chemically pure cream of tartar could not be obtained in the market in this country or Europe, which necessitated the building of special works, and the employment of special processes. All other baking powders, when analyzed, show traces of lime and sulphuric acid which arise from the impurities of the materials bought in the market which their manufacturers use. This is why the Royal Baking Powder is the only absolutely pure baking powder made.

HON. JOHN B. ALLEY ASSIGNS.

The Announcement Creates a Sensation in Lynn.

BOSTON, June 27.—The Hon. John B. Alley, of Lynn, has assigned for the benefit of his creditors to Wm. A. Knowlton, who is one of the assignees of Alley Bros. & Place, the leather dealers who recently failed.

Mr. Alley owes the above mentioned firm $500,000 or $600,000, but aside from this indebtedness the liabilities are very small. Mr. Alley's indebtedness to Alley Bros. & Place is understood to be secured in whole or in part.

The announcement of the assignment made a decided sensation in Lynn, Mr. Alley's fortune, a few years ago, having been estimated at $3,000,000. The famous Snow-Alley law suit cost Mr. Alley a large sum of money, and he has also met with heavy losses in the West, but no one supposed that he would have to assign.

ELOPED IN A BALLOON.

A Massachusetts Woman Looking for Her Sixteen-Year-Old Daughter.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., June 27.—A special from St. Louis says: "A singular story was developed here by the application at the City Hall of Mrs. J. F. Goodrich, of Pittsfield, Mass., for help to recover her 16-year-old-daughter Clara, who eloped in a balloon from Pittsfield Decoration Day with an æronaut named Walter Cooper.

There was evidently a vein of sensationalism in the young people, because when they determined to elope the common-place methods which have been in vogue for centuries would not do.

"Decoration Day, dressing herself in a suit of her brother's, Clara eluded her parents and made her way to Pittsfield. Her father pursued and reached the fair grounds just in time to see his daughter borne into the air in a balloon with the young æronaut.

"Mrs. Goodrich has been pursuing the couple ever since and swears to kill her daughter's betrayer on sight."

PIERCED BY AN IRON BAR.

A Pennsylvania Quarryman Meets a Terrible Death.

ALTOONA, Pa., June 27.—Shortly before noon at the large quarry at Piney Creek, Robert Calbert and a gang of men prepared two blasts and fired them. One failed to explode.

Calbert took a 16-foot bar and prepared to drill it out. He placed the end of the bar in the hole and let it drop when the plosion occurred.

Twelve feet of the bar was driven through his body, and it is said his screams were heard for half a mile.

The remainder of the bar was pulled through the wound, and after 20 minutes of agony Calbert died.

JACK THE RIPPER'S NOTICE.

He Sends Warning to Whitechapel of Another Murder.

LONDON, June 27.—The vigilance committee in Whitechapel has been reawakened to activity by an undoubted warning from Jack the Ripper.

Patrols and vigilants were revived last night, and Scotland Yard sent an extraordinary contingent to watch the Whitechapel district.

A letter identical in style and writing with previous missives from Jack the Ripper has been received by the chairman of the vigilants, in which "Jack" announces that he is about to perform another "operation," and that if the chairman or vigilants attempt to track him he will knife them to the heart. It is the duty of the police, he says, to catch him. He adds that he has been nearly caught twice, but that he will never be taken alive.

Manhattan College Commencement.

NEW YORK, June 27.—The 38th annual commencement exercises of Manhattan College were held at the Metropolitan Opera House. Over 3,000 persons were present. Archbishop Corrigan presided. Among those seated on the stage were Chauncey M. Depew, Mayor Grant, John D. Brophy, D. D., of St. Louis College; C. M. O'Leary, D. D.; John D. Morris, of the Baltimore Sun; Congressman John R. Fellows, Judge Van Hulsen and Bishop Conroy.

KILLED IN A CRASH

A Terrific Storm Wrecks a Pennsylvania Colliery.

SIX MEN CRUSHED TO A JELLY.

The People in the Town Rushed from Their Homes in Terror.

Whole Villages Swept Away by a Storm in Germany—The Inhabitants Flee for Safety—A Small Blizzard Strikes New York State—Trees Uprooted by the Score—Deluge in Omaha.

MOUNT CARMEL, Pa., June 27.—This section was visited last evening by a wind and rain storm of unusual severity. Trees were uprooted and carried a great distance, while the rain poured down in torrents and the lightning and thunder were terrific.

When the storm was at its height a heavy crash was heard above the noise of the storm, causing people to flee from their homes in terror. For a time it was feared that a terrible calamity had taken place in the borough.

It was soon learned, however, that the crash was caused by the collapse of the Patterson Coal Company's large colliery, situated two miles west of this place.

The structure was a new one and was rapidly nearing completion. Four slaters named J. M. Blossom, Richard Roberts, J. B. Dodson, and William Lodge, from Shickshinny, Pa., were on the roof at the time of the accident and were hurled to the ground, a distance of 150 feet, and crushed to a jelly by the heavy timbers falling upon them. Two other workmen from Luzerne, Pa., whose names could not be learned, were also working in the building and they shared the same fate as their companions.

It was two hours before the bodies of the men could be recovered, owing to the debris that was heaped upon them. The bodies of the men were brought to this place to await instructions from their families.

The colliery was to have been started next month, but the buildings are totally wrecked, and it will take considerable time to make the necessary repairs. The loss to the colliery is about $130,000.

Deluge in Nebraska.

OMAHA, Neb., June 27.—The very heavens seemed to have opened and a perfect deluge of water has been falling since 8 o'clock in the morning. The newly graded streets were washed away, sewers were burst, pavements washed out and thousands of dollars have been lost by the cloudburst. Not a train has arrived in the city since morning and none on the Union Pacific and Elkhorn since yesterday.

Damage in New York State.

TROY, N. Y., June 27.—Buskirk's Bridge, near this city, was visited last evening by a terrible storm of wind and hail. Several buildings on George Almy's farm were carried from their foundations, trees were uprooted by the score, hailstones as large as walnuts fell in great quantities and growing crops suffered seriously. The storm lasted less than half an hour.

VILLAGES SWEPT AWAY.

A Tremendous Cloudburst Works Sad Havoc in Germany.

BERLIN, June 27.—Early in the morning a tremendous cloudburst did great damage to the Soden Medicinal Springs, and the villages of Holzendorf, Wansdorf and Murk are reported to have been totally destroyed. Houses roads, bridges, walls, cattle and crops have been swept away, and the inhabitants of those districts are terror stricken and in despair.

Great destruction of life and property by cloudbursts and thunderstorms is reported from all quarters. At Coblentz, on the upper Rhine, whole districts are fearfully devastated. At the fortress of Ehren Breitstein the lower parts of the town and of the fortress were flooded last night. The people are driven to the housetops for safety, and the garrison was called out and dispatched to the assistance of the inhabitants of Pfaffendorf and Horchheim, who were in great peril and distress.

ECHOES OF THE BIG RACE.

Harvard Won the Race on the Merits of the Men.

NEW YORK, June 27.—There is a large delegation of college students now here who were present at the Yale-Harvard boat race at New London. All admit that the race was won on the merits of the men.

The official time was 21 minutes, 23 seconds for Harvard, 21 minutes, 57 seconds for Yale, Harvard crossing the line eleven boat-lengths in advance of the Yale boat.

It was a one-sided contest from the start, much to the astonishment of most judges of rowing, the opinion having been almost universal that Yale would win, or at the least that the race would be very close.

Harvard rowed in her old style and the eight men in the boat worked together as one man. The Yale crew rowed the regulation Cook stroke and rowed it well until half the distance had been covered, when the weak spots began to appear.

It May be a Case of Suicide.

PORTLAND, Me., June 27.—A man giving the name of Westbrook boarded the steamer Portland at Boston last night and immediately retired to his stateroom. Upon the arrival here of the steamer in the morning it was discovered that the stateroom had not been occupied. In the room was a box addressed to Amos W. Cowen, Haverhill, Mass., also letters addressed to Mrs. Amos Cowen and Charles York, Haverhill. It may be a case of suicide, but appearances indicate a clever deception. The man had time before the boat left Boston to change his clothes and get ashore.

Bricklayers Killed and Injured.

ELIZABETH, N. J., June 27.—While seventeen bricklayers, with their helpers, were at work on a scaffold at the Worthington Pump Works, where a new building is in course of erection, the scaffold gave way and they were precipitated a distance of forty feet to the ground. Michael Nolan and Gabriel Williams were killed and several of the men were injured so badly that they will probably die. The accident is attributed to the over-loading of the scaffold.

Prof. Ely's Difficult Task.

NEW YORK, June 27.—President Gompers has issued a circular to all local and national organizations affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, requesting them to send two copies of their constitution to Prof. Richard T. Ely of Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, Md., who is writing a dictionary of Political Economy in which he desires to give a list of the labor organizations of this country and the principal features of their constitutions.

Sullivan Will Meet Paddy Ryan.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 27.—John L. Sullivan before leaving this city met Paddy Ryan in the latter's saloon. Ryan asked Sullivan to meet him again in the ring. Sullivan consented, and the men agreed to a six-round fight when Sullivan returns from Australia. It is said that Ryan will be backed for $10,000.

Another Johnstown Victim Found.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., June 27.—The body of an unknown flood victim was found on the Morrel Grounds during a baseball game here yesterday.

PARNELL IS HAPPY

He Says He is Going to Win the Carlow Election.

HIS PLANS FOR THE FUTURE.

He Will Devote Special Attention to Irish Industrial Questions.

Coming to the United States in the Autumn—He Will Attend the Baltimore Convention—Minister Reid Gives a Dinner and Ball in Honor of Mrs. McKee and Mrs. Harrison.

LONDON, June 27.—In an interview with Mr. Parnell at Brighton he said that he found it impossible to procure a license for marriage in any country church, and in order to prevent delay he thought it best to marry in the registry office. The church ceremony would be performed in London as soon as he was able to put in a fortnight's residence there—probably after the Carlow election.

He will probably go to Carlow this evening. He says he is confident that he will win the only election since the divorce suit which he has had a chance of winning. He would take his wife to Carlow if possible, but she was a bad sailor and was likewise compelled to remain near her lawyers owing to the coming trial of the suit over the will of her late aunt, Lady Wood, in which suit her brothers contested her right to the Eltham property.

His Future Plans.

Mr. Parnell says he intends in future to devote special attention to Irish industrial questions, in which he was more interested than any other. He had given a general support to Mr. Balfour's Irish Land Purchase bill, believing it to be a measure well conceived, and that, if well carried out, it would greatly benefit the tenants as well as the landowners.

Will Visit the United States.

He intended in the autumn to visit the United States, where he believed public opinion to be virtually unanimous in his favor. He would try to attend the Baltimore convention.

He had not thought nor did he intend to think upon the political effect of his marriage His wife was perfectly happy, and he was experiencing greater happiness than ever in his life previously.

The correspondent never saw Parnell looking healthier or in better spirits.

THE WHITE HOUSE LADIES.

A Great Ball in Paris in Honor of Mrs. McKee and Mrs. Harrison.

PARIS, June 27.—Last evening Minister Whitelaw Reid and Mrs. Reid gave a dinner in honor of Mrs. McKee and Mrs. Russell B. Harrison. The dinner was followed by a grand ball.

Mrs. McKee and Mrs. Harrison were very handsomely dressed and are greatly admired. Among those present to meet the ladies were Mr. and Mrs. John Jacob Astor, Mr. James Gordon Bennett, Col. and Mme. Jerome Napoleon Bonaparte, Mr. and Mrs. Ogden Goelet, Consul-General and Mrs. King, Mrs. Senator Mitchell and Miss Mitchell, Mrs. Wanamaker and Mr. Bailey Blanchard, Marchioness Chambrun, Mrs. Joseph Pulitzer, the Viscount and Viscountess Dampierre, Countess Gabriac, Baron and Baroness de Lagrange, Count and Countess Chabot, Count and Countess Ganay and Count von Munster.

MRS. PHILO'S DARING ESCAPE.

She Jumped from a Train Going at Full Speed.

CHICAGO, June 27.—Mrs. E. L. Philo, a handsome blonde, aged 28 years, was arrested here yesterday on a warrant sworn out by Deputy Sheriff Reno, of Denver, Col. She was turned over to the Denver officer, who started with her for Denver at 6 o'clock last evening.

When the train was near Ashton, a station 90 miles west of Chicago, the woman jumped through the open window of the car and escaped. The train was running at full speed at the time, and Reno was dozing, not thinking that his fair prisoner would attempt to escape. The train was quickly brought to a standstill, but no trace of the woman could be found.

Mrs. Philo is wanted at Denver for jumping her bail bond. She had been arrested for a large forgery and the case was continued for hearing, the bond being fixed at $5,000. As soon as bail was furnished the woman disappeared.

PRESIDENTIAL TALK.

Collector Cooper Speaks for the Editors of Pennsylvania.

PHILADELPHIA, June 27.—Collector T. V. Cooper has returned from Atlantic City, where he has been with the members of the Pennsylvania Editorial Association.

He was asked who the editors favored for the Presidential nomination and replied: "All the Republican editors are of one opinion. They favor the renomination of President Harrion."

"Are they really for Harrison?" asked the reporter,

"There does'nt appear to be any who oppose his renomination. All with whom I talked, and I talked with a great many, were of one opinion—they favor Harrison. While the Republican editors were a unit for Harrison the Democratic editors debated Pattison as an expedient for the Presidential nomination."

"Then the Democratic editors were not united upon Pattison?"

"They simply discussed him as an expedient," said Mr. Cooper.

SIX YEARS FOR SIMMONS.

The Bank Wrecker Receives His Sentence from Judge Benedict.

NEW YORK, June 27.—A large crowd was present in the United States Circuit Court when James A. Simmons, the wealthy contractor, who was convicted of aiding Gen. Peter J. Claassen, president of the Sixth National Bank, in the embezzlement of the funds of that institution, was brought up for sentence.

Judge Benedict said the evidence left no room for doubt as to the guilt of the accused and sentenced Simmons to six years' imprisonment in the Erie County Penitentiary.

Lawyer Newcombe moved an arrest of judgment pending an appeal to the United States Supreme Court, and Judge Benedict fixed bail at $50,000.

Simmons was taken to Ludlow Street Jail and if bail is not forthcoming on Tuesday he will be taken to the penitentiary.

GABLE AND MRS. AVERY.

Has the Woman Been Coaxed Back to Her Husband's Home?

Two weeks ago—so runs the story—a Plainfield man who was looking about in the parlors of the Astor House in New York city for his wife, who was to meet him there by appointment, was surprised to see Mr. and Mrs. Wm. B Avery in one of the side rooms. The man—he says—was pleading earnestly with the woman for her to return to his home, be forgiven and be his true and loving wife henceforth. Mrs. Avery seemed to be obstinate, but subsequently—it is asserted—she permitted herself to be coaxed back to her husband's home; and last Thursday a story was about town that she and Avery had been living together in North Plainfield for more than a week. There were two varieties of the story: one was that she was truly penitent and was determined to lead a faithful life henceforth, and that the two were moving their household goods to New York city, to start life anew; the other was that the woman feigned to consent to return and stayed with her husband long enough to wheedle him out of more money which she wanted for John B. Gable and herself. The return of Gable with promises of repentance is said to have been very like the return of Mrs. Avery, both—it is stated—being able by their deception to add materially to their finances. There are those who seem positive that the two elopers have really gone away together again and have left the east for Chicago.

At Mr. Avery's former home, which he recently sold to a New York man, nothing bearing on the matter could be learned. Judge Codington, however, counsel for Mr. Avery said that he did not believe either of the two stories about Mrs. Avery's alleged return.

"Mr. Avery"—he said—"has all along insisted that he would have nothing further to do with the woman, and has been anxious that divorce proceedings shall be pushed. If in the meantime he has been seeking a reconciliation he has been playing a sharp trick on me, and I don't believe that he has practiced any such deception. I think he contemplates boarding alone in the household of the man who has purchased his home. So far as Gable is concerned, it may be that he and Mrs. Avery have spent all the money they had and that he has therefore abandoned her and would really like to stay in Plainfield again. I don't believe he can stay away, and I think he'll be back before long."

WILL BASS ALMOST KILLED.

He Has a Fearful Encounter With a Flatbush Marine Monster and is Badly Hurt near His Summer Residence.

Everybody knows Will Bass—who was "Buck" Bass in the days of long ago—the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Bass of West Eighth street. His wife is a sister of Mrs. Herbert Brooks of West Seventh street. Since his marriage he has lived in Brooklyn, but now it is rumored he has taken a cottage at Flatbush for the summer and has already been trying its waters.

The Kings county Journal tells a very harrowing tale of him in its issue of the 17th inst. It says: "William F. Bass, the great admirer and breeder of fancy poultry, who is about to make Flatbush his home had a queer adventure last week while fishing near his summer cottage, not far from East Rockaway. Mr. Bass and his neighbor, Mr. Simmons, went out in a small boat to try their luck at fishing. They rigged up a rope with a chain hook attached, and in fun commenced to fish for sharks and young whales.

"Almost immediately the hook was grabbed by some monster, and the boat started at a three-minute gate, very fortunately heading for shore. Mr. Simmons jumped out and swam ashore, but Mr. Bass remained in the stern of the boat very much excited, and with great anxiety as to how the incident would end.

"The monster, which turned out to be a dog fish, stranded himself in the sand on shore, and by the help of a farmer's horse was pulled out and killed, but not without first smashing the boat with his tail, and giving Mr. Bass a terrible blow on the leg, which confined him to the house for several days. The monster fish will be preserved and presented by Mr. Bass to the private museum of Hon. Joseph Miller, of Plainfield, N. J."

HE GOT THIS ONE FAST.

Detective Mattox Captures What is Supposed to be One of the Phillipsburg Burglars.

As announced exclusively in THE PRESS of yesterday, the officers along the line of the Central railroad are on the watch for a coterie of burglars wanted by the Phillipsburg authorities for recent deeds committed in that city. The story was also told of how Detective Mattox got on the track of one and chased him off of a coal train through Fourth street and down Park avenue, but the suspect had a long start and disappeared around the corner of North avenue and through Robert's livery stables before Mattox could reach him.

To-day, however, the Detective got one. He, too, had just come down on a coal train, and as it stopped west of Plainfield, Mattox jumped on a car that the fellow was riding, and seized him. Concealed on his person was a very fine steel jimmy of the best workmanship and with its points freshly ground. He is now in the city jail and word has been sent to the Chief of Police at Phillipsburg.

The members are all helping the committees, and there will be such a parade and attendance of members of the Order as has not been gathered together before at a parade in this State. Invitations will be sent to every Lodge in the State.

"For the Uniform Rank every officer of the Regiment, as well as the Division officers, are trying to get everything in shape. The Colonel is visiting the Divisions and urging them to get a full turnout. The Divisions themselves are reciting a great many and there is no doubt but that this parade will be one of the best in the history of the Rank in New Jersey.

"The brethren of Plainfield expect everybody to come, and as the invitation is so broad every member of the Order in the State should endeavor to be present.

WHEELS AND LANTERNS.

Plainfield Cyclers Participate in a Big Event at Jersey City.

Jersey City wore its holiday attire Thursday evening in honor of the Hudson County Wheelmen and their numerous guests, who afforded the people an opportunity to witness a novel and pretty spectacle. The local wheelmen had a housewarming, and this jolly event was preceded by a lantern parade. The parade started from the Hudson County Wheelmen's handsome new club-house at No. 111 Belmont avenue at half past eight, and traversed a route about three miles long, covering the distance in forty minutes. Five hundred bicyclists, each with a lantern, participated in the parade. The following clubs were present: Atalanta Wheelmen and Business Men's Cycling Club, of Newark; Bedford Club; Brooklyn Wheelmen and Prospect Club, of Brooklyn; Elizabeth Wheeling Club; Flemington Bicycle Club; Manhattan Cyclers, of New York; Athletic Club Wheelmen, Pamrapo Athletic Wheelmen, Greenville Cyclers, Plainfield and Westfield Clubs; Union County Roadsters, of Rahway; East Orange and Orange Cyclers, and the Wheeling Division of the Jersey City Athletic Club.

The club-house of the Jersey City Club was gorgeously decorated. A brass band furnished lively music.

After the parade there was a jubilee at the new club-house of the wheelmen Elaborate preparations had been made for the entertainment of the guests, and the committee had arranged a programme that would please. It was a great night for the popular cyclers.

Music Hall to be Renovated and Re-established.

As already stated in THE PRESS, after years of occupancy of the position, Craig A. Marsh this spring positively refused a reappointment as manager of Music Hall, and the board of directors then decided to place the management for the coming season in other hands.

Not only has such change been made, but a stockholders' meeting is called for Friday evening, July 10, for the purpose of authorizing the board of directors to raise a sum of money, which, it is rumored, is to be spent in beautifying the entrance, renovating the Hall, buying new accessories, improving the heating, remedying the acoustics and possibly building private boxes. There is every probability, if all this is so, that Plainfield's Music Hall is to be pulled up out of the hole. The city is worthy of and the community will support a first-class opera house and theatre here, and the very best companies are anxious to come.

Fire in a Dunellen Church.

Last Sunday evening, while the young people were holding prayer meeting in the basement of the Dunellen Methodist Episcopal church, a fire was discovered in the oil room. The Rev. Mr. Kinsey rushed to the spot and with the help of some gentlemen near at hand succeeded in throwing the burning mass through the window. Just before the meeting a boy had filled the lamps and in lighting them had thrown the match among some waste paper, which had ignited, and in a few moments caused quite a blaze. A three gallon can of kerosene stood within a few inches of the spot, and had not the fire been noticed when it was, in less than five minutes this would have exploded and nothing could have saved the building, as they have no apparatus to cope with any such fire as that might have been. Those present at the meeting lost no time in getting out of the room.—Bound Brook Chronicle.

Scandinavians Will Find a Warm Welcome Here.

Nothing in the way of Sunday-school work in this city reflects so much credit on its organizers, or has been so successful, as the class of Swedes and Danes that meets in the Park Avenue Baptist Sunday-school room every Sunday afternoon at 3:45 o'clock. It was started in August of last year with only a small membership, but now the number of regular attendants has reached 75. Bible study and gospel singing are the usual exercises, but on the last Sunday of each month a Swedish minister preaches to the class in their native language, and there is singing in Swedish also. Through the courtesy of Mr. Satteis the class are in possession of a fine new organ that greatly adds to the interest and pleasure of their exercises. To-morrow the Rev. Mr. Eckman, of New York, preaches.

She's a Good One Herself, and Her Mother Was a "Daisy."

One of the most famous cows for her age to-day is the registered Jersey, "Mullen", one of ex-Mayor L. V. F. Randolph's herd. This cow, though past 12 years old, is now yielding upwards of 20 quarts of milk per day (without forcing), and of butter, 2 pounds 2½ ounces per day, or at the rate of 15 pounds of butter per week. Her dam was the famous cow, "Daisy of Belhurst", one of the earlier of the great Jersey butter makers," with a record of 17 pounds 8 ounces of butter in one week. "Mullen's" sire was the great prize bull, "Much Ado". His dam, "Dandelion", made 16 pounds of butter per week when sixteen years old.

They Work Wonders.

For over 6 years I have been afflicted with Dyspepsia; could not eat meat without distress and sickness of the stomach afterwards. Have used Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills for 2 weeks, and now eat all kinds of food without return of old trouble. They certainly work wonders in curing Dyspepsia or Stomach Troubles.

PLAINFIELD BICYCLISTS ABROAD.

Young Ladies and Their Escorts Take a Fine Long Trip.

(From the Clinton Democrat, Thursday.)

The four bicyclists who came into town so gally a little before noon on Tuesday and attracted the attention of our citizens by their fine riding, were a son and two daughters of Dr. Fritts and their friend, Mr. Osburn, of Plainfield. They took dinner with Ransom White and after an hour's rest started for Asbury. They expect to visit Washington, Frenchtown, Baptist-town, Flemington, Readington, and other pleasant places before they return next Saturday. Since they were here the bicycle craze has increased, and some of our new beginners have nearly lost their heads.

(From the Washington Star, Thursday.)

A party of bicyclists from Plainfield, consisting of Andrew Fritts, John Crawford, Miss Lillian Fritts and Miss May Fritts, arrived in town yesterday morning and were the guests of Dr. C. B. Smith for dinner. They came via Clinton and Asbury and will return via Easton, Milford and Flemington, and expect to arrive home this evening.

I HAVE had catarrh for twenty years, and used all kinds of remedies without relief. Mr. Smith, druggist, of Little Falls, recommended Ely's Cream Balm. The effect of the first application was magical, it allayed the inflammation and the next morning my head was as clear as a bell. I am convinced its use will effect a permanent cure. It is soothing and pleasant, and I strongly urge its use by all sufferers.—Geo. Terry, Little Falls, N. Y.

NEW YORK, June 27.—The action of Julia Harfield for a divorce from David Harfield, formerly a pawnbroker at Richmond, Va., who is undergoing a term for bigamy at Sing Sing, was concluded before Judge O'Brien in the Supreme Court Special Term during the morning. She and Harfield claimed in the criminal that the ceremony was only a betrothal. Decision reserved.

Many War Vessels in China.

A Pictured Gem.

One of the strangest lapidarian freaks that has ever come within the knowledge of diamond experts is now on view at the Burns Hotel, in Kimberly, South Africa. The stone, says the Jeweler's Weekly, is in shape and size like a pigeon's egg, of a dark brown color externally, and at first sight opaque. If viewed in a dark place, with a candle or other light so placed that the rays pass through the stone before falling on the retina, however, one sees distinctly the image of a man from the waist upward. Turning the pebble, he sees at another point a woman's face, partly concealed by heavy tresses, and yet, again, on another portion of the surface being applied to the eye, a moonlit cloud sketch is clearly delineated.

The stone was found in a debris wash up, and £10 10s have been refused for it. A Mr. Bergsma, a debris washer, was the finder of the remarkable stone.

SUCCESSFUL WOMEN.

Three Interesting Examples of Bright Young Americans.

The Evening Sun's "Woman About Town"—A Girl Who Has Shot an Indian and Saved a Camp—Mrs. Sophia Braeunlich.

[COPYRIGHT, 1891.]

One day I heard of a woman up-town who believed she had made a discovery. "The Evening Sun's 'Woman about Town,'" said she, "is not a woman; she (sic) is a man! The man has studied women, and he knows how they think, and how things look to them, but he has one failing, every now and then he gets drunk and goes on a spree."

The person addressed inquired with all gravity from what the lady drew her inferences.

"Well," returned she, "I'll tell you. He runs along with squibs, critiques and one thing and another, the most interesting paragraphs in the paper day after day, until suddenly you miss him. For an afternoon, or possibly two, he doesn't write a line, and when he begins again he's brilliant but sometimes, or I imagine it, a little mixed. The second day he pulls himself together and comes out with a wonderfully sparkling column. He keeps it up, getting more and more delightfully clever, for about five or six weeks, and then he's gone again.

"Am I not right now?"

The person, with a show of reluctance wickedly allowed that she was.

"Now I wish, if you know him, you would go to him and tell him there is a lady who is deeply interested in him and who begs so earnestly that he will reform."

The person went, and the woman sent a return message promising that the interest and sympathy of her (his) unknown friend should rouse her (him) to most earnest efforts to abstain from alcohol. There were no breaks in the column for a long period, and the anxious watcher up-town sent many a note of congratulation.

The watcher was only one of a wide circle of readers whose curiosity has been piqued by the clear-eyed comment of the merry, keen, yet tender woman. Looking to-night into the fireglow I remember a letter that came to me one evening a little more than a year ago. It promised a visit from a friend who would bring with her a young woman who had "just taken charge of a column of the Evening Sun."

In a few weeks I began to hear people ask: "Who writes 'The Woman About Town'?"

In a few more weeks I began to notice on horse cars and elevated trains that three out of every four Evening Sun readers turned first to The Woman.

The gray-eyed girl had struck a fresh note and, stranger as she was, much as her name belied her who had not been about town at all, her witty, every-day philosophy, unusual in a woman, most unusual in a young woman, was cosmopolitan and this included its being metropolitan. She was a success from the beginning.

Probably most of you know by this time that the woman's name is Helen Watterson and that she is a college girl from Wooster University. The future looks very fair before her, for she has a quick insight into human nature, strong common sense and a sweet, wholesome humor to help her to other successes, sure to be won, as her present repute has been by legitimate, non-sensational means.

The Mayor's committee, who have been helping Commissioner Beattie to solve the problem of cleaning New York's dirty streets refer all their mathematical calculations to a tall, brown-eyed young woman, who fills a place on which many politicians look with envious eyes, and who has a most unusual history.

When she went West a few weeks ago, Denver greeted her as "the Colorado girl." With her father, a well-known geologist and expert miner, she journeyed up and down when little more than a baby, till she knew the passes and peaks of the Rocky mountains from Mexico to the Canada line.

She was taught to cling to the mane of a scrubby pony almost before she could walk; she was a good shot before she could read, though her father paid twenty-five dollars for the scrap of a primer from which she learned her A, B, C's.

For months she saw no woman, no children but little Indians; for other months she lived on snowshoes high up among the mountains.

She was a brave child, and the story is kept of how once she trudged after a woman, who had strayed a bit from the emigrant wagons with which they were traveling. As the two passed out of sight over the rise of a little knoll, there started up close at the woman's side an Indian with hand stretched for the scalp lock and tomahawk lifted. Before the blow could fall pop went the little girl's revolver, and there was a live woman and a dead Indian.

At another time the camp was hemmed in by savages. There was one chance of life; it lay it getting word to a body of soldiers beyond the lines of the Indians. The red men had not yet guessed at what a disadvantage they had the party they were besieging, but at any hour the discovery might come. As a forlorn hope it was suggested that the child of the camp might save it if she would risk dying sooner the death that else would soon come. The Indians were used to seeing the little white girl scurrying this way and that on her pony after strayed horses; the Indian children who had played with her had a soft spot in their hearts for her, and it might be if she rode for the soldiers no savage would guess her purpose, while if a man stirred he would be shot and the attack on the camp precipitated. So the stout-hearted child mounted and circled as if she meant only to drive in horses, and in the end she won and brought quick rescue.

Then she came East to study music, and in New York her voice was tried and she found she could sing. She did sing in opera for charity at Cleveland and in other cities. She became soprano of the church of St. Michael's, under the Monseigneur in Jersey City.

The girl had a genius for experiment. She learned Italian in charactistic fashion, going into an Italian family to live and binding herself to pay a cent for every English word spoken. Her first day's lapses cost her two dollars and a half, but after that the fines diminished rapidly. French she learned in the same way, Spanish she had already picked up on the Mexican border.

Still experimenting, she took the civil service examination for custom-house inspectresses, rather to find out what it was like than with any serious purpose. She received an appointment under Collector Magone, took it with some hesitation, made about the best inspectress the department ever had and was retained under republican administration.

Last June Commissioner Beattie appointed her his private secretary, considerably to the vexation of many who thought such a post should not be wasted on a woman.

There is talk, I believe, on account of her mathematical cleverness, of proposing her as a member of the Institute of Accountants.

Is not this a range of experience that could have been had nowhere but in America by a graceful, brown-haired, vigorous-looking young woman?

These are two types of young American womanhood. You will find a third type in the office of the Engineering and Mining Journal. Some years ago there walked up the stairs leading to the office of this influential technical and trade paper a young woman looking for a typewriter's and stenographer's position. She was rather dismayed by the desks piled high with dusty books and papers, and withdrew her application. The next day came another, a slip of a girl with brown eyes and excessively quiet ways who must have seemed particularly out of place among the learned "M. E.'s" and "C. E.'s" who write articles about the lixiviation of silver ores with hyposulphite solutions and the world's visible supply of copper. In days since I have seen this young woman sit modestly silent with the incessant chatter of feminine talk going on all about her, and blush pink and speak six words, all sensible ones, when her opinion was called for; yet among the "M. E.'s" and the "C. E.'s" she persevered and became not only secretary to Editor Rothwell, but spent her leisure studying the exchange bundle and culling scraps of mining news until little by little the whole mining news department, with the task of editing the original matter, toning down the extravagant reports of correspondents enthusiastic over bonanzas and making the Journal felt among miners as a storehouse of reliable facts about their business, fell into her efficient hands.

MRS. SOPHIA BRAEUNLICH.

She developed at the same time a gift for management, was put in responsible charge of the office and the staff employed on it, became treasurer of the Scientific Publishing Company, which gets out the Journal, and a little more than a year ago became business manager.

She is Mrs. Sophia Braeunlich, and the big office of the Journal is said to be, under her management, the best ordered in New York. Are not the three of whom I have spoken interesting examples of bright young American women? ELIZA PUTNAM HEATON.

DOMESTIC DISCORD

Rev. Dr. Ballard and His Wife Have Separated.

HE IS 70 AND SHE IS ONLY 40.

Ocean Grove Religious Circles Excited Over the Scandal.

Every Effort Made to Suppress It—Dr. Ballard Claims that His Wife is Slightly Demented—She Says that Her Life Has Been Made Wretched by Her Husband's Son and Wife.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., June 29.—Great excitement prevails in religious circles at Ocean Grove over the scandal connected with the marital relations of Rev. Dr. Aaron Ballard, vice-president of the Ocean Grove Camp Meeting Association, and his wife. Little else is talked of by the high officials of the town, who are greatly troubled because of its unpleasant features. They have made every effort to suppress it.

Dissension has been rife in Dr. Ballard's family for many months, until at last his wife has left his roof and threatens to sue for support.

Dr. Ballard and his wife have been living with his son, Frank T. Ballard, on Broadway, Ocean Grove. Mrs. Ballard says her life there was most unhappy, and she repeatedly asked her husband to live separately from the son's family, as he had promised to do in the early days of their married life. He refused to do so. At last, growing desperate, she rented a cottage from her uncle, I. D. McKee, and a few days ago moved into it with her effects, and also all those of her husband.

Dr. Ballard threatened by letter I. D. McKee and Rev. C. Sickler, a retired minister, who is now a real estate agent. He claimed that his wife was slightly demented. Mrs. Ballard says that she did not wish to separate from her husband, but she could not live in the same house with his son and the latter's family. She hung her husband's clothes in the closet, and placed all his personal effects in convenient positions for his use.

The front door was left unlocked night and day that he might obtain admittance at any time. Lights were left burning in different parts of the house in preparation for his coming. She acted at all times upon the advice of her lawyer, R. Ten Broeck Stout, of Asbury Park.

Dr. Ballard has left town. Some time ago he told his wife that if she would go to California to her friends he would obtain a free pass for her. She refused to do so. Dr. E. H. Stokes, president of the association, was appealed to by the unhappy wife, but refused to act as mediator until he should have an interview with Dr. Ballard. Dr. Stokes said the affair was a very distressing one, and that it had been hoped it would not obtain publicity. He believed that Dr. Ballard would reconsider his determination not to live with his wife because she refused to live at his son's house.

Mrs. Ballard said that her life had been made wretched by Frank Ballard and his wife. She had notified her husband that his family had moved, but he has not come into the new house. They would be happy, she said, away from his son. Dr. Ballard is also postmaster of Ocean Grove, temperance agent of the New Jersey Annual Conference, president of the New Jersey State Temperance Alliance, and president of the Pitman Grove Camp Meeting Association. He is 70 years old. His wife is 40.

NO TROUBLE EXPECTED.

Sensational Reports Sent Out About the Navajo Indians.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., June 29.—The alarming reports that have been sent out concerning the Indian trouble on the Navajo reservation are much more sensational than the facts would warrant. One of the paymasters located here says they returned from the reservation a few days ago, and the Indians this season of the year collect in bands and paint themselves and indulge in the wierd snake dance. A few white settlers near the reservation, unacquainted with the habits of the Navajos, became timid and made exaggerated reports at the forts, and several troops of cavalry are on the ground, but no trouble is anticipated.

There is some slight difficulty with the Moqui, a branch of the Pueblos, living near the Navajo reservation. They object to the United States authorities taking the children and sending them to school in the East, saying it is against the terms of the treaty. A few of the young bucks are executing the war dance, a kind of bluff, but the troops at the reservation can easily handle them and there is no fear of any serious trouble.

Large Coffee Warehouse Burned.

BALTIMORE, June 29.—The large brick warehouse on Chase's wharf, at the corner of Thames and Philpot streets, used by E. Levering & Co. for roasting coffee, was destroyed by fire last night. How the flames started is not known. There has been no fire in the building since Friday. The industry gave employment to a large number of people of the neighborhood. A large stock of coffee was in the building and it burned fiercely and rapidly. Within an hour everything in the building had been consumed. The loss is estimated at $125,000; insured.

The Jersey Harbor Lines.

WASHINGTON, June 29.—The Acting Secretary of War has granted the request of the Governor of New Jersey and the State Commission for a hearing in regard to the establishment of West Shore harbor lines. These lines were established by the Engineer Corps, but do not meet the approval of the New Jersey officials, and accordingly Assistant Secretary Grant decided to hear the case on July 8.

TWO YOUNG CRIMINALS.

They Have Robbed Over One Hundred Stores and Offices.

NEW ORLEANS, June 29.—An exciting criminal career was temporarily suspended by the sentence to a term in the Parish Prison of Willie Martin and Edward Dixey. The first is 17 years of age and is from Parkville, Mo. Dixey is 21 and is from England.

About two years ago both youths were studying for the ministry in a theological institute in Missouri. There they learned to drink and gamble and their escapades culminated in their running away from the school.

They first went to San Francisco, then to Galveston, Texas, in each place committing numerous larcenies, and finally landed in New Orleans. In the last few months they have robbed over 100 stores and offices, taking anything they could realize a few dollars on. They confined their operations to the day time, and at night lived a fast and gay life with dissolute women. It was one of this class who eventually disclosed their doings to the police and caused their arrest.

With compassion for the youth of the offenders, Judge Baker did not consign them to the penitentiary, but gave Dixey six months in the Parish Prison and Martin one year.

CONNECTICUT HOLD-OVERS.

Senator Read to Inherit Dr. Alsop's Claim to the Lieutenant-Governorship.

HARTFORD, June 29.—The Democratic Senators at their caucus this afternoon will consider the plan of continuing the quo warranto suits against the Republican hold-over Lieutenant-Governor, terminated by the sudden death of Dr. J. W. Alsop. It is proposed that the President of the Senate, D. M. Read, petition the courts to be made a party to the suit.

It will be claimed that if Dr. Alsop was the rightful Lieutenant-Governor, Senator Read, by reason of his present occupancy of the Presidency of the Senate, is the rightful successor. The plan will be definitely determined at the caucus.

BIG MILLS BURNED.

They Gave Employment to About Six Thousand Hands.

WILMINGTON, Del., June 29.—The South Side Mills of the Diamond State Iron Company, covering about four acres of ground, were burned last evening.

The loss is estimated at about $400,000, partly covered by insurance on the machinery. The mill gave employment to about 6,000 hands.

Horse shoes and railroad spikes were the principal goods manufactured.

No Fire Department in the Town.

ALBANY, N. Y., June 29.—Fire early in the morning at Quaker Street, a village 20 miles from here, destroyed a two-story building in which was a hardware store and a local newspaper, the Gazette and Leader; and the Central House, kept by Howell Macomber. The Shouty House was also badly wrecked. The village had no fire department, and the fire burned itself out. The loss is about $13,000.

Working on the Barnaby Case.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 29.—A detective, who has been here working on the Barnaby case, left here for Denver last night. He has been inquiring into the condition of Mrs. Barnaby while here and finds that she was enjoying good health. He stated that he had discovered where the bottle of whiskey was purchased and has traced it to the door of Dr. Graves. He has been working up evidence for the prosecution and claims to have discovered some startling facts.

Fell Off the Building and Was Killed.

NEW YORK, June 29.—Mrs. Ellen Dougherty and Joseph Reed, occupants of the big tenement at No. 555 West 32d street, quarreled on the roof of that house because of the pranks played upon Reed by the woman's children. Reed became very much angered and rushed at Mrs. Dougherty with the intention of striking her. The woman, in trying to escape, fell from the roof and was killed. Reed is under arrest.

Pushing the Lehigh Road.

BUFFALO, June 29.—The Lehigh Valley Railroad, the great coal road, is desirous of getting into Canada and proposes to go in over the rails of the St. Catherine and Niagara Central Railway. This road runs from the Niagara River to St. Catherine. A subsidy has been granted for its extension to Hamilton and a bill is now before Parliament providing for its further extension to Toronto, the objective point of the Lehigh Valley.

Killed by Ice Cream.

MALONE, N. Y., June 29.—The ladies of the Christian Church, in the village of Brasston, Franklin County, this State, gave the first ice cream sociable of the season last Saturday night. Forty-three people who ate the cream were poisoned. The pastor of the church and two ladies have died, and all the others are in a critical condition.

A Madman at Large.

BANGOR, Me., June 29.—An unknown madman, wholly naked when seen, has been causing a reign of terror in Holden. He assaulted a boy named Peterson, and women and children are afraid to leave their houses.

OUTLAWS CAPTURED

Internal Revenue Officers Make Important Arrests.

THEY HAD TO RISK THEIR LIVES.

One of the Prisoners Chief of the Famous Mullen Gang.

Ambushed in the Mountains of West Virginia and Forced to Surrender—They Are Guilty of Murder, Moonshining and Counterfeiting—The Officers Fired Upon When Taking Their Prisoners Away.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., June 29.—Capt. Robert Saunders, Internal Revenue Collector; N. J. Keadle, Special Deputy United States Marshal; S. H. Baldwin and a posse of 10 assistants arrived here at 3 a. m. from Perryville, McDowell County, having in charge two of the most desperate and notorious criminals in the two Virginias.

They were Harvey Mullen, chief of the famous Mullen gang of moonshiners and murderers, and Riley Cooper, his first lieutenant. They were captured in the most inaccessible portion of Buckhannon County, Va., at the risk of the captors' lives.

In lodging the two in jail Saunders and Keadle and their men have done what numerous posses have failed to accomplish.

Mullen and his gang, which is said to number from 25 to 50, have been operating in Virginia, eastern Kentucky and Raleigh, Wyoming and McDowell counties, W. Va., and no less than eight of them are under indictment for murder in one or more of the three States.

They are also wanted in the United States courts for moonshining and counterfeiting.

An attempt was made by a strong posse to capture some of the gang about six months ago, but the marshals were defeated, several of the deputies having horses shot under them.

The next day after the raid, while Thomas Cox was riding along a road, he was shot dead from a piece of woods. The Mullens evidently took him for a deputy marshal.

About two months afterward two prospectors were fired upon in the same neighborhood while searching for coal and had very narrow escapes.

Saunders and his men left Trap Hill, Raleigh County, on June 10, and made their way to the Mullen illicit stills at night.

They remained hidden in a chosen locality for several days, and on June 19 Mullen and Cooper were ambushed and compelled to surrender. As the prisoners were led away handcuffed the party were fired upon, but the presence of Mullen and Cooper prevented a concerted attack, and the officers succeeded in bringing them off.

SUSPECTED HIS WIFE.

A Story of Assassination—The Husband Marked for a Victim.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., June 29.—Information has been received here from Charles Botts, of Donaldson, La., of the brutal murder of Calvin Oberly, a once prominent citizen of Northampton County. He was employed as a laborer on Botts' farm a few years ago, but left his employ to seek richer fields. He grew quite wealthy. A few weeks ago he paid Botts a visit on his farm near Longview, Tex. Botts went on a business trip for a week, and, upon his return, Oberly was missing. Botts inquired what had become of him, whereupon Mrs. Botts said he had attempted to assault her and she had driven him from the house with a shotgun. Botts doubted the story and immediately set out to find Oberly.

One day, while working on the farm, Botts noticed a number of buzzards preying upon some object. Upon investigation he was horror-stricken to find Oberly's remains in an abandoned well. He dared not remove them. He was being watched. He notified the authorities, but could get no satisfaction from them. At last he unearthed a plot that he himself was to be murdered by his wife and son. He fled.

They, however, succeeded in tracking him, and had planned to murder him for reporting the murder, but he sat up in bed all night with a cocked revolver in each hand, and thus awaited the morning, when he fled to Louisiana. Oberly owned a big farm and had just sold it, and with his accumulated wealth was on his way to Bethlehem.

Dishonest Employes.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 29.—Warrants have been issued for the arrest of Charles Biglow, assistant cashier, and Norman Perry, chief clerk of the American Express Company in this city. The men are charged with embezzling the company's funds, but the amount is not stated. The warrant merely charges a defalcation of $1,200, but this is believed to be only one count. Biglow has been in Chicago since Monday last visiting his wife and children, and is expected here to-morrow morning, when he will be arrested. Both men are under heavy bonds to the express company.

HORRIBLE DISCOVERY.

Thirty Skeletons Found in an Ice House in Chicago.

CHICAGO, June 29.—Thirty skeletons were found in an old ice house at the corner of Archer avenue and Hough place.

For several days numerous complaints have been made to the health office and to the Deering street police by residents in the vicinity of Archer avenue and Hough place, who asserted a nuisance of most aggravated form made life almost unendurable. Investigation was made by both departments, but without locating the trouble.

Yesterday the mystery was solved. Several boys found near the corner a human skull and several thigh bones bleached white. The boys told the first policeman they met of their discovery, and he notified the health office. Dr. Ware and several assistants visited the scene and made a more thorough search than had before been made. A bad odor was detected from Schineman's old ice house on the corner. The searchers ripped up a part of the floor and were horrified to find rows of skeletons, some of which the flesh still clung to. Who placed them there is not known, and the authorities will make every effort to find the guilty parties.

The theory advanced by the health officers is that some attache of a medical college brought the subjects there to bleach. The bones were allowed to remain in the building until the matter can be more fully investigated.

WORK OF DESPERADOES.

A Rumor That an Indian Agency Was Attacked by an Armed Band.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 29.—A special from Wichita, Kan., says a sensational rumor is current there to the effect that an attack was made upon the Sac and Fox agency by an armed mob of desperadoes, who are reported to have captured a large treasure and to have made their escape with it.

A United States marshal who arrived here from Guthrie, Oklahoma, says that he has heard the same story at Guthrie. The story which came to his ears was to the effect that the Dalton gang made the attack and intimidated the people at the agency with drawn weapons, robbed them and made their escape.

It is reported that the Indian traders who have been doing a big business with the Sac and Fox Indians since the latter sold their lands to the government, were the heaviest losers. No verification of the report has been received.

A RAIN MACHINE.

The Inventor Says He Will Produce the Article To-morrow.

CANTON, O., June 29.—Frank Melbourne, who professes to have invented a machine by which he can produce rain at will, has predicted a rain for to-morrow, and a number of hundreds of dollars have been put up by local sports that the rain won't fall.

In response to a letter from the Agricultural Department stating that the government would adopt his invention in case he demonstrated its efficiency, he states that he will go to Kansas and there operate his machine. He asserts that he can break the greatest drought with an area of 200,000 square miles in from three to six hours.

From Pulpit to Stage.

CINCINNATI, O., June 29.—Rev. John A. Jayne, pastor of the Christian Church at Falmouth, Ky., has announced his intention of leaving the ministry for the stage. Mr. Jayne is a popular young man and is said to be a good orator. Before entering the ministry he was a member of the stock of a Western company. His reason for leaving the church is that he cannot preach orthodoxy, as his views have undergone a change during the past year. The retiring minister will be married before beginning his career on the stage.

Dissolved the Injunction.

PHILADELPHIA, June 29.—A decision was handed down in the Court of Common Pleas dissolving the preliminary injunction which had been granted upon the application of the city, restraining the sale of the Bradford mills under a judgment for $172,681 confessed by ex-City Treasurer Bardsley for his sureties, John and James Dobson. The court also refused the city's prayer for a receiver. The bill is not dismissed by this decision, but will have a hearing before the full court, which may make another decision when the case comes up for final hearing.

Parnell Denounced.

DUBLIN, June 29.—The "National Press" says of Parnell's visit to Carlow: "Carlow will revolt against the outrage. Parnell is devoid of moral sense and cannot comprehend the mental attitude of religious people against his crime. Carlow will make it plain that the hero of the squalid scene at Steyning is impossible as far as decent men are concerned. Parnell only added crime to crime by the performance at the registry office."

Phoebe Cousins' Case Before the Court.

CHICAGO, June 29.—The suit of Phoebe Cousins against the Board of Lady Managers and the National Commission Board of Control for an injunction which will restore her to the position of secretary of the Board of Lady Managers came up for a hearing to-day in Judge Blodgett's court. The argument of the case will probably consume three days.

DISORDER IN ROME

Exciting Scenes in the Chamber of Deputies.

A BIG FIGHT BARELY AVERTED.

Signor Cavalotti Tries to Assault Signor Martina.

Order Only Restored by Adjournment—Rudini Says Italy Will Stick to the Triple Alliance—The Coming Fight in Carlow—Two Prominent Priests Openly Declare for Parnell Since His Marriage.

ROME, June 29.—The sitting of the Italian Parliament yesterday was attended by great excitement.

Premier Rudini declared in the Chamber of Deputies that the government would adhere firmly to the Triple Alliance. He added that Italy and Europe might rest assured that, if these alliances were maintained, the peace of Europe would long be preserved.

The Premier's remarks were greeted with loud cheers from all except the Extreme Left.

Later in the discussion the Radicals construed as offensive some allusions by Signor Martino. Angry Radicals sprang from their seats with violent gestures, drowning the voice of the speaker with shouts.

Signor Cavallotti rushed at Martino, and would have struck him but for the interference of friends. The utmost confusion prevailed, members acting in the wildest manner.

The president of the Chamber, after vainly attempting to restore order, was obliged to suspend the sitting in order to let members come to their senses.

When the Chamber was called together again the president appealed for concord, and was joined in the appeal by Cavallotti, senior member of the Chamber and Bovio, Radical. The three speakers were each greeted with cheers.

Parliament was then prorogued for the summer holidays.

ALL EYES ON CARLOW.

The Parnell-McCarthy Contest in that County Arouses Interest.

LONDON, June 29.—During the course of the next 10 days the County Carlow will be the point of political interest to which all eyes will be turned.

Carlow is the smallest county in the Kingdom, being only 20 miles long by 20 miles broad. It contains a population of upward of 46,000 and an electorate of 7,212, a thousand of whom are Tories.

Mr. Hammond, the candidate put forward by the McCarthy faction, is a prominent and popular merchant of the town of Carlow, and has been for 12 years chairman of the Town Commissioners, which during that time has been a model of municipal government. It is the only town in Ireland which is lighted by electricity.

Mr. Andrew Kettle, who is Mr. Parnell's nominee, is a stranger in the county, and is a tenant farmer in the County Dublin. He contested unsuccessfully a division of Cork at the general election in 1890.

The towns are for Mr. Parnell, but the rural districts are believed to be inclined to the McCarthy party.

The Tories of the district will vote for Mr. Parnell if they vote at all.

There is a significant fact, to which Mr. Parnell's recent marriage has contributed, that two prominent priests have declared for him, while the McCarthyites are far less confident than they were at the recent elections.

They will certainly miss Mr. Michael Davitt's tremendous energy and widespread influence at the polls.

BARDSLEY'S RASCALITY.

His Home in Germantown Purchased With Public Money.

PHILADELPHIA, June 29.—One of the most interesting and important discoveries made by the mayor's experts, who are re-overhauling city books and Bardsley's papers to test the truth of the ex-city treasurer's defense made in court, bears on the purchase of the house in Germantown. The house was purchased with public money.

In his pathetic statement read before Judge Wilson about his frugal life of self denial, Bardsley said that the purchase price—$20,000—represented his wife's savings of her 10-cent pieces and his savings from all outside sources.

Mr. Graham will be able to show when Bardsley is brought up for sentence that instead of being bought with Mrs. Bardsley's 10-cent pieces, the house was paid for with a check drawn against public money. The experts will be ready for Mr. Graham in a day or two.

Lowell Sports in Luck.

LOWELL, Mass., June 29.—The figure 2, on which a large amount of money was staked, turned up for the forty-third consecutive time at Mitchell's policy shop Saturday evening. The sports here win from $50,000 to $60,000 on the result. One prominent storekeeper here won $16,000 in the forty-three drawings. The bank paid out money until its funds were exhausted and then notified the other winners that they would have to wait for their cash until money was received from Boston.

Captain Shaw Resigns.

LONDON, June 29.—Captain Eyre Massey Shaw has resigned as chief of the Metropolitan Fire Brigade. Captain Shaw was born in county Cork, Ireland, in 1830. He served a short time in the army and was appointed superintendent of the Belfast constabulary. In 1861 he succeeded Superintendent Braidwood, who was killed in the great Tooley street fire, as chief of the Metropolitan Fire Brigade. He now retires after thirty years' service.

PRINCE GEORGE'S VISIT.

The Young Nobleman Expected in New York To-morrow.

NEW YORK, June 29.—Prince George of Greece is expected to arrive in New York from San Francisco to-day or to-morrow, and will remain here until Saturday, the Fourth of July, when he will sail on the Servia for Liverpool. The Prince arrived in San Francisco on Tuesday by the steamship Gaelic from Yokohama, to which port he was carried by the Russian gunboat Kolata from Vladivostock. There he left the Czarevitch, after accompanying him on his tour around the world, and distinguishing himself by defending the heir to the Russian throne from the Japanese assassin near Tokio.

The Greek consul at this port, Demetrius N. Botassi, with the managers of the large Greek cotton exporting firm of Ralli Brothers and other prominent Greeks will give a dinner to Prince George at Delmonico's. As he is of a quiet and retiring disposition, it is probable that but few guests will be asked to attend. A visit will be made by him to the mayor and other city officers, and the principal places of interest in the city will be viewed.

Commander Lomen of the Russian Navy accompanies the Prince, who is just twenty-two years old, as his naval instructor, and under his guidance the royal visitor will easily make himself at home in New York, as the Commander has been in this city before. From here they will proceed immediately to St. Petersburgh, where the mother of the Prince, the daughter of the Grand Duke Constantine, is to meet him. The Czar has desired personally to thank the Prince for his aid to the Czarevitch when the latter was murderously attacked and it is for this reason that the visit will be made.

Prince George is said to be of striking appearance, six feet two inches in height, and to have a taste for athletics. He holds the position of Lieutenant in the Greek Navy, to which he was appointed on the 9th of last July, being at the head of the torpedo department, in which branch of the service he is reported to have attained much efficiency. So far his parents have signified no desire for him to marry.

THE SAMOA VICTIMS.

Imposing Ceremonies in the Cemetery at Mare Island.

VALLEJO, Cal., June 29.—The remains of the 19 sailors who were drowned at Samoa during the great hurricane of March, 1889, were interred with imposing ceremonies in the naval cemetery on Mare Island yesterday.

The bodies were taken to the cemetery, seven in one hearse, and 12 on a caisson constructed of gun carriages, and were escorted by a battalion from the Marine Corps, a company of sailors from the Independence, members of Farragut Post, G. A. R., Commander Besson, of the French frigate Bubourdied, Admiral Irwin and staff and Commander Wilson, a survivor of the disaster. Commander Clark was in charge of the escort.

At the graves the religious services were conducted by Chaplain J. K. Lewis, and at their conclusion a parting salute was fired and the last call was sounded by the bugles.

TROUBLE FOR NEWSPAPERS.

They May be Sued for Connecting Lady Brooke With the Baccarat Scandal.

LONDON, June 29.—The "Pall Mall Gazette," in referring to certain statements published by society papers, connecting the name of Lady Brooke with the recent legal inquiry arising from incidents occurring at Tranby Croft, says:

"It is understood that Lord and Lady Brooke have instructed Mr. George Lewis to take criminal proceedings against any paper which circulates these unfounded and malicious libels."

Mr. George Lewis is the distinguished London solicitor who prepared the case for Mr. Parnell and the Irish party, which was tried by the Parnell Commission.

The Vice-President's Outing.

RHINEBECK, N. Y., June 29.—Vice-President Morton has just completed all arrangements for a very pleasant midsummer outing in the Adirondacks. Mr. Morton has secured the camp owned by Anson Stokes Phelps on a picturesque island in Upper St. Regis Lake. This is near Paul Smith's well known hotel in the most celebrated part of the North Woods. The party will comprise the Vice-President, his private secretary, R. S. Chilton, his two eldest daughters and their governess, and they will be joined soon after their arrival by Miss Rachel Sherman, daughter of General Sherman. They will probably remain in the Adirondacks a month or more.

Berlin Bricklayers' Fund.

LONDON, June 29.—Berlin advices state that public sympathy is generally with the bricklayers in their demand for sixty pfennings an hour (about fourteen cents). The bricklayers are collecting for a fund they call their "war fund" and which is intended to support them should a prolonged controversy with the employers make necessary an appeal to the public.

Clothiers Said to Be Indicted.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., June 29.—Twenty-one sealed indictments have been brought in by the Grand Jury. It is rumored that the clothing manufacturers concerned in the recent lockout have been indicted for preventing the clothing cutters getting work. The truth of the report cannot be confirmed.

Forty-five Years in One Parish.

I HAVE had eczema for twenty years, and used all kinds of remedies without relief. Mr. Smith, druggist, of Little Falls, recommended Ely's Cream Balm. The effect of the first application was magical, it allayed the inflammation and the next morning my head was as clear as a bell. I am convinced its use will effect a permanent cure. It is soothing and pleasant, and I strongly urge its use by all sufferers.—Geo. Terry, Little Falls, N. Y.

FIRES ENOUGH FOR ONE DAY.

Three Blazes All at Once, and a Single One Later, Make an Exciting Sabbath.

From the locomotive of a Jersey Central coal train which passed through Plainfield at 11:50 Sunday morning the spark-arrester had been removed, to improve the draught, and in consequence a shower of hot coals was thrown all along the line. Fireman James A. Martin was on Park avenue and saw the sparks flying through the air. He knew that in the existing dry condition of things that meant trouble, so he kept his eye open. Near the North avenue station a patch of grass began to blaze, and in the direction of Madison avenue smoke began to arise. Mr. Martin knew that the wooden sheds at John A. Thickstun's coal yard, which lay in that direction, had a great habit of catching fire from locomotive sparks, so he suspected at once that an incipient blaze had started at that place. His suspicions were confirmed by a son of James Conneely, of 35 Madison avenue, who came running up the railroad track to where Mr. Martin was standing. The lad said: "Thickstun's coal yard is afire." Then Mr. Mr. Martin opened Box 13, and Caleb Dickinson pulled the hook.

The sound of the alarm brought crowds of people from the churches and from their homes. The entire fire department of the city turned out, and found a hot blaze awaiting them. A high wind which had strength enough to snap off a huge sound limb from a tree near chief engineer T. O. Doane's house as he ran down the street was fanning the flames and threatening a wholesale conflagration. By hard work, however, the greater part of the establishment was saved, and the fire was prevented from spreading to Spicer & Hubbard's planing mills and other buildings, and was even kept from entering Mr. Thickstun's office building.

The firemen still had a great heap of blazing kindling wood to drench—amounting, Mr. Thickstun said, to more than a thousand barrels—when it was found that the roof of the Plainfield Relief Association's building at West Second street and Madison avenue was ablaze, sparks from fire engine No. 1 having set fire to the shingles. Firemen enough to put out this blaze were spared, and then an alarm came in from Box 47 at the Pond Machine Tool Works, at the southern end of the city. Engine No. 2 was kept at work on the Thickstun fire, while No. 1 was dispatched to the scene of the new alarm. In the goodness of their hearts, the borough firemen, knowing that two separate fires in such widely apart sections of the city meant something serious to grapple with, on such a day, promptly sent Warren Engine, No. 1, following closely after Gazelle, No. 1. When the firemen got to Grant avenue it was found that the fire was out. Locomotive sparks had set fire to the high board fence at the tool works, and had caused a merry blaze. Charles McCarthy had sent in the alarm, but a bucket brigade had successfully fought the flames.

By 1 o'clock the last spark at Thickstun's was extinguished, and the recall was sounded. The loss at the coal yard is estimated at about $1,000, and is fully insured. During the fire a locomotive, which had been telegraphed for, went over the burning trestle and drew three carloads of water pipes to a place of safety.

An awning at J. B. Miller's "Elkwood" was partly burned by sparks from Gazelle Engine.

Four spokes in a rear wheel of Plainfield Engine, No. 2, were broken by the engine swinging against the curb as it swept around a corner.

The hook and ladder truck broke down and is being repaired to-day.

One of the Warren Engine horses fell while running and was quite badly hurt—it may be, crippled for life.

Little fires from the locomotive sparks broke out in the dry grass all the way from Evona to Netherwood, but the people turned out with buckets of water and saved their fences and buildings.

At about 3 o'clock in the afternoon another alarm from Box 13 was sounded, and again great excitement prevailed. A chimney was afire at the house at 22 Peace street, owned by the William Moore estate, and occupied by Dr. Rebecca P. Page and John Y. Barrett. The chimney was in Mr. Barrett's end of the house. Buckets of water emptied down the chimney put out the fire, so the lines of hose that were stretched were not needed, and the firemen contented themselves with watering Mr. Barrett's lawn. The fire burned away a mantel-piece and part of a closet, causing $40 worth of damage to the house, which was fully insured. Mr. Barrett lost rugs, matting, lambrequin, and other small articles, by fire and water. His loss is $50, uninsured.

William Takes the Cake.

Mister Willi m Lee is plain Billy Lee no more, as he carries a cane. He won it at a recent fair by getting the greater number of votes, at ten cents a vote, as being the most popular ball player in Plainfield. Fred Jones, the Crescents' dandy catcher, got almost as many votes as William, which is doing fully as well because he is a comparative stranger here and knows not the best places to find the votes required.

They Work Wonders.

For over 6 years I have been afflicted with Dyspepsia; could not eat meat without distress and sickness of the stomach afterwards. Have used Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills for 2 weeks, and now eat all kinds of food without return of old trouble. They certainly work wonders in curing Dyspepsia or Stomach Troubles.

A MIDNIGHT ROBBER RANSACKS HOUSES.

Mrs. Gable, Hackman Hibbitts, and Others, Among the Victims.

"I think they chloroformed me"—says Mrs. John B. Gable, of 47 Cottage place.—"At any rate, I was very weak and dazed, and was powerless to cry out. It was only dimly that I saw a man breaking open and ransacking the drawers of my bureau, late Saturday night. He got nothing valuable from them, but he found the key to my buffet and stole some silver-plated spoons. He also got $7 in money. He was tall and slim, wore a derby hat, had a mustache, and looked like a tramp."

At the home of James Keefe, 30 West Sixth street, next door to the house of police captain George W. Grant, the burglar crept through an unfastened parlor window and opened the front door so as to have a ready exit. Mrs. Keefe was kept awake by her baby, and heard the man working about.

"Is that you, Jim ?"—she called, and the intruder ran out without getting any booty, although he had had ample chance to pocket Mr. Keefe's watch, which was lying in full view on a mantle-piece.

John Kline lives on Liberty street, near West Sixth. His sister awoke at midnight and saw a man wearing a black derby hat rummaging about in a closet. She screamed, and he ran. Nothing was missing.

The family of Daniel Hibbitts, hackman, 63 West Fifth street, awoke Sunday morning and found that about $25 in money had been abstracted from the pockets of Mr. Hibbitts's garments during the night. The thief passed by a good watch.

Captain Grant thinks the robber is some worthless fellow about town.

Smith, who three summers ago made himself so popular with The Netherwood's guests by his charming courtesy and affability, and his universal complacency under all the trying circumstances that fall to the lot of his profession, is in charge of that hotel again. Mr. Smith's winters are spent in hotel keeping on the Bahama islands.

Among the guests at The Netherwood is A. E. Colson, of Brooklyn, with his wife and Master Colson. Mr. Colson is President of the bank now.

The funeral of Fred. Brokaw, the brave young fellow who lost his life while trying to save a maid servant from drowning at Elberon, took place yesterday. Throngs of people attended. OBITUARY.

Jennie R. Clarkson.

The funeral took place this morning at her late home, 531 Fifth avenue, New York, of Mrs. Nicholas Geoffroy, formerly Miss Jennie Clarkson of this city. She was the only child of Mr. and Mrs William R. Clarkson, for years among the best known and esteemed people of Plainfield. Mrs. Geoffroy died Saturday morning at six o'clock after almost four months of illness and suffering. Her death is a terrible blow to her parents, who have nothing to live for now; and there are hosts of dear friends of the dead young wife in this and other places who will feel the shock of her loss only a degree less severely. There was a large attendance of sorrowing people at the funeral services. The interment, which was private, was made in this city this afternoon.

An Enjoyable and Impressive Song Service.

The Park Avenue Baptist church was crowded last evening to the extent of its entire seating capacity. It was the last evening service before the pastor's vacation and the programme printed in THE PRESS was the order of service.

The theme for the evening, "God be with you till we meet again", was felt in every note of song, every word of prayer, and every verse of scripture. That rare soloist, Mrs. Spicer, of Brooklyn, who is beginning to be well known and loved by the Park avenue congregation, sang two solos most acceptably. Her singing of "Judith" was especially pleasing. The anthem "Hark! Hark! My Soul!" was well rendered by the choir. Miss Runyon's contralto was never heard to better advantage. Mrs. Rider's voice is new to Plainfield people, but her sweet soprano was a delight to all.

The congregation sang the grand old favorites, "Blest Be the Tie that Binds" and "Abide with Me", as though they loved to sing. It was pleasant to hear also the sweet clear voices of some little boys who seemed to feel that it was good for them to be there. The pastor made a few impressive remarks to his people, bidding them take Christ with them on their vacations. "Be Christians wherever you go." He closed by saying: "Just a year ago to-day we pledged the first dollar on our church debt. The pledging of that debt ushered in a year of greater prosperity than the church has ever known. It is with a happier heart than ever before that I enter upon my vacation. There is a great work before us. As we separate for the summer shall we not pray, 'The Lord watch between me and thee when we are absent one from another.' God bless and keep you all!"

The congregation then joined in the closing hymn, "God be with you till we meet again."

A Close Game by the Boys' Club.

The base-ball team of the Boys' Club was defeated Saturday afternoon by the Unions, the score being 11 to 12. The winning run was made in the last inning. The Boys' Club team had the game in their own hands until the fifth inning, when the Unions bunched their hits and made four runs. Shattle, the catcher for the Unions, was struck by a foul ball in the second inning and retired in favor of Firstbrook. The features of the game were the fielding of Doyle and Melvin of the Boys' Club and the batting of Mack and Coverly of the Unions.

Following is the score by innings:

Boys' Club	2	0	4	1	2	1	0	0	1	—11
Unions	0	1	1	0	4	1	0	3	2	—12

The following were the two teams: Unions—Firstbrook, c.; Mack, p.; Coverly, 1b., Pendleton, 2b.; Guinee, 3b.; Turner, ss.; Martin, lf.; Young, cf.; Penny, rf. Boys' Club—Green, c.; VanDiew, p., Sutphen, 1b.; Peterson, 2b.; Conway, ss.; Sheriden, 2b; Doyle, lf; Moran, cf.; Winn, rf. Umpire—Walter Mague.

Give the Old Cannon Lots of Powder.

The members of Plainfield Engine Co., No. 2, are soliciting subscriptions to buy powder for their old "one horn" cannon the famous gun whose possession has been a matter of so much rivalry among the fire companies of Plainfield, Scotch Plains and Westfield. The cannon has been sunk in wells, buried in cellars, and hidden in brooks, but No 2 seems to have a permanent grip on it now.

Now Let the Game Go on.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS—The Arlingtons did not play the Unions Saturday morning as reported in THE PRESS of Saturday. They came up there and played a picked nine with only three of the Unions on it. The Unions would be glad to play the Arlingtons any time they say so.

OUR SIDE SWAMPS THE NORTH SIDE.

The Crescent League's Nine Has 'a Day's Needed Practice, and Pitcher Taylor shows What He Can Do Against a Pony Team.

Even at dusk of Saturday, banners floating over Park avenue still asserted there was a "Ball game to-day". If there was, nobody saw it. The Crescent League's team practiced a little over the brook, and a pony nine flushed with seven "straight" victories over the local teams of Mott Haven chased the ball for them.

Although of course it could n't be called a game, it was quite an interesting affair. The spectators got themselves really excited for the whole nine innings; over the possibility of the ponies getting a run. They called themselves "The North Side Athletic Club", but their real name was "Mud".

Their pitcher was one of those good old-fashioned kind that are just "pie" for Lufbery, Bonner, Jones, McIndoe, Lee and Gregg. In fact, every man of the Crescents made a hit and touched up Master Tynan for a total of 28 bases. The visitor's fielding was also old-fashioned. Green picked up Lee's hit in the sixth inning and handed the ball to Mooney to throw in. Also in the sixth inning when McIndoe, Hammill and Gregg filled the bases Lufbery made that worn-out bluff of racing down the coaching line from third to the plate. Tynan catching sight of what he thought was a runner stealing home in his very face, threw the ball out of everybody's sight, and McIndoe, Hammill and Gregg trotted in before it was found. The next time he pitched the ball, Tynan hit the umpire.

In spite of the result of the Somerville game, THE PRESS thereupon reasserted its faith in Taylor and its belief that the Crescent League base-ball management had made no mistake in giving him a trial. Saturday he was in the box again, and but two little hits, one each in the second and fifth innings, were made off him. He struck out every player on the visiting team excepting three and including Lamer, the North Side's star batter. He still has a little too much false motion. Bonner caught him without a slip except one passed ball that was partly Taylor's fault. There is therefore now no doubt that Bonner can hold him—that is until a foul tip hits Mr. Bonner in the stomach and kills him—so probably Taylor will have a chance to pitch a star game before the season closes. The only other points of interest in Saturday's practice trial are contained in the following score:

Honest Dealers.

It is always satisfying to hear that honest dealing is crowned with success. The proprietors of the Tudor Whisky well deserve the great success they have won. The enormous sale of their whisky is said to be entirely due to the fact that they sell a genuine article and at a much smaller margin of profit than unscrupulous dealers ask for adulterated stuff. It will be well with those who need whisky for medicinal or family use if they try the A. R. Tudor brand.

THE QUICK, OR THE DEAD?

Singular Story of a Thomas Cat and a Borough Family.

There is a family over in the borough who would give twenty-five cents to have someone tell them just what the ghost of a cat looks like. They think they have got one in their house, but they are not sure. It seems that for the past six or seven years the family has cherished and supported a sedate and respectable Thomas cat of domestic habits and irreproachable character. Thomas was always in by nine o'clock, never asked for a latch-key, never kicked at the table, and was all around the very best sort of a boarder. A couple of months ago, however, he began to develope a complication of ailments and indispositions that have wrought a mighty change in his career. His indigestion remained good enough and he ate with his old-time interest and relish, but somehow he got thin and seemed to be pining away on the installment plan. The glow of health faded from his cheeks, and his step lost the elasticity and jauntiness of yore. The family worried a lot about him, but that failed to help him, and he kept getting worse and worse. At last, a week ago, his appetite went back on him and he would not eat. His condition became critical; his pulse went up and his respiration down, and finally he dropped on the cellar floor and looked so really wretched that a young man came in with a gun and shot him in the head. As soon as Thomas realized that he was shot he arose and fled away from the eyes of men, and the family gave him up for dead. The other night, however, just at dinner time, Thomas appeared, a look of benign reproach on his countenance, and his whiskers drooping and untrimmed. The family supposed, of course, that the shot had only killed off his first, or fourth, or seventh, and not his ninth life, and thought that perhaps he was good for a few years more. The girls stroked him, but he didn't purr; the boys pinched him, but he didn't yowl. The look of unutterable superiority which he wore was new and strange and hinted of other and better worlds than this. An awful fear overcame the family. They set a pan of milk and a slice of fish before him, but he turned away and would not eat. What a change was here, my countrymen! Then it flashed upon them that this was the ghost of Thomas and that skimmed milk and fried fish were far from angels' food. And now they wish someone would tell them whether they are entertaining a spook or a freak, and, which ever it is, what is the quickest way to get rid of it.

Engineer Moynihan Now Rides Ahead of the People.

Out of the right-hand window of the cab of the locomotive that draws the train to New York that leaves Plainfield at 7:30, peers every morning now the genial face of faithful J. W. Moynihan. For seventeen years he had commanded "Old 30" that drills the freight cars back and forth in the Plainfield yard, and although year after year he was offered a passenger engine, with a pleasant trip, shorter hours and more money, he preferred to "stay around home". But the company, who never had a more trusty employe, and knew it, insisted he should be promoted. So, as stated at the start, Engineer Moynihan now rides ahead of the people. The company let him take fireman John Logan with him, and have entrusted old 30 to Engineer Whitenack.

Street Car Stables Burned.

NEWBURYPORT, Mass., June 29.—The stables and car house of the Newburyport & Amesbury Street Railway Company were burned last night, with 13 cars. Loss estimated at $100,000, nearly covered by insurance.

Will Injure American Fishermen.

OTTAWA, Ont., June 29.—A bill prohibiting the use of the purse seine in Canadian waters has been introduced in Parliament by Hon. Mr. Tupper. This will seriously interfere with the Gloucester fishermen's methods of hatching mackerel.

Grand Reception to Elks.

BALTIMORE, June 29.—The Baltimore Lodge of the Order of Elks gave a grand reception yesterday at Avondale, near Baltimore, to visiting brethren. About 500 members were present. Past Exalted Ruler Campbell delivered an address of welcome and then the members enjoyed themselves until 8 o'clock last evening, when they returned to the city.

The Bakers' Strike Collapsed.

PARIS, June 29.—The strike of the bakers has collapsed.

A CLERGYMAN'S COMMENT.

Items of General Interest from Pastor Mitchell's Church Paper.

The Visitor, issued monthly by the Rev. C. B. Mitchell in the interests of the Methodist Episcopal church, under date of June 26 contains the following:

Miss Kellum, of Brooklyn, has been visiting Miss Louise Pangborn for several weeks.

Mrs. J. L. Hurlbut and family will leave next Monday for their cottage home at Chautauqua.

Mr. and Mrs. George Burgess, who formerly lived here, have returned and united with the church.

Misses Edith Katline and Mary Martin leave to-day for Chautauqua, where they will remain during the summer.

Miss Minnie French is home from the Woman's College, Baltimore. She had a pleasant year, and is anxious to return.

Mrs. O. L. Jenkins will have charge of the primary department of the Sunday-school during part of July and all of August.

It will be a beautiful sight Communion Sunday to see a large class of young people received into full membership in the church.

The floral decorations of Children's Day were admired by all. Mrs. George H. Burgess and Miss Nettie Homan deserve all the credit.

All our people rejoiced to see James W. Jackson again at his post of duty. Many a heart beats more freely at the signs of his return to health.

Mrs. O. S. Teale goes to the mountains for the summer. Her many friends hope she may find, and bring with her, that which she has sought for so long, good health.

Clifford McGee was home last week from Yale for a few days, and then returned for Commencement; after which he goes to Moody's Summer Bible School at Northfield.

The pastor is looking forward with pleasure to a visit from his mother and sister in a few days. They are now at Atlantic City, where Mrs. Mitchell hopes to get relief from a bronchial cough.

Miss Clara Burt will soon be home from Wellesley, where she has made another year's enviable record. Our Plainfield representative takes no second place among those bright girls at the noted school.

The pastor will be in the far west during the month of August. He preaches in Detroit the first Sunday in August, and then goes to the Black Hills Chautauqua Assembly, where he delivers a course of lectures.

Bishop Vincent was almost as much disappointed in not being here last Sunday as were his numerous friends and admirers in this city. He promises to come at his first opportunity, and a very cordial welcome awaits him.

Bishop Hurst will preach one Sabbath in August, and other equally good preachers will be engaged for the other Sabbaths. The pulpit supply committee intend that the stay-at-homes shall have the best preaching attainable.

The pastor wishes to state that the newspaper reports of his accident were greatly exaggerated. A few slight bruises, and twenty-five cents damage to his wheel, constitute the whole of the story. Nothing too severe has been said of the dog.

It was just like George Cornwell to set on foot, and bring to successful issue, the presentation of our worthy Y. M. C. A. Secretary, Mr. Harry Manning, with a fine safety bicycle. When George has a good thing he wants everybody else to be like favored.

Mrs. Chas. C. Cokefair has been visiting at the home of her father in Hackettstown, for a week past. The father has been quite ill, but is now much better. While in Hackettstown Mrs. Cokefair saw her neice, Miss Albertson, graduated from the Collegiate Institute, located in that city.

July 10, Friday morning—All aboard for Asbury Park and a dip in the surf! That is the day set for our Sunday-school picnic. Every one who can is going. Judging from the past years, it will not rain, and the weather will be perfect. The tickets may be given out next Sunday morning at the Sunday-school.

BUILDING THE NORTH PLAINFIELD CHAPEL.

The plans of architect Teale for the North Plainfield chapel have been accepted by the committee. That prince of builders, Isaac W. Pangborn, has been awarded the contract for the entire construction. The cost will be close around $6,000. Another architect, who saw the plans, said that such a building would cost from $8,000 to $10,000; but builder Pangborn and architect Teale will show us what $6,000 can do when they are wisely expended. We hope to dedicate this beautiful brick chapel about the first of the new year. Those who have so nobly subscribed for this good enterprise can now pay to Jas. W. Jackson, who, with Dr. Carroll and the pastor, constitute the building committee. We are anxious for more subscriptions. Who will be the next?

Injured by Lightning.

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 29.—During the heavy rain storm yesterday lightning struck the residence of Peter Rusan, residing on Wyoming street, near Oakdale, and, descending the chimney, struck Mrs. Rusan, who was sitting near it, and severely burned her face and neck and partly paralyzed her lower limbs. Her children, who were on the floor, were also slightly burned.

Awful Hot in 'Frisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 29.—Yesterday was the hottest day that has been experienced in California for seven years. The mercury stood at 95 degrees on the signal service tower, 105 in the shade at the street level and 120 at Tulare in the San Joaquin Valley. It is expected that most fruits will be benefitted, as the weather heretofore has been too cool for them to ripen properly.

Fell Dead in the Pulpit.

SARATOGA, N. Y., June 29.—Rev. Wm. M. Ogden, rector of the Church of the Holy Cross at Warrensburgh, Warren County, fell dead in the pulpit while preaching yesterday. He was 55 years of age and had been pastor of the church for 20 years. He was well known in Episcopal Church circles throughout the State.

"Dear me, no. I don't know a word of it."

Critics and Actors.

Mr. Outskirts (to wife, who is driving some chickens out of the yard)—Well, I don't see why a woman can't throw a stone. You haven't come within forty feet of one of those hens.

IT IS NOT

A LIE.

A. R. TUDOR'S Rye Whiskey is warranted absolutely pure and ten years old, and the statement is unqualifiedly true. Read the following affidavit:

HENRY SNYDER, Jr., of the City, County and State of New York, being duly sworn, deposes and says that he has been the General Manager of the A. R. TUDOR Co. from its inception, and he knows of his own knowledge that no neutral spirits, flavoring extracts, or foreign ingredients of any kind have ever been used or contained in the Whiskey bottled under the label and trade mark of A. R. TUDOR. He further solemnly swears that he has personally superintended the withdrawal of the A. R. TUDOR Co.'s Whiskey from the U. S. Bonded Warehouse, and that the U. S. Government stamps on the barrels thereof have, in no instance, borne date later than the year 1881.

THE CROSS MOTHER.

A Victim of Weariness of Mind and Body, and Sometimes of Soul.

At no time in her busy days is an intelligent mother so apt to fold the arms and close the eyes of maternal justice as when she is cross—simply and undoubtedly cross. This crossness is chiefly caused by fatigue—weariness of mind and body, and sometimes of soul. With tired nerve and weary body, she can not endure the common demands made upon her, and ill-temper follows. She sows bitter feelings and repels loving attentions with her irritable hasty words. Broadly speaking, no mother has any right to get so tired. She can not afford it. It takes too much of her life, and too much out of her children's life. Such a condition can more frequently be prevented than is generally believed.

The careless or shallow woman says: "I was overworked. It made me cross," and she considers that admission the sufficient reason and excuse for any amount of similar indulgence. The religious or sympathetic woman worries over it, prays over it, sheds bitter tears—and then the trouble repeats itself. The remedy lies near at hand. Let a mother find out what makes her cross, and then let her avoid the cause if possible. If social pleasures weary her, let them be decidedly lessened. If there is too much sewing, too much cooking, or too many household cares, lessen them. If economical efforts cause the severe strain, stop economizing at such a cost. That is the worst of wastes. Let the first economy be of that precious commodity, a mother's strength. Even the extent of one's religious and philanthropic work should be carefully examined, and if the trouble lies there, calmly and wisely dismiss some or all of it from the list of duties, for "what doth it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul?" It is surprising how easily seeming interests or needs can be spared without injury to the home life whenever the thoughtful woman seeks to find them, and surely one of the worst of household influences is mother's crossness.—Agnes B. Ormsbee, in Harper's Bazar.

The other screen is made of white gilt wood holding a huge grandmother's work-bag, set off with a torsade of loops and ends of ribbed ribbon striped with satin. The mouth of the bag is edged with gold lace and lined with plain silk. The broad ribbon by which it is hung to the side posts is either in embossed silk or embroidered webbing according to the material employed for the circular receptacle.—N. Y. Morning Journal.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

A CRACK in the stove may be mended by mixing ashes and salt with water.

A PIECE of zinc put on the live coals in the stove will clean out the stovepipe.

TO BRIGHTEN the inside of a tea or coffee pot, filled with water, add a piece of soap and boil for about forty-five minutes.

SAVE the fine coal ashes which collect under the oven. They are excellent for scouring tin and all kitchen utensils.

BUTTER or cans of milk may be kept perfectly cold by being wrapped in a cloth and set in a deep dish containing a little water, where air is circulating.

RAISINS can be stoned much more easily if boiling water is poured over them and they are allowed to soak for a few minutes. The stones can then be removed with very little trouble by pinching the fruit at the stem end.

NEVER put away food in tin plates. Fully one-half the cases of poison from the use of canned goods is because the article was left or put back into the can after using. China, earthenware, or glass is the only safe receptacle for "left-over."

A SMUGGLER'S PARADISE.

How Chinamen Gain Access to the United States.

Looking at the map one may see that the northwest corner of the state of Washington is torn off, and the space that is left is filled with water, dotted with an archipelago. The island of Vancouver fits partially into the gaping corner as if it had been torn out by some gigantic convulsion. The tatters and debris of the rent form the archipelago. Our national interest centered in that corner long ago when that portion of the boundary was in dispute, and the tension of a war feeling was only relieved when a foreign arbitrator settled the boundary, and gave us the island of San Juan, the most important in the group. The city of Victoria, writes Julian Ralph in Harper's Magazine, confines nearly all the population on that corner of Vancouver island; the city of Vancouver is the main settlement on the British Columbia shore, and on our borders are such little places as Whatcom, New Dungeness, and Port Angeles, in the state of Washington. Port Townsend, on Puget sound, is the principal American town near by, and the headquarters of the scanty force of customs officials who are supposed to guard against the smuggling, and who are entitled to the presumption that they are doing their best in this direction. Victoria has only twenty thousand population, Vancouver fewer still, and the islands only here and there a house. Deer abound upon these islands, which are heavily timbered, and the waterways between them feel the keels of but few vessels—of none at all, except the smallest craft, outside the main channels. It would be hard to imagine a more difficult region to police, or a fairer field for smugglers. Old London itself has scarcely a greater tangle of crooked and confusing thoroughfares than this archipelago possesses, and these waterways are so narrow and sheltered that mere oarsmen can safely and easily travel many of them. It is a smuggler's paradise.

Those who transport the Chinamen are all white men. The resident Chinese act as their confederates and as the agents of the smuggled men, but do no part of the actual smuggling, that is to say, the boating. The great smuggling is of opium. The introduction of the Chinese themselves is of small account, so far as the defiance of our laws is concerned, as compared with the introduction of opium. Yet that extensive business also is carried on by white men. The Chinese can not pass to and fro as white men can, therefore they leave the traffic to the whites.

These white men are of the class one would expect to find in such business. A government employe in Victoria told me that I would "be surprised to know what important and respectable persons were connected with the smuggling," but as he gave me no further enlightenment, and as I failed to obtain any proof that any number of so-called respectable men profited directly by the business, I did not and do not believe that there are many such. Those who do the smuggling of the Chinese are unprincipled and reckless characters. They make their bargains with those Chinese whose business it is to arrange for the carriage of their countrymen into our country. The boats employed are small sail-boats, and quite as small steam-launches. When the owner of one of these boats has secured a sufficient number of Chinese to make the venture profitable if it succeeds, the journey is made at night, without compliance with the law which requires vessels sailing after dark to display lights at their sides. At times the contrabands are landed near Whatcom, at times near Port Angeles or New Dungeness. San Juan island, within our border, is only twelve miles from Victoria, and has a few Chinese resident upon it. At times Chinamen are carried there. Once there they can cross to the mainland with more freedom, and with a possibility of obtaining testimony to the effect that they are and have long been domiciled on American soil. The smugglers charge twenty dollars to twenty-five dollars for landing each Chinaman on our coast; twenty dollars is the ordinary and usual charge. Wherever the Chinamen are landed they find either men of their own nationality to secrete them, or white men awaiting their arrival, and ready to take them to some Chinese quarters. Once on land the danger of arrest is greatly lessened, and after a newly-smuggled Chinaman has made his way to one of the larger towns or cities near the coast, his fear of detention by our government vanishes entirely.

More Meaning to Do.

Convert (who has but recently espoused the faith and has just "busted" his suspenders)—Dang the dinged luck!

Minister (who happens to hear the remark)—Tut, tut, man, you mustn't swear. I thought you had mended your ways.

THE ALGERIAN'S LIFE AT STAKE

Three Lawyers Fighting Hard to Prove His Innocence.

Microscopic Tests that Will Probably Tell Against the Prisoner—The Knife Passed Around in Court—One Point Brought Out in the Alleged Murderer's Favor—What the Defence Claim.

NEW YORK, June 30.—Ameer Ben Ali, the Algerian vagabond, variously known to the police as George Frank, Frank Sherlick and Frenchy No. 1, and to New York at large as Jack the Ripper, is on trial for his life before Recorder Smyth, charged with the butchery of the old woman Carrie Brown, alias Shakespeare, in the East River Hotel on the night of April 23.

When the court opened at 10:30 the jury filed in and solemnly took their seats. Chief Inspector Byrnes strode into court, accompanied by Detective Sergeants McClusky, Frink, Crowley and Aloncle, and took a seat at the right of the bench. On the benches at the back of the court there were not more than a dozen spectators, all morbid curiosity seekers being rigidly excluded by order of the Recorder.

Viscount d'Absac, the French Consul-General, and M. Edmond Heurtel, counsel to the French Consulate, seated themselves near the counsel for the defendant.

Behind the bars of the prisoners' pen sat a motley gathering of gaudily attired women and tough looking men, Cherry street rounders and habitues of the East River Hotel, awaiting their turn to be called as witnesses for the people.

The Algerian, closely attended by an officer, emerged from the pen and stumbled down to the table occupied by his counsel. The prisoner's hair was carefully "slicked" and his straggly beard was trimmed into some semblance of respectability. He halted in front of the jury, executed his peculiar salaam by raising his hands with the palms extended, placing the tips of his fingers on his breast and touching them to his lips, and then dropped into his seat and fixed his gaze on vacancy. All eyes in the court room were fixed upon his yellow and wrinkled visage as he sat stolidly between his counsel, Lawyer Friend, and the interpreter, blinking at the sunlight that streamed full upon his face from the southern windows.

Most of the testimony taken was a repetition of that delivered at the coroner's inquest six weeks ago.

Catherine McGovern, who first identified old Shakespeare's body; Policeman Jeremiah J. Griffin, who took the knife from under it, and Policeman John Mularkey, who kept stragglers away from the scene of the murder, testified. As the knife was passed from hand to hand through the jury box Frenchy observed it in an apathetic fashion.

A Point for Frenchy.

Mary Minetur, the girl who assigned a room to Shakespeare and the missing fair-haired man on the night of the murder, told her story over again. She didn't know who Shakespeare's companion was or whether he had a mustache or hazel eyes or fair hair. "He was tall and lightish," said Mary. "I thought he might have hazel eyes because he was light complexioned. The man certainly was not Frenchy."

Microscopic Tests.

By microscopic tests it was shown that the dark red spots upon the prisoner's shirt and fingers were made by blood mingled with intestinal fluid. The experts testified that in the scraping from Ben Ali's nails were infinitesimal bits of the very food Carrie had eaten, mingled with blood corpuscles. The woman was old and thin blooded. The blood corpuscles found upon the person of Frenchy No. 1 were shown to have come from an anæmic person. Carrie Brown was choked to death; then her murderer slashed at her senseless body.

The experts for the prosecution testified that minute inspection of the fine, dried blood found upon "Frenchy's" hands and clothes showed that it came from a dead, not a living, body.

This is the most terrible evidence that could be brought against Ameer Ben Ali. Beside it the detectives' testimony about bloodstains on the floor leading to his room itself sinks into insignificance. But will it be strong enough to overcome the feeling in the prisoner's favor sure to be created by the absence of the man who led her to her death chamber?

The prisoner's lawyers closely examined every witness and are working hard to save their client. They will claim that it was Shakespeare's companion who committed the crime, after which he made his escape by the skylight to the roof.

Lindsay, the noted lawyer, of Utica, arrived here last night with a commission to act for Attorney-General Tabor, with Lansing & Lansing, of this city, in the trial before Gov. Sensational News About Bismarck.

LONDON, June 30.—The Times this morning publishes an interview with Count Von Munster in Berlin in which he says that Prince Bismarck's retirement was determined upon by the old and not by the young Kaiser. The statement will undoubtedly create a sensation in Germany.

The names of the escaped prisoners are James H. Coffey, Daniel Sullivan and John Lynch, sentenced for short terms from Boston.

A STAY FOR HALLINGER.

The Colored Jersey Murderer's Case Appealed to the U. S. Supreme Court.

TRENTON, N. J., June 30.—Edward A. Hallinger, the colored Jersey City murderer sentenced to be hanged to-day, was denied a writ of habeas corpus in the United States District Court.

His counsel at once appealed to the Supreme Court of the United States. This acts as a stay of execution, and the case may not be decided for at least three years.

The ground for the application was Judge Knapp's neglect to take testimony to determine Hallinger's guilt after he pleaded guilty, and also that Hallinger is a British subject, and, under existing treaties, entitled to a trial.

Movements of the Delamater Family.

MEADVILLE, Pa., June 30.—The Delamater Bank failure, which occurred nearly seven months ago, is now forgotten by all except the unfortunate depositors. The Delamater family has dropped out of sight. The Brotherhood of Trainmen in a Conspiracy.

EXPELLED BY THE FEDERATION

They Supplied Men to the Northwestern Road to Take Strikers' Positions.

Powderly and His Lieutenants On Their Way to Washington—Major McKinley's Friends in the Party—Trying to Settle the Meredith Fight—Employing Printers of New York Opposed to Nine Hours.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., June 30.—The committee appointed to investigate the charge of conspiracy preferred against the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen reported to the Supreme Council of the Federation, finding the Brotherhood guilty.

The Switchmen's Mutual Aid Association had preferred the charge, alleging that the trainmen conspired with the Northwestern officials to provide men to take the association switchmen's places. The vote sustaining the report was unanimous except for the three votes of the trainmen in the council.

When the vote on the penalty, moved to be expulsion, was taken, two firemen, Debs and Hannahan, voted with the three trainmen. Three votes each of the switchmen and Brotherhood of Conductors were in favor of expulsion.

Grand Master Sargent, of the Firemen, who is the presiding officer of the council, did not vote.

THE K. OF L. FIGHT.

Powderly and His Lieutenants on Their Way to Washington.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—The fight of the Knights of Labor against Capt. Meredith, Chief of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, has assumed increased interest, in view of the fact that it has been taken up by the executive committee of that Order.

Information has reached here that Messrs. Powderly, Devlin and Hayes had left Columbus, O., to visit Washington in connection with the matter. Accompanying them are Daniel J. Ryan, Secretary of State of Ohio, and D. K. Watson, Attorney-General of Ohio.

The Knights, in a former interview with Secretary Foster, made the threat that they would use the power of that organization to defeat the election of Mr. McKinley for Governor this fall if the demands for the reinstatement of certain Knights of Labor discharged from the Bureau of Engraving and Printing were not complied with.

It is with this object in view that the principal officers of the Knights of Labor are now on their way here accompanied by two of Mr. McKinley's close friends.

Secretary Pasco is of the opinion that the adoption of the resolution will lead to a general strike in September.

He found that all the developed cases in Victoria, six in number, had been segregated on an island about 17 miles from Victoria, where they have been supplied with necessaries sufficient to last them eight months. In two cases Dr. Smith found that the victims of the leprosy had been secretly slain by their fellow countrymen to prevent the possibility of contagion.

HIPPOLYTE CHECKED.

The French Demand Has Stopped the Wholesale Slaughter in Hayti.

NEW YORK, June 30.—A number of New York merchants have received letters by the steamer Adirondack, which arrived here from various Haytien ports last evening.

The letters state that since the demand made by the French Minister for indemnity for the killing of M. Regnand, foreigners are treated with consideration, and that the reported assassination of President Hippolyte was made an event of great rejoicing by the people of Hayti.

The report, when it reached Hippolyte, had one salutary effect on him, for he immediately ceased his wholesale slaughters and modified the penalty for treason against the government to exile, over 100 men being banished from the island.

TIN PLATE AGITATION.

Probability of a Large Exodus of Workmen to America.

LONDON, June 30.—The Times says: "Should the 60 delegates report favorably upon the prospects for tin-plate workers in the United States, it is not unlikely that there will be so large an exodus to America as to lead to a great part of the trade hitherto monopolized by Wales being transferred to America.

"Hitherto the idea has been that it was impossible to manufacture tin plates in America, owing to atmospheric conditions, but tin-plate makers who accompanied the iron and steel delegates to America reported that there was nothing except the want of skilled labor to prevent the successful manufacture of tin plate in America."

The Moody Conference.

NORTHFIELD, Mass., June 30.—The delegates to the Moody conference held a meeting during the morning and discussed the subject of "How to Awake and Maintain Interest in Bible Study." The afternoon was devoted to athletics under the leadership of Stagg, of Yale.

THE CABINET MEET

Diplomatic Matters to be Discussed This Afternoon.

THE BEHRING SEA IMBROGLIO.

Secretary Tracy's List of Vessels Available for Alaskan Waters.

The Arbitration Question to be Considered—Agents of the Chilian Insurgents Present a Communication—They Want Recognition from the United States—Funding the 4 1-2 Per Cent. Bonds.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—The meeting of the Cabinet this afternoon will be devoted almost entirely to the consideration of diplomatic matters, although Secretary Foster will endeavor to bring up the question of funding the 4 1-2 per cent. bonds.

The most important question will be that relating to the Behring Sea fishery. Secretary Tracy will lay before the President a statement showing the number of vessels available for sea service on the Pacific coast, and it will then be decided how many shall be ordered to Alaskan waters to co-operate with Great Britain in suppressing the poaching of seals during the present season.

Advices received by the Secretary from Victoria point to the need of more man-of-war from the United States than the Alert and Mohican to prevent the poaching, and it is very probable that some of the vessels in Chilian waters or on the Asiatic station will be ordered to San Francisco to be ready for an emergency. The question of arbitration of the fishery embroglio will soon be discussed.

Another important question to be discussed relates to the Chilian revolution. The presence in this city of the delegates from the Chilian insurgents leads to the belief that some communication from them will be laid before the Cabinet. Nothing can be ascertained as to what the communication is, but there is good ground for the belief that the government will be asked to recognize their government instead of Balmaceda.

This, however, could not be done now, and it is believed that the Cabinet will decline to even receive the communication, let alone consider it.

MURDER SUSPECTED.

Capitalist McHenry's Remains Exhumed and a Post Mortem Held.

LONDON, June 30.—Considerable curiosity has been excited by the fact that, under an order from Home Secretary Matthews, the remains of the capitalist and speculator, McHenry, were exhumed and a post mortem held.

The stomach was retained and the remainder of the body reburied. It is thought that suspicion was aroused that McHenry had been murdered.

The only apparent reason for suspecting crime is on account of his connection with the Erie litigation.

Watching German Anarchists.

LONDON, June 30.—German Anarchists have a secret club in East London in which the most dangerous doctrines are discussed and action against other governments urged, if not determined upon. No overt act has, however, yet been proved against these people. A dispatch just received from Berlin says that three of the leading detectives in the Prussian Government service have gone to London to keep an eye on the exiled Anarchists and Socialists in this city during the coming visit of the Kaiser, and to point out to the English police any who are liable to be troublesome.

Stock Brokers in Trouble.

NEW YORK, June 30.—The announcement is made that W. S. Vernon & Co., members of the Consolidated Exchange, are in trouble. Up to the present time the firm has been doing a large and profitable brokerage business, but, owing to delay over expected large check remittances from Buffalo, it has been compelled to default to the extent of six or seven hundred thousand shares of stock. The firm was long of the market.

The Missouri Rapidly Rising.

OMAHA, Neb., June 30.—The Missouri River has risen six inches in the past 24 hours and is still coming up. The Kaiser Changed His Plans.

LONDON, June 30.—The outcry raised by the members of the Lord's Day Rest Association and others against the proposed private visit on Sunday, July 12, to the London naval exhibition has resulted in the Emperor consenting to the postponement of the visit to some day during the week beginning July 12.

OUTBREAK OF BLACK-POX.

The Victims Kept Quarantined Until Shipped to America.

BERLIN, June 30.—Considerable excitement prevails in this and other German cities over the reported outbreak of the disease known as black-pox among the Jewish refugees from Russia.

The disease has already spread to German residents near the frontier, where most of the Jews cross over, and great consternation is felt wherever it has made its appearance. The disease is said to be entirely different from the "black death," which destroyed many persons in Ireland in the early part of 1866, and which had its origin in the East, although the two diseases are somewhat similar in their outward symptoms.

The black-pox is said to be the result of the horrible squalor and filth in which many of the immigrants exist at home, and its breaking out is partly consequent on the privations to which they have been subjected.

The German health authorities everywhere are keeping a vigilant outlook to prevent the spread of the disease from the immigrants, against whom, as far as possible, a quarantine is maintained until they are safely shipped to New York.

At Hamburg and Bremen the immigrants are quietly taught by friends not to say anything about Russia on their arrival in America, but to claim that they were Austrian or German subjects. In this way they hope to escape the scrutiny likely to be bestowed on the Russian Jews.

RUNAWAY BICYCLES.

Painful Mishap of Plainfield Wheelmen While Coasting Down the Mountain.

John M. Crane, Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh, Albert Venino, Guiss Curtis and several of their friends, were coasting on their bicycles down the steep mountain side on the road leading from Glenside Park to Scotch Plains, a day or two ago, when Mr. Venino's wheel collided with that of a young Cuban gentleman who was with the party, and Mr. Venino was thrown headlong down the hill, while several others of the wheelmen, unable to stop themselves, ran into the collided bicycles and were piled up in a promiscuous heap. Mr. Marsh avoided a collision by jumping from his wheel, but he was thrown in jumping, and his hands were badly cut. Mr. Venino was the worst injured of them all, and was bruised and cut a great deal, besides being painfully hurt internally. He was brought by Mr. Marsh to Plainfield in a hack, and is still confined to his room. All of the bicycles were more or less damaged.

The mountain road from Feltville is a favorite coasting place for wheelmen, but after a wheel is once started down the mountain it is virtually a runaway, traveling at express-train speed, and cannot easily be stopped until the level road at the foot of the mountain is reached. The cause of Mr. Venino's accident is said to have been that his brake refused to work.

GREAT GAMES FOR THE FOURTH.

The Crescent League Has Engaged Some New Players, Reduced the Admission Price, and Scheduled Two Strong Clubs for Next Saturday.

THE PRESS has good news for the people to-day. The price of admission to the Crescent League base-ball games has been reduced from twenty-five to fifteen cents, two new players have been signed and a couple of the strongest semi-professional teams in the country will make things very warm for the Crescent players and wildly exciting for the spectators, during the morning and afternoon of the glorious Fourth of July.

One of the new players who have been engaged, is H. H. Cory, of this city, who will play short stop in place of Martin whose careless playing has been noticeable and most objectionable to the spectators for some time past. The other new man is Edward Holley, of this city, who was signed by the West Ends but never played on that team. Holly will take Simmen's place. He is from Phillipsburg where pitcher Taylor also comes from.

Both the latter say that the Crescents will have to play ball Saturday morning in order to win from the Phillipsburgs who are coming down here particularly strong to give their old comrades Taylor and Holley, and the rest of the nine, a surprise party.

If there is anything left of the Crescents in the afternoon, they will play the renowned Flushings whom they once beat last year by the close score of 4 to 2.

The Flushing are now playing better ball than the other clubs in the semi-professional league and have Tom O'Rourke, as catcher, who is well known to the Plainfield public. He caught for the New York league team during their practice and some of their early games this spring.

Verily the Fourth of July will be a great base-ball day in Plainfield again.

Want a Casino Like Plainfield's.

The Westfield Investment and Improvement Company filed articles of incorporation yesterday at Izabeth, with the Clerk of Union county. The company's capital is $50,000, and it proposes, among other things, to build a music hall or casino in Westfield and to form an association similar to the Country Club of Plainfield. The incorporators are Martin Welles, Jonathan S. William G. Delamater, Freeman Blodgood, Charles F Oxley, Nathaniel B. Gardner, Alexander S. Clark, Charles B. Peddis and Luther M. Whittaker.

Catcher Jones Also Gets His.

The number of votes secured by Catcher Jones in his recent competition with Third baseman Lee for a gold-headed cane, was so large that the Emerald Benevolent Association, under whose auspices the contest took place, have presented Mr. Jones with a costly smoker's set consisting of a pair of elegant cigar-holders, a beautiful meerschaum pipe, and other paraphernalia. The recipient is full of appreciation of the handsome gifts and sincerely thankful to the Association for their unexpected courtesy.

Cut Them Out.

Original receipts by Maria Parloa, Mrs. Rorer, Amy Barnes, Mrs. Lincoln, Miss Bedford, Marion Harland, Mr. Dearborn and other adepts in the culinary art will appear in THE PRESS columns, the first one to-day, on the first page. These receipts were contributed to the Cleveland Baking Power Company and that company is going to use part of its advertising space for their insertion.

Housekeepers should not miss one of these practical receipts. Cut them out. They are worthy of a place in your own cook book.

I HAVE had catarrh for twenty years, and used all kinds of remedies without relief. Mr. Smith, druggist, of Little Falls, recommended Ely's Cream Balm. The effect of the first application was magical. It allayed the inflammation and the next morning my head was as clear as a bell. I am convinced its use will effect a permanent cure. It is soothing and pleasant, and I strongly urge its use by all sufferers.—Geo. Terry, Little Falls, N. Y.

HEARTBROKEN MRS. GABLE.

She Writes a Despairing Letter, Saying She Is Not Long For This World.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—I will tell you the reason I set my husband free: I did not want everyone pointing their fingers at my children and saying "Your father is a jail bird". I let him go for their sake. I could not live with that man any more, as I have no more love for him. I hate him. I was robbed of every cent I had in this world. My troubles are getting too great to bear. I am sick so much I do not know what to do. I will do this: put my dear little ones into the Children's Home, and then I shall sell the rest of the things and rent my house out, and I will go into the world to make my living some way, as I cannot do it in Plainfield. It will break my heart to part with my children, but I cannot help it. My father will take care of them, as I am not long for this world. I am only 29 years of age, but suffer so much that I do not feel like living any more. My children have no more father, as he does not care if they get something to eat or not. They are fatherless, and will soon be motherless. My husband was all right, and did everything he could for his family until that shameless woman got a hold on him. She made him so bad I could not do anything with him. He is bad man now, but I tried to speak to him and lead him in the right way, for my children's sake, but he has gone too far. I cannot save him. So I will leave it in God's hands. He will pay him some day, and make him suffer what I did. I love my little ones so it will kill me to put them away, but I hope God will take care of them. I do not feel safe of my life in the house where I am. I must get out. I hope my troubles will soon end.

MRS. J. GABLE.

PLAINFIELD CAPITAL IN IT.

Here's a New Scheme for Amusing the Public and Making Money.

A novel amusement scheme is about to be consummated in this country through the agency of Plainfield and New York capitalists, who a few days ago filed articles of incorporation with the Secretary of State at Trenton, establishing what will be known as "The American Labyrinth Company". The scheme will be the putting into practical shape of the well-known labyrinth puzzle, which hitherto has existed only on paper. The idea has already achieved commercial success in France and England, and its projectors and patentees are confident of getting fabulous returns in this country, where such novelties are eagerly patronized.

The company will at once proceed to establish labyrinths at Long Branch, Asbury Park, Coney Island, Atlantic City, Newport, Martha's Vineyard and other pleasure resorts. Each labyrinth will be an intricate combination of puzzling passage-ways. One who pays the admission fee will find himself bewildered by the many turns of the passages. He will pass through doors which he cannot open to go back. He will suddenly run against a solid wall, and be compelled to try another angle. Convex, concave, and combined convex and concave mirrors will present queer, distorted pictures of himself as he passes through the way known as "Contortion Cave". When he has solved the puzzle by reaching the centre he will find a cool retreat, where refreshments are served. Then he may return by a direct exit. The company will construct portable labyrinths, to be transported about the country during the winter and exhibited at inland cities. Prizes will be offered for the quickest solution of the puzzle.

The Unions' Hired Pitcher Could n't Win the Game.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—I see in the issue of last evening's paper that the Unions said that they had a picked nine when they played the Young Arlingtons Saturday morning. It was not,—because only three of the Unions were absent, so that they had to take three outsiders in their places. The men that they picked up were from 17 to 18 years old. If the Unions had won the game they would not have had put in the paper what they put in last night. The Unions had to hire a pitcher to pitch against the Arlingtons, while the Arlingtons had their own pitcher and did n't have to pick up outside players. The Young Arlingtons won the game fair and square. Let the Unions tend to their own business and the Arlingtons will tend to theirs. ONE WHO SAW THE GAME.

Another Base-ball Wrangle.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE PRESS:—The Juniors of the Pond Machine Tool Works contested in a very interesting game of base-ball Saturday afternoon against the Dunellens on the latter's grounds. The feature of the game was the heavy batting by the Juniors. In the fourth inning the score stood 6 to 4, when the Dunellen's put Ed. Wyckoff in the box, who when playing with the Potter team pitched against the Ponds, so the Juniors called the game in their favor because the Dunellens did n't keep their promise by saying they would play with their own nine and pay the Juniors' care fare, but which they did not do. The battery for the Dunellens was Welsh and Burke, and for the Juniors Foose and Hickey.

DUNELLEN DOINGS.

News from a Thriving Borough, by Our Own Correspondent.

Miss Minerva Handren of Brooklyn, formerly of Dunellen, is visiting Mrs. Ryder of Prospect avenue.

Miss Maud Benton has been spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. George Homan, at Jersey City.

Miss Sue Peck's kindergarten school held its closing exercises in the Presbyterian church Friday evening. The church was prettily decorated with potted plants and grasses. At 7:45 the scholars marched upon the platform and sang their opening piece The programme, which was read by Miss Carrie H finer, one of the scholars, was very entertaining, and the little ones did credit to their teacher. Geo. Stevens and sister sang a duet. Miss Stevens also sang two solos, very sweetly accompanied by Miss M. Atkinson. Miss Carrie Peck gave a reading. The scholars at the close sang their good-bye song, and then formed a ring and arch. Each little one chose a partner then passed under the arch to their seats. The effect was very pretty. Miss Peck thanked the parents for their kindness and sympathy and said the school had done well this year and they hoped to do better still next year. Her school will reopen in September. She has engaged an assistant, as there will be a number of new scholars next term.

The Methodist Episcopal church celebrated the one-hundred-and-fiftieth anniversary of the Declaration of Independence Sunday. The church was trimmed with flags. The services were conducted by the pastor, and patriotic hymns were sung. Each person was presented with a small flag.

Sunday evening the pastor of the Presbyterian church preached a missionary sermon.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union held their regular Sunday afternoon service in the park opposite the Presbyterian church. The Rev. Mr. Martin had charge of the services. Next Sunday they hope to have another outdoor meeting. It will be conducted by the Rev. Mr. Kinsey. You will be welcome. Singing is a special feature of these meetings.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Presbyterian church will hold a festival in the Park July 4. There will be fire-works in the evening.

Saturday morning the Stars of Dunellen defeated the Young Songsters of Plainfield by the score of 14 to 11. The feature of the game was the running catch of Mulford, the pitcher of the Songsters.

The Dunellen base-ball club will play A. Dealaman's nine (the married men of Dunellen), July 4.

Justice Coleridge Very Unpopular.

LONDON, June 30.—It is said that some action will be taken in Parliament in relation to the grossly partial course of Chief Justice Coleridge in several recent trials. The Chief Justice is far from popular, and many, even of the Tories, would be delighted to see him called to account.

Raum's Reported Resignation.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—The reported resignation of Pension Commissioner Green B. Raum is not confirmed at the Interior Department. The rumor can be traced to no reliable source.

Tighe Arraigned for Murder.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., June 30.—Chas. J. Tighe was arraigned in the Supreme Court charged with the murder of Peter Johnson. He pleaded not guilty and was remanded for trial.

Another Hot Day in 'Frisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 30.—It was the hottest day here since 1877, the thermometer registering 92 at the signal service office and 107 in the street.

Eastern Yacht Club Regatta.

MARBLEHEAD, Mass., June 30.—The annual regatta of the Eastern Yacht Club was sailed yesterday. The weather was all that could be desired and some spirited contests resulted. The winners in the different classes were Mayflower, Oenone, Gossoon, and Fancy. Gossoon wins the Puritan Cup for the fastest time over the long course.

Green Goods Men Sentenced.

TRENTON, N. J., June 30.—Charles Bursell, William Bottles and "Skip" McCarthy, green goods men, operating in Gloucester City last February, who were trapped there and subsequently indicted, pleaded guilty in the United States Court here, and were sentenced to a year's imprisonment and $500 fine each.

Fell With the Scaffolding.

PITTSBURG, June 30.—A scaffolding at the new theatre of Charles L. Davis, now in course of erection in this city, fell about 9:30 a. m., precipitating four workmen to the ground, a distance of 60 feet. The men are all badly injured and may die. Their names are Charles Pfeiffer, George Elliott and William Gordon.

Hanged Himself to an Apple Tree.

BATAVIA, N. Y., June 30.—Charles Jugh, a young farmer of Alexandria, hanged himself to an apple tree early in the morning.

THE HERETICS IN THE PEWS.

Have Not They a Duty Regarding Honesty and Truth, as Well as He in the Pulpit.

As promised yesterday, THE PRESS herewith presents an abstract of a sermon preached by the Rev. Hobart Clarke to the Unitarians on the 7th inst., and repeated by request, last Sunday.

God is a Spirit, and they that worship him must worship in spirit, and in truth.—JOHN IV: 24.

Where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is liberty.—II COR. III: 17.

The late Dr. Van Dyke a man who was deservedly respected by all who knew him is reported to have said in what was almost his dying breath, "If we cannot have both orthodoxy and liberty, let us at least have liberty, and let orthodoxy go". It is a noble sentiment, thrice noble from such a source, but hard as it was for that venerable man to recognize the fact, and slow as many are to perceive it no man ever can have both, the words represent irreconcilable principles, and the things which they stand for are poles asunder Orthodoxy and liberty are mutually exclusive terms, each makes the other impossible as men are beginning at last to learn. Many of the clergy in various churches are beginning to see this impossibility, but how is it about the laity? Have they no duty or responsibility in this matter just because in our century they incur no danger of prosecution for heresy? Let us consider to-day the heresy which sits safely in the pews, and lifts not up its voice in public but which in private life, and in the newspapers, is even more free and outspoken than that which occupies the pulpit. To itself it seems perhaps to enjoy both orthodoxy and liberty, but does it count the cost of its attempt to do so.

Of all the virtues it is perhaps fair to say that sincerity is the most easily understood, and the most deeply appreciated by the modern world, and there are reasons for this. Ours is a scientific, and therefore a truth-seeking age. The dominant religious motive of the world just now is a passion for truth. Some people go so far as to say that science is about to take the place of religion as a guide in human life. Whether it be well founded or not; there is a popular impression that science is absolutely truthful and trustworthy, and at the same time there is a widespread feeling some times taking the form of an open accusation, but more often that of a vague insinuation, or perhaps existing only as an unformulated conviction, that the organized religion of the present age is hollow and insincere. One half of the civilized world to-day, the unchurched half, looks upon the Christian churches and all who belong to them as more or less hypocritical. Now any wholesale charge of insincerity against the Christian churches would manifestly be as absurd as it would be unjust. They have proved their sincerity time and time again. There is not one of them from the old Roman mother of the whole family down to the very youngest of her insubordinate children which has not found in its fellowship those who were "faithful unto death" when the hour of trial came. And even to-day the average of human character is certainly far higher inside the churches than it is outside. And yet here we are daily confronted by this huge suspicion which is eating into the heart of most modern religious institutions like a slow poison. It is found to be lurking everywhere, in all our books, in our newspapers and our conversation you will find traces of it; church members themselves are conscious of its presence, casting a reproach upon their own profession and their own sincerity, and yet as a rule they do not resent its intrusion, they simply try to ignore it and laugh it away, though doubtless many mourn and grieve in secret. Now what are the causes of this vague yet powerful distrust in organized religion which not only weakens its present influence, but is also a source of great future danger to all religion which bears the name of Christ? I seem to find two causes for it: The first is one for which the churches as churches are not responsible, it is to be found in the wide and almost inevitable discrepancy between the average life of average men and women and the Christian ideal of character. The churches say to men that the true Christian must be like Christ, and they are right in saying this; it is their duty and their privilege to place this lofty ideal of human character before men continually. But the outside world unmoved by Christian love and faith and enthusiasm, hastily judges men not by their aspirations and efforts, but by their attainments; it persists either willfully or ignorantly in mistaking the Christian ideal for the Christian law, making no allowance for human weakness or the natural limitation of human nature. This is as unjust as it would be for the soldier who runs away from the battle-field to call his braver comrades cowards because they are slain or defeated in the fight. The next best and bravest thing to being a successful Christian, is being an unsuccessful one. To a certain extent the man who would lead a Christian life is doomed to failure simply because he attempts so much, yet his failure is a grand success compared to that of the man who makes no profession of religion merely because he is too selfish, too careless or too lazy to make an effort to follow in the footsteps of the Christ, too dull and sensual and stupid to feel the love and enthusiasm which even the unsuccessful Christian feels. Common as it is there is nothing so cruel and cowardly as the criticism of men who fail, by men who never try. Many of those who try to follow Christ do in the end succeed, and in spite of failures here and there it is certain that in so far as their moral professions are concerned the Christian church members of to-day are as a rule sincere, and the suspicion that they are not so is unjust and groundless. In fact their moral sincerity is the salt which saves them because (and this brings me to the second cause of the suspicion with which they are now regarded) intellectually many of them are not sincere. They do love what they profess to love, but they do not believe what as church members they profess to believe. As we have abundant proof just now there is a wide gulf between the ecclesiastical confessions and the private convictions of a multitude of men, both clergymen and laymen, and that gulf is growing wider and deeper every day. As members of a church, people profess to believe or at least give their assent and support to doctrines which, as individual men and women, they do not hesitate to repudiate, and deny, sometimes, with ridicule. They profess them, avowedly or tacitly as members of a church, and that is all. They profess them simply because they are persuaded that they ought to do it, but they do not believe them nor even pretend to do so in their private conversation. It is not their fault that they do not believe certain traditional doctrines which modern thought and knowledge are making to appear incredible. It is not a fault that they do not believe; it is neither a fault nor a virtue. But it is a serious fault that those who do not believe, and who know that they do not, should publicly seem to do so, and that they should exalt a shallow, heartless faithless, thoughtless form of insincerity in the public eye deliberately and habitually as if it were the very thing which the churches mean when they ask for Christian faith. A Presbyterian gentleman said to me the other day in all sincerity that "nobody believes the Westminster confession" but that "it ought not to be revised or disturbed in any way, because the Presbyterian church is founded upon it." I quote his exact words though I don't think he meant exactly what he said, but he thought he meant it and his position in this matter is by no means exceptional. Yet people who take that ground habitually wonder at and deplore what they call the irreligious tendencies of the present age, and they seem somehow unconscious of the fact that they are doing all they can to make religion a mere amiable and pious fiction, an outgrown fairy tale. Are they not the real heretics and the only heretics in the church to-day? Are they not guilty of the most solemn and dangerous kind of trifling with the Christian gospel? The lingering superstition and intolerance still to be found in many churches is bad enough, but these things are not doing one-tenth of the injury to the cause of religion that is daily being done by that formal insincerity of well-meaning people who rejoice in what they call liberality if they happen to hear it as they sometimes do from an orthodox pulpit where it cannot be consistently proclaimed; that formal insincerity of well-meaning people, which holds one doctrine in their worship, and another in their lives; one doctrine in the sanctuary, and another in the street; one doctrine as members in good standing of some evangelical church, but an entirely different doctrine as loving, thinking, trusting members of God's great human family; that formal insincerity calling itself Christian faith, which is doing all it can to separate men's real thoughts and knowledge, their daily conduct and conversation from their religion. Which unintentionally is doing more than Robert Ingersoll and all his hosts to make that great spiritual inheritance of the ages which came through the pure, sweet, simple message of Jesus Christ to men seem less and less in harmony with their actual knowledge and experience, and therefore more incredible and more unreal.

A man cannot both believe and not believe the same statement at the same time whatever he thinks to be his duty, however hard he try, and the simple gospel as Christ preached it and lived it neither requires nor justifies any attempt to do so. Jesus never hinted at any connection between correct theological opinions and the Kingdom of Heaven. No new truth or old truth has been discovered which comes into conflict with the spirit and substance of His teaching, nor can there be any. For He came to bear witness, not to this theory, nor to that idea, but "to the truth," whatever it may be, and in whatever way it may come to the hearts and minds of men. He boldly claimed all truth as His, and why should not His followers do the same openly and freely? why should they not welcome the coming of that spirit of which the Master said: "It shall lead you into all truth," and complete my own unfinished revelation? You and I find no difficulty in doing this; we find no reason either in scripture or elsewhere why we should not be as sincere, and free in our thought and word concerning religion, as in our thought and word concerning other things. We feel that by so doing we are not disloyal, but more loyal to Christ himself. It does not seem to us more honest for laymen than for clergymen to maintain as members of a church some creed, or confession or statement which they do not, and cannot believe; and we naturally find it hard to understand this habit in other people. It is probably because the many people who think a little do not think deeply enough and so fall to perceive any necessity for a vital, and intimate connection between men's actual thought concerning divine things and the eternal truths of religion for which their churches ought to stand; because they do not see that a man's Christian belief if he has any is his real and sincere belief; nothing more nor less; but if they do not see this other people will. They do, and they draw their own conclusions, and here is the root cause is it not? of that wild spread suspicion with which the Christian religion is being regarded, in our day, and generation. It is the habit of regarding plain facts and sincere conviction as of less importance to the Christian religion, and the Christian life than formal professions and time worn traditions of human thought. Yet how common it is just now how many good people we meet who will confess without any hesitation, or the least feeling of shame that they do not believe this or that doctrine which is avowedly and persistently maintained by the church in which they are still enrolled, and in the affairs of which they take a more, or less active part. We know them, how well we know them, those good neighbors, and dear friends of ours who think just as we ourselves are thinking, but who will not fellowship with us as Christians because we will not profess what neither we nor they believe. We must not, we cannot call them hypocrites, for their intentions are honest, and they mean to deceive no one. They are not hypocrites, we know that well enough. Yet seemingly unconscious of the fact, and often with the very best intentions they are daily playing a part like that of the hypocrite in the eyes of all the world, and fondly imagine that by so doing they are helping to sustain the religion which they truly love, and wrongly imagine that we are wishing to destroy; but are they not really destroying where you and I would build? Is it safe or is it necessary to be insincere even in church, or in a good cause. Is it well to maintain an insincere form even of Christian faith?

All men are talking of the heretic who stands in the pulpit, of him who sits in the pew but little has yet been said. He is a good man and he means to be honest, but is he not in a false position? He loves his brother man, he worships God in Spirit, but does he worship Him in truth? He delights in charity, in tolerance, and in liberalism—so long as it can be made to pass for orthodoxy—but as a Christian has he no duty regarding honesty and truth? If his duty toward his church, and his duty toward his God, himself, and his fellow men come into conflict which call should he obey? Is the orthodoxy of tradition more important to him, or to the world than the orthodoxy of truth? Are the convictions of other men and other times of more importance then his own convictions? These are questions which he himself must answer. I will not attempt to do it for him. But I should be glad if I could in any way help some people to see the great wrong which they are unintentionally doing, not to themselves only, not only to their fellow men, but to the Christian religion itself which I know they dearly love, by professing or even seeming to profess as members of a Christian church, what as thoughtful men and women they cannot and will not pretend to actually believe. By so doing, are they not publicly making a mockery of Christian faith? And are they not making themselves largely responsible for the irreligion and skepticism of the present day? No man is to blame in this age because he cannot decide at once what is true, but any man, most of all he who calls himself a Christian is to blame if he will not decide for himself what is honest. The faith which dares to doubt, and fears no facts, but which does fear to say "in the name of the Lord the thing that is not true", because it is determined to be honest at every cost, is the only Christian faith which can serve the present generation, or the future. It may not be orthodox, but it is free, and it alone is loyal to the Spirit, and the work of Jesus Christ in our modern world. The heresy in the pews to-day is not the thing which men call heresy, it is the idea that men may safely maintain as members of some Christian church those doctrines which in their private thought they must deny, and in their lives ignore.

HE WORRIED ABOUT IT.

"The sun's heat will give out in ten million years more,"
And he worried about it;
"It will sure give out then, if it doesn't before,"
And he worried about it;
It would surely give out, so the scientists said
In all scientifical books that he read,
And the whole mighty universe then would be dead—
And he worried about it;

"And some day the earth will fall into the sun,"
And he worried about it;
"Just as sure, and as straight, as if shot from a gun,"
And he worried about it;
"When strong gravitation unbuckles her straps
Just picture," he said, "what a fearful collapse!
It will come in a few million ages, perhaps"—
And he worried about it.

"The earth will be me much too small for the race,"
And he worried about it;
"When we'll pay thirty dollars an inch for pure space,"
And he worried about it;
"The earth will be crowded so much, without doubt,
That there'll be no room for one's tongue to stick out,
And no room for one's thoughts to wander about,"
And he worried about it.

"The Gulf stream will curve, and New England grow torrider,"
And he worried about it;
"Than was ever the climate of Southernmost Florida,"
And he worried about it.
"The ice crop will be knocked into small smithereens,
And crocodiles block up our mowing machines,
And we'll lose our fine crops of potatoes and beans,"
And he worried about it.

"And in less than ten thousand years, there's no doubt,"
And he worried about it,
"Our supply of lumber and coal will give out,"
And he worried about it.
"Just then the Ice Age will return cold and raw,
Frozen noses will stand stiff with arms outstretched in awe,
As if vainly beseeching a general thaw,"
And he worried about it.

His wife took in washing (a dollar a day)
He didn't worry about it,
His daughter sewed shirts, the rude grocer to pay,
He didn't worry about it.
While his wife beat her tireless rub-a-dub-dub
On the washboard drum in her old wooden tub,
He sat by the stove and he just let her rub.
He didn't worry about it.

HIS SECOND WIFE.

How Dr. Brinsley's Bride Settled Their Difficulties.

DR. BRINSLEY was the sort of a man you could love if you loved him; otherwise you would probably dislike him, for he was very peculiar; everybody said so. His wife had loved him, and to her he had seemed the most perfect of men. He suited her and she suited him, and they had been very happy. But it was now three long years since poor Becky had been resting in her quiet grave, and the doctor's friends had decided that he needed some one to keep house for him.

After much persuading he had been particularly introduced to Miss Delia Swan. "What a name!" thought the doctor, but as he looked at her he saw that she was fair, gentle, healthy and twenty-six. In a moment of enthusiastic selfishness he had proposed to her, and in a moment of enthusiastic devotion she had accepted him.

They were married. Everybody said: "Oh, how much nicer she was than that other woman!" She was very popular with everybody, but she was not at all popular with the doctor.

To him "that other woman" was still all the world and the brightness thereof. Delia had married "from a sense of duty," and deserved to be punished; but it seemed to her that her punishment was greater than she deserved. She would not have wished that her husband should forget the wife of his youth, but she had expected that he would have some regard for the woman whom he had invited to preside over his household, and she had hoped to make him comfortable; "to do her duty by him," as she expressed it. Part of that duty she had performed in the most admirable manner; never had the doctor's house been so clean; never had his shirt bosoms shone with such luster; but the heart which beat behind them she had been unable to conquer.

SHE RODE PAST A VERY SMALL COTTAGE.

At the end of six months of such a life the doctor noticed that Delia looked pale and thin.

"You need a little more fresh air," he prescribed, "and I shall take you out as often as I can."

Not without some inward fear, but attired in her very best, Delia sat in the buggy by the side of her lord. It was a balmy spring afternoon; nature looked so fresh, so bright, so happy, that a little of this happiness breathed itself into Delia's heart. The doctor also have been touched by these benign influences, for never before had he been so kind, so attentive to her, so talkative. She smiled several times; twice she absolutely laughed. She sat a little nearer to him, her cheeks bloomed, and she was beginning to feel quite comfortable, when, as luck would have it, they happened to ride past a very small cottage, so very small that Delia said: "Oh, look! I wonder how people can live in such a tiny bit of a house."

The doctor's brow grew dark.

"In such a home as this," he said, in his most impressive manner, "in just such a house as this my wife and I lived in the greatest happiness when we were first married."

Had Delia been suddenly shifted from India's coral strand to Greenland's icy mountains the shock could hardly have been greater.

"His wife!" she thought; "then, if she is his wife, what am I?" All that evening she sat silently sewing and answering the doctor's remarks with a primness of dignity that surprised him.

Delia did not sleep much that night.

"I must leave him," she decided, at last. "I will not live with him unless I am really his wife. I can not."

Leave him; but how? Where could she go? A few hours afterward that question was answered. She received a letter postmarked "Denver, Col." It came from "dear Cousin Mamie," and as she read her letter Delia's face brightened. "It is just what I wanted," she said to herself.

One evening when the doctor came home Bridget met him at the door and said: "Missus has gone, sir. She had to go a kind of sudden, but she said she would write and tell you."

"All right," answered the doctor. "Gone to her mother's," he explained to himself. "I suppose there is some sort of a fandango going on there."

He made himself very comfortable. But what the doctor really liked was to be hindered. He enjoyed watching the mild shadow of disapproval stealing over Delia's face. If she had frankly and briskly expressed her opinion, then taken it back prettily, he might have fallen in love with her; but Delia always relapsed into meekness, and all was lost. As the days passed the doctor began to miss his housekeeper. "Why does she not write? Cold-blooded creature!"

The cold-blooded creature wrote. Her letter was dated from Denver. It said:

"DEAR SIR: I thought you would be happier without me, so I came here. I am visiting Cousin Mamie. With best wishes for your happiness, I remain, sincerely,

"DELIA BRINSLEY."

"A pretty letter—and 'dear sir' to me! Gone to Denver! Who could have supposed she had spirit enough for that? Little goose! Gone to Denver, by Jove!"

The doctor laughed; he blessed himself; he was delighted. The next evening he was on his way to Colorado.

One morning there came a tremendous ring at the door. Delia knew that ring; she heard it all over her, and turned pale.

"Bound to get in," said Mamie, as she hurried to the door.

"Is Mrs. Brinsley in?" asked a big voice.

Mrs. Brinsley was in. She came forward smiling, rosy-cheeked, collected, transformed. She held out her hand; she was glad to see the doctor; she presented him to Cousin Mamie. They sat down.

"Where are you stopping?" asked Delia.

"At the Windsor."

And she became as deeply interested in the Windsor as if the doctor had come expressly for the purpose of ending his days there. But Dr. Brinsley was not altogether defenseless.

"I came to ask you if you would take a ride with me. The carriage is at the door. Come just as you are."

"Oh!" said Delia; and she went.

The mountains were "perfectly magnificent," as Delia remarked, but the doctor made quick work of them.

"How soon will you be ready to come home?" he asked, quietly.

"I don't know; I intended to stay all summer. I think—I think—," but she could not tell him what she thought. She was glad he had come; she wanted to go home with him; she loved him now. But did he love her? If he would only be a little more gentle, more lover-like. The doctor was not very gentle; his manner was clear-cut and decided; but—if she only would have looked at him.

"How soon will you come home?" he repeated. "I want you to come home."

Then slowly she lifted her eyes to his. Was this the way he used to look at Becky? Not quite; no one should ever see that look again in the doctor's eyes. But Delia did not know that, and it seemed very good to her to be looked at in this way.

"I will go whenever you like," she answered at last.

Then the doctor did say something gentle and lover-like.

They were married already. Let us hope they were happy ever afterward.—Boston Globe.

Jimmie Asks a Question.

"What is this, mamma?" asked Jimmie.

"What is what, darling?"

"This big spoon."

"It is a big spoon, little man."

And this Jimmie was satisfied.—Harper's Young People.

Physicians Couldn't Cure Him.

SAMARITAN, Hamilton Co., O., June, 1889.
One bottle of Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic cured me entirely, after physicians had tried it unsuccessfully for 8 months to relieve me of nervous debility. W. HUEBNERFELD.

Very Much Good.

Angola, Erie Co., N. Y., April, 1890.
Being very nervous my arms would twitch whenever I tried to lift anything, my memory was also affected, and bad thoughts troubled my mind so that I did't know what to do with myself. Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic cured me entirely. JOHN SHEELY.

Perfect Health.

TACONY, PHIL. Co., Pa., Dec., '88.
Mr. E. J. Ryan writes under above date: I had a fall about 18 months ago, from which I contracted fits, had such attacks every six weeks, but since I took Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic I have not had any symptoms of them and am in perfect health.
